Deacon Bros. Sportswear Ltd. completed the project this morning by turning 37 specially-made parkas over to the city's school-crossing guards.

The jackets are not only lined and hooded for warmth. They're also cosied to give off a phosphorescent glow.

This not only makes Belleville's school guards the best-dressed in the province, but also the least accident-prone.

The Jackets — a joint project of both management and workers at Deacon's — are presented after the model manufactured by the company for the Ontario Provincial Police.

"We decided to make a direct contribution to the community instead of a more usual Centennial plant project," said general manager Fred Deacon.

"And all of us appreciate the work done by the school-crossing guards for the children of this community — and they're also considerate of the drivers."

The jackets were presented today to Mayor Jack Ellis and Inspector Harold Reid, acting chief of police whose department supervises the school guards.

The mayor noted Belleville's guards have a safety record unbroken by accidents.

"We get service from them in the worst weather — they never complain about it and they do an excellent job," commented the mayor.

Decadent Days

Times are certainly changing in Russia, as the cover of the current issue of life magazine illustrates. The country has come a long way in the 50 years since the revolution — and not only in the sphere of space exploration and missile weaponry.

A glamorous lineup of blondes in mini-dresses at a Leningrad music hall is about as far removed from the traditional image of stolid Soviet womanhood as it is possible to be.

It makes one wonder if perhaps the Russians are catching up with the "decadent" Western ways they have decried for so long. The Soviets like to present their young people as a studious, hard-working lot. For entertainment there is the Bolshoi and the circus, two traditional outlets for the working man seeking an evening out — in Moscow at least.

But now the younger set is conducting its own cultural revolution. Glamor is in — and bourgeois traditionalism is on the way out. Jazz and the latest from the Western world's mod groups have a big following in Russia, and now the fashion creations of both east and west are also barely distinguishable.

Let the Chinese in their strictly utilitarian sartorial uniformity, and the Cubans with their revolutionary fervor apparently still burning bright . . . let them carry the torch of communist squaredom!

As Canadian Press writer Carman Cumming said in his recent series on Cuba: "The ideal Cuban youth is almost the antithesis of the hippie. He is hard-working, self-disciplined, unselfish and efficient, and unquestioningly loyal to the revolution."

And here is a tip for U.S. propagandists. On their next leaflet raid over North Vietnam, why not drop copies of the latest discs from the Top Twenty and of the most up-to-date in the Carnaby Street tradition?

Who knows, they might catch on among the Viet Cong and ultimately across the border in China. One day this old world may be just one big decadent whole — Western-style. Alternatively, it could be a "hole" of a different color and circumference if someone simply presses a button.

A Little Knowledge . . .

"A little knowledge is a dangerous thing." This is an old axiom that has been proved over and over again — and perhaps no more forcibly than in the case of testimony presented to the adoption inquiry involving Mrs. Arthur Timbrell.

Hostile testimony by two psychiatrists and a psychologist who examined Mrs. Timbrell independently of each other indicated that Mrs. Timbrell is a mentally fit mother of above average intelligence.

Their findings refuted that of a woman psychologist who earlier reported to the inquiry that Mrs. Timbrell was a psychopathic personality.

As Dr. George D. Scott, chief psychiatrist on a consulting basis for all federal penal institutions in Ontario, told the inquiry, a psychopath is capable of committing the most outrageous crimes without any feeling of guilt or remorse.

The term 'psychopath,' Dr. Scott pointed out, has in the past been "tossed about like a basketball."

Asked by Judge Harry Waisberg if the term could have been used in another context, Dr. Scott replied: When professional people use professional terms they must use them in a professional way. He said the term should be used with selectiveness and accuracy because it is open to wide interpretation by a wide range of people including the general public, who usually think (and rightly so) it refers to criminals.

A gullible public eternally and morbidly fascinated by the state of its physical and mental health, can easily be misled in this regard. Thus, whatever the outcome of the inquiry as far as the adoptions of the two little sisters is concerned, the above testimony is important in helping to place the personalities concerned in their true light.

Mrs. Gandhi in Moscow

The presence of Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi on the reviewing stand at the 50th anniversary parade in Moscow was significant in the context of the strained relations existing between the Soviets and China.

India has had its problems with China too, having taken a bit of a beating in the fighting along the frontier regions of the Himalayas about two years ago.

Mrs. Gandhi's presence may be construed as an indication of Soviet friendship and support in the event of further trouble with China, which incidentally was not represented in the Moscow parade.

Sensitive Sharp Sobs Over So-Called 'Swindle'

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Weep a tear or two for Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp.

He is so sensitive.

Can't stand criticism.

And criticism is just about all he has been getting over the climbing cost-of-living and the falling purchase-power of the dollar.

And even so, it was just a bit startling to hear him emotionally choke up in the Commons the other night and burst out, so wounded, about his sensitivity.

It was not to be wondered at, he conceded magnanimously, that people were more and more concerned over inflation.

But they shouldn't get so worked up, he pouted, that they use what he called "extreme language."

His very own words, those.

Well! What do you know!

Wouldn't you think that Finance Ministers ought to be made of sterner stuff, covered by thicker skin, than is publicly so in Parliament about being so sensitive.

But there they are, the very words — "I am particularly sensitive to criticism of Government policies" — in plain black and white of Hansard type at the top of page 3414 of this week-by-word record of the Commons.

What had happened to so upset him?

Goodness knows he has been paddled enough in public over inflation that he ought to be used to it by now.

The difference was that this time he had been given a classic caning, and by one of the best masters of finance, Nell J. McKinnon, chairman of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce.

And it had more sting in it than any other the orange-headed federal Finance Minister ever before had felt.

What stung him was this:

"The fall in the value of money always stems from continuous Government deficits — accompanied by an increase in the money supply to monetize a least part of them."

(You "monetize", the bankers will tell you, by having the Bank of Canada print more dollars to cover up some of the difference between Government tax revenues and their actual expenditures. It is simply a subtle and cruel form of hidden taxation.)

"And it is not too much to say," Chairman McKinnon went on, "that Government deficit spending, combined with permissive monetary policy (the printing of those extra dollars) that allows continuous inflation usually involves a massive swindle — a swindle perpetrated on the great majority of the people who are least able to protect themselves against the consequences."

This use of the word "swindle," sullied the Finance Minister, his sensitivity wounded so, was "extreme."

What was really hurting the self-plying Mitchell Sharp was not so much the sensibilities as his very real guilt complex.

For he has been warned, over and over again by the financial community, both national and international, that in condoning and even encouraging what has been called "minor and acceptable" inflation, he was playing Russian roulette with the economy.

He knew, perhaps better than anyone in Government anywhere in Canada, the truth of the maxim of economists everywhere that "people who talk of minor inflation like money might as well talk about gradually firing off a gun."

But he began to believe it only when Government of Canada bonds were sold, but three weeks ago, at their second get-ups in history, and the chairman of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce publicly accused him of "swindling" the taxpayer.

Never has a Canadian Finance Minister before faced such an accusation by a financial authority of such eminent respectability.

Election Hurdle

Montreal Gazette

In the race in the byelection in Colchester-Hants, it was Stanfield first and the rest nowhere. If the Independent Liberal who opposed him only meant to make a show of maintaining opposition, it was a poor show.

But if this hurdle of getting into the House of Commons was easily vaulted, the next hurdle is much higher and more difficult.

In the race for the premiership of a big province, however, led his party in a graceful election, as he died after only some two years in office.

There is always a first time for everything. Mr. Stanfield, unruffled by most things, is probably unruffled also by the unsatisfactory record of provincial premiers in Ottawa. But the months just ahead will be critically important. An election may come before long, perhaps in a year's time. Mr. Stanfield's performance in the House of Commons, his style, and the sort of issues on which he leads his party to take its stand, will all determine his image in the election that is unlikely to be far away.

Long Hard Winter Is Predicted

Ottawa Journal

In August the countryman began to look for them. Now the list is complete and rarely have they been more ominous. The signs all indicate we are in for one of those old-fashioned winters that grandfather likes to talk about.

Corn husks were unusually tight on the cobs and onion skins thicker than in a decade. The acorn crop was large and the saucers have extraordinarily well-defined markings. Pine trees have shed quantities of needles so the thinner foliage will permit snow to sift through without breaking branches.

Mr. Bennett's Sour Grapes Over Expo

Hamilton Spectator

There's one at every party, and even though this particular party's over Premier Bennett of British Columbia is doing his best to spoil the glorious memories it left behind. His attack at Expo's cost last weekend was plainly sour grapes, politically motivated. Behind this lies what it's a definite disservice to one of the proudest achievements in this nation's history.

Mr. Bennett had plenty of opportunities to air his gripes while the giant fair was in progress. But, no, the time wasn't opportune and he knew it. To have slammed Expo at the peak of its glories would have made him as popular as the old-time villain who plotted to pushing small children into gutters.

Now that Expo's over, Mr. Bennett feels free to aim kirks at its prone body. "A national disgrace," he calls the alleged $400,000,000 spent on it by taxpayers (his figures).

Nothing about Expo was a national disgrace. It was a priceless endeavor. It showed the world what Canada could do.

If Expo cost as many millions more than we expected to pay for it, the extra cost was worth it. What a show! It will be remembered for decades, if not centuries.

Arena Project
Has City Council Turned Back the Clock?

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

While the rest of the dominion may have staged pageants and parades, depicting the way of life in 1867, this is likely the only city attempting to exist 100 years behind the times.

And with our municipal election less than a month away, it should be most amusing to listen to those who intend to stand for office once again tell us all about "what we wish to keep Belleville progressing."

I certainly hope that shy addresser of they give at service clubs or other dinner meetings are scheduled after the meal has been served. It is rather difficult to enjoy food when nauseated.

Our city politicians, some of whom run for office for the sole purpose of getting into the limelight with an eye on higher political positions in the future, managed to come up with various reasons for turning down the arena.

For many, the issue was pure and simple politics. If their party is for it, we are against it — or vice versa. It matters not that the people who elected these men are the ones who will suffer in the future.

"We can't afford it", "not enough parking space", "we need too many other things here," — oh they managed to find plenty of "sound reasons" why Belleville does not need recreation.

Some even claimed the matter should not be laid over, and we'll build it in a year or two.

The only way we will get a new arena in this city is if some multi - millionaire should donate the money, and it not time we paid our own way?

Some aldermen felt the matter should go to a vote of the people. Where were they Monday night?

If the men we elect to office do not have the courage to make a decision, then at least they could pass the buck back to the people.

The voter might well have decided the same as city council. But I do not believe so if the project had been properly handled and presented in a true and honest light.

I do not place all the blame upon those who voted "no" on Monday by any stretch of the imagination.

Some who were fighting hardest for the project were hurting the cause more than helping it, because of conflict of interest and by failing to deal with the planning of the building in a proper manner.

There should have been no "options", which would boost the cost of the arena from the first - mentioned $677,009 into the $800,000 or more bracket.

I believe that had a complete project for say the latter total been presented to the taxpayer, whereby such things as ventilation, a proper floor and ice - making plant would have been pointed out as assets, it would have received much stronger support. Also, too, were the architects' fees not included in the original estimate, instead of being added later, once the matter became a hot issue?

Much of the blame too, must go to the man on the street, such as you and I, who know how badly more recreational facilities are needed here but who did little or nothing to demand them the men we trusted to make the decisions.

Minor hockey cries the blues year in and year out about the need for more ice time and there are thousands of city patrons who agree, but did not bother to write to the editor from fathers supporting the arena proposal; I did not see any letters in council chambers when the issue was unofficially decided on Monday, at a combined meeting of council, the special arena committee and others, asking for their questions, offer advice or speak pro or con on the matter.

It was an open meeting and the fact the project was a political football, never more apparent.

I would like to point out that the increased cost of the building, when some city "progressive" speaks of the issue of it again several years from now, will be higher by a wide, wide margin than it would be today.

I understand Belleville taxes are low compared with other cities.

Our politicians talk progress but they are afraid to tell you and me that we can't have it unless we spend a dollar to get it.

Why should industry come here?

After all, you have to spend a dollar to make one and it is now rather obvious that this city is not prepared to pay the cost of progress.

We should be a natural for 2067. Belleville will be a living example of the distant past.

South Arabia . . . Yemen
Nasser Losing Hold Over Some of His Old Allies

By CARL MOLLINS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Egypt's Gamal Abdel Nasser has been forced to ditch his political protegee in both South Arabia and Yemen this week under pressures resulting directly from his defeat by Israel last June.

In Aden, the South Arabian Army leadership has lined up behind the National Liberation Front in its showdown power struggle with the Egyptian-backed organization known as FLOSY—Front for the Liberation of Occupied South Yemen.

Nasser, who had been urging the rival groups to co-operate, has been powerless or unwilling to prevent the NLF from using strong position to take over in South Arabia this month from the departing British. Nasser's men, the FLOSY leaders, apparently are out in the cold.

In Yemen, republican leadership has been seized from Abdullah Sallal, Nasser's man for five years, with Nasser's acquiescence if not his connivance.

The men with the upper hand in South Arabia and Yemen, including the NLF's Qahtan Shaabi and Yemen's Sallal, were among Arab leaders detained in Cairo last year when they went to the Egyptian capital to intercede with Nasser against policies of his proteges, Abdullah Asnag of FLOSY and Sallal in Yemen.

Both the FLOSY leaders and Sallal depended on the presence of Egyptian troops in Yemen.

FLOSY was counting on Egyptian help in ousting the NLF from recently-gained control in most of South Arabia. Sallal needed help against both royalist tribesmen and restive republicans.

But following his Sinai defeat, Nasser had to agree to withdraw from Yemen in return for financial aid from Saudi Arabia, which opposed Egyptian intervention on the Arabian Peninsula. The agreement knocked the props out from under FLOSY and Sallal.

Nasser could not afford to risk another shaha this week in Yemen and South Arabia. Besides needing Saudi money, Nasser needs tacit NLF support in maintaining control of the Aden oil refinery in place of the Suez refinery destroyed last month by Israeli gunfire. Aden petroleum workers support the NLF —and four tankers carrying Egyptian crude oil have been waiting in Aden Harbor this week for permission to use the refinery.

Despite the fact that NLF leaders and Yemen's new chiefs have been slapped down by Nasser in the recent past, they are genuinely sympathetic to Nasser-style Arab nationalism. Rivalries in the two territories are based more on personal antagonisms than profound policy differences.

However, Cairo likely will find the new men less pliable because they are more independent than FLOSY and Sallal. Rebellion of men long backed adamantly by Nasser will be marked throughout the Arab world.

Wind Up Opposed

Stevens Says Westbank Most Profitable BIF Subsidiary

TORONTO (CP) — Sinclair Stevens, former president of British International Finance (Canada) Ltd., said Wednesday the Bank of Western Canada is earning about $9,000 a week before taxes and should not be wound up.

Mr. Stevens is president of Canadian Finance and Investments Ltd. of Winnipeg, opposing the winding up of Westbank. A Manitoba court reserved its decision Tuesday on an appeal by CFI from a winding-up order for the bank issued last week.

Mr. Stevens said the bank is the most profitable item in the BIF group at present.

"The impression has been created that the bank's assets are wasting away, which is not true. Since the end of March the net surplus position of the bank has improved by more than $250,000."

A statement released Tuesday on behalf of Marc Bienvenu, president of BIF, was called unfortunate and misleading by Mr. Stevens.

Mr. Bienvenu said in his statement BIF could not provide the Toronto Stock Exchange with information because of an Ontario Supreme Court injunction. Mr. Bienvenu bought control of BIF from Mr. Stevens in March.

Mr. Stevens said it is odd "it should be felt that this injunction prevents" compliance with TSE requirements and the giving of information to BIF group shareholders and in particular to shareholders of BIF and York Lambton Corp. Ltd. Yet, although the injunction was in effect on Sept. 14, it did not prevent Mr. Bienvenu and his associates from voting to wind up the Bank of Western Canada, which is the most significant asset owned by the group."

Trading in shares of BIF and York Lambton was suspended by the TSE Monday pending release by the companies of satisfactory financial and management information.

TORONTO (CP) — An application for the Ontario Supreme Court to order shareholders of British International Finance (Canada) Ltd. to elect directors as soon as possible is to be heard here Friday.

Fernande Lalonde, a Montreal lawyer re-elected a BIF director last July said a previous application by two BIF directors was dismissed recently "on technicality."

"Whether the directors are right or wrong is secondary," Mr. Lalonde said in an interview Wednesday. "The important thing is to have a board of directors. The company is paralyzed and all the shareholders are suffering."

He said if the application is granted a shareholders' meeting could be held within a month.

BIF and a subsidiary, York Lambton Corp., were suspended Monday from trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange. The TSE said it wanted to know their status of management and finances.

BIF shares were quoted at 90 cents bid on the over-the-counter market Wednesday. York Lambton A was at $1 bid and the B issue at 90 cents. There were no offerings.

The TSE issued a statement to members Wednesday that shares in the companies could be traded over the counter.

BIF closed Friday at $1.05, York Lambton A at $1.10 and York Lambton B at $1.05.

Elderly Hunter Missing

Bad weather cut visibility as police hoped to renew the search for John Atkinson of Lorne, aided by a helicopter from Canadian Forces Base Trenton.

Cold temperatures have prevailed in the area during the four days since Atkinson was reported missing.

Fellow hunters went looking for him when he failed to return from a deer runway Monday. They found his rifle and coveralls nearby — the only trace of the elderly marksman yet discovered.

A veteran of World War II he served with the 34th Battery and 9th Anti-Tank Regiment. He served overseas from 1939 to 1945 and saw action in Africa, Italy and France. He worked with the Corps of Commissionaires in Trenton and was a past president of the Sergeants' Mess at the Belleville Armouries.

He is survived by his wife, the former Mabel Usne, and two sons, William of Oakville and Larry, at home.

Also surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Alma (Lindsay) McLuskie and Mrs. Clifford (Nettie) Brown, both of Belleville, a brother Lorne Mason of Marathon and one grandson.

The funeral will be held Saturday from the Gerald Funeral Home with service in the chapel at 1.30 p.m. conducted by Rev. Robt. A. Crooks. Interment will be in Belleville Cemetery.

14 Weapons Of 31 Stolen Are Recovered

Fourteen of the 31 weapons stolen in a robbery at the store operated by Hugh Ramsay and his son William turned up in Toronto. Mr. Ramsay and a local police officer went to Toronto to identify them.

Ellis: Don't Be Ashamed of Criticism

Mayor Jack Ellis opened the fall general meeting of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce last night by congratulating his chamber on all the criticism it has been receiving.

"Doing things brings criticism — don't be ashamed of it and take your stand. You were mild-ly a few years ago but I'm impressed with you now," commented the mayor.

A financial report made by J. D. Scanlon informed members they would not be starting next year in the red. However he pointed out revenue this year was $5,000 below the budgeted amount.

Representing the membership contact committee Gerald Joyce told members of the work his committee had been doing by contacting members and allowing them "to voice their opinions informally and bring complaints and recommendations forward."

The two most complete reports were by the industrial committee and the tourist and publicity committee.

The accomplishments of the chamber during the past year under the industrial committee were listed by Robert Irely. The two most notable, the row of flags at Zwick's Island and the Industrial Exhibition at the Fall Fair demanded further remarks by committee members.

Praising all the industries concerned in getting the Zwick's Island centennial project completed in such good time, Roland Belanger attributed the fine result to "being prompted by the mayor's request for a parade."

Another member questioned the value of the industrial Exhibition even though it gave the chamber $200 profit. For other projects, he said, general feeling was that industries gained more publicity to the chamber rather than anything else.

Gerald Wishart commented that "perhaps the money spent in setting up exhibits and staffing them could be directed to a much more useful purpose by the companies". Mr. Wishart also delivered the report from the education committee and brought to light the fact that the Quinte area has been chosen by the provincial government as a "pilot project" to examine commonalcations between the industrial and educational sectors.

The tourist trade was up 50 per cent over last year," said "Brad" Bradley, chairman of the tourist and publicity committee and manager-secretary of the chamber.

He listed the various ideas the Chamber had utilized to bring more people to Belleville and promote it industrially. Mr. Bradley also reported litter on the chamber's actions to control door-to-door salesmen and itinerant companies.

The final report was made by William Wills of the Maple Circle committee. The committee was set up to try and reverse a dwindling downtown assessment. Mr. Wills praised the plan introduced by committee member Paul Watson.

The redevelopment idea would bring a total of 75 per cent assistance from the government, if it adhered to certain stipulations. He reported that most groups hearing the plan were enthused about it.

During a discussion period a new problem was brought up when the area issue came to the floor. "The directors of the Chamber of Commerce wrote a negative letter," was the criticism of Zdenek Kavarda. "The public now has the idea that we are against the arena and I am sure we all recognize the need for one in Belleville."

His comment "we should offer help to the project rather than criticize it" brought a rebuttal from Chamber President Stanley Haggerman.

Mr. Haggerman said the chamber did not criticize the arena project but merely made business observations about the proposal as the chamber saw them." He said the chamber made its comment at the request of Ald. Donald Williams.

It was also suggested that the chamber of commerce look to the future in a big way. Rather than using the word "arena", call it a "community centre" was a suggestion from the floor.

"If Belleville is going to expand, it has to be realized that the money is going to have to be spent on many things, a new bus terminal, the community centre and the downtown district are just a few."

'Dog Island' Name Bestowed On Controversial Property

TRENTON — Members of the local Parks' Board are hanging a somewhat derisive nickname on a small traffic island as a result of a feud with the town Public Works' Department.

The board's landscape plans for Victoria Park on Division St. near the new liquor store had to be scrapped when Public Works road construction sliced a triangular island from the property originally designated as park land.

Board members protested loud and long that the Public Works department had no right to interfere with park property, and, to make matters worse, say they received no notification of the roadwork in the area until it had been completed.

A new landscaping plan has had to be devised for Victoria Park, and the board plans to place eight flower planters on the now-isolated traffic island created by Public Works road construction at the Division-Ford St. intersection.

"Dog Island" is the name bestowed on the controversial property by Parks' Board members.

FIVE URNS STOLEN

Theft has tainted a gesture to help beautify downtown Trenton.

Earlier this year, the Chamber of Commerce placed 13 flower urns at strategic downtown areas, and the concrete pots were planted with shrubs by the Parks Board.

It was decided to remove the concrete planters for winter on Oct. 31 to avoid any possible Hallowe'en vandalism.

Town gardener Bart Boers has notified the Parks Board only eight of the urns were found when he collected them.

MAY REALIZE POTENTIAL

There were indications at last night's Parks Board meeting that Mount Pelion may, in the near future, realize its potential as a prime Trenton beauty spot.

Everyone concurred with member John Tripp that a study of face-lifting possibilities should be undertaken for the mountain, which dominates the town landscape.

On Wednesday the exchange continued to advance in relatively active trading.

The industrial index, which touched 162.31 in mid-afternoon but slipped towards the close, gained .58 to 161.73.

Brokers described the advance, which began last Thursday after a three-week slump, as a technical rally caused by a heavily oversold position.

"The market isn't bullish yet," one broker said.

Inco, which reported increased nine-month profits recently, jumped 1⅝ to 115½, Thomson Newspapers and Robertson Manufacturing ⅛ each to 38 and 27 and White Pass and Yukon 1¼ to 25.

Nice and easy.

It's nice work, making a whisky that tastes as easy as 5 Star. But it's no easy job.

It means selecting very special whiskies from our five distilleries across Canada. (Only Seagram's has five, by the way). Then blending and re-blending them to get 5 Star's easy taste.

Is the taste worth all the trouble? Very easy for you to find out.

Ready for New Job

Fisher Satisfied with Centennial Success

OTTAWA (CP) — John Fisher was expected to resign as centennial commissioner this week but accumulated leave will enable him to retain the post until Dec. 31, when the 1967 celebration ends.

Meanwhile, he will be in British Columbia, breaking into a new job as publisher and general manager of Northwest Publications Ltd.

Clearing out his 10th floor office in the Canadian building Wednesday, he looked back on four harrowing years here and said:

"At times I thought I'd never survive."

The 53-year-old native of Frosty Hollow, N.B., began promoting the Centennial in the 1940s and it has been an uphill battle all the way.

"The beating I've taken in the last 25 years," he said, "People have called me a clown, a fool, linguistic, a chauvinist, everything."

Nevertheless, the thousands of speeches that earned him the affectionate nickname Mr. Canada bore fruit this year as the country responded uproariously to the centennial.

"I think the main thing we did was to get people off their seats—the pride was always there.

The fascination of the year for him was the fun people had, whether at Expo 67 or in the north.

"This country came alive in 1967," he said. "The big trick now will be to keep it going."

While bureaucratic and political conflicts may have made the centennial commission a grim personal experience, Mr. Fisher thinks it fulfilled its purpose.

"The structure shouldn't be dismantled," he said, pointing to the commission's unblemished record of federal-provincial agreements.

A significant feature of these agreements was that they were the same with Quebec as with the other provinces. And there was no opting out.

Warmly praised last spring by Quebec Premier Daniel Johnson, the commissioner became a popular figure throughout Canada in travelling the equivalent of 10 times around the world during the last four years.

His office gradually became a curiosity shop o centennial memorabilia during that time, filling up with a fascinating array of zany plaques, flying saucer pads, flags, $3 bills, keys to cities, symbolic maces, honorary memberships, even a buffalo robe.

"I'll never have a house, even a warehouse, big enough for it," he said, mentioning that a university may enshrine the collection as a centennial museum."

Girl Upset Over Brother's Continuous Teasing

Dear Doris: I am 18 and I feel sometimes like I am going to have a mental breakdown.

First, no matter what I am doing as soon as one of my brothers walks in the door, he starts teasing me around or hitting, or pinching me.

My younger brother teases me all the time, no matter who is around. Sometimes I'm so embarrassed that I feel like crying.

Is it too much to ask of my little sister to help with the dishes? When I was her age I had to help with the work or get into trouble. Mum agrees with me on this but still won't make her do anything.

I would love to talk these and other things over with Mum and Dad but every time I try to they only laugh at me. — Understanding Wanted

Dear Understanding: Mark my words: If you could just act completely unruffled, or so remote that he thinks you didn't hear him, neither older nor younger brother would tease. Little sister would be less, little sister would be the gainer if she had a regular chore at the sink. But she may resent an older sister's bossing.

Don't give up on Mum and Dad. They may have laughed just to help you see the lighter side of life instead of making a tragedy of these things. Rough spots do smooth out as we get a little poise.

Dear Doris: When Mrs. X. wanted to go to Bingo and did not have a way she'd call me. When she had her appendix operation I was asked to her house to help her. I did this for four days and it was the husband who thanked me. He offered me money which I wouldn't take, as I figured I'd need a favor some time.

When I called her a few weeks later to see if she'd mind my little boy her sick why couldn't my sister watch him. She said she had to be in bed early. She really sounded as if she didn't want to keep him. I thought it was a small favor for the help I gave her.

I've not spoken to her since. My husband figures I should be nice to her and forget it ever happened. What do you think.

I know he loves me, but when he expects me to do these things I don't think he loves me as much as he lets on. — Boiling Mad

Dear Boiling: Simmer down. All you do is raise your blood pressure; do it often enough and you may cut short life. Your long letter lists too many fancied wrongs to reproduce here.

Dear Doris: Our 25th anniversary is coming up and my husband wants to get me an anniversary ring.

Somebody says anniversary rings have three large diamonds. Is it true? On what finger do you wear it? — Anniversary.

Dear Anniversary: Three is the magic number. It may be three diamonds, or a ruby or other stone, with a diamond on each side. You might select the jewel symbolic of the month you were married, for the centre stone. Or your birthstone.

As for which finger, this depends on your preference. Left hand ring finger may already be pretty busy with engagement and wedding bands.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "I wish Jan were a cute dainty little girl like your Sue. She's so unhappy about her height, and is so clumsy and awkward, though I wouldn't say it to her."

Mother: "You have such a lovely posture and you wear your clothes with a lot of style. A great many famous models are tall girls."

Accept your daughter's physical characteristics with serenity. If you are miserable because she is tall, she will feel the same way, even though you try to hide your concern.

Ann Landers

Sister Told to Mind Her Own Business

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently you told a wife who wondered if her husband was cheating in Vietnam not to ask him any questions when he returned. You also said, "If he volunteered the information, listen quietly, say nothing, forgive him and never bring up the subject again."

Is this sauce only for the goose, or does it also apply to the gander?

My brother has been in Vietnam for eight months. I have no proof but I could almost swear that his wife has entertained a former sweetheart in her apartment. It burns me up that she has always gotten away with the goody-goody act. Everyone in the family thinks she is a saint. I have a theory that people who go out of their way to be especially nice are hiding something.

I also have a theory that it is best to bring things out in the open and clear the air. When my brother comes home I plan to tell him of my suspicions and if his wife is innocent let her prove it. I studied commercial law in high school and this is the basis for American justice, Right? — NOT BLIND.

DEAR NOT: You must have flunked the course. Needlessness, because you've got it wrong. American justice is based on the concept that a person is innocent until proven guilty.

"Close the air," my Auntie Minnie! You sound like a four-door, brass-plated trouble-maker and I hope your brother tells you to M.Y.O.B. the minute you open your mouth.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was widowed at 48. Three years later I married the following year. The other married six months later. I gave them each $1,000 as a wedding gift.

Three months later the younger son asked if he could borrow $300. I said yes. He never paid it back so I didn't ask him for more. Then my other son asked if I would help him buy a house. I signed for the loan. He and his wife moved out of town six months later. I had to make good on the payments.

The following year they decided to move back to town. I gave them $5,000 to get started. I gave the other son, because I wanted to be fair.

Neither of those boys or their wives have ever invited me for me unless they want to talk about borrowing money. I never ask me to their homes for a meal. I am nearly 70 and have very little money. I am depressed about the way my sons treat me. Any suggestions what to do. Any advice? — USED.

DEAR USED: One thing you can count on is that money machine. I hope your letter will open the eyes of mothers who think gifts to children buy love and respect.

Girl Upset Over Brother's Continuous Teasing

Dear Doris: I am 16 and I feel sometimes like I am going to have a mental breakdown.

First, no matter what I am doing as soon as one of my brothers walks in the door, he starts bossing me around or hitting, or pinching me.

My younger brother teases me all the time, no matter who is around. Sometimes I'm so embarrassed that I feel like crying.

Is it too much to ask of my little sister to help with the dishes? When I was her age I had to help with the work or get into trouble. Mum agrees with me on this but still won't make her do anything.

I would love to talk these and other things over with Mum and Dad but every time I try to they only laugh at me. — Understanding Wanted

Dear Understanding: Mark my words: If you could just act completely unruffled, or so remote that he thinks you didn't hear him, neither older nor younger brother would tease. Your little sister would be an ex, little sister would be the gainer if she had a regular chore at the sink. But she may resent an older sister's bossing.

Don't give up on Mum and Dad. They may have laughed just to help you see the lighter side of life instead of making a tragedy of these things. Rough spots do smooth out as we get a little polse.

Dear Doris: When Mrs. X. wanted to go to Bingo and did not have a way she'd call me. When she had her appendix operation I was asked to her house to help her. I did this for four days and it was the husband who thanked me. He offered me money which I wouldn't take, as I figured I'd need a favor some time.

When I called her a few weeks later to see if she'd mind my little boy she said why couldn't my sister watch him. She said she had to be in bed early. She really sounded as if she didn't want to keep him. I thought it was a small favor for the help I gave her. I've not spoken to her since. My husband figures I should be nice to her and forget it ever happened. What do you think.

I know he loves me, but when he expects me to do these things I don't think he loves me as much as he lets on. — Boiling Mad

Dear Boiling: Simmer down. All you do is raise your blood pressure; do it often enough and you shorten your life. Your long letter lists too many fancied wrongs to reproduce here.

Dear Doris: Our 25th anniversary is coming up and my husband wants to get me an anniversary ring.

Somebody says anniversary rings have three large diamonds. Is it true? On what finger do you wear it? — Anniversary.

Dear Anniversary: Three is the magic number. It may be three diamonds, or a ruby or other stone, with a diamond on each side. You might select the jewel symbolic of the month you were married, for the centre stone. Or your birthstone.

As for which finger, this depends on your preference. Left hand-ring finger may already be pretty busy with engagement and wedding bands.

Ann Landers

Sister Told to Mind Her Own Business

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently you told a wife who wondered if her husband was cheating in Vietnam not to ask him any questions when he returned. You also said, "If he volunteers the information, listen quietly, say nothing, forgive him and never bring up the subject again."

Is this sauce only for the goose, or does it also apply to the gander?

My brother has been in Vietnam for eight months. I have no proof but I strongly suspect that his wife has entertained a former sweetheart in her apartment. It burns me up that she has always gotten away with the goody-goody act. Everyone in the family thinks she is a saint. I have a theory that people who go out of their way to be especially nice are hiding something.

I also have a theory that it is best to bring things out in the open and clear the air. When my brother comes home I plan to tell him of my suspicions and if his wife is innocent let her prove it. I studied commercial law in high school and this is the basis for American justice. Right? — NOT BLIND.

DEAR NOT: You must have flunked the course, Needlessne, because you've got it wrong. American justice is based on the concept that a person is innocent until proven guilty.

"Clear the air," my Auntie Minnie! You sound like a four-door, brass-plated trouble-maker and I hope your brother tells you to M.Y.O.B. the minute you open your mouth.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was widowed at 48. Two sons. One married the following year. The other married six months later. I gave them each $1,000 as a wedding gift.

Three months later the younger son asked if he could borrow $300. I said yes. He never paid it back so I gave his brother $300 also, because I wanted to be fair. Then the older boy asked if I would help him buy a house. I signed for his loan. He and his wife moved out of town six months later and I had to make good on the payments.

The following year they decided to move back to town. I gave them $5,000 to get started. I gave the other son $5,000 too, because I wanted to be fair.

Neither of these boys or their wives have the time of day for me unless they want to talk about borrowing money. They never ask me to their homes for a meal or invite me any place. I am nearly 70 and have very little money left. I am so depressed about the way my sons treat me that I don't know what to do. Any advice? — USED.

DEAR USED: One thing you can't do is stop being a money machine. I hope your letter will wake up other mothers who think gifts to children necessarily beget love and respect.

Unique Displays Highlight Carousel Tea

An air of gaiety and general friendliness prevailed in Christ Church parish hall for the Carousel tea and bazaar held Wednesday afternoon. The event was a combined effort by all members of the parish with Mrs. L. Lennox the overall convener assisted by Mrs. A. Gardiner, co-convener.

Canon R. B. Wright extended warm greetings to the many guests and the event was officially opened by His Worship Mayor Jack Ellis who remarked on the beautiful decor and commended all for their efforts in this worthwhile undertaking.

Welcoming guests at the entrance were the presidents of the various participating groups and past and present church wardens. These included Mrs. G. Livingston, Mrs. A. Bongard, Mrs. R. Godden, and in the evening Mr. T. Carruthers, Mr. R. Beare, Mr. L. Lennox and Mr. B. Wright.

The main auditorium was a riot of color with the attractive guest tables located in the centre of the floor and outlined with colorful streamers, floating balloons and rustic oak leaves. On one wall was an eye catching tree effect bearing huge vibrant colored crepe flowers, and to carry out the centennial theme were maple leaf motifs at other strategic points. Mrs. R. Godden and Mrs. L. Hall were bazaar co-conveners.

Highlighting the bazaar were two outstanding displays located on the platform and viewed by a multitude of patrons. One, an applecraft display through the courtesy of Mrs. Elizabeth Mud of Wellington which showed an excellent reproduction of the Fathers of Confederation and authentic Indian and pioneer villages with respective costumed inhabitants. The other, was an antique doll display by Mrs. Mary. (Moult) Greig dressed in typical costumes of the eras which they represented and many others.

The beautiful cakes tables were placed along each wall with contributions for these coming from the various church groups who participated. These included the A.C.W. afternoon and evening branches, the Altar Guild and Sewers Guild, Chi Rho Fellowship, the Contact Club, Men's Club, Parish Guild and Sunday School and others. Items were elaborately displayed and ranged from knitting, sewing, fancy work, quilts, aprons to unique trinkets and novelties convened by members of the Contact Club.

Instead of having the usual tea table, guests were served directly from the adjoining kitchen which was convened by Mrs. G. Cherry and Mrs. C. Wounaesti. During the afternoon sandwiches, cookies and tea were served, while in the evening pies, coffee and fancy desserts.

Located in the upper hall were the homecooking, delicatessen, preserve and candy tables, with these doing a brisk business throughout the afternoon. Tours of the church were conducted, at which time one could visit a pictorial view of Sunday School teachings in the vestibule; also in the vestry a display of communion vessels explained by Mrs. Slavin along with an antique display of communion tokens. These dating back well over 125 years recently won the best of the show trophy at the Quinpex Jamboree held at the Belleville Armouries. Mrs. C. Sager was in charge.

The splendid decor based along the fun theme was accomplished by members of the A.Y.P.A. group under the direction of a special committee.

A fish pond was available for the young fry in the afternoon and in the evening games conducted by the Men's Club and other forms of entertainment were enjoyed.

The 2nd Belleville Scout group had a fine range of miscellaneous items ranging from bath salts, slippers, knitwear to candy apples, and other goodies.

Other general conveners were Mrs. J. Cousins and Mrs. R. Wallbridge for bakery goods; Mr. A. Gardiner and Mr. Daly as ramp conveners and Mrs. R. Stewart in charge of displays. Mrs. J. Fletcher was ticket convener while the treasurer was Mrs. L. MacInnis.

H and S Council Receives McLaughlin Endowment

A news release from Ontario Federation of Home and School has announced that an endowment of $5000 dollars has been presented by Col. R.S. McLaughlin, of Oshawa, in memory of his wife, the late Adelaide Louise McLaughlin, president of the Federation from 1930 to 1936.

In presenting the endowment Col. McLaughlin said, "Home and school is a wonderful organization — it's the only organization in which parents and teachers work together for the betterment of the child".

Mrs. McLaughlin was a charter member of the Federation and worked in home and school from its inception in 1919 until her death in 1952.

The proceeds from the "Adelaide Louise McLaughlin Endowment Fund" will supplement the Federation's income and permit home and school to extend its program, especially in the fields of child study and leadership training.

Col. McLaughlin praised the two study courses, "The Adolescent in the Modern World" and "Meet Your School Age Child". These courses and the Pre-School Course to be published in the spring should be widely used by parents and teachers.

He commended the Federation for its emphasis on leadership training, expressing the view that this development of competent Associations would benefit all children.

November is membership month. The executive feels that this is the time for parents to belong to an organization which can keep them well informed in administration, school policies and new curriculum. The relationship of the teacher, parent and child under the rapid changes of the educational field is more important now then ever before. Education is a family affair and every parent and teacher is asked to make an effort to be an active member.

The centennial project is still in full swing. Those interested may contact association president or the president of Council, J. E. Welch, for information on how they can participate

O You Beautiful Doll!

Admiring a collection of antique dolls by Mary (Moult) Greig at the Christ Church Carousel tea and bazaar held Wednesday afternoon is little Miss Bobbi Ann Peake. Bazaar conveners Mrs. L. Lennox (standing) and co-convener Mrs. A. Gardiner look on approvingly.

Psychedelic Decor Is Used For St. Joseph's Parish Tea

It was bound to happen eventually — an afternoon tea with psychedelic decor and an Expo-like queue for the tea room.

At St. Joseph's Parish tea and bazaar Wednesday afternoon in the Parish Hall, decorating convener Mrs. J. Marta and Mrs. L. J. Belanger used green, hot pink, yellow and orange as their color scheme.

A black lattice separated the tea room from the bazaar area. The lattice was entwined with cedar boughs and yarn posies in yellow, orange and hot pink, and hung with green raffia covered wine bottles. Receiving guests under the arched entrance were conveners Mrs. A. Belanger and Mrs. C. Murphy and hostess Mrs. George Whalen. Mrs. B. Bankey was in charge of the kitchen.

The tea table was centred with an arrangement of pink and yellow 'mums and bittersweet, flanked with hot pink candles in silver candelabra. Individual tables were covered with cloths printed in flower design echoing the green, hot pink, yellow and orange theme, and centred with raffia covered wine bottles holding small bouquets of yarn flowers.

Pouring tea were Mrs. W. McKay, Mrs. D. Dunnise, Mrs. R. Barrett and Mrs. G. McAvoy.

The conveners, Mrs. M. Chartrand and Mrs. J. Lane received guests at the door. Mrs. C. Murphy was in charge of advertising. Bazaar tables and their conveners were: Christmas, Mrs. T. Jones; sewing, Mrs. C. Thompson; knitting, Mrs. T. A. Kelly; home baking, Mrs. W. Meagher; aprons, Mrs. R. Hughes; candy, Mrs. J. Bibby; parcel post, Mrs. K. McCoy; grocery draw, Mrs. J. Anton, pull tickets, Mrs. D. Harrington; religious articles, Mrs. M. Fleming.

Mrs. W. Buckley and Mrs. R. Armstrong took tickets at the door and Mrs. C. Chalmers was convener of the children's social.

Draw winners were: pull tickit, Miss Gail Kelly; grocery, Mrs. E. Kaiser; fruit cake, Mrs. D. Locke; aprons, Mrs. J. Horrigan; cushions, Mrs. L. Towns; Miss Karen MacDonell; doll, Mrs. Bradley; poodle, Mrs. C. Roberts; centrepiece, Mrs. C. Murphy.

Chinese Food Popular Supper Dish

by Mary Moore

In a letter with a signature but no address received early July was a request for shrimp egg rolls. Mrs. Jeanette G. and her husband had some in a hotel and they were "nice and crisp".

Because Chinese food is so popular we had them for Sunday evening's dinner. They were "nice and crisp" and good too. They are tedious to make for you have to make the "wrappers" in advance. These wrappers are like crepes for crepes suzettes, but I will describe the method carefully so amateurs can make them.

Dinner Menus

THURSDAY

Chili Con Carne; Toasted Rye Bread; Shredded Cabbage, Cucumber and Radish Salad with Mayonnaise; Scotch Apple Crumb; Coffee.

SUNDAY
(Guests)

Chinese Egg Rolls (see Thurs.); Soy and Mustard and/or Plum Sauce; Spinach with Chopped Crisp Bacon Garnish; Creamed Cauliflower; Shredded Lettuce and Carrot Salad with Dill Dressing; French Coblber al la Mode; Tea.

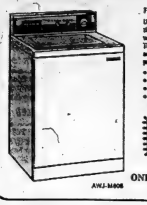
CHINESE EGG ROLLS (12)

Wrappers (pancakelike skins)
- 1¼ cups unsifted bread flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2 large eggs
- 2 cups water

Filling:
- 3 tablespoons salad oil
- ¼ cup finely chopped celery
- ¾ cup finely shipped cabbage or Brussels sprouts
- ¼ cup diced cooked or canned shrimp
- ½ cup diced cooked pork
- ¼ cup chopped chives or green onions
- ½ cup drained canned bean sprouts or chopped canned water chestnuts
- 2 minced clove garlic
- ¼ cup soy sauce

Make pancake wrappers first: (Note: These may be bought at Chinese food stores but for our smalltown and rural readers this is out.) Beat flour, salt and eggs until smooth. Then gradually add water, beating with rotary or electric beater until you have a perfectly smooth thin batter. Measure by exact ¼ cup measure into 6" lightly buttered heavy frying pan or on griddle. They must not be browned at all — simply cooked and still white and turned once. This batter makes exactly twelve 6" pancakes. Cool in single layers then chill with piece of wax paper between each.

To make filling, in large frying pan heat the oil over low heat and add all filling ingredients and stir-fry over low heat for 5 minutes. Celery and cabbage or sprouts should still be crisp. Cool. Line up cold pancake "wrappers" on counter or board and measure 3 tablespoons filling in centre of each. Moisten edge of one side with flour-water paste made of 1 tablespoon flour and 2 tablespoons water. Fold over like an envelope to enclose filling, sealing ends to first fold with water paste too. Turn over so folded side is down and chill in refrigerator. When mealtime is near heat salad oil to ¼" depth in large frying pan until quite hot. Lift rolls on pancake turner and carefully slip into hot fat — no more than 4 at a time. They brown quite quickly so peek to see when bottom is golden and turn over and cook other side until deep gold and crisp. Transfer to paper-towel lined platter and keep warm until all rolls are fried. Serve at once accompanied by soy sauce and, or Chinese mustard and, or plum sauce.



These are very good and you will soon perfect your technique. I even thought they were good cold.

CALVERT OF CANADA LTD., MONTREAL • TORONTO • VANCOUVER

The name of the rye is Grand Prix. We made it incredibly smooth by making it dry.

And we made it dry by discovering a new way to make rye without any cloying sweetness.

This makes Grand Prix a full-bodied rye so smooth you can actually sip it straight. And like it.

Nobody ever made a rye as smooth as Grand Prix before because nobody ever knew how. It took Calvert ten years to do it, and naturally our Master Blender is pretty proud of it.

But try it yourself. In ten seconds you'll know why he's so proud.

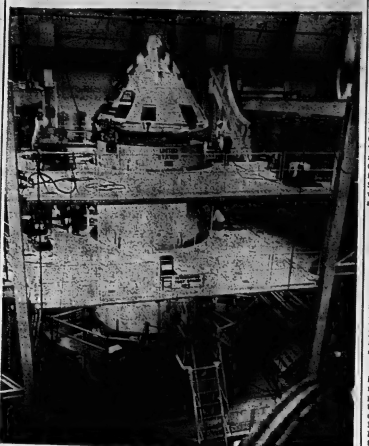
Routine Items Discussed at Council Meet

DESERONTO — At the Deseronto Town Council meeting Monday evening a letter from the Ontario Water Resources Commission asked the Council to have patience yet a little longer. The Deseronto problem is only one of many in the Quinte area, and all are under study. The question of pollution in the Bay of Quinte has been known and solutions sought. Deseronto is part of the overall picture.

Council dealt, also, with several routine matters and heard its monthly reports. Welfare is down for October, with 31 heads of families, 41 dependants, and three single persons receiving assistance.

The resignation of Chief Thomlinson was formally accepted. It had been received earlier after a special council meeting had adjourned.

A letter from the Napanee Victorian Order of Nurses stated that their position with respect to Deseronto would remain unchanged, should they amalgamate with Kingston, a move which is being considered.



NAPANEE — The Thomas Street level crossing over the CNR at Napanee has always been a potential danger, and a definite step was taken to eliminate the danger. The clerk - treasurer was directed to write a letter to the Board of Transport Commission requesting that the crossing be closed. The only alternative is a set of gates, an expensive proposition for the town. There would also be the annual question of maintenance. Not all citizens may agree with the plan to close the crossing, especially those in the neighborhood whose children attend Eastview School.

A letter of complaint is to be sent to the Kemp Construction Co. of Hamilton, the contractors who have all but completed their $2½ million addition to the Napanee District Secondary School. During its construction the heavy machinery has ruined the road on Graham St. between Bridge St. and the Belleville Road, and the Council is asking for its repair. The town itself has had crushed stone drawn in along the walk to enable the school buses to operate, but feels it should leave the building of the sidewalk itself to the construction company.

Council will pay $300 to Cartwright and Co. of Kingston as costs of the appeal made by Mrs. Phyllis Denison against closing the Robert St. entrance to her strip of waterfront property. Deeds to the roadway, closed many years ago, were handed back to the town by W. R. Douglass and the Strathcona Paper Co.

Daily fees for patients in nursing homes from whom the town is responsible have been increased by 50 cents, and are now $7.50 per day.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce was granted permission to hold a Santa Claus parade December 2 and permission for a tag day for minor hockey at the same time was also granted. The Boy Scouts will hold Apple Day this Saturday.

Napanee Hospital Board Explains Decisions

NAPANEE — Lennox and Addington County Memorial Hospital staff heard Tuesday the board's version of the dispute which brought grey lisling by the Registered Nurses Association of Ontario.

Administrator James Hepburn said he was advised by the board to "set the record straight" for the staff.

The board's statement was released after two of the three nurses involved in the dispute wrote letters to the Napanee weekly newspaper outlining their arguments.

The board claims the three nurses, Mrs. Bette Helman, nursing supervisor, Mrs. Roy Markman, operating room head nurse and Mrs. John Glen, emergency department head nurse, were not fired.

"On Jan. 27, Mrs. Markman submitted her resignation; on Feb. 13, a written resignation was received from Mrs. Glen and both resignations gave three months' notice. On March 27, the three nurses presented a letter to the administrator demanding specific written comments by April 4 or they would go directly to the board," the statement said.

It continued: "On April 4, the administrator met with the persons involved and when it became apparent they would be unable to work the very short periods remaining before the effective dates of their resignations without further friction, it was suggested that they be paid the balance of the time of their notice and they would not be required to work this period."

Mrs. Glen said in a recent letter to the Napanee Beaver that the nurses had made several attempts through the proper nursing channels to "set up and enforce some nursing policies and a nursing procedure manual."

She claims they were fired and the board of governors had refused to hear their story.

The Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario imposed a grey listing on the hospital in May "because of the unjust treatment of three nurses". The ban remains in effect.

Red Cross To Entertain Senior Citizens

NAPANEE — Invitations are out to all the Senior Citizens of Deseronto, past and present, to attend a centennial tea being held in their honor by the Senior Citizens Committee of the Deseronto branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society. This branch does an amazing amount of work for its Senior Citizens. Mrs. Michael Ryan is the chairman. President is Mrs. Stafford Cleen, Sr. The event will be held in the Legion Hall and transportation is arranged.

Church Celebrates

The congregation of Front Road United Church marked its 94th anniversary, Nov. 5. Rev. H. Swann conducted the worship service and Rev. Bruce Besley, Grand Valley, a former minister of the church, preached the sermon.

Floral arrangements were placed by the Greatrix family in memory of deceased members of the family, and potted 'mums were placed by the UCW and the WA in memory of deceased members. Mr. and Mrs. James Bell, Kenmore, N.Y., made a contribution in memory of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Clasie.

Luncheon was served in the hall after the morning service, and a tea was held in the afternoon. Those pouring at the tea table centred with an arrangement of yellow and mauve 'mums were Mrs. H. F. Swann, Mrs. Bradshaw, Mrs. M. Greatrix and Mrs. R. Clasie.

Legion Chnrch Parade Held At Reserve

DESERONTO—There was an excellent attendance Sunday for the parade of the Royal Canadian Legion and the Ladies' Auxiliary to Christ Church on the Tyendinaga Reserve.

The minister and newly-appointed padre chose two texts on which to base his sermon: "What mean ye by this service?", "What mean ye by these stones?" He pointed out that these referred to two ancient services, the same ones as today. "Unless we have the answer for our young people, Remembrance Day may come to mean nothing to them," he said.

SPORTS SLICE

By Geo. H. Carver

A friend of mine who knows as much or less about shooting the birds on the wing or wherever they are, inquired the other day if I knew what a woodcock looks like. I wouldn't know a woodcock fro ma bow-legged dinosaurus if the Flintstone pet parked his carcass on my lap.

It says the woodcock is one of the least known and least appreciated upland game birds. Many people have never seen one and many others would not recognize one if they did see it.

Down in the deep south and midwest the Americans call the bird the "timberdoodle" in an affectionate manner. Its a shy bird and seldom comes out in the open during daylight hours.

When it migrates it moves mainly at night and even when it stays put it likes to feed in the dark. During the daytime the woodcock retires in woodland thickets.

Its main source of food is the earthworm and come supper time it seeks moist ground where it uses its uniquely designed bill to great advantage.

This is the woodcock's knife and fork and is as long as your middle finger. It is hinged at the top instead of the bottom.

Even more valuable for its needs, the woodcock can open the tip without opening the rest — a great convenience if you like to dine on worms with your nose stuck several inches into the ground.

And get this. Another oddity in the timberdoodle's appearance is his eyes. They are on the back of his head which is a great aid in helping him put trees between a hunter's gun and his line of flight.

And Bret Woodcock is the Beau Brummel of the birds, a handsome dandy who has all the woodcock screaming. They forgive him his ungainly bill and rear-view specs. He makes the NBC turkey look like Old Father Time.

They are found mostly in the east with the Mississippi river being about the western limit of their American range. In the winter they head for Louisiana and Arkansas and in the spring they head back to their prime nesting areas in Ontario, Pennsylvania and New England.

If you crave a brace or two of woodcock investigate stream borders and alder thickets during the hunting season when they are heading south. You can tell them by their tell-tale whitewash splashings and quarter-inch drill holes.

They avoid tall grass because they cannot move through it but they like grazed areas with scattered brush cover.

A good pointer is a real help in hunting woodcock but don't depend on him. Most dogs won't give them a tumble. Some dogs just pay a little attention to them so its a case of trial and error to find one that will.

If you do manage to bring one down retrieving is another problem. Dogs get mushy and just won't pick them up. However if you have a Brittany in the kennel by him out for size. This is the best breed for this type of gunning however, since they were bred with these birds in mind.

When it comes to hunting these birds, the main thing to remember is that you're in the woods snap shooting at a target flying at jet-propelled speeds on a corkscrew trajectory.

This calls for an open bore gun and fast swinging. The birds are small so you'd better use a twenty gauge or smaller gun for best results.

When the hunt is over, it says here, the birds are a gourmet's delight. Any good game cook book has recipes and no matter which one you try, you're in for some fine eating.

The 44-year-old Toronto Maple Leafs netminder did just that Wednesday night and came within a goal of giving the Leafs a National Hockey League shutout as they beat Oakland Seals 6-1 before a sparse crowd of 4,749.

But he made up for the one slip, when Aut Erickson beat him after Toronto had taken a 4-0 lead in the second period, by getting his first assist of the year on a goal scored by defenceman Allan Stanley.

He cleared to Keon at midice and the speedy centre skated behind the Oakland net and passed perfectly to Stanley for an easy shot.

The victory moved Toronto into first place in the Eastern Division, two points ahead of New York Rangers.

In other action, Chicago Black Hawks picked up their third win of the season with a 3-2 victory over Montreal Canadiens, the Rangers missed their chance to stay with the Leafs by losing 6-3 to Boston Bruins, Philadelphia Flyers tied Pittsburgh Penguins 1-1 and Minnesota North Stars battered St. Louis Blues 5-1.

The Boston victory jumped them two places in the standings, a point ahead of Montreal and idle Detroit Red Wings in third place, a point back of New York.

The Leafs also got scoring from Jim Pappin and Murray Oliver, each with two goals. Ron Ellis got the other.

Two goals by Stan Mikita, finally starting to reach his form after a series of early-season ailments, and one by Pit Martin made the difference for Chicago.

Bobby Rousseau and Gilles Tremblay scored for the Canadiens, who host John Ferguson Bill Sutherland had scored for the Flyers.

Minnesota North Stars went on their biggest scoring spree of the season, paced by the three assists of Bob Woytowich and two goals of Dave Balon. Mike McMahon, Ray Cullen and Bill Masterson added single goals.

Among the more outstanding efforts of the night was that of Sanderson—who drew praise from both his own coach Harry Sinden, and manager-coach Emile Francis of New York.

Killing a penalty midway through the second period, the centre last season with Niagara Falls Flyers of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series drifted in on Ranger goalie Ed Giacomin and nipped it home from behind a mass of New York defenders. It tied the score 2-2.

His second came just six seconds gone in the third period when Ranger defenceman Arnie Brown fanned in trying to retrieve the puck after the faceoff and Sanderson swooped down to hammer it into the net.

N.H.L. Scoring Leaders

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bobby Hull moved out in front of the National Hockey League scoring race Wednesday night as Chicago Black Hawks won their third goalie of the season, 3-2 over Montreal Canadiens.

He got an assist, giving him six to go with his 11 goals for 17 points, one more than Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings, who has 10 goals and six assists.

But the big movers just out of the leaders' list were Vid Hadfield of New York Rangers and Murray Oliver of Toronto Maple Leafs, each with two goals and both with 12 points.

Oliver now has four goals and Hadfield seven. Jim Pappin also got two goals for Toronto in their 6-1 defeat of Oakland Seals while Hadfield's goals were scored in New York's 6-3 loss to Boston Bruins.

Kings Claw Bears 2-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hershey Bears, with wins in their first four games, looked like the class of the American Hockey League when the season started.

They have managed only one win in their last six games and Wednesday lost their first home game 2-1 to the fast-rising Springfield Kings before a disappointing 3,077 fans.

The Kings moved three points ahead of the Bears and Providence Reds, who moved into a second place tie with Hershey by blanking Rochester American 6-1.

The Reds had even fewer fans —1,782—and were zipped it home from behind a mass of New York defenders. It tied the score 2-2.

Ghosts May Haunt Rough Riders In Stretch For Cup!

OTTAWA (CP) — There's an old sports cliche about former players "coming back to haunt you." If last year's Grey Cup game is any indication, Ottawa will have to fight through a couple of ghosts to get into the Canadian Football League final.

Aside from the spectres of former players, the Riders must overcome the odds about second-place teams winning the Eastern Football Conference title.

Since 1954, the first-place club in the East has gone on to the Grey Cup every year except one —1960 the second-place Riders beat Toronto in the finals and won the Grey Cup 16-6 over Edmonton Eskimos.

The Riders face the first of the potential ghosts Sunday when they meet the third-place Toronto Argonauts here in the sudden-death semi-final while first-place Hamilton Tiger-Cats sit on the sidelines awaiting their two-game, total-point final against the winner.

The Toronto ghost is Jim Dillard, the veteran fullback who helped the Argos to their first playoff berth since 1961 after starting with the Riders for two years.

Dillard, who was cut by Ottawa before the season began, has been a key man in Argos' strong ground attack and will rate special attention Sunday despite a reported knee injury.

If the Riders got past the Argos—as most observers expect they will—they'll face a familiar Ted Watkins wearing the stripes of the Toads.

Watkins was an EFC all-star end for the four years he spent here and has been a valuable addition to Hamilton since he was traded for a future draft choice after losing his job here to rookie Margene Adkins.

The Riders get a taste of what to expect from Dillard and Watkins last year in the Grey Cup when quarterback Ron Lancaster—another Ottawa castoff —led Saskatchewan Roughriders to a 29-14 win over his former teammates.

Lancaster was sent to Saskatchewan after the 1962 season when coach Frank Clair decided to go with Russ Jackson as his starting quarterback.

But the haunting also could work the other way. Don Sutherin, who won scoring championships and all-star recognition during a seven year stay at Hamilton, will be looking for some revenge against the team that traded him away after the 1966 season.

Ottawa got Sutherin after the veteran defensive halfback refused to report to the Edmonton Eskimos.

Sutherin took over Ottawa's placement kicking in mid-season after veteran Moe Racine lost the touch that won him the 1966 scoring title, and has been a regular in the defensive backfield.

If the haunting applies to coaches as well, the Riders are in an even better position.

World Golf Tournament

Nicklaus, Palmer Big Favorites

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Eighty of the world's best golfers open play today in the 15th World Cup tournament with Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer of the United States big favorites to repeat their 1966 team victory.

While the Americans are overwhelming favorites, there is no question they are in for tough competition for individual honors from half a dozen top professionals.

There is no big chunk of prize money in this tournament—only $3,000 for the individual champion—but many of the golfers feel national prestige is at stake in the 72-hole tournament on the 7,250-yard par 72 Club de Golf Mexico course.

Top golfers who may give Nicklaus, the leading pro money winner this year, and Palmer competition for individual honors are Gary Player of South Africa, defending individual champion George Knudson of Toronto, Bruce Crampton of Australia, Bob Charles of New Zealand, Juan (Chi Chi) Rodriguez of Puerto Rico and Dave Thomas of Wales.

The course, stretched out to make the longest ever used in World Cup play for a record entry, is a narrow, demanding layout.

Knudson said: "I haven't found an easy green yet.

Hilario Polo of Guatemala and Mexican amateur Jaime Escudero won the pro-am with a best-ball score of 63, 10 under par.

Balding and Jaime Halpern of Mexico teamed up to finish third at 64 but there was no report on how Knudson did, or if he was entered.

BC Assistant Coach

Meet Lion Jackie Parker

VANCOUVER (CP) — Jackie Parker, one of the all-time Canadian Football League backfield greats, has been signed as assistant coach of British Columbia Lions, the Western Conference club announced Wednesday.

Parker, 35, who led Edmonton Eskimos to three consecutive Grey Cup victories from 1954 to 1956, will join head coach Jim Champion's staff immediately.

Parker, a star at Mississippi State University, has won the Schenley Award as the outstanding CFL player five times and was an all-star for eight successive years.

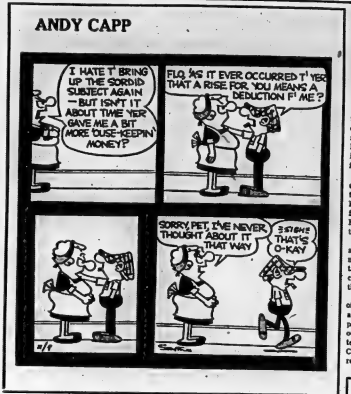
Parker was with Edmonton from 1954 to 1962 and joined the Argos in 1963 before he was sidelined with a knee injury in 1966.



He was head coach of Toronto Rifles of the Continental Football League until he resigned early this season.

His first duties for the Lions, who finished in the WFC cellar for the second year in a row, will be to scout Canadian and American university prospects.

Ramblers Meet Satellites

MONTREAL (CP) — Chateauguay Ramblers will count on a strong ground attack and solid defence when they meet Bramalea Satellites of Toronto in the Eastern Canada senior football final here Sunday.

The Ramblers bypassed another Ontario team, Cornwall Spartans, by and 8-7 overtime score last Sunday to advance into the final. The Satellites bombed Halifax Marcom Flyers 47-7 in their semi-final game.

"Our running game is pretty solid and our defence will definitely stop their passing attack," said Ron Platt, assistant coach and sometimes player for the Ramblers.

The Ramblers showed a solid offence during the regular season as they marked up a total of 293 points, but their defence was outstanding in holding opposing teams to a meagre 33 points. Chateauguay finished with a 8-0 record in regular season play.

Grey Cup; 'So This Is Ottawa'

OTTAWA (CP) — Grey Cup day 1967 is more than three weeks away but the cup itself already is in the capital, resting securely in a bank vault.

The silver trophy, donated by Earl Grey in 1908 while he was Governor-General of Canada, will go to the winner of the Dec. 2 Canadian Football League championship game to be played here.

The cup arrived earlier this week from Regina where it has been since Saskatchewan Roughriders beat Ottawa Rough Riders 29-14 in last year's final at Vancouver.

The cup was restricted to competition among teams in senior and intercollegiate leagues in Eastern Canada for its first few years but after years of requests the West finally was allowed in the competition in 1921 when the first West final was played. Toronto won the cup by beating Edmonton 23-0 that year.

The cup stayed in the East until 1935 when Winnipeg beat Hamilton 18-12 for the West's first victory.

In recent years, the cup has spent most of its time in the West with Edmonton, Winnipeg, British Columbia and Saskatchewan combining to win it in nine of the last 13 seasons.

Western Grid Gunmen Poised For Draw; Good Guys Will Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The only safe prediction about Saturday's Western Football Conference sudden-death semi-final is that anything could happen.

Both teams—Saskatchewan Roughriders and Edmonton Eskimos—have had great games this season. Both also have driven their fans to despair with some dismal performances.

The outcome in Regina Saturday could be decided almost before the clubs step on the field if one team has a bad day. In particular, much depends on the performances of the quarterbacks. Saskatchewan's Ron Lancaster and Edmonton's Frank Cosentino and Terry Baker all have had their troubles in some games this year.

Buchanan especially may be due for a big game. Up to mid-September this year he was second only to team-mate George Reed in yards gained rushing with a season total of 530. From that point on, Buchanan added only about 100 yards to his season total as Reed carried the brunt of the Saskatchewan ground attack.

The weather is promising for the contest. Taylor Field is reported in perfect shape and both sides are healthy.

At least on the basis of the latter half of the regular season, when Eskimos caught fire after a slow start, the teams appear evenly matched.

Both defensive squads are strong, particularly in coping with a ground attack, and both offences are well balanced between ground and air.

Roughriders, the defending Grey Cup champions, had a 12-4 won-lost record during the regular season and beat Eskimos in two out of their three meetings.

Eskimos finished their schedule with five straight wins including victories over Saskatchewan and the first-place Calgary Stampeders. Stamps meet the winner of the semi-final in a best-of-three final series for the western berth in the Grey Cup.

Saskatchewan coach Eagle Keys says the only physical handicaps that could affect his team Saturday are defensive halfback Dale West's damaged shoulder and a rib injury to punter and flanker Al Ford.

Offensive end Jim Worden, who missed all but the first and last games this season with injuries, is back.

Eskimos reported all healthy.

The CBC will carry the game in black and white on its national television network beginning at 2 p.m. CST.

Cats Get Help From Buffalo

HAMILTON (CP)—Hamilton Tiger-Cats imported a new linebacker Wednesday in preparation for the Eastern Football Conference final playoffs and to make room for Sim Gene Donaldson got the axe for the second time this season.

Joining the club from Buffalo Bills of the American League is Allen Smith, a six-foot, 205-pounder who played his college ball at Fort Valley State College in Georgia.

Donaldson, who teaches school at Windsor, Ont., was brought to Canada last season but was cut before play started and spent the year with Toronto Argonauts.

8 Players Score In Bucks' Win

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Eight Portland players scored Wednesday night as the Bucks-roos thumped Phoenix Roadrunners 8-2 in a Western Hockey League game before 4,222 fans.

The victory moved Portland into a second-place tie with San Diego, each with 11 points.

It was the only league game scheduled.

Roadrunners kept pace with Portland until the seven-minute mark of the second period when a goal by Doug Mosnier broke a 2-2 deadlock and put the Buckaroos ahead to stay.

Norm Johnson, with a goal and three assists, paced the Portland attack. Other Portland goals were scored by Mel Pearson, Art Jones, Bill Saunders, Arnie Schmautz, Cliff Schmautz and Dick Van Impe. Phoenix goals were scored by Pat Lamoureux and Lou Jankowski.

Hungry Rough Riders Eye Lost Bonus

TORONTO (C) — Hunger may be the key Sunday when Toronto Argonauts clash with Ottawa Rough Riders at Lansdowne Park in the sudden-death Eastern Football Conference semi-final.

The big hunger for Ottawa probably will be a desire to start earning back the estimated $2,000 they lost by not ending first in regular-season play as they—and almost everyone else—expected. Each Rough Rider is reported to have a bonus clause for that much for winning the league.

The Riders were second by a single point to Hamilton Tiger-Cats and finished with a 7-7 game, total-point final against the Ticats by beating third-place Toronto.

Two Toronto players desperate to win the 2 p.m. game, to be broadcast nationally by CTV, are quarterback Wally Gabler and fullback Jim Dillard.

Two others are halfback Bill Symons, out to confirm the spot he apparently won with top performances in the last two games, and veteran offensive tackle Danny Nykoluk, who is at 252 pounds and has never been on a winner.

Gabler, Dillard and Symons all are suffering from bealings by Hamilton defenders last Sunday in the final league game, which Argos lost 9-5.

They will all be in action Sunday, although rib bruises picked up by Gabler and Symons and a re-injured knee suffered by Dillard could keep them below par.

A big plus for coach Leo Cahill, offensively, could be the return of ailing defensive half Ed Learn, was word from trainer Mert Prophet that centre Norm Stonburgh will be back after missing the final game with a sore back.

The big thing with Gabler is that he blames himself for the loss to Hamilton and is concerned that his passing in the cent games has not been up to standard.

"If we can beat Ottawa, I'm convinced we can take Hamilton and make the final," he said after Sunday's loss. "The way I feel, it's as if we're starting a new season.

"If we get our passing attack going, we'll be okay. Passing is the key.

"It's up to me to hit the receivers. They've been open enough in recent games to make me realize where the fault lies."

Dillard was unhappy last year with Ottawa and would like to beat them out of the Grey Cup game, which will be played in Ottawa Dec. 2.

Sammy Mandell Dies At 63

OAK PARK, Ill. (AP) — Sammy Mandell, 63, who held the world's lightweight boxing title from 1926 to 1930, died Tuesday night at his home.

He had suffered from hardening of the arteries and low blood pressure.

Mandell, once the pride of Rockford, Ill., won the world 135-pound crown from Rocky Kansas on a 10-round decision in Illinois' first legal bout, held at Comiskey Park in 1926.

He was dethroned two years later, when he was knocked out by Al Singer in New York. He retired from the ring in 1934.

Sudbury Girl Learns at Home

The 15-year-old girl has a bone cyst on her left leg which for the present confines her to her bed and to her home. A special telephone system — a receiver installed at Kathy's bedside and another similar unit carried with Kathy's class to each room they attend — keeps her closely involved in her studies. The line is always open and the receivers pick up voices throughout the class. (CP Photo)

"Son Forced Into Crime"

Timbrell Inquiry Views TV Film

PRESTON, Ont. (CP)—A judicial inquiry Wednesday relived the events of Sept. 23 at television film showed the attempts of three Waterloo County Children's Aid Society workers to remove two foster children from the home of Mrs. Arthur Timbrell.

Shown were the efforts of the CAS workers to remove PEGGY, five and Valerie three, from the Timbrell home and Mrs. Timbrell's arrest for abduction.

Earlier, Mrs. Timbrell's son Wayne, 21, admitted a conviction of contributing to juvenile delinquency involving the photographing of a nude adolescent girl in 1965. He had received a two-year suspended sentence.

Mrs. Hazel Patullo, a neighbor of Mrs. Timbrell, said that Mrs. Timbrell was a good mother and looked after the foster children well.

In a morning session, Mrs. Timbrell said police forced her son Rodney back into crime by depriving him of a job at a Galt factory.

Mrs. Timbrell said police from Waterloo, Preston and Galt told the Babcock and Wilcox Canada Ltd. factory at Galt that Rodney had a police record when in 1965 they came to question him about a 1964 crime in Kingston.

The 43-year-old woman said she received a note from the plant's personnel officer saying Rodney was no longer required.

The inquiry, headed by Judge Harry Walsberg, was ordered by Premier John Robarts to investigate the placing of two foster sisters in the Timbrell home and their forcible seizure Sept. 23 by Waterloo County Children's Aid officials.

Mrs. Timbrell said that shortly after losing his job Rodney was connected with a break-in at the Glenbriar Curling Club, Waterloo.

Arthur Rodney Timbrell, Mrs. Timbrell's husband, said he could not remember a 1960 charge against him of assaulting his wife.

Puritan and Rake Share Error

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Thoughts at Large:

Evil done in the name of evil can always be overcome; but evil done in the name of good — a "holy war," for instance — overcomes all rational resistance.

• • •

By far the greatest portion of mischief in the world is made by people who do not enjoy the work they are doing.

• • •

Both the Puritan and the libertine make the same mistake — they erroneously believe that sex is a matter of doing, rather than of being.

• • •

The height of language consists of compressing the most thought into the fewest words; like the marvelous Greek epitaph upon the army that perished in the disastrous Sicilian expedition: "Having done what men could, they suffered what men must." Ten words, encompassing a full range of moral philosophy.

• • •

The most unhappy people I know are those who desperately covet the good opinion of those whose opinion they don't respect.

• • •

"We only possess what we renounce," said Simone Weil; and nowhere is this truer than with our children.

• • •

Whatever revolution occurs, there will always be one group that profits from it, either in money, power, or status; and this new elite becomes the implacable enemy of revolution, and even of reform.

• • •

A man can be happy only if he has the respect of other men; but a woman can find a kind of happiness merely in being envied by other women — although the envy may be based on a delusion.

• • •

Some descriptions are self-cancelling by their very existence: when a person is introduced as Mr. So-and-So, "the famous composer," he is not truly a famous composer, or his name alone would suffice. Who would ever introduce him as "Pablo Picasso, the famous painter?"

• • •

Those odd personalities who seem to get a perverse pleasure out of suffering may look for suffering as the chief way of knowing they're alive.

• • •

A "good vacation" is one spent among people who have no preconceptions about the way you ought to behave.

• • •

Unlike most readers, I am put off by a book with a catchy title; it smacks too much of a cosmetic treatment to hide a defect of substance in the book itself.

Commons Will Consider 5-Year Trial Of Abolition of Capital Punishment

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons becomes the scene today of another attempt to move towards the end of capital punishment in Canada.

Debate is scheduled to begin on a government bill that would abolish the death penalty for a five-year trial period, except for murders of policemen and prison guards.

A controversial broadcasting bill was given second reading—approval in principle—in the Commons Wednesday and on motion of its sponsor, State Secretary Judy LaMarsh, was promptly referred to the Commons broadcasting committee for study in detail.

The bill to revise broadcasting regulations and set up a new regulatory body in place of the Board of Broadcast Governors got second reading without a formal vote after a Conservative amendment was beaten 118 to 66.

Thus ended five days of hot debate fuelled by Miss LaMarsh's claim in a television interview Nov. 1 that the CBC suffers in many places from "rotten management." The opposition spent a good deal of time trying to get her to be more specific. Some opposition members supported her general contention, others accused her of smearing the entire CBC administration by implication.

The new agency proposed in the bill, the Canadian Radio Commission, would have wider powers than the BBG.

For one thing, it would be able to set different terms for the operation of each radio or TV station, including those of the CBC.

The amendment, proposed by M. T. McCutcheon (PC—Lambton-Kent), would have sent the bill to committee before second reading, virtually killing it. Only 65 Conservatives and Maurice Allard (Ind—Sherbooke) voted for it.

Repercussions were felt in the Commons from a demonstration Tuesday night outside the Soviet Embassy, where bottles, rocks and other objects were thrown during a diplomatic reception marking the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

External Affairs Minister Martin said that Ottawa police took inadequate steps to deal with the demonstration.

He regrets this inadequacy, he said in reply to Terry Nugent (PC—Edmonton Strathcona), who described the demonstration as "shameful lawlessness."

Mr. Martin said he has directed that steps be taken to compensate the Soviet government and repair damage.

Prime Minister Pearson told the Commons he will be glad to consider a poposal by T. C. Douglas, New Democrat leader, that a special committee study the laws regarding homosexuality.

Mr. Douglas recalled that the Supreme Court of Canada upheld this week an indefinite prison sentence against a man who admitted homosexual relations with other consenting adults.

He said most authorities, however, now "are agreed that homosexuality is a social and psychiatric problem rather than a criminal one."

The broadcasting and capital-punishment bills are two of the biggest items on the legislative progam the government hopes to complete before Christmas. Capital punishment will be the subject of a free vote, meaning that the government itself is taking no position on it and the outcome therefore cannot signify either victory to defeat for the government.

The bill to ban hanging temporarily and conditionally was introduced by Solicitor-General Pennell Oct. 19, when it got automatic first reading.

During the five-year trial period envisaged by the bill, no person serving a life sentence for murder could be released without cabinet approval.

The death penalty now is imposed for capital murder and captain cases of treason and piracy.

The last time the Commons debated the subject, in April, 1966, a private member's bill to do away with death penalty was beaten 143 to 112.

Mr. Cowan criticized the cabinet for bowing private MPs as "dumb bunnies" by not acquainting them with the content of legislation before it is brought into the Commons.

He said no private Liberal MP saw the broadcasting bill until it was introduced in the Commons. This procedure reflected a cabinet attitude that "all the wisdom of Canada resides in the brains of 35 members of the cabinet."

The Senate adjourned Wednesday until Nov. 21, after denying second reading to a bill that would prevent the dissemination of written or printed matter inciting people to hatred.

The government leader, Senator John J. Connolly of Ontario, proposed adjournment because of the slow pace of business in the Commons, where most legislation is initiated.

The Senate adopted a motion by Senator Maurice Lamontagne (L—Quebec) setting up a committee to study and report on the government's policies in the scientific domain.

Jewelry Dumped in Ocean

MONTREAL (CP) — A packed courtroom heard a garage mechanic testify Wednesday that he met Georges Lemay at Miami Beach, Fla., and was instructed to dump jewelry from Lemay's boat into the ocean.

Rene Morin of Montreal was testifying for the prosecution at the trial of Lemay, 42, charged with burglary and conspiracy in the theft of $633,605 from a Montreal bank six years ago.

He told the court he had known Lemay since high school but had not expected to see him in Miami Beach in early December, 1965.

Roland Primeau has received a 13-year sentence for his part in the July 1, 1961, robbery of the branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia, Andre Lemieux was sentenced to six years and his brother Yvon got four years.

Mr. Morin said he received at least three calls at the Miami garage where he worked from unidentified persons speaking in French. One call included instructions to remove a medallion and several pairs of earrings from under a trap-door in the boat and to throw them into the ocean which he said he did.

After making these disclosures he started to cry and Judge Jacques Trahan had to clear the court for a brief recess.

Steelworkers Near Goal Of 75 Per Cent Pension

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — The United Steelworkers of America say they are nearing the goal of providing 40,000 workers with pensions of 75 per cent of their annual earnings.

A progress report, to be given today to a meeting of Ontario steelworkers delegates, says 15,000 other workers have benefited from union bargaining on pensions.

The report states that total pensions for workers in the basic steel industry will be $310 monthly for those with 35 years' service and $5,000 annual earning. Workers with 40 years service will receive $335 monthly, or 80 per cent of earnings.

Ignition Alarm System. When you turn the ignition off and open the front door, you'll hear a firm, but gentle buzzing if you've left the key in the ignition. Take the key out, the buzzing stops. Convenient for car owners. Very inconvenient for car thieves.

This is one of many, many examples of General Motors advanced thinking that you'll find incorporated in every Chevrolet for '68. A good idea to make your driving a little more carefree.

Prince Philip Pleads For Population Control

TORONTO (CP) — Prince Philip Wednesday night reiterated his plea that steps be taken to eliminate hunger and control the world's population explosion.

"We can grossly overpopulate the earth," he told the Canadian Audubon Society's banquet.

The world's population should be stabilized and methods should be found to feed the hungry without using more land and destroying more wildlife.

"If we don't preserve wildlife now, we will never have a second chance."

The prince urged Canadians to support the international wildlife fund. He made similar appeals earlier in the day when addressing the Royal Agricultural Society of the Commonwealth.

The guests dined on rock cornish hen, causing the Prince to comment: "If you have any more dinners like this, it won't be very long before they (the hens) need protection."

Government Has Assumed Responsibility for Embassy Damage

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government took formal responsibility Wednesday for damage to the Russian Embassy by demonstrators, but at the same time put the blame on the City of Ottawa and its police force.

External Affairs Minister Martin said in the Commons police took inadequate measures to deal with a noisy, rock-throwing crowd of 350 that protested a celebration of the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution.

An embassy official said there would be no further protest here beyond the verbal exchange between Mr. Martin and Ambassador Ivan F. Shpedko at the reception.

But the official said a note may come direct from Moscow, based on a report sent by the embassy after the demonstration.

The report said guests had been intimidated and damage caused.

The government dispatched a crew Wednesday to replace four broken windows and to sand blast paint from the stone steps of the Embassy.

Four of the five demonstrators arrested and charged with creating a disturbance failed to show up in court Wednesday.

Peter Freiberga, 31, of Ottawa appeared and pleaded not guilty. Bench warrants were issued for the arrest of Martin Dumz, 37, and Roman Berchibryk, 39, both of Toronto; Stefan Wankeryck, 47, of Oshawa, and George Horich of London.

All five had been released Tuesday night on $30 bail.

Health Inspections Ordered in Yorkville

TORONTO (CP)—Board of control Wednesday called for a report on the adequacy of city health inspections in Yorkville, the downtown coffee-house district where hippies gather.

In another move, City Council approved a $5,000 grant to help rehabilitate Yorkville hippies.

The check on health inspections was ordered after the board heard contradictory statements about the incidence of venereal disease in the area.

Police claim they have received hundreds of requests this year for help in locating persons suspected of having the disease. But Dr. A. B. J. Boyd, city medical health officer, said there are no records to support the reports of a high incidence of the disease in the district.

The grant will be made to the Community Services Organization, an association of Yorkville-area churches, to help pay the salaries of four counsellors.

Con. Allan Lamport opposed the grant, saying the hippies only "exist to get their bare feet off the cold sidewalk for the winter."

"This is the only thing we can offer—funds," said Ald Charles Caccia. "The skills required are rare. I doubt if this municipality can offer them."

Nitro Pills Not for Heart Attack

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: I always carry nitro-glycerin pills. If ever there were a person in my presence having a heart attack, could it do him any harm to give him a pill before a doctor arrived? — T.Y.

Don't do it.

Nitro - glycerin or similar tablets, as obviously you know, are extremely helpful, as well as being safe, in halting the pain from attacks of angina pectoris.

There is a great deal of difference between angina and a heart attack. Generally speaking, an angina attack is the result of a heart having demands made upon it which it is unable to meet the demands already weakened — is able to meet. The cramping pain is a warning. The nitro-glycerin gives a mild, temporary lift which is enough to carry the heart past its period of cramping reluctance.

But I would not recommend giving the same pills to someone having a heart attack because in the first place, how can you be certain that the person is having a heart attack, or none other type of heart trouble.

Second, nitro-glycerin can cause a drop in blood pressure and as such a drop often occurs with a heart attack, any further depression of blood pressure should be avoided.

Third, the pain of a heart attack ordinarily cannot be relieved by nitro; a narcotic usually is necessary.

And finally, nitro will not prevent or retard a heart attack once it is in progress.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please send me your booklet, "The Facts About Shingles," for which I enclose 10 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Are there any pills I could take to stop the pain? — Mrs. V.M.E.

Controlling the pain is the big problem in shingles—when the case is severe and of long timeing. It varies a good deal from one case to another.

In the severe cases, there can be periods in which nothing less than narcotics will serve, but these must be used for only a limited time to prevent addiction. Therefore your answer is not to hand for "pills" but to ask your doctor for the right painkiller.

Dear Dr. Molner: A friend whose husband is a physician tells me that doctors have found that all allergies, including eczemas and hay fever, are emotionally induced illnesses. Is this true? — Mrs. K.T.

Not quite. It is probably true that there is an emotional element involved in allergies, one way and another, but that is far from saying that all allergies are caused by the emotions.

Some people break out with hives under the pressure of emotional stress, but it is difficult to say exactly how much of the trouble is the result of the emotions.

A hay fever victim may suffer more if under such stress but no matter what the stress, the hay fever isn't going to develop whollk exposure to the pollen which touches off the allergy.

For another example, a child with asthma may worry about having an attack and be more likely to have an attack simply because of this tension — but the allergy is the basic cause.

Dear Dr. Molner: I wrote for your booklet on kidneys and it helped me. My doctor says I have a little blood in the urine and gave me some medicine that cleared it up but a few days later I should not eat eggs or the trouble will return, and I like eggs.—Mrs. K.T.M.

You had an infection, obviously, and medication cleared it up. There's no reason why eggs would start another infection. For a copy of my booklet on kidneys write to me, Dr. Molner, in care of this newspaper enclosing 25 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Toronto Doctors Identify New Heart Disease

TORONTO (CP) — Medical researchers at the Toronto General Hospital claim to have identified a heart disease that many specialists say does not exist.

Dr. Douglas Wigle, director of the hospital's cardiovascular unit and head of the research team, said at the opening Wednesday of a $100,000 extension to the unit that the 10-year controversy revolved around a disease known as muscular subaortic stenosis.

The disease results in a narrowing caused by muscle beneath the aortic valve, the gateway from the left ventricle of the heart to the body's main artery, the aorta.

The disease can only be seen by watching the action of a living heart on cine x-ray film after dye has been injected to provide contrast material—a recent development in diagnostic techniques.

Some heart specialists claim the disease does not exist, but suspected victims have died of other heart conditions. They claim the x-ray appearance has resulted from accidental contents mixing the end of the tube carrying the dye into the wall of the heart chamber.

Dr. Wigle said his team's research, begun seven years ago, shows the disease does exist, can be successfully treated and is not familial.

Cause of the disease is unknown, but the wall between the two chambers of the heart becomes thickened and bulges into the left chamber. The left chamber pumps blood through the body, and the bulge creates a constriction, severely hampering blood flow.

The rest of the chamber wall thickens as a result, of the extra work involved in pushing the blood out through the narrowed passage. Muscle fibres of a heart afflicted with the disease are 10 times larger than normal.

A vertical incision an inch long and a half an inch deep is made in the thickened muscle below the aortic valve in treatment of the disease.

Dr. Wigle said six of the heart forces the healed incision open, giving room for blood flow and relieving pressure on the ventricle wall.

Some people are born with the disease, and Dr. Wigle; while others appear to develop it in later life. He told of one Saskatchewan family in which 10 youngsters died of the disease. When one member of a family is treated, other members are examined and often found to have the disease.

Fireman's Dance Successful Event

DESERONTO — Last week's Fireman's Dance was a success in every sense of the word. Everyone received invitation was accepted, and everybody had fun dancing to the music supplied by Jim Bosley in Napanee who has a fine collection of records.

All proceeds will go to swell the fund for Christmas treats, when the firemen play Santa Claus to every local child, and to all their younger brothers and sisters in Deseronto and visit the nursing homes and the shut-ins as well. Additional funds are raised through bingo, and through donations.

This is only one of the various civic projects engaged in by this active group of 15 men. This summer they built a barbeque in Centennial Park large enough to be used by groups, such as Boy Scouts or other large parties.

Major Revolt Facing Wilson Over Creating Jobless Pool

LONDON (AP) — A major revolt erupted inside the governing Labor party today against the government's austerity policies.

More than 70 Labor MPs signed a motion seeking an immediate change in the government's employment program.

This program envisages a rising level of unemployment this winter, partly to keep down imports and partly to encourage industrial mobility.

Political sources said he offered the rebels a debate on employment policy behind the closed doors of the Labor caucus room two weeks from now. They rejected this attempt to take the heat out of the issue and went ahead with their motion.

The revolt presents a more than usually serious challenge to Wilson because the rebels are not confined to the party's militant left wing. They include right wing members from the trade unions and veteran party workers like Emmanuel Shinwell.

Behind the revolt lies a speech in Argentina Oct. 5 by Sir Leslie O'Brien, governor of the state-owned Bank of England. He argued that Britain needed a higher and permanent pool of unemployment if new industries and developing areas are to get the men they need.

The speech brought protests at the time. Only the day before, at Labor's annual conference, Wilson himself had pledged that the party remains wedded to full employment.

In the Commons Tuesday, however, Chancellor of the Exchequer Roy Jenkins's views and backed up O'Brien's view and said they represent government policy.

Many Laborites were openly saying Wednesday night they had been tricked—that Wilson must have known when giving his pledge Oct. 4 what his head banker would be saying Oct. 5.

Michael Foot, leftist sponsor of the rebel motion, said he will seek to bring it under Commons debate today. Parliamentary experts said his chances of succeeding are slim but that the government may eventually be obliged to yield debating time.

The motion concentrates its fire on Callaghan. It asks the House to say it "deplores and repudiates the approval given by the chancellor of the exchequer to the governor of the Bank of England's advocacy of a permanent pool of unemployment, and demands a swift return to the Labor party's election pledge of full employment."

If the motion were pressed to a Commons vote and carried, the government would normally be obliged to resign. This possibility is remote, however, since the rebels know what national elections now would lose many of them their Commons seats.

Mr. Meltzer on Real Estate
"What's Your Problem"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

Many readers have written, expressing disenchantment with small apartment houses they've bought. They expected good investments, however, provided the true nature of their operations is understood.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: Is there something I'm overlooking and can you tell me what mistakes, if any, I'm making.

I'm a careful man. For two years I read every book and article on the subject. They all said that a carefully selected, small apartment building was a good investment for one of modest income. I found an old-fashioned apartment house, but first I had an appraiser and an accountant check it out.

The previous owner is supposed to have made 40 per cent on his cash investment. After one year of operation, my return is 3 per cent, even though I have a top real estate broker managing the property. Where am I going wrong? — Mr. K.

ANSWER: I suspect most writers who keep recommending small apartment houses have never owned one — otherwise, they would temper their enthusiasm.

A small apartment house shows a good investment return as a rule, only if the owner undertakes some of the functions of management and maintenance. If one walks away from the building and does no work, turning the property over to an absentee management, then the investment results are usually unsatisfactory. This has been my experience.

The explanation is that, unlike large apartments, the small one is designed to function with the owner doing such chores as collecting the rents, cutting grass, minor maintenance, keeping his own records, etc.

Then, large investment returns are possible. But, most important, prospective owners must be warned that these services are necessary to achieve high investment returns.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: Many years ago, I gave my brother the deed to my house for safekeeping. When his estate was settled, we looked through all of his personal papers, but could find no trace of the deed. Am I in trouble? — Mr. U.

ANSWER: You can be assured the one who has the deed or has found the deed has a worthless piece of paper. Your ownership is recorded in the applicable registry of deed office in your county. You can replace the lost deed by getting a true or certified copy.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: We are considering buying an eight-family apartment house and would like to save the expense of an appraisal. I have been told that the value of an apartment house should be five times the annual rent revenue. Is this true — Mr. P.

ANSWER: I have checked the last 60 apartment house sales in my area and have found that their prices run from about 1 is 12 times their annual rent roll. As an expert, I am trying to tell you there is no special number, even though many brokers and buyers think such a magic figure exists. It all depends on age, location, condition, financing, type of property and other factors.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: The Lord was very unfair to man when He took a rib from Adam and created Eve. You can tell, I don't care much for women.

I am a contented, 72-year-old bachelor and pride myself on the fact that no woman has ever crossed my threshold for 40 years. I want to keep it that way, even after I'm gone. Can I create a deed restriction prohibiting females from ever living my house? — Mr. M.

ANSWER: I disagree with your attitude toward women — some of my best friends are female. But, like Voltaire, I'll defend your rights to think as you do. I have shown your question to several attorneys. Not only do they disagree with you, but they also disagree among themselves as to the legality of your request. I am told there is no firm legal precedent, either sustaining or negating your desire. They all agree, however, it would make an interesting Supreme Court case.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: Suppose I were fortunate enough to own every mortgage in the United States. How much would I be worth? — Mr. S.

ANSWER: About 350 billion dollars.

Mr. Meltzer welcomes your letters and comments. Unfortunately he is unable to enter into personal correspondence with readers, but will attempt to answer as many letters as possible through his column.

Sharp Says He Will Boost Taxes This Month

OTTAWA (CP) — The government will introduce temporary tax increases later this month, Finance Minister Sharp told the Commons today.

Mr. Sharp, in a brief statement, said the step is being taken as part of the program to check inflation. Prices and costs have been increasing at rates which "clearly require some restraint."

Boosting taxes would be a "better and fairer" means of raising the money, than by increasing government borrowing, the minister added.

Mr. Sharp also said that if medical care insurance, scheduled to be made available to the provinces next year, entails a further federal outlay, new tax levies will be made to meet its cost.

"We will not increase our borrowing to finance it."

Mr. Sharp did not say in what areas the tax increases will be made.

He told MPs that the government plans to hold net cash requirements in the next fiscal year to $750,000,000, less than half the cash requirement for the current year ending next March 31.

Crucial Partnership

Vital co-operation between city of Belleville and Sidney township in pinning down community college site is symbolized by Mayor Jack Ellis (right) and Reeve Ernest Kells. Both men headed twin council sessions last night which agreed to service site west of city — as required in brief here being viewed by both municipal leaders before closed-door meeting.

City, Sidney Agree To Service College

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

A good-neighbor deal has ensured location of Loyalist community college in the immediate Belleville area.

Last night a joint meeting of Sidney township council and Belleville city council signed an agreement to service a site for the college, ending months of speculation on location of the project.

It is comprised of six different properties and the land parcel totals more than 100 acres.

Full details have not been released by the college board of governors, which, presumably, is awaiting formal Ontario government consent before making an official announcement.

However, Judge J. C. Anderson, chairman of a property sub-committee of governors, assumed approval will be shortly forthcoming from Education Minister William Davis.

"The matter is on the Minister's desk . . . we anticipate consent," said the judge after attending last night's city hall meeting.

Government approval has been awaited since mid - summer, when the site — one of several viewed throughout the Quinte district — was approved by the college governors.

At that time, the board optioned the needed properties and sent its request for approval to Toronto.

Last night's closed - door meeting took less than an hour. Both councils passed bylaws agreeing to supply the site with

MONROE, Mich. (CP) — A $120,000,000 nuclear reactor near this community downriver from Detroit is out of action because somebody dropped a piece of metal in it.

The reactor will remain idle for several months as a result of that small item.

There have been published reports that the metal is, of all things, a beer can. The general plant manager, Walter J. McCarthy, denied this.

The facility, the Enrico Fermi nuclear reactor, has been out of operation for 13 months and McCarthy said it will take about four more months of work to get it going again.

The work is aimed, he said, at fishing the piece of metal out of the reactor chamber. The piece is a bit of sheet metal eight inches long and three inches wide.

McCarthy said the metal apparently was left in the reactor chamber during construction and was overlooked when the chamber was inspected.

The reactor, which in layman's terms is designed to produce more fuel than it consumes, broke down after a 32-hour test.

McCarthy said the metal sheet had clogged the flow of metallic sodium, which is used to carry the reactor's heat to the section where it is generated into steam, which, in turn, is converted to electricity.

Because of the clogging, the heat began accumulating and partially melted two uranium fuel elements, causing an automatic shutdown.

In searching for the cause, 120 tons of sodium were removed and placed in storage tanks. A special camera was used to photograph the inside of the reactor.

McCarthy said the reactor will have another test run after the sheet is removed and repairs, if necessary, are made.

The reactor is designed to produce 63,500 kilowatts, which will be fed into power lines owned by Detroit Edison. The utility is the major company participating in the reactor's development.

The plant has had technical problems since its construction began in 1956.

Bomb Rips Man Charged With Securities Fraud

TORONTO (CP) — Police today said Myer Rush, badly injured in the explosion of a time bomb in his hotel room, was revived in hospital after his heart had stopped beating at 11 a.m. today.

The cessation of the heartbeat had led to reports that Rush was dead.

Rush, a business man and promoter, was to have appeared in court at 9 a.m. today on a $100,000,000 stock fraud charge.

He was reported in poor condition at noon after undergoing an hours-long operation. Explosion of the bomb beneath his bed in a sixth-floor room of the Sutton Place Hotel left him with extensive injuries to his chest and face.

Seconds after the blast sent glass and debris flying into downtown Bay Street, firemen responded to alarm bells and broke down the door to Rush's blazing room.

It was the second time in less than a year that mob-like tactics have been used on Rush, 45, an occasional stock promoter.

Last Feb. 20 he was beaten with a baseball bat and needed 80 stitches for cuts.

The time bomb was placed under his mattress just about where his head would fall in sleep, police said. It was set to go off at 3:42 a.m.

Arson and bomb squad detectives said it appeared to be an alarm clock type wrapped in masking tape with two feet of wires leading to a detonator cap.

Rush had been living at the hotel, one of the newest and poshest apartment-hotels in Toronto, for several months.

Rush and lawyer Joseph Williams, 43, were charged last June 21 following investigations by the Ontario Securities Commission and the Securities and Exchange Commission in the U.S.

Manuel Britstone, 49, of Toronto also was charged as a preliminary hearing into the case came to a close.

Britstone pleaded guilty to the stock fraud charges and was sentenced to a year in jail and fined $10,000.

The charges were laid in connection with activities in British Overseas Mutual, Funds Corp. and Darien Co. S.A.

The $100,000,000 is the total value of all stock in the two Panama-based companies and not the value of shares actually sold.

Apollo and Surveyor Both Score Successes

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (Reuters) — U.S. spacemen stood a giant step closer to the moon today after the successful test of an unmanned Apollo spacecraft and a perfect lunar landing by Surveyor VI.

The unmanned Surveyor touched down gently on the moon's surface at 8:01 p.m. EST Thursday and within an hour was sending pictures of a cliff which scientists described as "the most rugged feature we have yet seen on the moon."

The Apollo command module, in which Americans will eventually ride to the moon, splashed down in the Pacific eight hours, 36 minutes and 54 seconds after being launched Thursday on the maiden flight of a towering Saturn V rocket.

Government Seeks Writ to Ban Inquest Into Airmen's Deaths

By ROGER WORTH
Staff Reporter

The federal department of justice has petitioned the Ontario supreme court for a writ of prohibition to stop a coroner's inquest into an air crash which claimed the lives of six airmen.

The crash occurred on April 28 near Canadian Forces Base Trenton.

The move to "quash" Dr. J. Russell Scott's inquest will be heard next Friday, November 17 at Osgoode Hall in Toronto.

The writ says the government is trying to prohibit the inquest on two main grounds: That a provincial coroner has no jurisdiction in a federal matter and that national security regulations forbid service personnel from disclosing information on national defence operations and equipment.

Last night Dr. Scott claimed there is a lack of communications between the authorities and himself.

"I was not aware that the hearing was re-scheduled for next Friday," he said.

"I can't say anything about the issue since it's before the courts. I'm just playing by the rules," the Hastings County coroner said.

At the June 28 inquest into the crash in Belleville Dr. Scott told the five-man jury he had suspended an air force "closed door" inquiry at CFB Trenton immediately after the crash, but armed forces administration orders prohibited the information from being made public.

"Unfortunately, or fortunately, this matter has to face a public pronouncement at some time," he told the jurors.

The Hastings county coroner claims it is his duty under the Ontario Coroner's Act to hold an inquest into any death from unnatural causes. "Once called an inquest can only be set aside by a court ruling," he said.

The federal writ to be heard next week is accompanied by an affidavit from Wing Commander Robert Talt, assistant judge advocate for the armed forces in the Ontario region.

The affadavit claims the fatal crash was "completely investigated" by a board of inquiry, attended by Dr. Scott.

Belleville lawyer K. G. M. Ross is representing the federal department of justice at the Osgoode Hall hearing.

Fraser Enters Race

A Trenton councillor for four years, D. R. Fraser, has announced he is in the running for the mayor's office.

Councillor Fraser, 38, has served as chairman of council's finance committee for the past two years.

He is a governor of Loyalist College of Applied Arts and Technology, a vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, and a member of the Trenton Housing Authority.

Meanline, Mayor James MacDonald, now completing his eighth year in office, says he won't formally announce his election plans until later.

Councillor Duncan McDonald, an unsuccessful mayoralty candidate in 1965, is rumored as a third possible candidate for the office this election.

Building with Bricks

Workmen get high off the ground on Front Street laying bricks for the north wall of the future Reward Shoe store. Work on the building has been going on since the summer.

$1,600,000 Assessment Increase

Despite a loss of approximately $1,000,000 as result of a re-assessment of downtown business properties, the city of Belleville will see an increase in assessment of close to $1,600,000 for the year 1967.

This is indicated in the quarterly administration report of city manager J. R. Reynolds, given this week to city council.

The report noted that the total value added to the collector's roll for the first nine months of the year amounts to $2,849,380 of which $1,790,850 was added during July, August and September.

Taxable value of the property as of September 30, but subject to reconciliation and revision, amounts to $108,150,300, with exempt property in the amount of $26,718,900.

The city assessment roll this year contains a total of 14,983 entries, the assessment department headed by supervisor Leighton Thompson sending out a total of 12,402 in the mail.

In the three month period ending Sept. 30 the city building inspector reported 88 building permits issued with a total building value of $1,020,275. Included were 87 new building dwelling units with a value of $267,000, new commercial construction amounting to $249,000 and new industrial values of $262,000.

From the city tax office the city manager reported a reduction in property tax arrears since January. The amount outstanding at Sept. 30 for 1965 and prior years was $326,308.80 compared with $375,589 in January this year.

Of the above amount $220,363.56 is for 1965, $85,363.20 for 1965, and $20,469.82 for 1964 and prior years.

The amount outstanding at the first of the year was $375,589. Mr. Reynolds expressed the hope that at the end of the year tax arrears would be less than last year due to a follow - up collection system being implemented by the city treasurer.

At the end of September there was an amount of $920,351 outstanding in 1967 property taxes, a figure which was said should be substantially reduced following the last instalment of taxes on Oct. 30.

Mayor Jack Ellis Advocates Regional Govt. in District

CARRYING PLACE — Mayor Jack Ellis of Belleville is in an address to the Trenton Lions Club here last night pictured Belleville, Trenton and adjacent townships under one administration and one industrial commissioner selling the whole Quinte region of 65,000 people instead of a city of 33,000. "He'd have a solid sales pitch to sell and would sell it, too, Mayor Ellis speculated.

Mayor Ellis said it was the responsibility of municipal administrators in the district to guide citizens into the ways of a broader concept of government. "I believe, fervently" in regional government as a means of eliminating the majority of municipal ills.

Calling for action on the proposed transformation he said it was useless to wait for the provincial government to pass mandatory legislation in this regard. He referred to a recommendation of the Smith report calling for the province to be consolidated into 16 regional areas including the Quinte regional area. He visualized Belleville, Trenton and related towns, villages and townships would be encompassed in a sort of Metro under a general type government within boundaries decided by economic status rather than historical background. "Fred Gilmour is to do with expansion and towns exist in Belleville and Trenton can be magnified in proportion in Sidney township because there was little or no planning in the past," he said.

Mayor Ellis said adoption of the central form of government with standard policies and practices would curb duplication of services and give birth to many other advantages.

Manager Says Capital Works Should Be on Priority Basis

Current high interest rates which are expected to continue for some time could result in city capital works being carried out on a strictly priority basis.

City manager J. R. Reynolds in his quarterly administration report told council this week that works must be absolutely essential to the future growth of the city should take precedence over other projects which could be deferred.

Mr. Reynolds said that in July of this year the city sold $1,255,340 worth of debentures in the United States at what was termed a "reasonably good interest rate of 6¼ percent."

Since then another $400,000 worth of works projects had been completed but because of the extremely high interest rates now prevailing and the poor condition of the bond market, agents have advised this would be an inopportune time for the city to issue further debentures.

Mr. Reynolds said that to realize $98.00 per $100 in Canadian funds it would require a coupon rate of between 7½ and 7¾ percent. The United States market also was said to be poor and would require an interest rate of at least 5 per cent to realize slightly less than par value.

This, he said, in no way reflected a change in the financial position of the city on the contrary it was pointed out this indicated the high cost of financing being encountered by all municipalities."

Veterans Ready For Parade To Cenotaph

The Veterans of Belleville and district will parade on Saturday, Nov. 11th to the Remembrance Service at the Station Street Cenotaph. All Veterans whether or not they belong to any of the local Veterans organizations are invited to attend the parade, that will start from the Armories at 10.35 a.m. Fall in will be 10.55 a.m. Four bands will take part in the parade; Duke of Edinburgh Branch of the A.N. and A.F. Association pipe band, Br. 99 - Royal Canadian Legion Trumpet Band, the Canadian Forces Base band from the Department of Transport, at Trenton and the local Sea Cadets are the bands that will be taking part. Veterans are requested to wear berets, medals, blazers if possible. The following are the Ministers that will be taking part Dr. the Rev. H. M. Davis, Major the Venerable A. E. McConnell M.B.E., C.D., Rev. E. Gritter and Envoy Bram Hoogendoorn, padre for Branch 99 of the Royal Canadian Legion. The Salvation Army band will play for the two hymns, "O God our help in ages Past," and "Abide With Me" and the National Anthem. The last post will be sounded by Bandsman Doug Mason, the Lament by Pipe Major Ken McNevin. Boy Scouts Sea Cadets and a detachment from the Trenton Air Station will also take part in the parade, as well as the Air Cadets.

Smaller Type of Rink Than Arena Advocated

Despite the fact that city council turned down his recommendation on Monday, Alderman T. A. Carruthers still feels Belleville should take a look at the smaller type artificial ice rinks being constructed in Kingston at a cost of $145,000 each.

"Such small rinks would provide the needed ice time for minor hockey and for public skating and would not effect the eventual construction of an arena complex in Belleville," says Ald. Carruthers.

The Belleville aldermen Monday night recommended that the city parks and recreation commission and special arena committee take a look see at the Kingston rinks after council voted to table the controversial arena complex proposal for consideration by the 1968 council.

The alderman said two small rinks were being built in Kingston, one of them now built and the other underway.

The fully enclosed metal clad structures are 210 by 90 feet with an artificial ice surface of 175 by 75 feet. Washrooms, change rooms, an upstairs meeting hall 24 by 90 feet, and limited bleacher area, are provided.

City parks board Chairman Ald. Don Williams claims such rinks were investigated by his committee but said they would not meet city requirements.

And Mayor J. R. Ellis said a similar type rink was built at Campbellford. "It cost considerably more than $145,000 — and you wouldn't want it," he told council.

But Alderman Carruthers still feels they would fill a need in Belleville.

"We could build one rink on the fairgrounds and another in the east end of the city," he says.

"And we already have the money in the budget to build them."

Faulty Wiring Believed Cause Of Car Fire

A 1954 Pontiac was completely burned Thursday afternoon on Concession Road, four miles north of Madoc. Damage to the automobile was $1,500.

Police described the car as "absolutely gutted". Owned by Frank Robinson of R.R.1, Madoc, it was being driven by his wife, Irene Robinson, at the time of the incident.

Mrs. Robinson was driving down the road when she noticed smoke starting to seep into the car. The fire was believed to have started in the wiring of the vehicle.

There were no injuries.

TAX Collector J. Grohn told council at Monday's meeting that he would have actual figures on tax collections in about 16 days time.

Last year 90.8 per cent of the tax levy was collected by the end of the year. This collection was considered "fairly good" but in the opinion of Mr. Reynolds is still not good enough. He said the city should strive for a tax collection of not less than 95 per cent of the tax levy.

Blasts Arena Opponents

Ald. Ken Soden Calls Pledges "Pre-election Opportunism"

Any rosy glow given off from pledges by city aldermen to a community centre fund dissipated yesterday in a withering blast from a prime mover of the project.

An angry Alderman Ken Soden voluntarily lashed offers of subscriptions from fellow councillors in say private, corporate fund as "pre-election opportunism."

At the same time, the city councillor deposited a "no-strings - attached" $500 cheque with the city treasury toward any public arena fund.

The deposit matched in money the promise of Ald. Enos David to pledge $500 to a corporate fund which would build a new recreation complex.

It was Ald. David's offer Wednesday — verbally matched by Ald. Arthur Keegan — that drew their fellow-councillor's ire along with $500 from his personal bank account.

..Ald. Soden—one of the moving council forces to secure a new centre—noted the David offer was not a donation, but a pledge of up to $500 to buy voting shares in a corporate group raising funds.

Other conditions cited by Ald. David required donation of a site by the city and the raising of "substantial" grants from senior governments.

Ald. Soden, who earlier this week said he was not, considering re-election, named councillors Keegan, Allin and David in his strongly-worded critique.

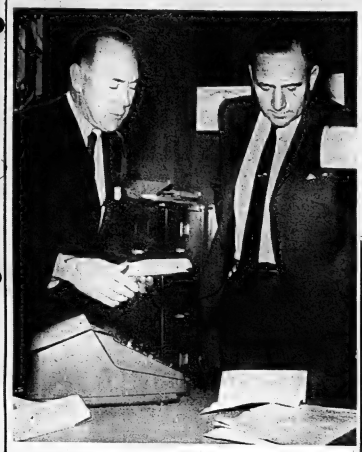
"I've been sick in my stomach just thinking of this deliberate attempt by some councillors to deceive the public just prior to the city elections," said Ald. Soden. "I can't ignore it just because I'd not intended to stand for re-election."

Ald. David, he said, had not pledged $500 to a new arena, but expressed willingness to invest in voting shares of a corporation—"not yet formed" and which he knows could never be formed to issue shares to the public and receive money from the city. The city cannot join in a corporation with individuals investing money."

"And as for substantial funds from senior governments — what an out that is," retorted the councillor. "'Substantial' in whose opinion?"

He charged that councillors David, Keegan and Allin "know this idea is impossible — it could never take place, so they make political hay and it hasn't cost them a cent!"

He said in a Thursday morning open-line program on Radio Station CJBQ Ald. David "as usual tried to be on each side of the fence," in "expounding" on the issue.



Ald. Soden charged "the very ones" involved in "saddling council with confusion, unnecessary delays and ridiculous issues" were now attempting to make political hay.

"The men who've attempted to sabotage this project, now that the climate of public opinion isn't consistent with their political attitudes, are now trying to capitalize on the very issue they've been opposing," said Ald. Soden.

Ald. Soden handed his certified cheque to city treasurer John Grohn at the city official's office this morning.

"I attach no strings to my gift," Ald. Soden emphasized, as he deposited the donation with Mr. Grohn.

However, he added, "as I understand all members of council are suddenly in favor (of the centre) . . . or so they now say, my gift is to a new community centre building construction of which must commence within the term of the next council, that is, before Dec. 31, 1969.".

$500 Gift – Ald. Soden, City Treasurer Grohn

Remembrance Day

The relative peace the world enjoys today was bought at a formidable price on the field of battle in the two great wars of 1914-18 and 1939-45.

Many today decry the handling of world affairs by the statesmen of our time. Young people prattle about making love and not war, forgetting that war is basic to human nature, and that it stems from the need to preserve prestige and self-esteem, spheres of influence and beliefs without which men simply are not men.

The more than 100,000 Canadians who died in the two wars gave their lives so that those who came after might live in peace and freedom. And while the world has tottered many times on the brink of a third war, the fact is nearly a quarter-of-a-century has elapsed without the big powers becoming involved in outright conflict.

In realistic terms, peace has been preserved by the climate of fear created by the threat of nuclear calamity. As Britain's Harold Macmillan once said: "War happily has become too dangerous." Vietnam and the Middle East of course are different. Conventional wars, they still are the kind of outbreaks that must be contained lest they do lead to a wider and much more serious confrontation.

Tomorrow, the dead of two wars, from Canada and other lands, will be remembered. They fought a tyranny which, but for their going out to face it, would hold dominion over us today. We should remember that tomorrow — and on all our tomorrows when we tend to forget just how much freedom is enjoyed by this and other countries of the Western world.

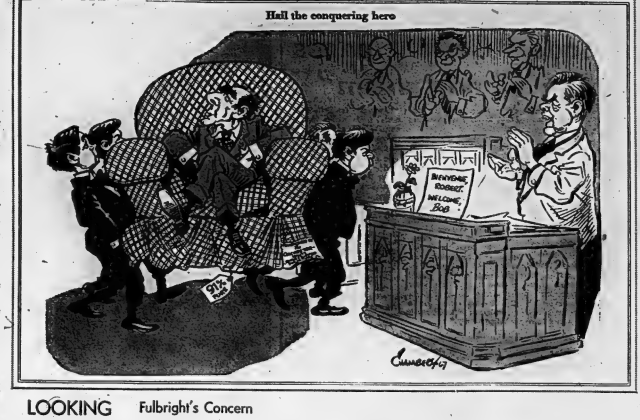
Big City Problems

The vacuum left by Expo is having inevitable repercussions in Montreal. One of the incidental achievements of Expo was that it diverted attention from the city's traditional pattern of crime. Not that the shootings and holdups ceased, but Expo itself was virtually free of serious incidents of any kind and was an example of communal and international harmony on a large scale.

The conclusion of Expo, however, seems to have been the signal for an acceleration in the activities of Montreal's virulent underworld. Three more violent robberies have been reported in the city this week. As it is, there have been holdups at 76 branches of chartered banks and six credit union branches, with a total haul of about $650,000 this year alone.

The past three were 40 holdups which netted $320,000. The trend therefore is upward. One of the latest incidents had a seasonal flavor — it involved a $25,000 robbery of a bus company and the theft of 100 engines for snowmobiles.

Police are said to be working on "preventive operations and security measures." But these should have been taken long ago. With Expo over, more men are available for routine police work. So too are the additional personnel hired for the period of the exhibition.



Another disquieting factor is a steep increase in shooting incidents, some of them involving innocent bystanders wounded by police. Last month a St. Laurent housewife died after being hit by a stray police bullet. And only recently a young girl was hit by a bullet fired by a railway policeman during a chase in Central station.

From Montreal to Toronto, where the authorities wrestle with problems of a less violent but nonetheless difficult nature. While Montreal has its gunmen, Toronto suffers from the aimless decadence of the "flower-children," or hippies.

Over the head of the hippies' arch enemy, Controller Allan Lamport, Toronto city council has decided to donate $5,000 to the rehabilitation of Yorkville youth. The money will go to a church-sponsored organization working among the hippies, but Mr. Lamport thinks (and he is probably right) this will simply attract more hippies to the area. "They want to get their bare feet off the sidewalk for the winter, that is all there is to it," he said.

Montreal and Toronto have little in common at any time. Even their social aberrations are different — violence on the one hand and a cult of degeneracy on the other. Both are matters for concern. Perhaps the only way bank robbers will be foiled is by placing guards on all bank establishments, while a couple of years in the army should work wonders for the hippies.

Dean Rusk Stands Firm On Vietnam

Christian Science Monitor

Someone around the shop was recalling the days when Washington reporters complained that Secretary of State Dean Rusk seldom gave a vigorous, resounding response. He had been too long head of the Rockefeller Foundation, and boards of giant foundations learn to give cautious answers, it was alleged.

Now Secretary Rusk has become the most eloquent defender of the President's Vietnam policy in the entire Cabinet. He has replied forcefully to one congressional critic. He has roundly scolded the anti-war intellectuals — he who is a Rhodes Scholar with degrees from a dozen universities.

Mr. Rusk remains one of the most respected, admired individuals in official Washington, even by those who sharply disagree with him. On Vietnam his dander is up, his convictions strong, his caution scattered to the winds. No newsman is saying these days that the press simply is a matter of platitudes from a Rusk press conference.

Fulbright's Concern

Presidential Powers Subject of Debate by Senate

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — That loud noise in the U.S. Senate is from the barn door that alarmed when the horses trotted away.

In this case the barn door was the overwhelming approval given President Johnson in the Tonkin Gulf resolution of 1964 to use whatever force he thought necessary to stop Communist aggression in Southeast Asia. The vote was 88 to 2.

The horse that got loose is the war in Vietnam. Now a horde of senators are unhappy about this dragged-out war which they authorized if President Johnson thought it necessary.

They could have had no doubt in 1964 that the resolution might lead the United States into war. That it could do just that was made clear to them by Senator J. W. Fulbright, the man who captained the measure through to approval.

He told them it could happen before they voted. But Fulbright, who has been all over the lot on how much power a president should have in foreign affairs, now is for curbing the president.

The U.S. constitution never has given a president a completely free hand in the foreign field. But about the only real restriction it puts on him is this: Any treaty he makes with a foreign power must be approved by two-thirds of the Senate.

Dealing with the Senate this way was often painful. To make life easier for themselves presidents eventually began making executive agreements with other countries. They had the effect of treaties but didn't need a two-thirds Senate vote.

But when it came to using U.S. forces overseas for one reason or another, presidents often got congressional approval. Often they didn't.

Johnson didn't ask Congress for an okay when he sent troops into the Dominican Republic's revolution in 1965 but he did get congressional approval, through the Tonkin resolution, before using troops in Vietnam.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, has proposed his own resolution which he wants it to approve. This one would say a "national commitment" to another country by a president must be approved by Congress as a treaty or in some other declaration.

But, as noted, Johnson acted precisely for such approval before the Vietnam war began. Yet, what is a "national commitment"? Those words are made of rubber. They could be used to apply to almost anything a president might undertake with a foreign power.

Some members of Fulbright's committee want to water down his resolution, saying no more than perhaps something like this: That a president must get congressional approval before he uses U.S. troops overseas, although again this is what Johnson did.

Whatever resolution the Senate approves, it will be no more than an expression of how the Senate would like the president to act. It doesn't have the effect of law and any president could ignore it.

One way the Senate could really put the screws on Johnson would be to rescind the Tonkin resolution approved three years ago. But even Fulbright isn't suggesting that and if he did, it probably would go no place.

Turkish Girl's A Hit As Brides

Montreal Gazette

Erik Eriksson of Sweden got the idea during a visit to Turkey. Turkish girls, he decided, would make ideal wives for North American men.

"Western girls are often demanding and hard to please," he says. "They become bossy wives. Young men dream of a submissive bride whose only ambition in life is to love and obey. Turkish girls are the answer to this prayer."

He was certain the market was there. Could he guarantee to supply it? Advertisements in local Turkish papers assured him he could. He was flooded with replies.

"I am a big soft beauty," wrote one 21-year-old whose Turkish name means "Nightingale." "I will wait upon my husband kindly, meet eyes and be his obedient plaything."

Nightingale is now married to a Swedish engineer who says, "My first wife told me every day what I had to year. Now I have a wife who doesn't wear the trousers."

Eriksson now has 3,000 Turkish girls, between 19 and 25, signed up for marriage to Western men. To supply a "submissive bride," he charges a brokerage fee of $250.

It is doubtful, though, if Eriksson's project will be really successful until he adds an insurance clause.

Once at home in North America for how long will his Turkish brides remain "submissive?"

Author of Its Own Misfortune

London Daily Mail

A great disaster has fallen upon Egypt. The loss of the oil refineries at Suez will almost certainly bring privations to an already undernourished people.

Pity for their coming ordeal is mingled with wonder at the incredible ineptitude which has brought it upon them. The blame must rest on President Nasser. It must have become clear to the Russians and to Mr. George Brown that they are backing an implacable loser.

U. S. Got Expo 67 Message

Life Magazine

Great fairs leave their mark. The Paris Exposition of 1889 planted the Eiffel Tower on the face of a city. Expo 67 changed the aspect of a country. For outsiders, especially Americans ignorant of anything north of the border except Mounties and lumberjacks, Expo was a revelation. For Canadians, Expo was even more. It helped change their view of themselves and gave them a new appreciation of their capabilities.

Big Swains Of Brunei

Ottawa Citizen

What are young men to do in Brunei, where there is a girl shortage? Brunei's youth thought they had found an answer when they wrote to Hong Kong magazines in search of female pen friends, hoping postal friendship would lead to courtship and perhaps a more lasting relationship. But, alas, Mao Tse-tung's supporters got into the act. They promptly mailed to the lonely youths portraits and sayings of Mao Tse-tung. Chairman Mao's ardent supporters just don't realize that their ideal doesn't quite fit the bill when a man is looking for a bride.

The British Answer...

To Urban Crowding, Affluence—and Tension

Pat Wheelen in
The Windsor Star

When the American dream of land and food for everyone was coming true, a century and more ago, Americans developed a national ailment: indigestion. It came from eating too much corn and pork.

Now the American dream has produced another milestone. Most Americans have ample land, food, and money. And there is a new national ailment: nerves. It comes from too much affluence.

Canadians, who got into the dream business a bit later than Americans, never developed indigestion into a national preoccupation. But we're sharing, 100 per cent, in the American nightmare of nerves.

One of the big issues in the next decade and more in North America is going to be the so-called "humanizing" of cities. As more and more people become urban dwellers, more and more tensions develop, more and more pressures are felt, more and more nervous systems collapse, and more and more experts try to find out what's wrong.

Soum not the sociologists who speak of urban tensions and stress and so on. They are making the first steps toward studying a real problem that is going to get worse. Governments will ultimately be drawn more and more into this field.

But to be honest, let's also remember that the main problems of big-city life are the result of affluence. And let's be thankful that we can afford the time to worry about our nerves.

Sixty-odd years ago, the majority of city dwellers couldn't devote much time to worrying about tensions. They were too busy worrying about how to make a living. They spent too much time keeping a roof over their heads to worry about what effect the roof was having on their personalities.

Now that we have so few worries about being hungry, we have the time to worry about being tense.

It's true that cities are now much larger and life in cities much more complicated and rushed, than used to be the case. But it's also true that cities have fewer slum and semi-slum areas and more green space, than there used to be.

It's ironic that the very instrument of deliverance from old-time city evils, the automobile, has also played a big part in the development of the new evil. Very few city dwellers nowadays can get out of the city by car or bus. This should relieve the feeling of being locked in that so many people have. But the automobile, with its noise, exhaust and danger, is also one of the main causes of city tension.

It's good to see these problems coming under intensive study, and also good to know that we have the luxury of time to study them and the wealth to solve them. Solved they will be, with the same acumen that turned this continent from a wilderness into what we have today, be it civilized society or urban jungle.

One good, easy, cheap lesson we might learn from the English, to whom over-crowding is not new in a long island with a huge population, with vastly overcrowded cities and towns, the English have managed to live in comfort, contentment and sanity.

The English solution is so simple as to be overlooked—common politeness.

When neighbors are all around you, when living is crowded, when it's almost impossible to get away from people, the English cultivate a sort of self-isolation. Patience, forbearance, reserve, consideration for others — the elements of so many jokes about the English, Politeness may be laughable, but it works.

City Bus Driver's Concern for Passengers

Editor,
The Intelligencer. . .

I wish to express my appreciation for the courtesy shown me by a city bus driver.

Recently I attended the travelogue at the Collegiate, and we were late getting out.

We took the bus in front of the court house and a car began to follow the bus around the entire route.

There were several young women on the bus and the driver expressed concern for their safety when they left the bus. I too became nervous as we approached my stop at Geddes Street. This is a very dark street — just one dim light in the block. The bus driver was kind enough to stop in front of my house and waited until I got in. The car also stopped.

I could not let this incident pass without expressing my appreciation for the kindness shown me, an elderly woman.

Chrysler Workers' Contract 'Fanning the Fires of Inflation'

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A union contract signed with Chrysler Corp. in Detroit that would eliminate the current wage disparity between Canadian and United States auto workers brought a warning from Montreal Thursday of the dangers of inflation.

W. M. Anderson, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, said in a statement that wage parity "at this time" only serves to "fan the fires of inflation."

"Inflationary pressures, if they remain unchecked, will damage our competitive position, threaten jobs and even lead to a lower standard of living for all citizens.

"Matters of productivity, wage rates and other related issues should finally be determined by Canadians for Canadians."

The three-year contract with Chrysler signed Wednesday provides for a step-by-step disappearance of a current 38-cent hourly wage disparity between Canadian and U.S. workers. Complete parity would be reached by June, 1970.

George Burt, Canadian director of the United Auto Workers, said wage parity for Canadian workers will put more money in the hands of consumers but it should not hurt the Canadian economy.

"My attitude towards inflation is to take a look at a company's profits which are so high there is no necessity to raise prices.

Mr. Burt said General Motors in Oshawa and Ford Motor Company of Canada Ltd. are expected to follow Chrysler's lead in future collective agreements and grant wage parity.

Last month, the president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, E. A. Rapholo of Toronto, said in a speech to the annual convention of the Canadian Export Association that wage parity will adversely affect Canadians.

Harry Simons, regional director of organization in Ontario for the Canadian Labor Congress, said Thursday the question of wage parity has been blown out of proportion.

"It is spectacular in some industries and not in others, but of course the other car manufacturers will have to follow suit," he said.

Pay in Canadian $$

DETROIT (CP)—Whether Canadian auto workers get true parity with American workers will depend on the rate of exchange between the dollars of the two countries.

A new agreement worked out here between the Chrysler Corp. and the United Auto Workers' union calls for parity in wage scales on snapshots on the word scales — between Canadian and American workers of the company by 1970.

Thus the Canadian scale will increase about $1 an hour after 3½ years. But the pay will be in Canadian dollars.

If the exchange difference between the two dollars continues the Canadian workery will still receive less than their American counterparts.

Drury: Parity Practical

OTTAWA (CP)—Industry Minister Drury said Thursday that wage parity between Canada and U.S. workers is practical — provided productivity is the same.

He was commenting on the contract signed between Chrysler Corp. and the United Auto Workers which will give Canadian Chrysler workers the same pay as their American counterparts within three years.

Asked at a news conference whether the agreement posed a dangerous precedent, Mr. Drury said he would first like to see whether productivity was one of the factors in the settlement.

In reply to another question, he said the federal government was not consulted before the agreement was signed.

Mayor Ellis later estimated the cost to be between $150,000 and $170,000. The city will pay 75 per cent of the municipal bill.

TORONTO (CP) — Prince Philip Thursday night called for the regulation of world food supplies and prices to help assure that nobody goes hungry.

The prince said the amount of land under cultivation is sufficient to meet world needs if the population remains stable and if modern farming and marketing methods are adopted.

However, the introduction of modern machinery and methods in some countries would put a large number of farmers out of work and upset long-established living patterns.

He spoke at a dinner in his honor. Attending were delegates to the first conference of the Royal Agricultural Society ever held in Canada. The dinner was given by the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair, only Canadian member of the 19-member organization.

Eleven countries attended.

Delegates from the United Kingdom, Africa, Australia and Canada listened to papers on mechanization in agriculture and fired an occasional question.

P. H. Southwell of the University of Guelph school of agriculture engineering suggested that a blanket application of fertilizers by aircraft would help overcome food shortages in many parts of the world.

Cure for Biting Is Too Severe

Dear Ann Landers: A neighbor of mine (a young father in his early twenties) came home from work last week and his two-and-a-half-year - old son ran out gleefully to meet him. The father ignored the boy and headed for the refrigerator to get himself a beer. The youngster who adores his dad felt very hurt and grabbed his dad around the leg and bit him.

The father bowled with pain, grabbed the child, threw him to the kitchen floor and bit him on the thigh. This was six days ago and the father's teeth marks are still clearly visible.

The man's wife believes this was an act of brutality on the part of the father and she told him (and everyone else on the block) that he was a beast. The father insists his method of dealing with the problem is a sure - fire way to break a child of biting. What do you think? — Flabbergasted

Dear Flab: If the father's teeth marks are still visible after six days, I would say he bit the kid much too hard, and shame on him. You may be surprised to know that many experts agree that a good way to cure a child of biting is to bite him back — but not too hard.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 24-year-old girl who recently met a fellow 23. Brian was unusually mature for his age and I was very much attracted to him. We spent four evenings together and then I went ahead and ruined everything. I think.

On our fourth date I was sure I was in love with Brian and that he felt the same way about me. He spoke about marriage. When he asked me to spend the night at his place I said yes.

He didn't try to con me. It was something we both wanted and I was confident he would not think less of me for it. We had a beautiful time and Brian promised to call the following day. I don't remember ever having been so happy in my entire life.

That was six days ago and I haven't heard from him. Right now I am sick with fear that I ruined what might have been the most meaningful relationship of my life.

How can I get this guy back? I want him so much I could die. I am not a tramp, Ann, I really care for this man. I need your advice.—The Queen of Fools

Dear Queen: I wish I could come up with some encouraging words but I'd be lying if I told you I thought you had a chance to get the guy back. The magic has vanished. In his book you are just another dame with round heels.

This experience need not be a total disaster if you will learn from it. Resolve never again to kid-yourself into believing that falling into bed is a shortcut to the altar.

Points for Parents

Mother: "Jenny has to stay in bed the rest of the week, and she's so bored in her room, I have to spend all day entertaining her."

A change of scenery and a different bed may be more restful for a convalescing child. Even old books or toys may seem more interesting in a different room.

Move Jenny to the sofa in the family room for part of the day — or put her in the master bedroom for a few hours—then back to her own bed.

Young Shy Girl Urged to Do Something

Dear Doris: Is it possible for a 15-year-old girl who: (1) is away from home and family, (2) has lost all faith in God, (3) is hopelessly in love with a guy who doesn't want to go steady, (4) can't dance or sing, (5) spends her leisure time knitting and reading, and (6) wishes she were dead, to be happy again?

Please, I am completely sane, and I am not stupid. I don't see how you can help, but thanks for reading this and seeing that your advice seems to help everyone else, maybe it can do something for me. — Unhappy With Life

Dear Unhappy: Oh, s u r e. We all go through agonies of one kind or another as we grow up. (And as we grow older, too!)

Many young people find faith shaken before they develop it for themselves. Most teens fall hopelessly in love. The girl away from home gets the book (of life) thrown at her a bit more violently, with no one to soften the shock.

You can learn to d a n c e, sing, talk and meet people with poise. Did you expect to come ready-made?

My private letter to you goes into actual first steps a bit more fully. Enclosed you will find my ten-cent leaflet about coping with shyness.

Don't just sit there knitting. Do something.

Dear Doris: Half the time when my three children are together there is some teasing and fighting going on. I don't believe in yelling at them and they are spanked only when they have done something quite bad. I prefer to have talks with them.

My neighbor can't understand this. She screams her head off at her children and sometimes spanks them. She complains to the other neighbors that we don't discipline our children.

Don't you think that such a person could come and talk it over instead of screaming something over the phone and hanging up? Shouldn't neighbors find out both sides of the story if they insist on taking sides?

Everyone is different, and if two neighbors can not get along by discussing things sensibly, how can two countries be expected to get along? All For Understanding.

Dear All: Not by screaming and yelling, and that's for sure. All Old Noisy did was let off some steam. Maybe it helped her — but how about your poor nerves — and feelings?

Never mind. You'll come off best in the long run. While her young 'uns are fleeing the nest in desperation, a few years hence, yours will still be talking over all the things that matter with mother.

A depression like yours is going to need help from outside of yourself, and m o r e than a letter from me. You roused yourself long enough to write h ill down; go another step and ask your family doctor to guide you to counseling.

Don't just muddle along. Do something about what's troubling you. A letter to Doris can put you on the w a y to m o r e Successful Living.

Teeners Are Coining New Phrases

By Reba & Bonnie Churchill

There's a word explosion going on, and teeners are right in the midst of it. They're coining new phrases faster than you can spell an infinitive. Doubt it? Then tune-in on the turn-on sounds teens are adding to the language. Their veral shorthand is so kinky (great), and the abbreviated p h r a s e s so groovy (terrific) that much of it is included in the new Random House Dictionary of the English Language. As actress Genadee Cook discovered, everything from a go-go to ye-ye is clearly listed and defined. Such capsule communication is designed to speed-up conversation.

Are you with it? Check the list of words accepted by the young set — vines, clobber, hoopy, tribe, kinky, gig, digs. Are you hip to their meaning? If you raise more than two, it's a give-away you're hoopy (out of it.) Vines and clobber refer to clothes, tribe describes a group of swingers, kinky has replaced super, if you don't know that digs means where you live, the same as pad or crib, there's no hiding it, man, you're over 25!

What are good sources for the young word makers? According to Stuart Flexner, senior editor of the dictionary, "Musicians, surfers, London's fad and fashion set, politicians, etc., offer much material." Jazz men introduced gig and up tight, which are now as conventional as their meanings, party and just fine. Surfers translated ocean waves to glass, Londoners gave us ducks for sweetheart, and politicians popularized such words as disadvantaged and generation gap. Flexner points out the teen trend towards softening the language. For example, bum, animal and fat are now complimentary, not critical descriptions.

P.S. Want to slim-down for the holidays and party season ahead? Write for the new, tested series of exercise designed to trim and firm. Designed for clock watchers, the schedule is photo-illustrated in our 12-page booklet. Enclose 20c and a self-addressed stamped envelope to: Reba & Bonnie Churchill, Clock Watcher's Guide to Slimness, c/o The Intelligencer, Room 1310, 80 King St. W., Toronto, Ontario.

QUESTION: When I was in hospital recently they told me I was deficient in iron and was to eat liver and other foods high in iron content. How can I make liver tempting and what else contains iron? — Maggie H.

ANSWER: I will give you a recipe for a liver dish that seems universally popular and will give you a sample list of the foods with high iron content.

LIVER BAKED IN CHILI SAUCE

1 lb. calves' or baby beef or beef or pork or chicken livers (see note below) flour
salt
1 cup chili sauce

NOTE: If you use calves' or baby beef or pork liver it should be thinly sliced — about 3 slices to the pound. Chicken livers may be left whole or cut in halves. Dredge liver pieces with flour and shake off excess. Place half in buttered loaf pan. Sprinkle sparingly with salt. Cover with half the chili sauce. Repeat. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. ½ hour. Do not overcook.

Couples Mark Anniversaries

DESERONTO — Two 25th anniversaries were celebrated in Deseronto last Saturday, marked in two different ways. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Reid of 273 Edmon St. invited members of their two families and a few intimate friends to spend the evening with them while Mr. and Mrs. Stanley McTaggart of Thomas St. were "At Home" to relatives and friends both afternoon and evening.

Howard Reid and Audrey Silver were married November 6th, 1942, in the Bay parsonage by Rev. A. C. McCallum. Their attendants were the bride's sister Phyllis, Mrs. Kenneth E. Valentyne, and her husband. They have lived nearly ever since in Deseronto, where Mr. Reid and his brother Donald own and operate a small fleet of long-distance-hauling transports.

Arrangements for the anniversary were made by their two daughters, Nancy, Mrs. Gary Tompkins, and Joyce, now Mrs. Robert Bernhardt, both living in Deseronto. Mr. and Mrs. Reid also have a son Douglas living at home. Refreshments were served buffet style during the evening and included the anniversary cake, Mr. Reid's relatives combined to present their son and his bride of 25 years with a 7-wind rocker and a Jane Miller painting, and Mrs. Reid's relatives presented them with artificial gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley McTaggart were "At Home" at their home on Thomas St. All arrangements were made by their daughter Esther, Mrs. Kenneth Wood, and her husband. They have two children at home, David and Debbie.

Pouring tea for the occasion were Mrs. Dorland Wood and Mrs. Floyd Hodge. The home was bright with all flowers and the anniversary cake. Many friends called throughout the afternoon and evening to offer their congratulations and best wishes.

Helen Histed and Stanley McTaggart were married by the Rev. Leach in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Histed of Deseronto. The bridegroom was a Napanee youth, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McTaggart. They have always lived in Deseronto where they are members of the Pentecostal Church.

The previous evening Mr. and Mrs. McTaggart were invited to spend the evening with Mr. and Mrs. Bryce Moore, and arrived to find many of the church members already there. There was an evening of fun, featuring a mock wedding with Ronald Miller representing the minister and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Day portraying the bride and bridegroom.

Along with good wishes of the Pentecostal Church members, Mr. and Mrs. McTaggart received from them a pole lamp and a thermo blanket.

Eldorado

PM Orders Ministers To Attend to Business

EDMONTON (CP) — Bitterly disappointed, Alberta Liberal Leader Mike Maccagno said Thursday Prime Minister Pearson's refusal to allow four cabinet ministers to attend the Alberta Liberal convention "can't help but have a bad effect on the party."

"This has got to hurt the Liberal party in Alberta, in Saskatchewan, in Manitoba, or anywhere else you can name," he said in an interview. "I'm bitterly disappointed."

Mr. Maccagno's reaction generally reflected the reaction of senior Alberta Liberals to the announcement that External Affairs Minister Martin, Finance Minister Sharp, Transport Minister Hellyer and Registrar-General Turner will be unable to attend the convention which opens today.

All were to speak Saturday.

All sent telegrams expressing their regret, and saying that the prime minister had asked them to remain in Ottawa.

Ottawa sources said the prime minister issued the order to stop Liberal leadership candidates within his cabinet from campaigning.

The sources said Mr. Pearson felt that some cabinet ministers were working harder for the leadership than they were in running their departments. All who were invited to Edmonton have been mentioned as possible successors to Mr. Pearson.

The convention was to go ahead as planned, with the possibility that Ottawa representatives might be present to read the absent ministers' speeches.

David McDonald, a past president of the Alberta Association and program organizer for the convention, said another possibility was that other speakers might be invited to speak on the same topics.

Philip To Open Fair

TORONTO (CP) — Royalty, computers, a robot and a spruced-up appearance will highlight the Centennial Year edition of the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair which opens today at Exhibition Park.

Prince Philip will officially open the fair at the evening horse show, driving around the arena in a George IV phaeton, drawn by four hackney horses, ridden by liveried postilions.

In the show will be teams from Canada, the United States and Great Britain with competition expected to be the toughest in years.

Other distinguished visitors to the horse show will be Governor-General Michener on Tuesday, Nov. 14, Lt.-Gov. Earl Rowe of Ontario on Thursday Nov. 16 and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, former U.S. president, who will officially close the show on Saturday, Nov. 18.

The farmer can feed the machine information about his operations and ask such questions as whether he should plant rapeseed in the back forty.

The computer will tell whether he is likely to make or lose money. The machine will be at the federal department of agriculture's exhibit.

A computer also was used to tabulate scores in the field crop section which was judged prior to the fair's opening.

The Ontario department of agriculture has a robot to attract fair visitors.

With lights in its domed head and on its stomach, the robot moves along a platform telling viewers about the growth of agriculture over the years. It ends by explaining what a farm may look like in 1997 and then with a series of weird screams and bloops moves to the start again.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1967

SPORTS SLICE

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

A new topic has taken over the conversational beat of the man on the street since Monday night.

Relegated to second place, for the moon at least, are Bobby Hull, Gordie Howe, National League Hockey; Ottawa Rough Riders, the Tiger Cats, the western champions and the Grey Cup.

Along the sports rialtos mainly is a sharp critical note of the decision to table the construction of the proposed community centre.

The consensus of at least 89 percent of the people with whom I talked was that those in the seats of the mighty have disregarded the need for modern recreational facilities here.

Some were of the opinion the new structure will be built eventually but at a greater cost than it would entail if constructed now.

And I do not think there would have been as discerning voice had a more severe straw vote been taken of the hundreds of parents who milled in and out of the Market Square Taj Mahal Wednesday night when the little tykes and novices were engaged in organized hockey-league combat.

One man was of the opinion that modern recreational facilities are needed because of industry's approach to the matter.

He said: — "I believe industry is interested in recreation because of shorter hours and the consequent more time for recreation and such. The time is not far away when industry looking for new sites will include the question "What are the recreational facilities?"

However the die has been cast municipal-wise and incidentally there's a civic election in the offing.

Earl Dawson, first vice president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association speaking at the Ontario Minor Hockey Association banquet some days ago said:

"The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association among other important duties — and this is an extremely important one — is doing its best to provide healthy recreation for the youth of Canada from coast to coast."

"Your association (the OMHA) is doing an outstanding job in Ontario. They see to it that the hockey needs of the youngsters are looked after — but they have no control over facilities, arena-wise, of the municipalities that come under their jurisdiction. This is strictly up to the municipality itself."

Later in an interview, Mr. Dawson said, "I was not only referring to hockey but other sports as well. All over the country we hear the cry 'keep the boys off the streets.' There's an old cliche better to have the youngsters dodging bodychecks than policemen and stealing bases rather than purses."

"Municipalities," he said, "would do well to bear this in mind and vee to it that the young fellows as well as the older ones have the best recreational facilities possible."

"After all, these youngsters are the citizens of the future and not a few of them will grow up to be leaders. I notice a quotation in the OMHA constitution that goes "A Man Is Never so Tall as When He Stoops to help a Boy."

And that reminds me the Junior "B" boys could stand a tot of help at the box office tonight. They play the Cobourg Cougars and will be out there doing their dandest in registering their first victory of the season.

Empty seats never boosted the morale of any hockey team. But you'd be surprised how much cheers from hometown fans help the boys.

Wings Stop Generals

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rookie Cal Ruvsell of Hamilton Red Wings celebrates his 18th birthday today — and Thursday night he gave himself two presents.

Both were goals and they helped the Red Wings to a 4-1 victory over Oshawa Generals in Ontario Hockey Association Junior A play.

Hamilton's victory moved the Red Wings into fourth place behind Niagara Falls Flyers, Toronto Marlboros and Kitchener Rangers.

SECOND ADDED

Russell made it 2-0 for the Red Wings after Hamilton's Ron Climie got the only goal of the second period. He added his second after captain Fred Speck's goal two minutes later.

Fred O'Donnell spoiled Hamilton goaltender Gerry Gray's shutout bid.

Sport Miniatures

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Green Bay Packers announced Thursday they have signed former New York Giants' fullback Chuck Mercein and placed halfback Elijah Pitts on the National Football League's disabled list. Mercein, 24, a free agent, was cut by the Giants last month. He was their starting fullback last season and leading rusher.

CHICAGO (AP) — Jockey Leonard Pong, 38, of Hamilton, Ont., died in Mercy Hospital Thursday night where he was being treated for a skull fracture and internal injuries. Pong was thrown off his mount, Amy's Lady, during the stretch run of the seventh race at Sportsman's Park here. He apparently was struck by a trailing horse.

Kings Thump Leafs

'Gleason' Kelly; 'How Sweet It Is'!

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A talented array of minor leaguers staged one of the National Hockey League's early season upsets Thursday night while Detroit Red Wings, supported by rookie goalie Roy Edwards netminding and with venerable Gordie Howe setting them up, snapped a three-game losing streak.

Los Angeles Kings, whose only established NHLer in the June draft was goalie Terry Sawchuk, smothered Toronto Maple Leafs 4-1 at Los Angeles to hand the defending Stanley Cup champions their first loss in five games.

And at Detroit, Edwards allowed only a first-period goal to get by him while Howe took over the league scoring leadership with two assists as the Wings romped to a 3-1 win over Pittsburgh Penguins.

The Leafs-Kings encounter was billed as a meeting of the division leaders with Toronto holding first place in the established Eastern Division and the Kings atop the expanded Western Division.

And the victory must have been sweet revenge for two former Leaf chatels—coach Red Kelly and centre Ed Joyal—who were on the losing end of a 4-3 score in Toronto earlier in the season.

Kelly, a Simcoe, Ont. native, last year was one of those instrumental in Toronto's winning the Stanley Cup. The 35-year NHL veteran, spent most of his career with Detroit before moving to Toronto for the 1958-59 season.

Joyal, who spent last season with Rochester Americans of the American League after a 1965-66 stint with the Leafs, scored two goals to pace the Kings.

Bill Speer was the only Pittsburgh player to beat Edwards in his NHL debut as the Wings got goals from Doug Roberts, Floyd Smith, Ted Hampson and Dean Prentice.

Edwards was taken by Pittsburgh in last year's expansion draft, but was traded to Detroit in the off season and then shuttled to Fort Worth of the Central League.

He was recalled early this week as a replacement for Roger Crozier before Crozier Monday stunned the Wings by announcing his retirement from hockey.

The 30-year-old native of Seneca, Ont., spent last season with Buffalo Bisons of the AHL where he had a miserable 5.07 goals-against average in 37 1-3 games.

The Detroit victory moved them into a tie for second place in the Eastern Division standings, tied with New York Rangers two points behind the Leafs.

The Kings added to their Western Division lead. They now are five points in front of Pittsburgh.

The victory for Edwards was his 10th in succession, having been unbeaten in nine games with Fort Worth.

The league is idle tonight, but Saturday the Black Hawks visit Montreal Canadiens while the Leafs are at Minnesota North Stars, Oakland Seals are in Boston to play the Bruins and St. Louis Blues are in Pittsburgh.

Fires Four Goals In Tie Game

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gary Mash scored four goals for Fort Worth Thursday night but the Wings had to settle with a 4-4 tie with Tulsa Oilers in the Central Professional Hockey League.

In the only other game of the night, Bob Charlebois pumped in three goals to lead Memphis South Stars to a 4-1 win over Kansas City Blues.

Marsh gave the Wings a 1-0 lead early in the first period, but goals by Dan Johnson and Andre Hinse in the same period gave the Oilers a 2-1 lead.

Len Haley's goal put Tulsa ahead 3-1 but Marsh scored twice in the second period to knot the count again. Pat Quinn scored a final goal for Tulsa late in the second period, but Marsh's last goal early in the third gave Fort Worth the tie.

Rider Key Player

Giardino Special Target, Gabler

OTTAWA (CP)—When Wayne Giardino turned up at the Ottawa Rough Riders training camp last summer, the stocky Peterborough native hoped he might be able to win a second-string job as an offensive or defensive halfback.

Instead, he won the Eastern Football Conference's rookie award as a corner linebacker, taking a starting berth away from veteran Jim Conroy, a Canadian Football League all-star last year.

Sunday, the 23-year-old rookie will be one of the key players in Ottawa's bid to stop the running attack and scrambling of quarterback Wally Gabler when Riders meet Toronto Argonauts in the sudden-death EFC semi-finals playoff.

Picton Nips Campbellford

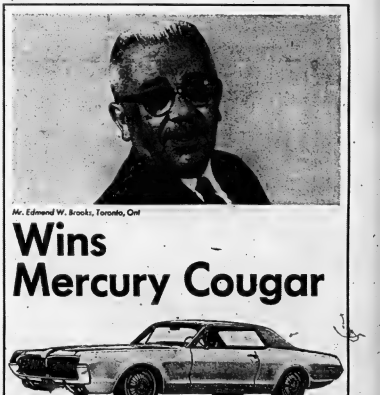
Picton nosed out Campbellford by a narrow 6-5 score in an OHA Intermediate hockey game played last night.

The game, according to the schedule, was to be played tonight.

Larry "Pocket" Pero scored three goals to pace Picton's attack. Roland Berry added two goals and an assist while Gary Haennel triggered the game - winning goal. George Jacklin drew three assists. Brian Beatty two and Jim Guernsey one.

Phil Meeks scored twice for Campbellford and Glenn Hagerman had a goal and assist. Gary Stewart and Bob Barisch were the other marksmen. Ralph Fry helped on a pair. Andy Faulkner, Murray Fife and Doug Seymour on assists.

The clubs are scheduled to play in Picton again Sunday.



"RED" KELLY

Coach Frank Clair of the Riders says he wants to keep a rush on Gabler to stop his passing and this will put an extra strain on corner linebackers Giardino and Mike Blum. But both young henchmen have shown throughout the season they can cope with the situation.

Like Blum, a 24-year-old Ottawa native in his fourth year with Ottawa, Giardino played college football in the U.S. He was a fullback, defensive half and, in his senior year, linebacker at Florida State.

Speed is perhaps Giardino's biggest asset. Several times this season he has thrown opposing quarterbacks for big losses when they were trying to get the ball away.

At 198 pounds, he's about 20 pounds lighter than Blum but doesn't think his lack of size is any problem.

Palmer, Nicklaus Hold Stroke Lead Over Pair From Argentina

JACK NICKLAUS

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus, fighting to keep the World Cup golf team championship for the United States held a one-point lead over Argentina today as the second round started.

Palmer came out of the first nine two under par, shaved off two more strokes on the back nine, and finished with a 68 that tied him with Argentina's Florentino Molina for low individual score.

Nicklaus fired a steady 72 to give Palmer the backing he needed. Molina's team-mate, Fidel de Loca, came in at 75.

South Africa's Gary Player carded a 69. He finished with a flourish, sinking a 30-foot putt on the 17th and a 10-footer on the 18th for two birdies.

"Harold finished with a 74," Player said Thursday, "but he had some impossible shots. He didn't play that badly, more like a 71."

In at 70 were Toronto's Al Balding with 137-33, Spain's Ramon Sola, and Jose Maria Gonzalez of Brazil. George Knudson of Toronto, defending his individual championship won at Tokyo, shot a 37-36—73.

Balding said later: "George will be the individual star before this thing is over."

Balding said the altitude was affecting him, as did Palmer.

"I've never felt so shaky," said Balding.

Balding and Knudson were tied in the team event at 143 in third place with the South African twosome and Donald Swanlen and Flory Van Donck of Belgium.

Both Nicklaus, who said the altitude hasn't bothered him at all, and Palmer cite one benefit of the city's 7,347-foot altitude—the ball goes farther.

The 7,250-yard course demands exacting placement of shots, and all golfers here who talk about the greens summed them up in one word: "Difficult."

Slow play drew complaints from some, including Balding and Palmer.

"We went around in 5½ hours and on four holes it took us an hour and a half," Balding commented. "When you're tired and standing around, you just get more tired."

He went one over par on the front nine, but had birdies on the 12th, 13th and 17th holes, including a 13-foot putt on the 12th.

"We thought we really had a good start on that first hole," Balding said. "But George missed the 1½-foot putt that would have given him a par and I missed a five-footer for a birdie."

Nine Eye $90,000 Pot O'Gold!

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — The $150,000 Washington International will be run for the 18th time at Laurel Saturday with Damascus, the uncrowned king of U.S. thoroughbreds, the strong favorite even through he never has competed in a grass course race.

The 1½-mile race over the finely-cropped turf, one of the world's horse racing classics despite its youth, has a strong American flavor with five of the nine entries from seven countries — one of them Canada — either bred in the United States owned by an American or tracing their ancestry back to U.S. breeding farms.

First prize of $90,000 will be at stake when the nine get the word from starter Eddie Blind at 3:45 p.m. EST.

He's a Smoothie — Canadian champion owned by Bill Beasley of Toronto and trained by his son, Warren, was bred in Canada but his roots are in Kentucky. His sire, Round Table, stands in the Blue Grass country and his dam, Quine, was a one-time resident of the same area.

In addition to Mrs. Edith W. Bancroft's Damascus, the United States will be represented by Fort Marcy, a proven grass course performer from the Rokeby Stable of Paul Mellon.

Ribocco, bred in the blue grass country of Kentucky and owned by platinum king Charles W. Engelhard of Far Hills, N.J., and in Command, a three-year-old filly, will carry England's hopes.

From Australia comes Tobin Bronze, a five-year-old for whom William Breisant and I. M. Lizz of Los Angeles recently paid somewhere between $336,000 and $448,000.

Edmonton Eyes Title

By HARRY FOELL

EDMONTON (CP)—Western teams have won the Canadian junior football championship in four of the last five years and Edmonton Wildcats coach Pierre Turgeon is confident his team will extend the string of victories.

Turgeon, in his first year of coaching junior football, said depth is the greatest asset his team has. Although two of his players are doubtful starters after suffering injuries against Saskatoon, he said these should not affect the outcome of Sunday's game.

"We have a number of players that can do various things," he said. "We have about five or six players that can break a game open at any time."

Miss Stampeder Suffers Facial Burns

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary Stampeders said Thursday they want 20-year-old Pat Clark to be Miss Stampeder in the Miss Grey Cup contest—but they have left the final decision to her. The cup final will be played in Ottawa Dec. 2.

Miss Clark suffered facial burns in an accident a week ago and although Rogers Lobey, Stampeders general manager, said she is "eager to go" she will not decide until next Tuesday or Wednesday.

He said that if Miss Clark withdraws "we might have time to name an alternative . . . but I don't want to get that far ahead. I think she'll go but we've left it up her decision."

Miss Clark, a blonde university student, was burned when a flaming desert dish was knocked over in a Calgary hotel and flared up in her face.

Saints, BCI Title-Bound

By ROBERT SNEFJELLA

It's Belleville vs. Oshawa in two high school football championships on Saturday.

Here in Belleville at 1.30 the Quinte Saints will clash with Oshawa Donovan for the COSSA Senior "A" crown. At the same time BCI will battle Donovan at Oshawa for the COSSA Junior "A" title.

Says coach Rick Locke, "Everyday's well, everybody's ready. We came out of the Peterborough game (Quinte won 20-1 on Tuesday) free of injuries."

Oshawa has at least one advantage coming into tomorrow's game. They were able to watch the Quinte team in action in their semi - final victory over Peterborough.

Offensively for Quinte, running backs Harold Townsend, Terry Wellesley and Barry Burnett provide much of the action. At the helm is versatile quarterback Paul Whalen. Says Locke of Whalen, "He knows what to do and when to do it, and recognizes very few directions from the bench."

Mainstay on defence is Bruce Montaigue. Ken McGeechey, Joe Scott, George Bateman, Pat Lett and Al Parthington are all valuable members.

Quarterback Jamie Cass directs a strong offensive backfield made up of fullback Dave Wright, plunging back Paul Hall and wingback Mike Scarlett. Linesmen Jim Bateman and Lewis Zandberger help clear the way.

Last time BCI won COSSA Junior was back in 1962.

Cobourg Here Tonight

Juniors Seek Win!

The Cougars of Cobourg, to date running hot and cold in the OHA Eastern Junior "B" circuit, are in town for a 9 o'clock battle here.

And the "B"'s feel it is about time to chalk up those all-important first two points. Local enthusiasts claim that once the boys win that first one, look out," and the youth of the club speaks well for this argument.

The Cougars are unlikely to be pushovers, however, as Jim "Snipe" Matthews and coach Charlie Drake will have to have their boys flying from the start.

Cobourg has impressed with wins of 8-3 over Belleville, 6-5 over Oshawa and 7-6 over Kingston. It should be pointed out that all wins were at home while the Cougars have yet to win on the road.

"And we don't want them to start Friday," piped up one Belleville Junior the other day.

It should be a tidy tussle and Matthews is hoping for a big crowd. This marks the "B"'s first Friday-night home game but they have several others coming up shortly. Following tonight's game the "B"'s travel to Kingston Tuesday.

Meanwhile, the Senior "A" Mo-Hawks trek to Guelph for their initial meeting of the year with the Regals, at 8 tonight. The Mo-Hawks, winless in their last four games, have two home encounters next week, Toronto Marlborough Tuesday and Oakville Oaks on Friday.

Eskimos; Hot And Ready

But if they follow the precedent, they'll set another.

The Eskimos and Roughriders have met nine times in playoff games with the Eskimos winning six, including all three of the semi-finals.

There has never been an all-Alberta final.

The Eskimos have more going than the precedent. For the last half of the season they were the hottest club in Canada, winning seven and tying one in their last nine games. They are unbeaten since Sept. 30, when they lost to the Stampeders. They won their last five, including victories over the Stampeders and the Roughriders.

Another plus for the Eskimos is a rest that has lasted since Nov. 1st, four days longer than the Riders.

This has enabled Edmonton's injured to recuperate.

Halfback Don Lisbon's leg injury should be healed; quarterback Terry Baker's pulled groin muscle should be back to normal, and flanker Randy Kerbow's ailing back should improve.

If Lisbon's leg has healed, his presence will add balance to the Eskimo attack.

He joins fleet Jim Thomas and big Art Perkins in the backfield, and will add another running threat.

But the Roughriders have George Reed, whose 1,471 yards rushing this season was more than half the team's total.

The Riders also have Ed Buchanan, a running and pass-catching threat, plus the ever-present weapon of the Ron Lancaster-to-Hugh Campbell pass. And coach Eagle Keys said Thursday his team is healthier than any time this season.

RUSS JACKSON

Gabler Versus Russell

TORONTO (CP) — The bruised ribs of Wally Gabler and Bill Symons and the injured knee of Jim Dillard are responding to treatment and Toronto Argonauts are tuning in on P-A-S-S for Sunday's sudden-death Eastern Football Conference semi-final against Ottawa Rough Riders.

Coach Leo Cahill feels that if the signal is clear and there are no transmission interruptions, the Argos will advance to the two-game, total-point final with Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

With fullback Dillard and halfback Symons healthy, the Toronto running game will take care of Rasff, running up a net 2,171 yards on the ground during the regular season to Add for Ottawa.

But in the air, quarterback Gabler is far behind Russ Jackson of Ottawa, who led the conference.

A major concern to Cahill is that in the last few games of the season, Gabler started missing open receivers.

So the problem boils down to two areas for Cahill: Get Gabler back on the beam; Stop Jackson before he cuts into the Argo defence with his pinpoint passing.

The 3 p.m. EST game will be televised nationally by CTV.

Gabler may get some passing help. Ottawa defensive tackle Ted Collins and halves Bill Cline and Bob O'Billovich are reported going to play despite injuries picked up against Montreal and Toronto in the final two games of the year.

Wins Nicklin Trophy

Liske; Western MVP

PETER LISKE

CALGARY (CP) — Peter Liske, record-breaking quarterback with Calgary Stampeders, has been awarded the Jeff Nicklin memorial trophy as the most valuable player in the Western Football Conference.

Pat Mahoney, WFC president, said Liske had an "overwhelming plurality" in voting by players of the five-team conference. The vote was not given and the second and third-placed players were not named.

Liske led Stampeders to first place this season with all-time WFC records of 508 pass attempts, 303 completions, 40 touchdown passes and the single-season record of 4,479 yards gained in the air.

Liske, 25, with the AFL Buffalo Bills before going to Toronto Argonauts of the Eastern Conference in 1965. Toronto traded him to Calgary after the 1965 season.

Liske is the WFC's candidate in voting for the outstanding player of the year in the Canadian Football League.

Moira, Trenton

Win Volleyball Titles

Moira Secondary School and Trenton High School captured the Bay of Quinte boys' volleyball championships when the junior and senior tournament was held at Centennial Secondary yesterday.

Moira won the senior crown by defeating Picton in the finals while Trenton copped the junior title, completing an undefeated day by downing Cloyne in the finals.

Ten senior schools and 11 junior competed in the double elimination tournaments, convened by Bruce Faulds, physical education director at Centennial Secondary School.

The senior volleyball tournament will be held at Port Hope on Saturday, November 18. Four Bay of Quinte teams, from Moira, Picton, BCIVS and Trenton, will participate.

Moira Seniors defeated Stirling, Madoc and Trenton before losing to BCIVS yesterday. They defeated BCIVS in a second meeting to reach the finals against Picton, which had entered the finals without a loss against Trenton, Ontario School for the Deaf and BCIVS.

Moira won two games to one in the first set to hand Picton its first loss. Thus, each school had lost once and had to meet again to decide the championship, with Moira again winning the set two games to one.

Trenton had an easier route to the junior crown. They won over Madoc, Marlins, Centennial and Cloyne in regular play, then took the honors by defeating Cloyne again in the finals.

CHHL League Opens Season

The Centre Hastings Hockey League opened its 1967-'68 schedule with a doubleheader last night.

Ivanhoe Knights whipped Frankford 8-1 and Wallbridge dumped Thomasburg by a 9-2 count in one-sided affairs.

COSSA "B" Football

Senior Title To Albert

Albert College's senior footballers, who had not won as much as a Bay of Quinte title in 13 years, brought home the COSSA Senior "B" championship yesterday.

Coach Ray Mambert said this morning: "I am real proud of the boys. They came from behind to take the lead in the third quarter then turned back Bowmanville's bid when they made it a close 23-22 game in the fourth."

Mambert also claims that Albert's COSSA crown was their first in 15 years and their group title their first in 12. Stirling won the championship last year.

The score by quarters yesterday was 8-6 for Bowmanville, 16-15 for Bowmanville at the half and 22-16 for Albert going into the final quarter.

Albert's Jan Balchar opened the game's scoring with an unconverted touchdown on a 20-yard gallop. Bowmanville took the slim 8-6 lead on a converted major and a single.

In the second quarter, Albert quarterback Dave Simpson hit Greg Burchell for a 25-yard pass and run play for a touchdown and Dave Hall kicked a one-point conversion. Burchell added two more points on single but the home club kept pace to hold the narrow one-point lead at the half.

Burchell was the key man as Albert pulled ahead in the third quarter. He intercepted a pass and raced 45 yards down the sidelines for a touchdown. Flut stumped a field goal but settled for a 30-yard single while the Albert defence held Bowmanville off the scoreboard.

Flut added another single for a 23-16 score early in the final quarter but Bowmanville ripped back with an unconverted major to cut Belleville's lead to 23-22.

It stayed that way until about three minutes remained to play. Albert's Simpson found Dean Ayoub uncovered in the end zone and hit him with a TD pass to wrap up the scoring and the championship.

Railways Plan Rate Reduction

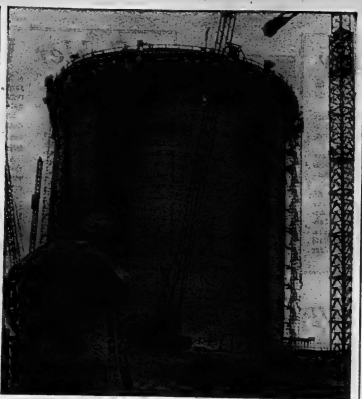
OTTAWA (CP) — The railways intend to lower their freight rates on less-than-carload shipment in the Atlantic Provinces, and the federal government is willing to help them with bigger subsidies, Transport Minister Hellyer said Thursday.

He told the Commons the CNR and the CPR gave notice Thursday of an application to the Canadian Transport Commission to revise the controversial rate structure.

The revision, if approved by the government agency, would add $1,000,000 to the $13,000,000 already allotted this year for subsidies under the Maritime Freight Rates Act.

These moves by the railways and the government resulted from a storm of protest by the Atlantic provincial governments, MPs and shippers about regional rate increases on non-carload lots.

Before the revised rates can take effect, the Canadian Transport Commission has to give its approval, and it may call a public hearing or hearings.



The Maritime Freight Rates Act of 1927 has provided a general freight subsidy of 20 per cent on shipments moving within the Atlantic provinces and eastern Quebec, and of 30 per cent on shipments from those places to the Montreal region and Ontario.

On freight moving within the territory covered by the Maritime Freight Rates Act, the new plan would apply the rates now in effect in Western Canada for less-than-carload shipments. It would remove the basic class rates on less-than-carload lots to which the MFRA subsidies at present apply.

The freight subsidy program would be broadened to cover express shipments, under the category of non-carload freight.

While Mr. Hellyer was speaking in the House, the transport department issued a statement saying the rate revision will not interfere with the railways plans to integrate express and freight into a single freight structure with full pickup and delivery service.

Silo for Atomic Power

This 148-foot-high structure, looking like a giant farm silo, will contain a nuclear reactor — the heart of the Gentilly nuclear power station now being built at Becancour Que. The $100,000,000 Hydro Quebec and Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. joint project will produce 250,000 kilowatts of electricity when it goes "on stream" in 1971. (CP Photo)

Rehearsal Held By Bank Robbers

MONTREAL (CP) — Jacques Lajoie, convicted for his part in a $53,000 bank robbery July 1, 1961, kept spectators glued to their seats Thursday with his account of an alleged "dress rehearsal" for the robbery.

Lajoie, who had pleaded guilty to a charge of participating in the burglary and served a one-day sentence after two years in jail awaiting trial, took the stand to testify against Georges Lemay, alleged mastermind of the robbery. Lemay, 42, is charged with burglary and conspiracy.

Lajoie identified three men brought into court who have also been convicted for the robbery — Andre Lemieux, sentenced to seven years, his brother Yvon Lemieux, who got four years, and Rolland Primeau, who got 11 years.

Lajoie testified that he met Andre Lemieux in the infirmary of Montreal's Bordeaux Jail in February, 1961, became their friends, Lajoie said. At Lemieux's house, after their release, Lajoie met Georges Lemay who employed him to do odd jobs at his chalet at nearby Mont Rolland.

Lajoie testified that on June 23, 1961, he, Lemay, Primeau and Lemieux in cars belonging to Lemay and Primeau and containing the tools, drove from St. Sauveur and Primeau's house to the home of Lemieux's mother, in east-end Montreal.

Lajoie went on to describe to the court how the men entered 1418 St. Catherine Street, the side entrance of the Bank of Nova Scotia branch and began to dig a tunnel with the help of the cutter-drill.

Lemay and Primeau, Lajoie testified, stayed outside the building, while Lajoie handed the tools to Lemieux, who tried to begin the tunnel from under a trap-door in the floor of the building.

However, Lajoie said, the drill did not work properly and the men met at Primeau's car, which was parked in a nearby alley.

Lajoie testified that he had been promised $10,000 by Lemay for his part in the robbery.

Plane Parachute Works

LAKEHURST, N.J. (AP) — A veteran pilot deliberately blew the wings off a four-seat airplane Thursday and the craft then parachuted down in the first airborne test of an experimental system designed to prevent plane crashes.

"It came off beautifully," said Thomas Walker of New York City, the pilot.

The designers of the system, Jacks Manfred and Aagesh Raill, smiled approvingly as plane and pilot floated down on separate chutes. They are the founders of the Aircraft Safety Release Corp. of New York and finally saw a 30-year-old dream become reality.

At about 4,000 feet and a speed of 90 miles an hour he pulled a lever in the roof of the plane and three pins in each wing were blown out releasing the wings from the rest of the plane.

Walker remained in the cockpit sitting characteristics of the descent until the body of the craft was at an altitude of 1,300 feet. Then he, too, parachuted clear.

Reformatory Terms Given Two Youths

BRIGHTON — Two Colborne youths received reformatory terms in magistrate's court Wednesday after each pleaded guilty to two charges of break, entry, and theft.

Dennis Tripp, 20, was sentenced to six months in the Ontario Reformatory at Guelph for his part in the August theft of $32 worth of clothing and two rifles valued at $300.

And 19-year-old William Robinson, who was returned to face the charges in Brighton from Guelph Reformatory, was sentenced to nine months to be served consecutive to his present term.

Provincial Police Constable Ronald Deck laid the charges Monday, concluding a two-month investigation into the breakins at a pair of Colborne stores.

Magistrate Batten set bail at $10,000 each.

Dennis Carrigan, 32, of Carleton, was sentenced to 14 days in Northumberland County Jail in Cobourg after pleading guilty to his second impaired driving offence in a year.

William Wilson was charged by Brighton OPP Constable Kemp after he was observed near a wheelless car parked at the junction of Highway 33 and the 401 about 2 a.m. Friday.

The car belonged to Edward Lentz of Trenton, who told police he always parked his car at the spot and drives to work in Oshawa with someone else.

Students Will Take Part in Town Planning

TRENTON — A group of senior high school students will initiate an experiment in town planning next week.

Trenton High School teacher Douglas Livingstone says grade 12 and 13 students will begin handing out questionaires Friday, Nov. 17 to determine downtown requirements.

Merchants and the "man-on-the-street" will be asked their opinions on the need for additional lowercost parking facilities ,the feasibility of establishing a shopping mall in Trenton,, and other selected areas of planning concern.

"It may deal with something like the age of local buildings and churches, for instance.

"The goal is to get the young people interested in the affairs of their community in which they are growing up."

Results of the questionnaires and opinion polls will be submitted to town council and the Trenton Planning Board for their consideration.

Trenton Briefs

TRENTON — Within the next week, about $1,000 worth of Norway maple saplings will be planted throughout Trenton, to replace trees that had to be removed during 1967 by the Public Works Department.

The Parks Board last night agreed to proceed with the planting of the 30-foot - high trees, which cost $12.75 each.

Sites for the replacements for dead trees will be designated by the Public Works' Department, which will also reimburse the Parks Board after the planting has been completed.

NEW POLICY

In response to a local businessman's offer to provide benches for a Trenton park, the Parks Board has established a policy of no advertisement on town park furniture or property.

The board last night agreed it would be improper to accept or place any equipment in town parks bearing advertisement for any product or business. Service club crests on such items as garbage receptacles would be excluded.

Secretary Miss Marion Baker said the town Recreation Committee established a dangerous precedent when it accepted a baseball scoreboard from a soft drink manufacturer for a town sports field.

The Slow Climb of Ukrainian Settlers

An early Ukrainian log home with thatched roof at a museum in Elk Island National Park near Edmonton has been preserved to tell its own story of first settlers in the area. The gnarled hands and weather-beaten face of Mrs. Meron Tkachuk (right) seem to reflect the Ukrainian's long climb toward today's relative prosperity. For most settlers the climb typified the rags-to-riches cliche of North American life.

Leger Going to Africa As Simple Missionary

MONTREAL (CP) — Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger is turning his back on the comforts of city life to face the harsh challenges of the leper colonies of Africa.

The Roman Catholic Archbishop of Montreal told a press conference Thursday that he was giving up "the position of command to become a simple missionary priest."

The press conference followed an announcement from the Vatican that Pope Paul had accepted the cardinal's resignation as archbishop and acceded to his request to work among the lepers.

Elected to the Sacred College of Cardinals in 1953, three years after being named Archbishop of Montreal, Cardinal Leger described the church as essentially "a missionary body," adding:

"The day when she ceases to go towards those who have not yet received the Gospel, she will have turned in on herself, she will have become a ghetto, and will have been unfaithful to her mission.

"But if the Gospel must be proclaimed to all men, it is directed first of all to the humble, to the poor in spirit for whom our Lord always showed a particular concern.

Cardinal Leger, 63, who plans to leave for Africa in mid-December, said he has "reached the age where a certain sclerosis of soul and body might set in."

"The confrontation with paganism may stimulate faith. Furthermore, it is good to return to the practice of obedience after having been placed in authority."

Maurice Cardinal Roy, Archbishop of Quebec City, said it will be painful not to see "in our midst say more someone who has been for so many years such a worthy adviser and very dear friends."

The administrative council of the Canadian Catholic Conference—which includes all the Roman Catholic cardinals, archbishops and bishops in the country—said in Ottawa it was "amazed" to learn of the cardinal's move.

Bishop Kenneth R. Maguire, senior Anglican official in Montreal, said the archbishop had played a good role in ecumenical matters, and added:

"The news that Cardinal Leger will be leaving is a matter of real regret. He will be missed very much."

Rabbi Dr. Harry J. Stern of Temple Emanu-el said Cardinal Leger has been instrumental in helping eliminate anti-semitism throughout the world and that he "will personally miss him."

Sunday School Lesson

Gods Without Powers

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

Man's life is caught in a struggle between the gods he creates and the God who created him. While there are many names for these man - made gods, the one usually used in the Bible is Baal. Man's choice, therefore, is whether he will worship God who stands above human weaknesses, or some man-made god into which men have built some of their own imperfections.

In Hosea's day, Baal was usually a man-made idol, often in the form of a human figure carved out of wood or stone. Such a god could mean whatever the worshiper wanted it to mean. Often he used this idol to give sanction to his own human lusts and desires. The God of Israel was a God of righteousness whose will is written into the laws of life He has created. Men cannot change Him. They must seek and meet His standards if they would enjoy the good life.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for November 12: "The Lure of Other Gods," Hosea 4:8 through 10.

In our day, Baal assumes many forms. In many parts of the world, he is not as crude as a man-carved figure. He is worshipped in much more subtle ways than that. He hides in many places. In every case, however, he is the product of man's own brain and hand.

SOME DEIFY THEIR WORK

In our day, there are those who would change his name to Science, spelled with a capital "S". The scientific laboratory becomes their temple as they bow down to the measuring device and the test-tube. It does not seem to occur to them that, for all its amazing achievements science is still their own creation. Science is a method men have created to probe the secrets of the universe. Science did not create those secrets. It only uncovers them and places them at men's disposal. What men do with them depends on values and standards that lie outside the realm of science.

Others would worship the great god, Computer. "Great is the Computer," they would say, "and cybernetics is his creation." With its built-in memory systems, the computer can do fantastic things. It can figure out in seconds problems that would take men years to solve. But the computer is only as effective as men's brains and hands know how to make it. It cannot create moral standards or give men a basis for an enduring hope.

For some, Baal's name becomes Lust. Playboy magazine becomes their Bible as they pour their money into the coffers of those who make millions of dollars out of men's preoccupation with sex.

For some, Fortune is the god before which they bow. Money is their god, and their life's devotion is given to pursuing a large bank account. Granted money is important, but it is not so important men should trade away their souls in order to get it.

Even freedom becomes a kind of a god in our world. For its protection, we spend billions of dollars, and sacrifice thousands of our finest youth. But freedom to do what? To create a democratic society in which each person accepts his responsibilities, or to create an anarchy in which each person does what he pleases?

These things are tools, not deities. They are giver to man for his use, not his worship. When men worship anything less than the God of righteousness, they end up making their own standards of right and wrong. Self becomes the standard. There is nothing left for person above himself, and to give him cleansing of mind and heart.

It is not love men need most of all. What good is a computer in a loveless world? What good is a fortune if a person's heart is breaking? Gomer had her lovers, but until Hosea reclaimed her, the end of her life was slavery. Baal couldn't help her when she was on the slave-block. Only Hosea, with the forgiving spirit of God in his heart, could give her back her freedom.

And it was love to which Hosea was calling back his people. Love that treats people with respect, not simply as something to exploit. Not the impersonal woodenness of an idol, but the warm-hearted love of God—this is what Hosea offered his people. This kind of love cleanses. This kind of love lifts. This kind of love refines.

The alternative was clear—a world in which hate and greed are the ruling force. In that kind of a world, if they fell, Baal could not save them. Only God could turn their despair into hope; their blindness into sight.

CIRCULATION IS SLOW

PARIS (AP)—Premier Georges Pompidou says if France's economy is still in the doldrums in the fall energetic measures to stimulate it may be necessary. A slowdown in neighboring countries, lack of confidence in the economy and "a certain taste for saving" are keeping the francs from circulating.

Looking for a new car that doesn't look and act like all the rest?

Look at the '68 Beaumont.

Beaumont gives you the best of 3 motoring worlds: Big car luxury; Sports Car excitement; and small car economy. That's Beaumont's great new idea. Look at it. Long low hood. Short rear deck. And an in-between size that makes parking second nature. Interiors? They're comfortable. Luxurious. Quiet. And as roomy as a full-size car. There's something else that puts Beaumont in a class by itself: 2 wheelbases. 112 ins. for Coupes and Convertibles; 116 ins. for Sedans and Wagons. Plus GM's great safety package. There's a smoother track too. And more power. Including a new standard 200 hp V8 on 1968 models. As well, there's a complete list of exciting options. And a new high-performance SD396 Series that'll set any pulse racing. What's all this mean to you? Quite a lot. Especially if you see them and priced the other cars in Beaumont's class. The '68 Beaumont. For people ready for new ideas.

Call Tenders For Building On Armory Site

NAPANEE — The new Federal Building on the site of Napanee Armory will soon be a reality. The federal government Wednesday called for tenders for construction of the building, estimated to cost $300,000 to $400,000.

Last week Dougias Alkenbrack MP expressed fears the building might be one of the expenditures slashed from the Federal Public Works Department budget as a result of a government cut-back on costs. This week the Department set Dec. 13 as the closing date for submission of tenders.

Demolition of the armory, erected in 1915, is expected to begin as soon as the contract is awarded. The new building on the site will house the post office, customs, Canada Manpower Centre and any other federal government agencies which might be located in the town.

The proposed two - storey structure will be made of reinforced concrete covered with dark brown brick veneer.

County Council Votes Against Radio System

NAPANEE — Lennox and Addington County Council indicated dissatisfaction with its 1967 roads committee last week when it turned down a request for a $10,000 radio inter-communication system for the roads department.

One council member refused to support the request when, he said, not one development road had been started by the county this year. Council voted eight to six against the motion.

The proposed system would enable cars and trucks to keep in contact with each other and the road department office in the county court house at Napanee by short wave radio.

A development road is one for which the Ontario Government pays the cost. The only development road expenditure planned this year was the widening and straightening of the River Road south of the town. This was abandoned because the committee could not get the necessary easements from landowners along the route. The committee has since been authorized by county council to expropriate.

Ratepayers Unwilling To Share Costs

NAPANEE — Clarkville will remain without sewer service, because its ratepayers are unwilling to share the cost of its installation.

A minority of ratepayers signed the petition for sewer installation under the Local Improvement Act which splits the cost between the town and the taxpayers involved. However, a majority supported water main installation.

Council had received requests for sewer extension to the north along the Camden Rd. and taxpayers there will be given a similar opportunity to indicate their wishes on a petition.

Rhodesian Settlement Appears Little Closer

SALISBURY (CP) — British Commonwealth Secretary George Thomson said today his two-day talks here with Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith showed that many important points of difference still stand in the way of a settlement of the Rhodesian independence issue.

Thomson's comments came shortly after a statement by Smith that the talks might have moved the dispute nearer settlement.

The statements came on the eve of the second anivversary of the Unilateral Declaration of Independence by the white-minority Rhodesian regime.

Thomson declined to say exactly what these points of difference are.

Smith, asked whether he thought the talks had brought a settlement nearer, said: "It is possible. We have honestly analysed the position and we now know where we are."

But he apparently scotched London reports of a speedy meeting with Harold Wilson by replying "What for?" when reporters asked if he planned to meet the British prime minister again. Then he paused and added: "I don't think so."

Smith, who ended talks Thursday with Commonwealth Secretary Thomson, told reporters it is possible the talks had brought the two sides closer together.

"But there is little hope of us moving back," he said, after the publication of the regime's Rhodesian constitutional commission report, scheduled for early 1968.

The report is expected to lay the foundation for a national constitution which could possibly lead to a republic.

Scoharie

SCOHARIE — A number of Live Women's Circle members enjoyed the tea and bazaar at Mount Pleasant Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Harry Foster and Ross Foster attended the funeral service for Mrs. Seburn Foster from Hicks' Funeral Home Thursday afternoon.

The Live Women's Circle held its meeting at Orser Hall Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Foster, St. Thomas, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Burton Norton.

Jobs Will Be Scarce

LONDON (CP) — A forecast of drastic drops in the job capacity of Britain's nationalized coal industry has added a new dimension to one of Prime Minister Wilson's stickiest problems —unemployment.

Wilson spent part of Thursday talking down rebellious voices raised from the back benches of his own Labor party on the subject of how much unemployment should be tolerated in economically-uncertain Britain.

As the prime minister pressed his counter-attack, the predictions of the coal industry's unemployment potential between now and 1980 were being disclosed by the chairman of the National Coal Board. His audience included representatives of the National Union of Mineworkers, who registered surprise and dismay.

The chairman, Lord Robens, said the industry will have jobs for about 277,000 of its currently 297,000-strong work force by 1971 and for only 62,000 by 1980.

Heel Spurs May Not Grow Larger

By Dr. Joseph C. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: Please write more about heel spurs. Do they get larger? Do they ever go away? Is surgery needed?

The lump in my heel doesn't hurt for ordinary walking but pressing on it does hurt. Should I have it removed before it gets larger? — Mrs. W.B.S.

A heel spur is not a "growth" in the ordinary sense. It is an accumulation of calcium at a point at which there has been some injury, or sometimes an infection. The calcium gathered there as part of a healing process.

Therefore, if there is no further injury, there is no reason for the heel spur to grow any larger. If there is further injury, then the spur may enlarge.

These spurs as a rule are very tiny. If you injured your shoulder bone, for example, and a similar spur formed you would never notice it.

On the bottom of the heel, it's different. Your weight presses on it. You might compare it to having a very small pebble, or even a sharp grain of sand in your shoe. It feels a lot bigger than it really is.

Consequently, the best treatment for a heel spur is to find a way of keeping weight off that spot. There aren't many ways of doing it. Some sort of pad or soft limerosite, in fact, is about the only method I know, although the padding may take different forms. A piece of felt to fit inside the shoe, with a hole cut where the spur is would be one method. A small sheepskin or other soft padding is another.

When ordinary walking does not cause pain, but only special pressure on the heel, then very minor padding may be enough to solve the whole matter. It would be wise to avoid putting on enough pressure to cause pain, since you may inflame the area enough to require a new period of healing — and thus enlargement of the spur.

It is true that in severe cases, when the spur is unusually large or sharp or strategically located, surgery may be necessary. For a small spur, however, that is drastic step in comparison with the problem. It may not be easy to find and remove a very tiny spur, and besides, the healing of the wound itself may give rise to new discomfort unless great care is taken to keep off the foot until full healing has taken place.

My answer, then, usually is not to resort to surgery unless padding under the heel simply cannot cope with the trouble.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have been reading about the new vaccine for measles. I am 19 and have never had measles. Do I need this vaccine as late in my teens, or at 19 am I immune to measles? — A.B.

Age is of no particular significance. If you haven't had the disease, or the vaccine, there is no reason to think you are immune. (You may, however, have had a light case that was a mistaken for something else.)

If you don't think you've had measles, I would certainly have the vaccine, because the older you are, the more severe the disease can be if you catch it.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any significance in a yellow-orange deposit in a glass container in which urine has been saved overnight? It resembles calcium, or perhaps pumice, in texture, and adheres tightly to the glass. Would this substance form stones in the kidneys? — F.Z.

This is probably phosphate precipitated from the urine, as this occurs when it has stood awhile. Microscopic or chemical examination of the crystals will identify them. It is doubtful if they are related to kidney stone formation.

City Dairy Owned By Trenton Firm

In Wednesday's edition of The Intelligencer a story in connection with the smaller dairies in the South Hastings area buying bottled milk it was stated that the Reid's Dairy of Belleville was now owned by Riverside Dairy of Kingston.

This was an error. The story should have said the Belleville dairy was owned by Riverside Dairy of Trenton.

Confederation Good to Quebec But Change Needed--Johnson

NEW YORK (CP) — Premier Daniel Johnson of Quebec said Thursday night that Quebec had derived "great benefits" from Confederation but added that it is time to start working for "a new constitution for a modern state."

The conference of provincial governments in Toronto next this month might "turn out to be the turning point of Confederation, a starting point for new constitutional arrangements in Canada."

But the Toronto meeting was "only the beginning" and it would be "a long task," he said, adding that Quebec was not the only province that disagreed with points in the Confederation agreements.

But "with modern communications and good will Canada can solve its problems," he said in an address to the Canadian Society of New York.

The premier, who arrived here Tuesday night to fill the speaking engagement, also has held talks with private groups and held talks with Wall Street financiers.

The premier himself had stressed before leaving Quebec that the visit arose from the invitation of the Canadian Society but said he would utilize the trip to urge greater investment in the province.

He also planned visits with "certain companies on the point of investment in Quebec," Johnson said.

Johnson said Thursday that it would be "unfair" to say that Quebec had not derived benefits from Confederation.

"Where it started on the wrong track was with taxes, as is often the case," he said, noting that Canada simply had "all the problems of any federated state anywhere," including the United States where individual states and the federal government in Washington often had difficulties.

"It is through dialogue and understanding that we intend to settle the question of the relations between the two founding peoples of Canada."

The task and duty of peoples of different cultures was "not to fight" but to work together.

The "onus of responsibility" who must "shape a new constitution" for Canada must look 10 or 100 years in the future when barriers of race and culture would be torn down.

Much of the speech was devoted to the resources of Quebec which Johnson said now has the necessary tools for an economic growth reaching "far beyond immediate visible horizons."

The banquet, attended by more than 500 persons, was a gala affair in a gold-and-white dining hall of the Hotel Plaza, the tables decorated with the flags of Canada, Quebec and the United States along with the Union Jack and Expo 67 flags.

The Canadian Society is made up of scientists Canadians and American businessmen with interests in Canada.

Head table guests included A. E. Ritchie, Canada's ambassador in Washington.

Strictly Personal

Environment and Learning

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

We look upon "learning" as an isolated process that takes place in the mind; but nothing takes place in the mind alone. The total environment in which we learn something is an integral part of that learning.

Everyone who speaks a second language, however poorly, has had the experience of "forgetting" that language when he returns to his homeland. Yet, if he goes back to the scene of the second language, he quickly picks it up again — because the environment promotes speedy recall.

The specific environment becomes a "part" of what is learned. For instance, experiments have shown that when the classroom learning of schoolchildren is late, examined in a different room, the amount recalled is smaller than when the exam takes place in the original room.

Even having a different teacher in charge of the exam impairs the recall. And, more strikingly, even a minor environment cue as color is important — when pupils are given nonsense syllables to learn against a colored background, it takes more time to relearn them later when presented against a different color of ground than when the background color remains the same!

What the German psychologists call "gestalt" — the total pattern with all its associations and interrelationships — determines how well we learn and how easily we recall what we have learned. If we learn under unpleasant conditions, the learning tends to be rejected along with the negative environment it took place in.

If we understand this, we can organize more fully with the demand for integrated schooling on the part of the underprivileged. It is not so much that the all - white schools have better teachers and more adequate material; it is that the total environment of learning promotes relation and recall, and that results in higher marks for crucial examinations.

An "integrated" school that is conducive to learning is fully as important as the actual tools and techniques of education. Most learning is a process of association — and if pupils associate the material with bleak conditions, indifferent teachers, inattentive pupils, and a prison atmosphere, then the subjects themselves will be repressed and rejected. Mind and the emotions cannot be separated by anyone, and stimulation, and adequate motivation are the three most important elements that make for effective learning — and when these are lacking, it is a lot more comfortable to forget than to remember.

Ontario Treasury Expands

TORONTO (CP) — Charles MacNaughton, Ontario provincial treasurer, gave his department a shot in the arm Thursday with formation of a new economic section to guide government tax reform and direct fiscal policies.

Acting on a recommendation from the Ontario committee on taxation, Mr. MacNaughton said his new department will become the finances and economics division and his own section will be called the provincial revenue department.

Mr. MacNaughton said the move would "ensure that the full force of the government's fiscal power is directed towards continued growth and improved stability in the provincial economy."

The move, which shifts a lot of economic power from the office of Stanley Randall, Ontario economic and development minister, adds to the treasury's growing power within the provincial cabinet.

The reshuffle becomes effective Dec. 15.

"The regrouping acknowledges that the government's evolving fiscal role requires the services of a highly expert study group and research group," Mr. MacNaughton's statement said.

Italian Train Wreck

Rescue teams examine wreckage of two express trains that collided near Salerno, Italy, Thursday, after one of them rammed a wandering herd of buffalo and jumped the track. The Milan-to-Palermo express tore through the herd and then into a derailed commuter train. Thirteen passengers were killed and about 70 were injured. (AP Photo)

Solicitor-General Makes Plea For Death Penalty Abolition

OTTAWA (CP) — Solicitor-General Pennell pleaded with MPs Thursday to abolish at least partially the death penalty and authorize its use only for murderers of prison guards and police officers for a five-year trial period.

He directed a special plea to those who would do away with hanging in all cases:

"I believe that this bill will only be defeated in principle if there is an unhappy coalition between those who feel that the bill has not gone far enough and those who feel that it has gone too far."

He spoke as the Commons opened debate on his bill to limit the death penalty. Voting on the measure is to be free of party lines.

After second reading—approval in principle—Mr. Pennell said he would listen with "great interest and deep respect" to any amendments that might be moved.

An attentive Commons listened to 10 speeches—five favoring the bill, four against it and one undecided. The debate continues today with Prime Minister Pearson expected to be one of the speakers.

There is an ancient expression . . . that half a loaf is better than no bread," said the Toronto lawyer. "It might be said by those who favor abolition that the present bill provides for 99-100 of the loaf and that it would be wrong to reject it."

Those who spoke against the bill laid heavy emphasis on the fact that Parliament, only 18 months ago, voted to retain hanging for all convicted murderers.

They also drew attention to the 22 commutations ordered by the cabinet since the Liberals took office in 1963. There have been no hangings in Canada since 1962 and so the country in effect already had done away with the death penalty, they argued.

Mr. Pennell pointed to results of a study by a British royal commission that led to a U.K. bill ending hanging for a trial period.

Backing the minister with speeches were Mr. Brewin, John Matheson, parliamentary assistant to Mr. Pearson, Harold Winch (NDP—Vancouver East) and Harold Stafford (L—Elgin).

Speaking against the bill were Robert Thompson (SC—Red Deer), Gerald Laprise (Creditiste—Compton-Frontenac), Hugh John Flemming (PC—Victoria-Carleton)) and George Hees (PC—Northumberland).

Mr. Hees said the bill is unfair since it keeps the death penalty for killers of police but not for killers of a civilian who tries to help police.

Harry Gorsline Close Second In Rye Contest

Five times winner of the rye championship at the Royal Winter Fair, Mr. Harry Gorsline of Demorestville in Prince Edward County had to be satisfied with being "close" this year.

This year, the sixth straight time, the world championship has been won by an Ontario farmer, the honor went to Fred Goring of Scotland in Brant County.

Size of Dairy Herds Shows Big Increase

Hastings county farmers have known it all along, but the fact big dairy herds are increasing in number is substantiated by the monthly dairy report published by the Ontario department of agriculture and food.

Statistics show that the small dairy herd is fast disappearing while the number of herds with 50 or more cows has more than tripled in the past 10 years. In the same period the number of smaller herds has decreased by two thirds.

Only dairy herds with from 10 to 32 cows have remained static with 14,202 such herds being reported 10 years ago and 14,220 last year.

The number of farmers with 33 to 47 cows jumped from 1890 to 4610 in the 10 years; those with 48 to 62 cows increased from 367 to 1464 and herds with over 92 cows jumped in number from 22 to 164.

Taking in the entire picture the number of farms reporting milk cows decreased 45 per cent in the 10 year period — from 95,000 in 1956 to 52,000 last year — but the total number of cows decreased by only 1.5 per cent.

Ten years ago there were 922,000 cows reported by Ontario farmers. A year ago this number had dropped to just under 909,000.

Rail Liner Will Operate Until April of Next Year

The rail service between Belleville and Montreal operated by the CNR over the summer months will continue — at least until next April.

J. K. Fleming, passenger sales manager for the CNR, said yesterday the rail liner — originally called the Expo-liner — will continue to operate until April of 1968. "We'll take a second look at the operation at that time," he said.

Mr. Fleming claims the service was initiated following pressure from various groups in the communities along the route. "It worked out well while Expo was open in Montreal," he said, "But sales have dropped as much as 85 per cent since the world fair closed."

The three car rail liner leaves Belleville at 6.45 in the morning and arrives in Montreal at 10.21 P. M. returns in the evening. "If the service was dropped it would mean an overnight stay in Montreal," Norman Lowe, of the company's public relations department, said. "The next train leaving Belleville for Montreal is at noon."

Since Expo, the company has witnessed a drastic drop in the number of passengers using the service. "We carried 78,000 people over the summer and our figures show sales have dropped by at least 85 per cent," Mr. Lowe claimed.

Both CNR representatives feel the train will be eliminated if the service doesn't get the support of the public over the winter months. "But it will definitely operate until April," Mr. Fleming said.

He thinks the people in the Quinte area should be cultivated in using the trains after the excellent results this summer. "Our advertising was geared to Expo but now we want to let the people know we'll be operating the same service this winter."

Mr. Lowe says Chambers of Commerces along the Belleville — Montreal route are interested in the service and would not like to see the train eliminated.

"The public have been asking for this service for years and now that it's here they're not using it. Perhaps they're not informed about the rail liner," he said.

Income Surcharge Seen as Likely Tax

Sharp Silent About Details

OTTAWA (CP) — Where? When? And how much? These were the unanswered questions following Finance Minister Sharp's announcement in the Commons Friday that he will raise taxes.

He said he would be introducing "new fiscal measures including temporary tax measures" later this month in the Commons.

But he later told a crowded news conference he could not discuss what taxes would be raised, and by how much. This information would be given first to the House of Commons when he makes his tax move, he said.

Speculation centred on the probability of a surcharge on personal incomes, similar to the 10-per-cent surcharge President Johnson is seeking from a reluctant U.S. Congress.

Mr. Sharp said the new tax will be part of a "many-sided attack on high and rising prices and costs.

He characterized the current inflation as of the cost-push variety, rather than the demand-pull inflation Canada has experienced more frequently in the past.

This time, instead of excess spending power pulling prices up, they are being pushed up by wage and salary costs, the high cost of borrowing money, and other costs that go into all kinds of industry.

Demand-pull inflation usually is tackled by an increase of taxes designed to drain off spending power.

He would not describe what new fiscal measures in addition to temporary tax measures he planned.

And he told the news conference that by "temporary" he meant that the new tax would be subject to later discussion with the provinces and the government's over-all intentions of reforming the tax structure.

He spoke of introducing the new tax later this month. An informant said the date would be between the federal-provincial finance ministers conference opening Nov. 16 and the end of the month.

He said the new tax could take effect as soon as announced, or at some later date

Convoy Attacked

SAIGON (AP) — A U.S. armored convoy was ambushed in the Communist-infested area around Dak To in the central highlands early today. Five U.S. soldiers were killed and seven wounded in 15 minutes.

The convoy of U.S. Army engineers called in artillery on the Communists and 13 were killed.

Wild West Mayor Receives A Scare

BRAWLEY, Calif. (AP) — But for the sharp eyes of a man about to be "hanged", a mayor was nearly lost.

On the scaffold Thursday night, as a crowd looked on, he noticed that the harness rope — to keep him from being truly hanged — was longer than the rope noose.

Quickly, Williams substituted an arm for his neck and, as the gallows door sprung open, he plummeted down. The noose tightened around his wrist as he hung, kicking.

He Is Not Alone

Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp, emerging from the House of Commons yesterday, holds his hand to his head as if he has a headache. If he does he isn't alone. His announcement, that he will introduce tax increases gave the whole country a headache. (CP Photo).

Congo Attack Debated

Canada Joins Critics Of Portuguese Role

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Speakers in the United Nations squared off against Portugal on two fronts Friday and Canada criticized her role in the "illegal" attack on The Congo by mercenaries operating out of the Portuguese-administered territory of Angola.

Ambassador George Ignatieff, Canada's permanent representative, said in the Security Council that it was "hard to imagine" that the attack Nov. 2 "could have happened without at least the knowledge of the Portuguese authorities." He added that the council had "a clear duty to take effective action to eliminate the threat of mercenary incursions into The Congo."

Meanwhile, UN's trusteeship committee called on the Security Council to consider imposing a worldwide trade and economic boycott against Portugal in a pressure move to speed independence for the Portugese-administered territorie of Angola, Mozambique and Portuguese Guinea.

Canada's abstention in this vote represented a change in position from last year when she had joined Britain, the United States and other Western countries in voting against a similar resolution.

Several others also switched their votes in an apparent attempt to impress Portugal with the idea that they agreed with many principles of the resolution although they could not approve some of the harsh language included in it. It was co-sponsored by 32 countries.

The resolution accused the North Atlantic Treaty Organization — of which Canada and Portugal both are members — of aiding the "repression" of Africans in the territories by supplying Portugal with arms.

Gordon Cox, a deputy permanent representative for Canada, said Canada had "serious reservations" about the language of some paragraphs but that Canada believed in the basic principles underlying the resolution and would simply abstain instead of voting against it.

The vote was 90 to 8, with 15 abstentions and 19 delegations absent. A year ago, a similar resolution urging a halt in the shipment of arms to Portugal was passed by a vote of 76 to 12, with 16 abstentions.

Gang Executioner Machine-guns Trio

NEW YORK (AP) — A calm, spectacled executioner stepped quietly into an Italian-American restaurant in Queens Friday night and shot three men dead with methodical bursts from a sub-machine gun.

Then, as if to 25 other customers crouched in terror, the killer wheeled without a word and walked back out the rear door. His victims were left sprawled face down on the floor.

Police identified them as Thomas D'Angelo, 54, his brother James, 60, and Frank Terelli, 43. Capt. Thomas Madden of the Queens detectives said that all had criminal records.

There was speculation the slayings stemmed from gangland friction.

"It was a professional job," deputy fire chief, said reporters:

Fire Sweeps British Ship

PORTSMOUTH, England (AP) — Fire raged for nearly six hours below deck on the British aircraft carrier Victorious in drydock today and the defence ministry said one crew member was killed.

The 30,500-ton vessel was being refitted and half her normal 2,000-man crew was aboard.

Officials said there were no other casualties reported. The lone victim was found by firemen searching the vessel after the fire was put out.

Dense, choking smoke beat back more than 50 firemen wearing as masks as they fought their way into the bowels of the ship trying to locate the heart of the blaze. It apparently started in the quarters of a chief petty officer.

Robert Bray, Portsmouth's

"The fire is surrounded and under control."

The 28-year-old Victorious is veteran of wartime convoys in Russia, air actions against the German battleships Bismarck and Tirpitz and Far East service during the Second World War.

The Victorious, launched a few days after the outbreak of the Second World War in September, 1939, was rebuilt between 1950 and 1958. She also underwent major refits in 1953 and 1961.

Productivity Under Review

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Sharp told the Commons Friday the problem of improving Canadian industrial productivity is "constantly under review."

He made the statement in reply to George Hees (PC—Northumberland) who said it is evident that the demand for equal wages for Canadian and U.S. workers is going to extend from the auto industry to other industries.

Mr. Hees said this is going to require higher productivity on the part of Canadian workers and he asked what steps the government has in mind to help achieve this.

"The government has a great many measures directed towards this end," Mr. Sharp said.

Police Guard Bombing Victim Fighting for Life in Hospital

MYER RUSH

TORONTO (CP) — Myer Rush, one of three men charged with a $100,000,000 stock fraud, remained in poor condition and under police guard in hospital late Friday following a gang-style bombing attempt on his life.

The bombing occurred only hours before the 44-year-old stock promoter was to appear in court as a preliminary hearing into a $100,000,000 stock fraud conspiracy.

The charges were laid in connection with activities of British Overseas Mutual Funds Corp. and Darien Co. S. A. Two other men involved also are charged with trading in securities not registered with the Ontario Securities Commission.

A small foreign-made alarm clock, recovered intact, was connected with two wires to the bomb, hidden in the bed between the mattress and box spring. The bomb was placed so Rush could neither see nor feel it lump.

One policeman said Rush would have been torn in half by the blast if the mattress had not cushioned the shock.

Police say the skill with which the bomb was planted indicated a professional killer had been hired, probably from somewhere outside Toronto. Several

Three Captured U. S. Sergeants Handed Over to Peace Delegate

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — The Viet Cong "symbolically" turned over three captured U.S. sergeants to an American anti-war activist today. A U.S. document said the men had been through Communist brainwashing programs.

They gave an apparently memorized statement of thanks to the Viet Cong and to Tom Hayden, who said he represented a peace committee led by Dr. Martin Luther King, folk singer Joan Baez and Dr. Benjamin Spock.

But Hayden said after the ceremonies that the prisoners were not in his custody. He said they were taken away in a car, but he would not say where.

Asked if the men were free, Hayden said: "I believe so."

"They are in the process of going home," he said. He added he would see them later in the day.

The U.S. document concerning brainwashing was released by American officials in Saigon. In it, Donald Rochlen, a psychological warfare adviser to the South Vietnamese government, told of an interview with a Communist defector who said he personally took part in the indoctrination of two of the prisoners.

Release of the document followed the elaborately staged "release ceremony," at which the Viet Cong said they hoped the sergeants would "contribute usefully" to the anti-war movement.

Pitzer followed the same formula, reciting name, rank and serial number. He appeared lean but untanned and wore his hair in a crew cut.

Pitzer said: "I was captured in October, 1963, in Caumau province, I have been a prisoner for long years. I want to say in my four years as a prisoner I have not been physically tortured or beaten by anyone.

"I want to thank the National Liberation Front for its lenient policy and Mr. Hayden for his efforts to get us back to America."

In Saigon, Rochlen's report said he interviewed Phung Van Tuong, a Viet Cong defector, who said he tutored two of the sergeants on the "facts of the war—how the Americans caused it" and on "how much suffering the Americans have caused the Vietnamese people."

Memories of Half A Century Reviewed

About 300 veterans were on hand at an Armistice Day banquet last night. Here two of the oldtimers, Tommy York, 81, and A. S. Newman, 84, talk over past battles. Both veterans are retired railway employees and live in Belleville. They served overseas in the First World War. For story see page 2.

Doctors' Fees in U. S. Are Increasing Sharply

WASHINGTON (AP)—Doctors' fees, which have increased spectacularly in the United States in the last year, are likely to continue rising sharply, government officials say.

Federal officials express concern about doctor fees and other medical costs. They are encouraging such changes as more group practice by doctors and use of more physician assistants. But they say it will be years before such changes have a major impact on fees.

Demand for doctors' services is expected to increase by one-third between 1965 and 1975, said a report on medical costs submitted to President Johnson earlier this year.

The supply of doctors for the period is expected to increase by only 17 per cent, and not even that much for family doctors.

Doctors' fees increased for years at about the same pace as wages. But in 1966, they jumped 7.8 per cent. And the latest Bureau of Labor Statistics figures show an increase of 8.5 per cent from August, 1966, to August this year.

Veterans Honor Dead In Two World Wars

The annual Remembrance Day parade left the armories about 10.30 this morning to march to the cenotaph and Canniffon Road and Station Street to commemorate the memory of those who died in two great wars.

Led by the color party and the parade marshal, the procession filed out of the armories and marched slowly down Bridge Street to Pinnacle Street to Station Street where the memorial stands.

Taking part in the parade were the Duke of Edinburgh Unit and their Ladies Auxiliary including the pipe band, Branch 99 of the Royal Canadian Legion, its Ladies Auxiliary, Col. Phay Wills Branch 587 of the Royal Canadian Legion, the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, the Royal Canadian Airforce Flight, the Royal Canadian Sea Cadets and Air Force Cadets, Boy Scouts, and wreath bearers and civilian organizations and marchers.

Music was played throughout the procession by the Branch 99 Royal Canadian Legion Trumpet Band, the Royal Canadian Air Force Pipe Band and the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Band.

At the cenotaph wreaths were laid by federal and provincial members Lew Grills and Dr. Richard Potter respectively. As well wreaths were laid by Mayor Jack Ellis and all of the military and Legion branches in the area.

During the service at the cenotaph the hymn and national anthem were played by the Salvation Army Band with 'Last Post' and 'Reveille' played by a Salvation Army Bugler. Lament was played by Pipe Major E. McIvein of the Duke of Edinburgh Unit.

After the service the procession made its way back to the armories by way of Station Street, to Front Street and back to Bridge Street.

A change in sales tax usually takes effect immediately. A change in corporation tax can be made retroactive or put ahead. A change in personal income tax usually requires time for the revenue department and employers to adjust to new payroll deduction rates.

Mr. Sharp's announcement created little stir in the stock markets. The Toronto and Montreal markets rose slightly, but brokers attributed this to strength in the New York market.

Mr. Sharp's office later announced the government will seek to sell $250,000,000 of new long-term bonds next Tuesday, and $100,000,000 in special 292-day treasury bills on Nov. 28.

The $250,000,000 total will be used to redeem $105,000,000 worth of bonds and $100,000,00 worth of treasury bills soon falling due, and to general purposes of the government—in other words, spending and financing Crown corporations.

Vets' Banquet Makes History

History Made

Roy Madden and Tom Smith were in attendance at a veterans' banquet at the Belleville armories last night. The occasion made history — it was the first time the veterans held a combined remembrance day meeting. About 300 members attended.

Armistice Day Reunion Success

It was a first for Belleville and war veterans in the Quinte area.

Last night about 300 veterans crowded into the Belleville armories for the annual remembrance day banquet. In previous years each of the service branches held separate meetings.

But last night even the ladies got into the co-operative spirit. The meal was served by ladies from both the Legion and ANAF branches.

Chairman of public relations for the affair, Jack Rashotte said the veterans have been working on the get-together for months and termed it a "Centennial project".

It's the first time we've had this spirit of co-operation in the long history of the banquets", he said.

Veterans from all branches of the service were on hand to talk over old times.

They heard speeches from various celebrities during the four hour program. And during what is perhaps the most important part of the evening talked over past battles and experiences.

Ald. Enos David Challenges Ald. Ken Soden to Run Again

Belleville Alderman Enos David this morning challenged Alderman Ken Soden to resign himself for city council.

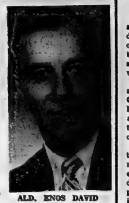
The challenge comes in the wake of charges yesterday by Ald. Soden that $300 pledges to the proposed arena board by Alderman David and Arthur Keegan were "pre-election opportunism."

Ald. Soden presented a cheque for $500 with "no strings attached." Both Ald. David and Keegan attached terms to their presentations.

In a prepared statement Ald. David claims Ald. Soden should "Run again for alderman — not run away".

"I challenge him and every other responsible individual to think hard before committing an expenditure of one million dollars at a time when the cost of borrowing is at a peak."

Ald. David claims, "It is significant that Aldermen Soden and Don Williams, who voted against immediate action for relief for the unfortunate people in our city last spring, are now leading the drive to spend almost a million dollars of the taxpayers' money".



"No determined effort has been made to enlist potential private and corporate support as had been done in all other communities and it is a matter of public record that I have mentioned this at every debate on the subject for many weeks past."

"I want Ald. Soden to know that the money I pledged is available at the bank and the terms I suggested are merely guidelines — not conditions."

"I think we should welcome Ald. Soden's generous contribution along with many others that are rolling in."

Ald. David claims that in the midst of our affluent society many children, older people and whole families are suffering from hunger, cold and disease.

"And while this is happening our city welfare budget was cut in half. I repeat it is significant that Aldermen Soden and Williams voted in favor of this measure."

Company Employees Honored

It was a big night for employees of Stephens-Adamson Mfg. Co. last evening and a long one but it's doubtful if anybody minded the length.

The evening's program was a celebration of the company's 40th anniversary and was held at the Club Canara. Beginning with an introduction by evening chairman and vice-president V. L. Lewis and the invocation by D/ J. Batchelor the welcome and introduction of guests was made by J. C. Young who is vice-president in charge of sales.

Some of the guests were company representatives from as far as Vancouver.

Before the dinner the presentation of pins was made in seven categories. They were awarded to 125 of the company's employees. There were two second generation families and one third generation family in the company.

Dinner followed the presentations with music provided by Jimmy Corradi and the Doug Aseltine Quartet played for the dance, which was held afterwards.

Member Wants 'Means Test' Dropped in Pension Payments

"I should like to say a mean test", said the visiting Conservative MP for Hastings South, when he referred to the "means test" senior citizens are again being asked to take. "I would like to drop the 's'," he stated.

Speaking in parliament Thursday, Mr. Grills requested that the "government give consideration to the elimination of the means test in respect of the supplementary benefits to the old age pension provided for people 70 and over.

He reasoned that these people were now being asked to "forward a further application for supplementary benefits based on an annual means test".

Referring to the increasing cost of living and the confusion that the applications cause some of the elderly citizens Mr. Grills recommended simplification of the regulations.

The MP continued, "others who are not as old are discouraged . . . they are reasonably independent, but they now find that if they earn a few dollars they're no longer entitled to the old age pension supplement."

He criticized the government for taking the satisfaction from earning extra money that these people have and therefore destroying their incentive. "Many of these people could make a very worthwhile contribution to our productivity, "he went on", certainly there is a place for them".

The South Hastings M.P. then referred to the "misleading information which is given to veterans and veterans' widows regarding pension rights".

He continued, "These unfortunate people are lead to believe that the supplementary benefits are going to be in addition to their war veteran's allowance when actually their war veteran's allowance is reduced by the same amount and in some cases in the final analysis the total received is less than prior to applying for the supplementary benefits.

"As we approach Remembrance Day, let us remember these people", closed the M.P.'s remarks.

CWL Holds Bazaar

DESERONTO — The Catholic Women's League of St. Vincent de Paul, Church in Deseronto chose the centennial colors for the theme of its decorations for the bazaar and tea held in the Lions' Hall. Red and white streamers met over the tea table, just above the arrangement of red and white carnations with which it was centred. The tapers in the silver candlesticks were white. A silver tea service was at either end. Each small table had its miniature flower arrangement, with red and white predominating.

Mrs. M. E. Dowling and Mrs. Anson Lord were co-convenors for the tea. At the door to welcome the guests was the president, Mrs. Mervin Sherman. Mrs. Lynn Thomlinson sold tickets for the tea, and Mrs. William Saunders and Mrs. Joseph Walsh for the draws.

Pouring tea were representatives of the women's organizations of sister churches:— Mrs. Blake Moore, Mrs. Rockwell Hawley, Mrs. Robert Tucker and Mrs. Stafford Claus, Sr., all of Deseronto; and Mrs. T. V. Corrigan, Read and Mrs. William Walsh, Marysville.

Sale tables were arranged near the walls. Mrs. Donald Reid and Mrs. Gordon Brennan were in charge of the miscellaneous table. The apron table, was in charge of Mrs. R. E. Dowling and her daughter Elizabeth. The table of baked goods required three ladies, Mrs. Ed Sine, Mrs. Nan Gordon, and Miss Nora Cox. In charge of the white elephant table were Mrs. Ernest Dorey and Mrs. Matthew Cassidy.

There were six draws, the prizes going to the people in the order in which their names were drawn. Winners were: Mrs. William Walsh, Lonsdale; Mrs. Phyllis Murphy, Deseronto; Miss Margaret Nolan, milk taste better. If the family includes an infant, add canned baby food.

"Remember to notify your family that assistance will be given," Mrs. Bochnek warns. "If you plan a Christmas Day surprise, the family will think it has been forgotten."

Symbol of the Christmas Exchange is the Three Wise Men, bearers of the first Christmas gifts. To avoid their tardiness — they arrived 12 days late for the first Christmas — donors are asked to register with the Exchange before Nov. 15. The number is 962-3097.

Christmas Exchange Organized; Clearing House for Donors Gifts

Remember Pollyanna?

She was the little girl who asked a mission society for a doll for Christmas and got crutches instead. Her father told her she should be glad she didn't need them, and invented the Glad Game.

The headless charity Pollyanna experienced died with Queen Victoria. Well, almost. Duplication, mistaken choices and ego-stepping condescension still exists in some areas of Christmas giving.

United Community Services this year organized a Christmas Exchange to make sure every little Pollyanna gets her doll. The Exchange does not promote giving; it is a clearing house set up to match recipients' needs to donors' gifts.

Mrs. Selma Bochnek, volunteer director of the Exchange, explains: "If every family in need of an extra boost at Christmas is registered with us, we will see that none is embarrassed with an abundance from several different sources and none is forgotten. We will advise on the kind of help each family can use and on the manner of giving best calculated to maintain its self-respect."

Churches, veterans' groups and others who regularly give assistance to families they know are also asked to register with the Exchange. Only in this way can the duplication of their gift by other organizations be avoided. The firemen, who operate the annual toy project, will cooperate with the Exchange.

Mrs. Bochnek's Christmas started in August, after she finished co-ordinating Expo-a-go-go, the project that sent 350 district children to Expo for a day. She studied similar Christmas exchanges programs in Toronto, and American cities and chose the best of their practices for use here. She drew up a referral form and pamphlet for distribution to about 100 donor groups in the city.

Referrals are accepted only from health and welfare agencies, churches, teachers, nurses, clergymen, doctors, lodges and the like. When listing a family with the Exchange the referral agency notes the ages and sex of the children and the type of aid needed — food, (or money to buy food if the agency thinks this will enhance the family's self-respect), toys, clothes, and equipment for special interests such as hockey skin pads or artist's supplies.

The pamphlet contains a list of dietician-prepared suggestions for food baskets. Items listed take care of the holiday period as well as

Meet the best reason in the world for having a Cascade 40 electric water heater

But, tiny as he is, this little fellow will go through four or five thousand diapers in his first eighteen months. Not to mention coveralls, sleepers and scads of other pint-sized apparel. With very little effort, he can conjure up many other ways of increasing your need for hot water. For instance, stubborn little finger marks caused by sticky little fingers. It all adds up to a whale of a lot of hot water.

If your present water heater can't meet your growing needs, perhaps your home could do with one more addition — a Cascade 40 electric water heater. It will provide all the hot water you're ever likely to need . . . for only a few cents a day.

"Empire Building" the Latest Costly Craze of Government

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Something's got to be completely cockeyed:

Here were the Honorable Members of the House of Commons, just the other day, laboriously working over the current federal spending Estimates, topping $10,000,000,000 — sure, that is ten billion dollars — with the best part of the money already spent.

Most of the dough had to be down the drain because the current Estimates cover federal spending for the Government's financial year ending next March 31 — and seven of the 12 months already are history.

Add to that the costly fact that having estimated its money requirements at $10,000,000,000, the Government twice now has been back to the Commons, passing its hat for further contributions in the form of two sets of Supplementary — which, in plain English, means "more please" — Estimates.

Now, everybody on Parliament Hill knows that much of the ever-increasing cost of Government can be charged to the Bureaucracy's preoccupation with what is known as "Empire-Building."

You build an Ottawa "Empire" by dreaming up new "programs," as they are called, in which a federal department to rationalize the hiring of more staff.

For the more people you have under you, the bigger wheel you become.

And so, for the last couple of years, staff has been hired at the dizzying clip of 1,000 a month.

The greatest of all the Ottawa "Empires" was to be the Industry Department, created inside the Defence Production Department.

No mere dreaming up of new "programs" within a department, this — but the infinitely more sophisticated gimmick of fabricating a new bureaucratic empire of a Department-Within-a-Department.

When it all happened, only four years ago, Defence Production had a staff of 3,276 and Industry had 33.

Now Defence Production has 4,523 and Industry 328.

But what 329!

It takes only a quick glance into the Industry Estimates to show that 462 of those 329 rate $14,000 or better, with 38 in the $20,000 range.

This is such a piece of sheer bureaucratic brilliance in "Empire-Building" that even the New Democrats — and they dote on Big Government — are dazzled.

Just listen to Reid Scott, New Democratic MP for Toronto-Dundonth, describe what has happened. He speaks more in sorrow than in anger and with certain overtones of wry amazement, perhaps even a hint of grudging admiration.

Watch a dig up Scott hat in the Commons to Industry Minister Charles Drury, he says when the Department's $91,000,000 spending program is being examined:

"The Minister has learned well the great art of Ottawa. Not that he does it, now his way around as a former Deputy Minister ("Bud" Drury was a Defence Department civilian Deputy) but he has mastered the fine art of Empire-Building."

The size of his Department has increased in inverse ratio to its performance. It has trebled in size (Reid Scott's arithmetic is wildly off, for the Department has mushroomed by 16-times its initial size).

"And no matter what the Opposition says, the Minister goes about in his lively way surrounded by his prize white-kids (no doubt some of those 38 wheels who rate that $20,000 or better).

"He is determined to cling to his view that the Opposition is a bunch of dunderheads who really don't know anything anyway, by no means as literate us as his Estimates go through the Commons."

Check.

Never, possibly, has Reid Scott been so right.

For while he was telling "Bud" Drury what a dandy little "Empire-Builder" he was, the Industry Minister just sat there beaming.

He had reason to beam, too. Because for all their complaining about Government waste and extravagance, neither Reid Scott nor any other MP so much as lopped a penny off those $91,000,000 of Estimates. So "Bud" Drury just sat there, smug in the knowledge that he would spend or save just as he — and not they — fancied.

The name of the Estimates game is spelled Economy, with the Opposition supposed to find ways of persuading the Minister to save a dollar here and there.

But how can you save, with most of the money already spent?

Jet Pilots Best in Their 50s

Winnipeg Press

Pilots of the British Overseas Airways Corporation are working to rule because of a wage dispute. The senior captains now earn about $18,000, which is less than the pay of other United States or French airline pilots. On the other hand, British air crews average only about 500 flying hours a year, as against 1,000 hours averaged by pilots of other countries. The British pilots demand that they should be allowed to work the full 1,000 hours and be paid accordingly, between $20,000 and $23,000.

Piloting a jet airliner, where the captain is responsible for the lives of some 150 people, is a highly complex technical operation. It demands minute attention to detail, expert knowledge of constantly developing modern technology, steady nerves and a good physique that can easily overcome fatigue arising out of rapidly changing time zones.

As the airlines have found out, men in their late fifties are better suited for this exacting work than younger men. The North American cult of youth — where at 35 one is often considered too old for a new career—may require a searching second look.

Tax Boost Coming

It is only five weeks or so since Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp appealed to business and labor to join the Government in an effort to hold down costs and prices.

At that time he warned that if voluntary action cannot control inflation, the Government would have to curb production and income by deflating the economy. And this, he indicated, could mean a tax increase to reduce purchasing power, raise unemployment and reduce production and profits.

Mr. Sharp had the gall then to boast that the Government, for long the biggest spender of all, was setting an example of restraint, and that industrial and labor groups should consider how best they could co-operate in reducing costs and prices.

Yes, that was only five weeks ago. Now the finance minister has announced temporary tax increases will be introduced later this month. In other words, the warning he gave early in October was only a token thing to get the Government off the hook once it did decide to boost taxes.

Clearly, the Government has been planning to increase taxes all along. There is a suggestion of panic in Ottawa's move, coming as it does only a short time after its initial warning — a warning that has been sounded by economists and newspapers many times in the past.

Now it remains to be seen if the tax increases will have their effect. Experience suggests that it does not pay a government to halt the inflationary spiral, only for it to pick up again. This is the price Canada is paying for its long uncontrolled spending spree.

New Career at 63

Some men are old and worn out at 40 . . . others young and still vigorous at 60, with many years of usefulness ahead of them.

In the latter category, such a man is Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger who has resigned as Archbishop of Montreal to do missionary work among lepers in missionary lands.

Cardinal Leger is 63, still many years from the retirement age of 75 that has been set for diocesan prelates.

Amid day-to-day routine, we tend to forget there is a vast world outside offering unlimited scope for voluntary assistance or missionary work. Increasingly people are huddling into cities, seeking steady employment, a pension on retirement and all the other fringe benefits that are the accepted thing nowadays. They may also be seeking something else — security of a kind, even though it may be no more than the insensitive togetherness that big cities foster. The daily round, the common task, a home, car and television are the fundamental trappings of the average man's existence.

Still, there are people who see beyond the narrow confines of the urban world to the needs of others who have neither home nor security let alone food, and if they do have such essentials they are only of the most meagre and inadequate kind.

Albert Schweitzer was perhaps the most notable personality in the tradition of those who serve in remote and inhospitable places. Here there may be no real security — only a need that requires to be filled. . .

Cardinal Leger has been archbishop of Montreal since 1950. A tireless opponent of poverty, he has led many drives to raise funds for church work and in poorer countries. As a young priest in the early thirties he served in Japan.

Yet another in this tradition is Mrs. Adelaide Sinclair who retired recently after ten years as the deputy executive director of the United Nations Children's Fund. A native of Toronto, Mrs. Sinclair's job was to supervise more than 500 UNICEF programs around the world.

Negro Successes

The success of Negro candidates in the United States elections is a remarkable victory for them as well as for the cause of democracy and civil rights.

Interesting too is the varied nature of the offices to which the Negro candidates gained access — from Democrat Carl B. Stokes' victory in the mayoralty campaign in Cleveland, to the election of Thomas Atkins, 28, a Harvard law school student to city council in Boston.

More significant than the personalities themselves is the moderating influence the election of Negro candidates will have on the burning issue of civil rights. For one thing it will tend to cut the rug from under demagogues like Rap Brown and Stokely Carmichael.

This development should have been an ameliorating effect on the American scene generally, in a land where conflict and turmoil are byproducts of a society of 200 million people, and where violence is never very far from the surface.

Living Grandly Beyond Our Means

Windsor Star

Much is made, and rightly, of the large debts being accumulated by senior governments. But more disturbing and more dangerous is the accumulation of private debts.

Governments have access to many sources of revenue with which to carry their debts, or hopefully, pay them off. Or they can pass them along to future generations to carry, which seems the favorite idea.

Individuals aren't in this fortunate position. Most must rely, for their incomes, on their wages or other limited sources. They are in a serious predicament if they get over their heads in debt.

The average personal debt per working adult in Canada is now $1,020 compared to only $135 in 1948. This consumer debt now is near $8,000,000,000. This doesn't include mortgage debt which is about twice that vast amount.

The frightening thing is that this consumer debt has increased by 8½ per cent since 1961 though the public's after-tax income has risen by only 50 per cent in the same period. The going into debt is increasing much more rapidly than the ability to carry or repay it.

Another disquieting angle is that the more the individual goes into debt, the more must be paid in interest charges. This is further aggravated as interest rates rise.

These carrying charges are, for the individuals concerned, non-productive. The people have that much less with which to pay for future purchases in cash. And they have that much less to invest, even in modest amounts, to build up a family nestegg.

There are psychological and moral factors involved. A man in debt is debt wary about what it, if he be a sincere, honest man. This will have an effect on his own and his family life. Or, if he doesn't worry about it, then he is somewhat lacking in moral fibre and this also will have its effects.

Time was when it was a matter of self-respect to keep out of debt, except perhaps to get a farm, a business or a home. One perpetually in debt was held in low esteem.

Why is it that more and more people are going deeper and deeper into debt? Is more extravagance? That would be too simple an answer though partly an explanation.

The fundamental reasons are more apt to be found in our economic and financial systems and the pressures of modern life. It isn't easy to conceive of people going gladly into debt or uncaring how much they have.

Leadership Qualities On the Line

Hamilton Spectator

An Australian psychiatrist has suggested that the mental health of world leaders should be checked. The World Psychiatric Association should form a committee for the purpose, he said.

Leaders become what they are simply by being different from other people. The very qualities which make and keep them leaders are those which might be most condemned.

In extreme cases, such as Hitler who was a criminal lunatic, a check would be unnecessary for the symptoms were obvious, and in any case, the dictator would not have submitted to a test.

As far as can be observed, there are no Hitler-type leaders today. Most of them have strong individual characteristics and some are sure to have pronounced eccentricities, for, with other qualities, these explain why they are where they are.

Linguistic Ability

University Downgrades English

Windsor Star

The University of Windsor is taking a retrograde step in no longer making Grade 13 English a specific requirement for admission. But the fault really is with the Department of Education which ruled the subject no longer necessary for a senior matriculation diploma. The University still strongly recommends that English be among the seven credits needed.

English should be mandatory for admission to any university. And it should be mandatory for a year or two thereafter, even in such courses as medicine, engineering, architecture, etc. There are many reasons for this.

The main one is that no one can claim to be really educated who cannot use his own language with reasonable fluency. It is pitiful, for instance, to see a professional man unable to express himself adequately. This becomes most apparent if he is called upon to do so in public.

Most European countries do a much better job than we do in languages. Their own languages are well taught and, usually, a second or even a third language also is taught. Our teaching of a second language in Canadian collegiate and universities has been deplorable in the past. It will be even more lamentable if we don't place proper emphasis on this teaching, and learning, of our own.

Distribution Boosts Price Of Food

Brantford Expositor

When grocery prices were under probe a year ago, consumers were enquired, and quite rightly, that food shopping would be cheaper if they did not demand wide choice, pre-cooking, freezing and other conveniences that add to the manufacturer's costs. Now a Toronto management consultant, Dr. F. H. Denham, has drawn attention to another and heavy cost factor, that of distribution.

When bread prices went up again recently the main culprit was said to be higher wages. These did play a part, but Dr. Denham points out that almost 60 per cent of the cost of a loaf to the consumer occurs after the product leaves the production line, and he faults inefficient distribution. There are deliveries to individual stores, duplicated delivery systems and costly home deliveries. Milk is another example. Home delivery in three-quart jugs eats up 42.5 per cent of the retail price.

Fighting in the First World War came to an end at 11 a.m. 49 years ago today—in 1918—after the signing of an armistice near Compiegne, France, in a message to the nation, United States President Woodrow Wilson declared: "The Armistic was signed this morning. Everything for which America fought has been accomplished."

UK's Long Hard Road To Europe

Sunday Times

In the widest and most long-term sense, Britain's position in the world and the future of her economy, there are no valid alternatives to Europe. With the exception of the remaining flat-earthers—admittedly quite numerous—few people who think seriously about it can doubt that ultimately Britain will become an integral part of a larger Europe. All the more reason, therefore, not to panic at the first whiff of resistance but to maintain unrelenting pressure in Brussels and the other European capitals in favor of British entry.

The uniforms shown was manufactured at the Belleville factory of Deacon Brothers Ltd. The uniform is made of green gabardine and consists of a ski jacket with fur trimmed parka, ski hat and ski slacks.

Those who served in two world wars were honored by their comrades at the Armistice when the Canadian Legion Branch No. 39 observed Remembrance Day with a banquet with Hon. Major John W. Foote, VC, as the guest speaker of the evening. Everett Liddle was Master of Ceremonies and Brig. J. J. Gunn, CBE, MC, the chairman for the function. It was a memorable night for the veterans of this district with more than 300 sitting down to a fine repast prepared by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

Come, Ye Thankful People, Come

Come, ye thankful people, come,
Raise the song of harvest home;
All is safely gathered in,
Ere the winter's storms begin;
God, our Maker, doth provide
For our wants to be supplied:
Come to God's own temple, come,
Raise the song of harvest home.

All the world is God's own field,
Fruit unto His praise to yield;
Wheat and tares together sown,
Unto joy or sorrow grown;
First the blade, and then the ear,
Then the full corn shall appear;
Lord of harvest, grant that we
Wholesome grain and pure may be.

For the Lord our God shall come,
And shall take His harvest home;
From His fields shall in that day
All offenses purge away;
Give His angels charge at last
In the fire the tares to cast;
But the fruitful ears to store
In His garner evermore.

Even so, Lord, quickly come
To Thy final harvest home;
Gather Thou Thy people in,
Free from sorrow, free from sin;
There, forever purified,
In Thy presence to abide;
Come, with all Thine angels, come,
Raise the glorious harvest home.

At harvest festivals and thanksgiving services where men and women gather to express gratitude to God for His bounties and blessings, this hymn of praise is always popular. It was written about the middle of the eighteenth century by a distinguished English clergyman and scholar, the Rev. Henry Alford. Londoners discovered it for the first time in a book of "Psalms and Hymns" published by the author in 1844.

About a quarter century later, Mr. Alford revised its verses slightly and re-published them in a volume which he announced as "The Year Of Praise". Fifty-five of the hymns in this book of songs were Mr. Alford's own compositions. Many of his admirers feel that his harvest hymn is the best of these.

Mr. Alford gained considerable prominence as a scholar by writing a "Greek Testament With Notes". He was born in London in 1810, was educated at Trinity College, Cambridge, and was ordained to the ministry in 1833. He was only 10 years old when he turned out his first piece of religious writing, entitled "Looking Unto Jesus." Six years later, he dedicated himself to the service of God and gave expression to his decision in a resolution which, having framed, he pasted in his Bible. It said:

"I do this day, in the presence of God and my own soul, renew my covenant with God, and solemnly determine henceforth to become His, and to do His work as far as in me lies."

He was 41 when his work as preacher and Bible expositor won for him the post of Dean of Canterbury. He died in 1871, four years after his "Year of Praise" volume was published. On his tombstone was inscribed the legend which he himself had chosen:

"The Ism Of A Traveller On His Way To Jerusalem."

Anglicans Aim at Involvement

TORONTO (CP) — Personal involvement is the key to the Anglican Church of Canada's new approach to national and world projects which it is hoped will revolutionize the man in the pew's response to the concept of total mission.

Behind the strategy is the belief that a churchgoer's interest is revitalized by participation in a project system through which his givings are channelled into clearly-designated activities at home and abroad.

The new approach had its genesis in Anglican World Mission through which the Canadian church has contributed in four years nearly $2,500,000, over and above its regular budget, for urgent projects in churches of the world's developing countries. Under AWM not only dioceses, but in many cases parishes, developed close ties with their counterparts in many African and Asian lands.

Royal Flemish Glass Recognized by Ma Finish

By RALPH and TERRY KOVEL

Royal Flemish is the name of a Victorian art glass that was made by 1889. It is an easy glass to recognize. The background of the glass has a mat finish caused by exposure to acid fumes. The glass was then decorated with raised lines of heavy enamel painted on the surface.

The finished glass seems to have the sections of a stained-glass window. The lines were usually of gold. The sections inside the lines were colored brown, beige, or gold as well as other colors. Roman gems were often pictured on the piece. Royal Flemish glass was made by the Mount Washington Glass Works at New Bedford, Mass. A fine piece of this glass is the dream of many collectors.

Q. "Jewelry Drier" is marked on a small box I just found. The label reads "Dennison's jewelry drier, cleaner and polisher." The jewelry was placed in a box with sawdust. The box was shook until all the sawdust fell through an opening in the box. The jewelry was then clean and dry. How old is this?

A. The Dennison Company discovered a picture of the jewelry cleaner in their 1902 catalogue. The box was of wood. A cardboard box was used from 1904 to 1907. Jewelry cleaning boxes were given away as an ad with the jeweller's name printed on a paper label at one end of the box. The sawdust only dried the jewelry. It did not clean it.

Q. Would it be possible to own an antique cigarette lighter?

A. Cigarettes were manufactured-rolled) for the first time in 1872. One year earlier a clever New Yorker had patented the first cigar lighter. The same type of lighter was quickly put into use by the cigarette smokers.

Q. My very old thin silver spoon is marked "J. W. Force" on the back. The date 1772 is engraved on the handle front.

A. Jabez W. Force was a silver smith working in New York City from about 1819 to 1839. He used the mark, J. W. Force on his work. The date 1772 was probably used to commemorate a birthday or some other important event. Mr. Force did not make silver in 1772.

PENNY CANDY

* * *

Glancing with admiration at a hostess' tempting plate of tea-cakes, a guest exclaimed: "In choosing which one I should take, it is as though I were a youngster again, at the penny counter of our country store back in the village where I lived as a child.

"My sister and I would each have a cent to spend. The highlight of our day was a trip down to the store, to spend it on some penny candy. She would always choose four hard-centred chocolate squares and have something that would last her for the rest of the day. Whereas I could not wait to buy a coconut delight, which once in my mouth, would be gone in a minute. But what a minute! It seemed the height of all that was elegant and delicious, which I vividly remember to this day."

Though there are still penny candy counters to be found in Belleville, many fathers and mothers will recall when a whole section of a store counter was devoted to a luscious display of red and white striped peppermint sticks neatly stacked in pyramids; colorful bowls of black, yellow, red, green jaw-breakers; shiny all-day suckers in different flavors and shades of brown, raspberry; long whips of braided licorice black as ebony; dainty pastel squares of turkish delight; of creamy fondant, chocolate fudge, jelly beans and taffy twists.

The glassed in treasures were usually placed just the right height for a child's pointing finger, and the infinite patience of the storekeeper was borne in smiling silence and understanding nods of the head while standing first on one foot and then the other, taking time out from cash or charge-account customers, as a little child would hesitate and point: "I'll have a penny's worth of that, I've two cent's worth of those. ..."

Those who used to patronize Mrs. Charles Ridley's Candy Store on Catherine Street will recall her kind, wonderful smile and manner, while serving the little children who came to her candy counter to spend their pennies.

Adults and children alike will remember penny candy days; for penny candy is tinted with delight, expectancy, anticipation of joyous childhood days, leaving charming memories.

In that city, Adele Manucci, had for 25 years sold little school children sweets and penny candy at her little stand at the side entrance to the Leonardo Da Vinci School there.

The school decided, not long ago, that the 72 year-old woman had brightened the lives of so many pupils that she deserved to be honored. At a formal ceremony, the school principal, Nin Schiavello presented her with a diploma, making her an honorary graduate.

Perhaps it is safe to suggest that this feeling of gratitude is extended to even the makers of such candy. A fact conveyed in Seville, Spain, where Antonio Garcia, and a good candymaker, took off his rings valued at $100 and put them on a shelf. At the end of the day, the rings were gone.

One of Mr. Garcia's customers found the rings in a twist of pulled taffy, which he had bought and taken to his grandchildren, who lived 50 miles away.

The customer drove all the way back to Seville. Mr. Garcia's rings were returned to him.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE WILLIAM CAMPBELL

Campbell — Moore

Rev. J. W. Lamb officiated at the recent wedding ceremony in Holloway Street United Church when Lynda Joy Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moore, Belleville, was united in marriage to George William Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Campbell of Belleville. Church organist Angus MacLeod rendered traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Miss Roslin Robertson.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown and coat in chalk-white dotted brocade in lily-of-the-valley design. The gown and coat were identically styled with sunburst seaming at the bodice front. The back waistline extended to a V-point and into a flared skirt. A three-inch shoulder length veil of white tulle illusion was held by a headdress of Alencon lace adorned with pearls and crystals. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink Sensation roses mingled with stephanotis.

Miss Bonnie Davidson of Belleville, cousin of the bride as maid of honor wore a floor-length coat and dress ensemble in golden imported jacquard with matching headdress of fabric flowers. She carried a white and pale yellow cascade bouquet of glamelias. The bridesmaids, Miss Susan Gray, Belleville; Miss Barbara Kruza, Toronto and Miss Brenda Davidson, Belleville, cousin of the bride were all identically attired in the maid of honor but in two-tone imported jacquard of Kelly green and royal blue. Each carried a bouquet of white and light mint green tinted glamelias.

Gerald Dupas of Manitouwadge was groomsman, while William Crowley of Peterborough, Murray Walker of Oakville and Douglas Purdy of Belleville were the ushers.

A reception was held at the Bellevile Shrine Club where the bride's mother received the guests wearing a rose crepe dress with matching colored coat of pesu de soie, rose and white accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds and white feathered carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell are residing at 135B Sandwell Drive, Oakville.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: Why don't we discuss our problems at a family conference and let everybody vote about what we should do? The children are old enough to help decide things."

Father: "It wouldn't work. The kids would have more votes and we would always be doing what they want."

Father: "Let's have a family conference and discuss things that involve all of us. It will give everyone a chance to offer suggestions and ideas. Mother and I may not feel we can follow all your suggestions but it will help us to make wiser decisions."

The big advantage of a family conference is the chance to learn what everyone feels about various courses of action. The final decisions, however, must be in the hands of the parents.

Ann Landers
Reader Wrongly Interprets Ann's Advice

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN: You said Prudence it would take her less time to turn her husband's sox and undershirts and shorts rightside out than it took to write the letter to you complaining about it. Well — Time this:

One hundred and five boys equal 84 sox per week, 42 undershirts, 42 pairs of shorts, and I'm not counting pajamas, sweatshirts and sweaters.

From the day we married my husband has managed to drop his clothes in the bathroom wrongside out. I reminded him about it several times. He'd remember for a day or two and then slip back into his old ways. Finally I gave up.

Now I'm having the same problem with my sons. The youngest is 8 and the oldest is 16. They gloated when they showed me the colums where you said in effect, "Shut up, Mom, and continue to pamper the slobs."

Give my regards to your laundress, you traitor. — MAD AT YOU.

* * *

DEAR MAD AT ME: Don't put words in my mouth, Lady. I didn't say, "Shut up, Mom, and continue to pamper the slobs." I said, "It takes less time to turn your husband's son and shorts than to nag him about it."

Your husband came to you trained (or untrained) by his mother but it's your job to do better by your future daughters-in-law than your husband's mother did by you. Insist that your sons do as they're told and don't take any lip.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 15-year-old girl. My mother has been married four times and is in love again. You wouldn't believe the collection of creeps that have walked through her life.

Now she claims I am the cause for all her unhappiness because she has told her the reason he can't marry her is because I don't like him. He is right about my not liking him but I have a hunch he wouldn't marry her no matter what because he is not the marrying kind.

Last night Mom asked me to take my choice of girls' schools because she is sure if I leave town Eddie will marry her.

I wouldn't mind going to a girls' school. It might be fun. But I resent being pushed out of my own home for this drip.

What should I do? — DISPLACED DAUGHTER.

* * *

DEAR DAUGHTER: The girls' school could be more than fun. It could be a far healthier environment than your home. So — pack your bags and go.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was burned up when I read the letter from the teen-ager who was embarrassed because his mother sang so loud in church. I wish I had this problem.

My father is the loud singer in our family, but the circumstances are a lot different. Dad gets as drunk as a billy goat, comes home anywhere from midnight to 5 a.m. and sings the drinking songs he learned in the Merchant Marine.

A girl I like lives next door and whenever she says, "Your father woke us all up again last night," I want to fall into a hole.

Please publish my letter so the kid with the religious mother will realize he has nothing to be ashamed of. — WILLING TO TRADE PLACES.

* * *

DEAR WILLING: Here's your letter and I hope the kid sees it. It would be nice if your dad saw it, too.

Neurologist Fights to Save Family Institutions

Editor's Note

The following is a talk given by Dr. Wilder E. Penfield world - famous, neurologist, neurosurgeon and author as written by well-known columnist Doris Clark in which she describes home as the oldest classroom.

"Civilizations may come and civilizations may go, but the family goes on forever" — so said Dr. Wilder E. Penfield when he talked to us about the Vanier Institute of the Family. He was talking to a full house in the first of this season's O.A.C. Lecture Series at the University of Guelph. I found what he had to say right up my alley.

We all know how much Dr. Penfield has given to Canada as neurologist, neurosurgeon and founder of the Montreal Neurological Institute. Also as an author. Now he is lending his efforts to an imaginative Canadian venture which is designed to strengthen family life. Dr. Penfield — like a good many more of us — sees good family life as the basis on which good national life depends.

So did the late Governor-General Vanier, and these two shared a mutual enthusiasm in doing something concrete about it.

Not one, but many professions join forces in the Vanier Institute. The federal government sees it as a worthy centennial project and has contributed two million dollars.

"We want the people's interest, now," said Dr. Penfield, "and want them to feel they have lent a helping hand within the measure of their own means. The widow's mite has its own peculiar value and we will be very grateful for every effort. The Government in Ottawa has promised to match each gift, however small. Each dollar or less becomes an endowment that is doubled."

An objective of ten million dollars, (largely from public subscription) will provide an endowment fund to cover ongoing operational costs estimated at $400,000 and $500,000 annually. For this amount a permanent office can be maintained, regular conferences held, research carried out on a broad scale, pamphlets, broadcasts, and information in other forms made available. Where they will do the most good.

(— "It is not a rescue mission. Rescue in desperate situations is the field of other agencies.")

To make a beginning, the Institute is doing a survey of Canadian families. They will be asking what help those families feel they are now getting from existing resources; and what they feel they still have need of.

How true it is that, as Dr. Penfield said, the family is the place where morals and manners are devised; that education begins at home and should continue there after the last diploma has been earned. The home is the oldest classroom of all: the place where we learn about love, discipline, sociability, spiritual values.

Man will create a home whenever circumstances permit. The basic family unit is still strong in Communist states, despite Karl Marx's prophecy that the state would take over the raising of children. While people are gregarious, they won't be herded like cattle.

"When I read about the doings of rebellious youth", said Dr. Penfield, "I throw back my head and laugh, thinking of the worried parents 20 years from now. In ten years, those who are now 20 will be 30; they will be raising young children. In another ten years they will be 40, and contemplating their own teen-agers. How much latitude will they give, and how much love?"

I couldn't help but think of the letters that come to me every day; appeals for understanding from our young people, cries for help from baffled parents: the deep despair of the tired marriage partner who has somehow lost the love of his mate. And I reflect that we need all the help we can get.

Columnists Doris Clark (left) and Pearl Clark chat with Dr. Wilder E. Penfield, world-famous neurologist, neurosurgeon and author, prior to Dr. Penfield's lecture on "The Family" at University of Guelph. Dr. Penfield is president of the Vanier Institute of the Family, a project of the late Governor-General and Madame Vanier dedicated to the reinforcement of family living.

ANSWER: Yes I have. They are called —

SATURDAY

TWEED SQUARES

11 x 7" ("brownie" pan — 24 squares)

½ cup margarine
2 cup granulated sugar
2 eggs, yolks and whites separated
¾ tsp. vanilla
3 squares (3 oz.) semi-sweet chocolate
1¼ cups sifted all - purpose flour
½ tsp. salt
2½ tsps. baking powder
1 cup milk
3 cups sifted icing sugar
¼ cup margarine (second amount)
Milk (see below) (Second amount)

In heater bowl cream together margarine and granulated sugar until light. Set aside. Add vanilla to milk. Sift together flour, salt and baking powder. Beat egg whites until stiff and over them grate two squares of the chocolate in tiny shavings and gently fold in. To the creamed mixture add the flour mixture and milk, vanilla mixture alternately in thirds, beating well after each addition. Fold egg whites mixed with chocolate shavings into batter. Spread evenly in 11 x 7" buttered pan and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. 30 min. or until they test done by touching with finger tips. Cool.

To prepare topping, cream margarine (second amount), then beat in egg yolks. Gradually blend in icing sugar. Add just enough milk to make of easy spreading consistency. Spread on cooled squares. Melt remaining one square of chocolate and drizzle attractively over top. Allow chocolate topping to set and then cut into 24 squares.

NOTE: Top may be sprinkled with chocolate sprinkles from shaker jar instead of the melted chocolate if desired. Very pretty yellow and brown "tweedy" appearance.

Bill Abolishing Death Penalty Likely to Win House Approval

OTTAWA (CP) — Views expressed inside and outside the House of Commons Friday indicated that a bill severely restricting the use of the death penalty in Canada may win approval in principle next week.

Abolitionists dominated the second day of Commons debate on the bill Friday, but the MPs heard a powerful plea from a former Conservative cabinet minister, Gordon Churchill, for retention of the death penalty "as a reserve power in case of necessity."

If the bill passes on second reading, it goes to committee for detailed study, where the New Democratic Party has promised an all - out effort to make it a total abolition bill.

The bill, introduced by Solicitor-General Pennell Thursday, would restrict capital punishment for a five-year trial period to murderers of policemen or prison guards. At the end of this period, the whole question would be reviewed by Parliament again.

After two days of debate, nine MPs have spoken in support of the bill and five against it. The government itself is not taking a stand on the bill.

Outside the Commons, 130 of the 265 MPs have been asked by The Canadian Press where they stand on the bill. Sixty-one said they support it, 39 are opposed, 30 undecided and 10 declined comment.

Much of Friday's argument in the Commons revolved around the question of whether the death penalty is a deterrent to crime.

Jack Bigg (PC—Athabasca), a former RCMP sergeant and now lawyer, said the only thing that deters criminals is fear of getting caught.

But Mr. Churchill (PC—Winnipeg South Centre) argued that "fear of death operates in our society." He said he would not state categorically how he was going to vote, since "decision should follow debate, not precede it."

In Friday's crossfire, Mr. Diefenbaker declared that the Liberal government "has gone from blunder to blunder and it now says, as a result of the blunders to date, Parliament is not now to have the right to discuss what this government has in mind."

In the capital-punishment debate, Mr. Bigg said the RCMP's reputation for always getting its man is probably the biggest deterrent to crime in Canada.

"I do not believe that capital punishment has any deterrent value whatever," Most people, including criminals, acted as if they felt they were going to live forever.

Bryce Mackasey (L—Verdun) said persons who deliberately plan and carry out murder "do not anticipate getting caught."

Mr. Mackasey said he would prefer total abolition but policemen believe the death penalty protects them in the performance of their duties and "we shouldn't take away this psychological protection."

Another supporter of the bill, Terry Nugent (PC—Edmonton-Strathcona) argued against this "psychological crutch" for the police, contending that it actually holds them up to ridicule.

Harold Stafford (L—Elgin) said it is those who favor capital punishment who have to prove their case. He stressed the horrors of confinement for a condemned man and the risk of convicting an innocent man.

J. Patrick Nowlan (PC—Digby-Annapolis-Kings), who opposed abolition when the Commons voted on the issue in April, 1966, said he supports the present bill because its provisions would apply only to a trial period and it does not altogether do away with the death penalty.

North Vietnam Paper Critical Of Canadian Help to States

HONG KONG (Reuters) — The official North Vietnamese daily Nhan Dan condemns the Canadian government for supplying the United States with war materials.

The condemnation is contained in an article commenting on a contract recently awarded by the United States to a Canadian corporation for "military equipment largely destined for the use in Vietnam," says the North Vietnam news agency.

"The ruling circles in Canada have committed a dirty act against the Vietnamese people," the article says.

"What is new is that the present deal comes at a time when the Canadian people are protesting more and more vehemently against the U.S. war in Vietnam and criticizing more and more sternly the Canadian government's stance in the Vietnam issue," it says.

The increasing sales of Canada's military equipment to the U.S. almost "stark-naked the true colors of the Canadian ruling circles . . . who are wilfully serving the U.S. imperialists and enriching themselves with blood-stained dollars," it says.

Employment News

By: J. R. Staveley
Manpower Counsellor

The local labor demand for additional workers decreased during the past week in comparison to previous weeks, with the demand for women workers, being only half as strong as the requirement for male workers.

There is a considerable number of persons seeking work at the present time in the Canada Manpower Centre Area, which comprises some 2,250 square miles.

In the modern labor market, emphasis is placed on fitting the suitable person to the job and correctly so. However, this does not preclude those persons who are handicapped in some way or other — perhaps with a physical handicap or by age.

There are various jobs that such persons can fill and many are at present working at such jobs throughout the community, to the complete satisfaction of their employers. The important consideration in such cases is not the capabilities the job seeker may have lost, but the remaining capabilities which he can apply to accomplishing a job just as effectively as a fellow worker who may not be handicapped.

The Canada Manpower Centre counsellors are experienced in identifying skills — and potentials for training to achieve skills—which will meet the requirements of employers. If, as in some cases, they have no marketable skills, potentials which can become skills after counselling and training are developed into abilities sought by employers.

Employers interested in the employment of a handicapped person are invited to contact the Canada Manpower Centre. A Manpower Counsellor would be pleased to visit the place of business to see what skills would be required for the particular job in mind.

This co-operation could lead to a suitable person being referred for final selection.

In the female division locally there is a requirement for registered nurses and registered nursing assistants. Someone who has experience as a bank teller is required on a part-time basis, Monday and Friday each week. Several cook trainees are required by a large cafeteria. It is essential that the successful persons be mature and interested in taking training in this type of work. An experienced saleslady is being sought by a Ladies' wear store. An number of experienced typists are still required to work in the United Nations typing pool in New York City; an excellent starting salary and other fringe benefits are being offered with these positions. Men possessing the required typing qualifications may also apply.

In the male division locally there is a need from two industrial plants for licensed second and fourth class stationery engineers. An industrial plant requires a mechanical draftsman who would be responsible to the plant engineer. A qualified linotype operator is required by a rural weekly newspaper for permanent work. The following positions are available in South Western Ontario — a digital computer operator, detail data programmer; and a tabulating machine operator.

A large number of mine and smelter laborers are required in Northern Ontario, for surface and underground mine work. An industrial plant is seeking the services of an industrial sales representative.

Elsewhere across Canada and abroad there are employment opportunities at the professional and technical levels.

If interested in any of these positions, seeking other employment or thinking of re-entering the labor market, contact the Canada Manpower Centre at 324 Church Street, Belleville.

CPR, Union Agree to Cut Crews

OTTAWA (CP) — A pattern - setting agreement that will eliminate 2,000 railway yard jobs through attrition has been reached between the CPR and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

A spokesman for the trainmen said Friday the CPR proposal to reduce yard-crew sizes from two men from three has been accepted.

With a stipulation that all regular men who were working as of Dec. 15 last year will have lifetime job protection.

One side issue still unresolved is whether resignations will count as attrition.

The union is insisting that the jobs be reduced only at a pace matching deaths and retirements. It says resignations should not be counted because of the number of young men who worked in the summer and quit in the fall.

Consecutive Jail Terms Delivered

James Spence, 21, of Trenton, was sentenced to three consecutive jail terms by Magistrate T. Y. Wills this morning in police court. Spence had pleaded guilty to three charges, driving while under suspension, careless driving, and taking a car without permission.

He was sentenced to seven days, two months, and 21 days respectively.

Spence was charged as a result of an incident on Oct. 22, North of Frankford. Spence's car collided with another automobile and drove through an unoccupied cottage. The vehicle came to rest 180 feet from the dwelling.

MUSHMOUTH REPORTS

Dear Boss: —

Uncle Offmouth is here from the west. He's a football fan from way back and owns a spread near Calgary so big it takes him a day to ride out of the backyard. Back and beyond the oil wells are so thick you'd think it was an overgrown asparagus bed.

Uncle Offy wiped the oil slick from his chest-long wax dyke, belted a beaker of spiked onion juice and remarked "Ah hear you easterners have a reasonable facsimile of a football team down thirsway called the Rough Riders. Also the Tiger Cats, Argonauts and the Alouettes, the tail of the kite out of Montreal."

"Ah also heah there is some sort of a semi-final cutoose slated for Ottawa come Sunday where these Argies take on the Riders in what they call a sudden-death shrinkah."

I told the unk, bonn, the winners would play the Tiger-Cats two games total point's, the winner to go for the Grey Cup.

"They're swastin' their time, son" he told me, "jest swastin' their time. They might as well hand the cup to my Stampeders becos that is where it will be parked next year."

"But . . . unk . . . ."

"Don't 'but' me, son. Ah know what ah'm talkin' about. No bunch of smog-eatin' easterners is ride herah in ride herah in my corners. We're headed for the last round-up and after we've buried 'em in that peacetiver prairie they call a park, we'll head for the home corral and park that Cup in the Stampeders' bunkhouse. That's no joke, son."

He tipped his Stetson; blew through his beard, quaffed another onion juice and wrangled a horny finger under my nose, bons.

"Meantime, son, I'll enjoy myself watchin' the high jinks here in the east, I'm told there Argonauts are given as much chance to beat the Ottawa Riders as that guy de Gaulle has of becoming our next prime minister."

"I was in Toronto a few days and your uncle Slush who is an undercground engineer on the public works says the word is that the Argies may pull a big surprise."

The Argy fans and newspapers have been weepin' large crocodile tears over the fact a lot of their best players are injured. Slush has it there is a strong feeling of confidence within the top circles and the injuries may be greatly exaggerated for Rider consumption."

"That tin-horn predictor boss of yours, Mosh," he said, "has called 1967 the year of the big upset, for the first time in his life he could be right. Tell him if the Argies beat the hell out of Ottawa, I'll buy him a train ticket for the west and give him a job as third cook on the next herd drive we take to Texas."

Mosh, your western unk could be right. The last few days the Argonauts have begun to come up with a strange air of confidence. The brass admits the walking wounded will be ready for action and the players are going around chorting "Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Jackson."

That's the spirit, if true, that spawns surprises and if the Argies can come up with somewhat off the beam the Cahill crew could come up with the biggest upset since Mrs. O'Leary's cow kicked over that lantern in Chicago.

However don't rush out and bet your income tax rebate on such a thing happening.

So tell that loud-mouth unk of yours from the West to keep his oil-pumping tonsils quiet, I've got enough public enemies who can point more predictions than the grandaddy class of Abou Ben Adam's College of Applied Crystal-Gazing.

But you can tell him that I'll go along with the idea there's going to be some hellraising football out west before a Grey Cup candidate is decided. Saskatchewan and Edmonton should provide classics with the winners going even better against the highly favored Stampeders. I doubt if the east can come up with the same brand, — except in the Big Game of course.

Lose To Guelph 5-3

Mo-Hawks Get The Royal Treatment

By GARRY ALEXANDER
(Staff Sportswriter)

GUELPH — Lack of consistency, both offensively and defensively, continued to hurt the Belleville Mo-Hawks here last night as they suffered a 5-3 loss to the Guelph Royals.

The loss ran Belleville's winless streak to five games, in time in 11 games were outshot by a 41-36 total.

Guelph goals were divided among Keith Worrall, Butch Martin, Bob Pole, Rick McClockie and Larry Jones.

Dave Jones and Minnie Menard looked after most of the Mo-Hawk points. Dave scored two goals and assisted on the third. Minnie fired his ninth goal of the season and drew two assists. Bob Taylor, George Godson and Greg Marchen also had assists.

The Regals took advantage of another slow Mo-Hawk start in many the early going but settled for a loss goal in the first heat at 8.17 when Marchen accidiodly directed Worrall's shot into his own net.

Less than a minute later, Jones rattled one in off the piping to keep it close. Guelph took a 3-1 lead late in the period when Pole broke between the defence and poked the puck past Junkin as he swipped at it with his goal stick.

During the period the Mo - Hawks, who were minus "Weiner" Brown due to shift work, lost Ralph Plane when he and Guelph's Ertel ran into each other accidentally. Plane, who tried to return in the third, said later he feared he had re-injured a kidney which sidelined him earlier.

Despite the shortage of forwards, the Mo - Hawks came out flying in the third and Hurley made fine saves against Jones and Godson before Menard beat him cleanly with a hard 14 - footer, at 6.09, for a tight 3-2 game.

Guelph got that back quickly however when McClockin's bouncing shot hit Mickey Chervesky's stick and hopped past Junkin into the short corner. The Regals made it 5-2 at 9.33 when Larry Jones beat Junkin just inside the post on the short corner.

Dave Jones' second tally came at 18.19 on a pretty breakaway play. Greg Marchen hit Jones at the centre line with a pass from deep in the Mo-Hawk zone and Dave slapped a low sizzler past Hurley.

Seconds later Hurley had to be good again as the Godson-Menard-Jones combo tested him from the doorstep as the clock ran out.

The Reaglarwed

The Regals drew eight of 14 penalties with Keith Worrall taking four minors and a late misconduct. Several near fights were cut short.

What the Hec, Lalonde May Be Back

A popular Belleville Junior "B" star of the Black Hawk bay-days who later went on to professional thanks may again wear a Belleville uniform.

Mo-Hawk coach Floyd Crawford was contacted by telephone this week by Hec Lalonde and the former NHL and AHL star is expected to report here for practice tomorrow.

"Hec says he wants to come back to Canada and would like to play for us. We jumped at the chance to get a player of his experience and ability," Crawford said.

Lalonde started this season with New Jersey of the Eastern Hockey League but, according to Crawford, "he's tired of running all over the States to play hockey now and all he looks like he will help us, we'll certainly be glad to have him."

Lalonde went to Junior "A" from Belleville, then on professional ranks in the National and American Leagues.

The Mo-Hawks have an 8.30 practice Sunday morning and expect to see Lalonde on skates then.

Down 4-0; Tie Cobourg 6-6

Juniors Stage Brilliant Rally!

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

They didn't win it — or did they? They didn't lose it either for the first time in six starts.

They staged a sensational comeback after being down 4-0 after 30 minutes of play to score six goals and earn a 6-6 tie with the Cobourg Cougars in Eastern Ontario Junior "B" hockey action here last night.

The scoreboard read 4-0 at the end of ten minutes of play in the second period.

Then Peter Fleming blasted off and sent the Belleville Junior "B's" into orbit. They fired home two goals in a matter of seconds and the Jim Matthews gang took a new lease on life.

Cobourg came back with a loner but the city kids got that one back before period end.

Early in the third period the Cougars came back with a goal to widen the margin to 6-3.

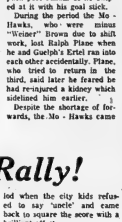
Then Messrs. Fleming and Steve White took over. They launched a terrific counter-attack that was good for three goals and the tie verdict.

Actually, this reporter thought the city kids won the game in the third period as winger blasted a high drive at the Cobourg net. The red light flashed but the referee did not whistle the play down.

The goal-judge said afterward the puck went in and out of the net.

The "B's", winless in five starts, took the bit in their teeth after the 30-minute setback. Aided and abetted by the puck-keeping of Paul Smith they refused to let the 4-0 deficit let them down.

Their third - period rally produced their finest offensive effort of the season. They outshot the lakeshore crew 36-33 on the night's play.



And they drew eight of the 14 penalties handed out by Referee Keith MacDonald two of them double minors for fighting.

Fleming led the hit parade with his hat trick with Steve White getting one and three assists. Fuller and Summers got the others. Smith caffe up with three assists and Healey and Peachman getting one each.

Kelly and Harold each scored a pair for the Cougars with Gray and Bambridge counting singles .Ryan had two assists with O'Brien, Gray, Clancy and Campbell also getting helpers.

The handful of fans saw some exciting hockey and were on their feet in the third period when the city kids refused to say 'uncle' and came back to square the score with a brilliant effort.

At least they've broken the defeat eag and if they come up with an effort like last night's third frame they should crash the win column in the near future.

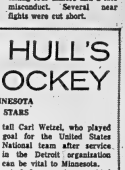
WORLD OF HOCKEY
THE MINNESOTA NORTH STARS

Some expansion teams, like Los Angeles, went for young legs they can last for a long time.

Others, like Pittsburgh Penguins, recruited older players who they believe can win with experience.

Minnesota North Stars drafted a blend of youth and experience, and, from the exhibition series, where the North Stars were near the top with Pittsburgh.

The Minnesota defence has some rugged characters in it, like Pete Goegan from the Detroit organization, Bob McCord from Detroit, Bob Woytowich from Boston and, of course, Moose Vasko from Chicago.



Moose was the biggest man in the NHL when he played for 6', about 225 pounds. He sat out last year, but if his legs get back in shape there's no reason why he can't approach his old-time effectiveness.

The North Stars have some players who can be all-stars in their division, like Murray Hall, a slick centre, and Wayne Connelly, a smooth winger. They've got Parker MacDonald, who once scored 33 goals for Detroit when he was on a line with Alex Delvecchio and Norm Ullman.

There are several former Canadiens in the lineup, probably because Sam Wren Blair admires Montreal's winning record. They have Andre Boudrias, a fast, very centre up from the Central Pro League. They have Gary Bauman, a promising goalie, and Dave Baloo, a combative forward — all groomed in Montreal on the Canadiens' farm system.

Bauman played well in the exhibition schedule and will be a key player, as all goalies are; they are the last line of defence, after all. I think tall Carl Weizel, who played goal for the United States National team after service in the Detroit organization can be vital to Minnesota.

And I remember a third Minnesota goalie, Cesare Maniago, with a certain feeling from two years ago. I scored 54 goals that season, but the big one was Number 51, the one that broke the 50-goal barrier. It was a screen shot — Eric Nesterenko was the screen — and not really my goal, but it went past Maniago.

GLENN HALL

TODAY'S CUE FOR KIDS:

Shooting is a matter of constant practise, but your chances of scoring are better if you know a goalie's weak spot. Many goalies, for example, are weak on low shots which come in on their stick side. They often have trouble with shots fired around their elbow on their glove side. These just happen to be the nearest spots to a physical blind spot there is with a goaltender. Even the best goalies in the NHL have soft spots. Glen Hall, for instance, is a fine goalie who'll constantly beat you in close. Every once in aw bile, though, someone will let a screen shot by from 25 feet or so that Glen doesn't get to.

Blake Shakes Up Canadiens In Effort To Stop Losing Streak

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Canadiens will try anything to stem their winless streak at four games.

So Chicago Black Hawks shouldn't be surprised if they see defenceman J. C. Tremblay on the forward line tonight in their National Hockey League game at Montreal.

Tremblay was working up front Friday as coach Toe Blake shuffled his lineup in an effort to promote some scoring punch. The Habs have been shut in four games," he commented Friday. "That's some record."

He said his forwards have had chances in the last four games, but that they appear to tighten up around the net.

"This happens when they're in a slump—they seem to hesitate. So far it's been the team with the best goaltending that's won against us."

Another problem he faces is the continued losses of centre and team captain Jean Beliveau, with a sprained knee, and policeman John Ferguson, with a broken index finger.

In tonight's other games, Toronto Maple Leafs visit Minnesota North Stars, Oakland Seals are at Boston Bruins and St. Louis Blues play the Penguins in Pittsburgh.

Montreal is at Detroit against the Red Wings Sunday when Philadelphia Flyers are in Boston, Oakland is in New York against the Rangers and St. Louis is in Chicago.

Blake will have defencemen Bryan Watson in action for tonight's game along with right-winger Claude LaRose, out for two games with a bruised elbow.

A Montreal victory would move them into a tie with Detroit and New York, two points behind Toronto, which leads the Eastern Division. Chicago is last in the division with only three victories in 12 games this season after winning the league schedule and Prince of Wales Trophy last year.

Meoh of Sunday's NHL interest will be on Detroit's 30-year-old rookie goaltender Roy Edwards who went nine games without a loss at Fort Worth before being called up to replace Roger Crozier this week and then made his NHL debut in a 3-1 Red Wing victory over Pittsburgh.

Crozier, who was demoted to Fort Worth after allowing 19 goals in three straight Detroit losses, announced his retirement Monday.

However, there were indications he had tempered his decision Friday after consulting with Red Wing management.

Asked after the talk in Detroit if his plans had changed in any way, Crozier said:

Crozier said he will not return to his Bracebridge, Ont., home "for a while anyway."

Hungry Riders Eye Argonaut Meat

OTTAWA (CP) — Season records, with the close games won or lost, go out the window Sunday when Toronto Argonauts and Ottawa Rough Riders meet in the Eastern Football Conference sudden-death semi-final.

For the winner, there is a two-game total-point final series against Hamilton Tiger-Cats for the conference title and a berth in the Grey Cup game here Dec. 2.

The Riders have shown themselves to be the better of the two teams over the 14-game schedule, with nine victories and a tie to their credit. Argos won only five and also tied their game—a 28-28 deadlock against Ottawa. In the two meetings between the two clubs in Ottawa, the Riders won by wide margins.

Riders are solid favorites, but the Argonauts are a hungry team. Their last playoff was in 1961 when they were third and lost to Hamilton in the finals.

There should be no excuses for the outcome of the Sunday game which will be televised nationally starting at 2 p.m. EST on the CTV network.

Both coaches say their teams are healthy and ready for a top effort. There also are some old scores to settle.

Fullback Jim Dillard, who ran for three touchdowns in the 28-28 tie, would like to show Ottawa fans that the Riders made a mistake in letting him go before the 1966 season started.

So Scott, a halfback running mate with Dillard here for two years, probably will be out to prove he is at least as good as Dillard since he moved into the fullback slot midway through the season.

Today Tells The Story

How The West Was Won!

REGINA (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos coach Neill Armstrong said Friday night his team's defensive squad could be the key to a win over Saskatchewan Roughriders in today's Western Football Conference semi-final.

Armstrong said his team's defence has been outstanding throughout the season and provided the deciding factor in Edmonton's 21-17 win over Saskatchewan three weeks ago.

Eskimos, although finishing third place in WFC play, have impressive enough credentials.

After a slow start they finished the season with a five-game win streak which included victories over Saskatchewan and the first-place Calgary Stampeders.

The winner of today's game will meet Calgary in a best-of-three final series to decide the WFC's representative for the Grey Cup game Dec. 2 at Ottawa.

Coach Eagle Keys of Saskatchewan meanwhile put the defending Grey Cup champion Roughriders into virtual seclusion in a city motel Friday to prepare them mentally for the game against the Eskimos. He said the team would stay there until just before game time at 2 p.m. CST. (2 p.m. EST)

The game will be televised nationally by the CBC.

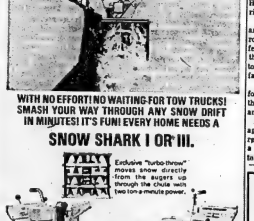
Extra Seats for the Cup Epic

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Football League will install an extra $33,800 worth of Ottawa for the Grey Cup football classic Dec. 2.

The seats, 3,376 of them, will be temporary bleachers on the track along the south side of the stadium. A total of 1,800 of these will be 810 seats stretching from goal line to goal line.

The other 7,964, evenly divided, will be parallel to the end zones on the south side. They will sell for $7.50 each.



The CFL announced Friday that the extra seats will bring the total seating capacity of Lansdowne Park up to 31,364.

The ticket prices range from $15 to $12, $10, $7.50 and $5; total receipts will hit nearly $334,000.

"We're Ready" Says Argos' Cahill

TORONTO (CP) — Coach Leo Cahill, has Toronto Argonauts ready for Sunday's sudden death Eastern Football Conference semi - final against Ottawa Rough Riders in Lansdowne Park.

"Everyone will be healthy," he said Friday. Jim Dillard and Bill Symons have been running as if they were shot out of a gun."

Following the final league game against Hamilton Tiger-Cats, fullback Dillard and halfback Symons were two of the big question marks in the Argo roster. Dillard reinjured a stingy knee and Symons had bruised ribs.

Quarterback Wally Gobler has recovered from bruised ribs inflicted by tackle Angelo Mosca and has been sharp in practice. But Gobler doesn't function, Cahill still has quarterback Tom Wilkinson, picked up during the waiver draft from Toronto Rifles of the Continental League.

With Wilkinson reactivated either fullback Joe Williams or flanker Pete Manning will be put on waivers to make room on the roster. The player retained will not dress, making room on the bench for Wilkinson.

"I would guess that Gabler will start the game," Cahill said Friday. "But we're going to have both quarterbacks ready.

"If won't take long to find out if one or the other hasn't got it."

Gabler has been wild with his passes for the last few games, missing receivers he admits have been open.

Cahill also said the Argos may go with more short passes than they have in most recent games.

Noting that the fine deep defenders on the Ottawa team make long passing difficult and that the good rushing ends and linebackers apply give the quarterback little time, he indicated the game plan could include more screen and book passes than it has.

The 2 p.m. EST game will be televised nationally by CTV.

Flyers, Habs Tie

Wings Blast Rangers!

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

For two periods Friday night, underdog teams had the time of their lives in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior series.

Then the third period started and victories slipped away. Toronto Marlboros did it most effectively in Oshawa, scoring three goals in the final minute to defeat the 67s 4-2 before 1,300 fans-in Hull Arena.

In the night's other game, Niagara Falls Flyers and Montreal Junior Canadiens played to a 0-0 tie. But the tie was enough to keep the Flyers in first place by one point over the Marlboros, defending Memorial Cup champions.

Blazers Defeat Apollos

Oklahoma City Blazers pushed to within four points of Fort Worth, the Southern Division leader, by beating Houston Apollos 4-1 in Central Hockey League action Friday night.

The Blazers now have won six games, lost two and tied two, compared with the Wings' 8-1 record.

In other CHL games, Omaha Knights blanked Memphis 4-0 to gain a tie with the South Stars for second place in the Northern Division.

Browns Meet Packers

Ryan Faces Tough Test!

By ED SCHUYLER Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

The canny Ryan, who has been plagued with injuries to his legs, ribs and throwing arm, still has pleased for 17 touchdowns while guiding the Browns, 5-3-0, to a first-place tie with St. Louis Cardinals in the Century Division of the National Football League's Eastern Conference.

Green Bay will be without the services of halfback Elijah Pitts and fullback Jim Grabowski, but unfortunately, for Ryan, the Packer defence—the NFL's best—is in good shape.

Pitts tore an achilles tendon in his right heel and Grabowski suffered an injury to his right knee in last Sunday's 13-10 loss to Baltimore. Pitts, probably out for the season, will be replaced by Donnie Anderson and Grabowski, sidelined until at least Nov. 19, will be replaced by Ben Wilson.

In other NFL games, all Sunday, Pittsburgh Steelers are at Redskins.

Jets Meet Buffalo!

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

"I cannot tell a lie," says Bill Mathis. "I'm a running back and the thing I like to do most is what every other running back likes to do—carry the ball."

How well Mathis does the thing he likes to do most may go a long way in determining whether New York Jets do what they would like to do most—win the American Football League's Eastern Division title.

The Jets championship hopes may have been put in jeopardy last week when Emerson Boozer, the league's top scorer and the team's top rusher, was put out of coshmission for the season with a knee injury.

Mathis, who has been playing fullback in place of the injured Matt Snell, moves to Boozer's halfback spot against Buffalo Bills this week as Snell returns for the first time since the beginning of the season.

Carol Channing in Slacks Barred From Entering Club

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Carol Channing, former star of Hello, Dolly, arrived at 21 at the peak of the lunch-hour rush in her working clothes. The guardian of its portals looked, recognized, gasped—and barred her from the dining area.

Miss Channing's work clothes were white wool plus fours, a matching Norfolk jacket worn with turtleneck sweater, black woollen socks and white buckskin golf shoes.

The management of 21 enforces its ban on ladies in pants as rigidly as it does its regulation that gentlemen wear ties.

Miss Channing, however, is a woman of resource. She returned to her chauffeur-driven limousine and back she came in a pale lacy-mauve mink coat that covered her discreetly from ear lobes to knees. A headwaiter led her party to a corner table.

Miss Channing's curious costume was part of her current job: drumming up interest in her forthcoming ABC special, Carol Channing and 101 men next Wednesday night.

The special is the first of six in three years she is to do under her ABC contract, sandwiched in between film commitments and, if plans mature, another Broadway musical.

Carol had an overnight success 17 years ago on Broadway with Gentlemen Prefer Blondes. Her Dolly was a sell-out and she left the Broadway cast to tour the country in the show. Next she did the film, Thoroughly Modern Millie. She has not had a vacation in years.

"My idea of a vacation is a change of occupation—like going from Dolly to Millie. You can have more fun working with a new company than just going some place and doing nothing."

She is working in the special with Walter Matthau—in his variety debut—and her old teammate George Burns. Television, Miss Channing finds, is another sort of vacation.

"There's time to rehearse, time to work out new things," she said. "And if you don't like what you're done, there's time to throw it away and try it another way."

"Easy Does It, Pal!"

Gary Player of South Africa puts in the first round of World Cup Golf Tournament in Mexico City yesterday. Player shot a 69 in the first day's play to put him behind Arnold Palmer of the United States and Florentino Molina of Argentina who are tied with 68's. (AP Wirephoto).

Nicklaus Palmer On Top

By STRATFORD C. JONES

MEXICO CITY (AP) — After 36 holes, the World Cup tournament golf course seems to be getting to the golfers.

Arnold Palmer, whose two-under-par 70 Friday gave him a 36-hole total of 138 and a four-stroke lead for individual honors, describes the course as "probably the toughest course I know, scorewise."

The course to Palmer in another way, too. Leaving one of the many fairway traps he got sand in his eye and complained of blurred vision throughout the round.

Jack Nicklaus, whose second round 71 coupled with Palmer's to give the U.S. a 281 and six-stroke team lead over Argentina, agrees on the Club de Golf Chapultepec's degree of difficulty. It particularly hampered his driving, which he said had been good recently.

"I only used the driver four times today," Nicklaus said.

Knudson and team-mate Al Balding, who took occasional whiffs from an oxygen bottle as they toured the 7,247-foot high course, said "it didn't do much good."

Outdoor Tips And Tricks

By BOB BLAND

This is the end of the first week of deer hunting and lovely success to date has been fair. South of No. 7 Highway quite a number of deer have been shot by local hunters.

Farther north the hunting has not been good. A lot of fellows credit the high water in the early part of the season for certain areas. The deer cross the swamp to islands where they are safe from hunters' dogs.

Lake Ontario has the best crop of Bluebills, Redheads, Canvasbacks and Butterballs I have seen in the past 15 years.

Vern Goyer and I have been fall duck hunting every morning this week and have gotten our limit every day.

We also have learned the hard way, quite a bit about hunting these diving ducks, in the past couple of weeks.

We have hunted for years and usually with good luck and we have used very few bait in the time duck hunters, that you should have a large flock of good decoys, preferabl about 100.

This has been so far as we are concerned an old man's tale.

We have been using from 25 to 50 old crows, hunting the beaten bluebill decoys with great success.

Another old tale is, the wind should always be at your back.

For years I have listened to this tale and have shot a lot of ducks but this week it seemed every place we wanted to hunt the wind was blowing right on to us and we shot more ducks than we ever have shot for the past few years. Quite off another story.

For fall ducks you do not need much of a blind. I have hunted out of an anchored boat with a piece of burlap thrown over it. From a brush hide or low you almost had to lay down in it and from many other spaces blinds that were part of the boat. As long as you do not move around almost any type of reeds or brush will suffice for a hide for the diver duck.

Two fat birds are killed, a broadbill and a red head were banded and it will be interesting to know just where these ducks came from.

In all probability these diver ducks were banded in Western provinces and made their way through the Great Lakes system into Lake Ontario.

The location of these fall ducks? East and West Lake, Wellers Bay, Consecon and South Bay, Smiths Bay and Points Traverse and Petrie.

For the past few years there has been a limit of two redheads or two canvasbacks per day. But this year the limit on redheads was fantastic and therefore this limit has been lifted and if the amount of canvasbacks showing in the Quinte area is any indication then the limit will probably remain for the next season.

If you want to shoot some of the woodcock Con. Cuppage mentioned the other night in his column, you have until December 16th to do so. A good spot is the Fuller Creek area east of the gravel pit and Parks Creek in the Head section. Find swampy spots near the creek and be prepared for their helicopter like departure. Make sure you do not shoot more than 8 per day.

Levesque Outpoints Kierans In Quebec Separatism Debate

TROIS-RIVIÈRES, Que. (CP) — Rene Levesque rallied enthusiastic support for an independent Quebec Friday night in a union-organized public debate with Eric Kierans.

The encounter between the two former Liberal provincial cabinet ministers with clashing constitutional views filled to standing-room capacity a union meeting hall.

Mr. Levesque, who favors Quebec independence in a Canadian economic union, easily won the bravos and most of the applause of the audience of about 700.

Mr. Kierans, advocating federalism with changes in the Canadian constitution to bring it up to date, was applauded less enthusiastically and was booed at one point.

The debate, first public encounter between the two since Mr. Levesque's resignation from the Liberal party which has rejected his views, was organized by the United Steel Workers of America.

During the debate Mr. Levesque urged French-Canadians to overcome what he described as their fears to establish a sovereign independent state to provide their survival and development.

He said federalism should be replaced with a common market association where French and English-Canadians could deal with each other as "equal to equal."

Mr. Kierans, president of the Quebec Liberal Federation, said an independent Quebec could not even ensure maintenance of the existing standard of living in the province where average annual income is below the Canadian mean.

And he told Mr. Levesque the common market theory would not work because other provinces would choose to form a common market with the United States rather than with Quebec.

Mr. Kierans said Quebec's problems could be traced to governments prior to 1960 which did not address themselves to Quebec's real needs in education, road-building and social welfare. He said that the state takeover-type of socialism is not possible in Quebec which has to spend its money on education and other social measures in order to catch up with the gist of Canada.

Mr. Kierans' rejection of socialism drew scattered booing.

Andre Godin, 30-year-old president of local 7082 of the United Steel Workers on strike at Quebec Wire Ltd., said in an interview before the meeting there are many separatists among the local steel workers who, he said, feel the "capitalists are still in power."

Dupuis Will Get New Trial

MONTREAL (CP) — Yvon Dupuis, a former Liberal member of Parliament, was granted a new trial Friday by the Quebec Court of Appeal after having been convicted 18 months ago for influence-peddling in an attempt to get a racetrack established in the province.

Two justices of the three-man appeal court agreed that the former minister without portfolio should have another trial while the third judge ruled in favor of acquittal.

Mr. Dupuis, first elected to the Commons for St. Jean-Iberville-Napierville in 1958, was appointed minister without portfolio in Prime Minister Pearson's cabinet in February, 1964.

He left the cabinet in January, 1965, at the request of Mr. Pearson after the prime minister saw a preliminary RCMP report on allegations against him. He was defeated in the federal election later that year.

Dupuis subsequently was charged and convicted at Sherbrooke, Que., in April, 1966, of accepting $10,000 in 1961 in return for his influence in support of a group seeking to set up a racetrack in St. Johns, Que. He was fined $5,000 or a year's imprisonment by Mr. Justice Evender Veilleux.

Motorists Urged to Drive With Care

DESERONTO — "Drive your vehicle to suit the weather and road conditions and be prepared to change your driving habits instantly," is the admonition of the Napanee detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police in the latest report. "The safe driver has control of his vehicle at all times and drives with courtesy and consideration".

The driver who goes to work on dry roads in the morning often finds that conditions have changed when he starts for home, but too often he does not change his driving habits to suit the new conditions. Thus we have accidents, the report points out. Roads which are dry in the morning may be wet or snow-covered or icy by night, and we must be prepared to vary our driving to suit those conditions.

Last week this detachment received and investigated 90 complaints, 21 of them on Hallowe'en, the occurrences, varying from comparatively harmless pranks to fires and road blocks.

During the week 12 accidents were investigated, three of them involving personal injuries to five people, three of whom were admitted to hospital. Friday night Leenan Howard Griffin of Odessa was severely injured when his vehicle collided with a tree on county road number three. He is in the Kingston General Hospital, where his condition is reported as fair.

The following day a two-truck collision at the junction of Highway 41 and the Selby Road resulted in damage to both trucks estimated at $1,200 and involved injury to several people, two of whom were admitted to Kingston General Hospital with head injuries. The accident is still under investigation and details are sketchy.

School Board Proposes New Addition

DESERONTO — Deseronto Public School Board, meeting this week, took its first definite step toward alleviation over-crowding in its school and for making provision for services it now lacks. Members were agreed that an addition is necessary, and sent a letter to the town council to that effect.

This school now has ten classrooms, and rooms for the school nurse, the teachers and the principal, six grade three meeting in the Sunday school room of St. Mark's Anglican Church in order to have, for the first time, a special education class in the school proper. The registration is 363, necessitating overcrowded classrooms.

The school needs four rooms as a minimum, and should have five to alleviate the over-crowding, he told the board. The four rooms would give them kindergarten, and special education rooms, a library, and a general purpose room with high ceiling, to double as auditorium and gymnasium. A fifth room would take care of overcrowding. He estimated the total cost at $200,000 of which the town would be responsible for $40,000.

There is no assurance that the councillors will agree to the proposed addition, as their hands are tied until they know what financial burden they must assume for the much-needed water mains and sewage system. They are waiting for word from the Ontario Water Resources Commission.

Secretary - treasurer Mrs. Shirley Provoe was directed to write to the architects, Sorensen, Thompson, Laframbois and Malotte of Kingston, for their estimate of the cost of the five-roomed addition.

Tax Boost Will Help Market

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Business and industrial leaders Friday called Finance Minister Sharp's announcement of a tax increase a surprise every one expected and a bitter pill no one wants to swallow.

In Montreal and Toronto, hubs of Canada's finest exchanges, brokers, investment dealers and businessmen said the increase was bothersome, but predicted it would help short- and long-term investment.

Any increase in corporation and personal taxes should be about evenly balanced by advantages of a better bond market and stronger long-term stability, Montreal analysts said.

In Toronto, construction industry spokesman said the increase should not be on corporations. W. G. Connelly, president of the National House Builders Association, said the capital market has been bad enough this year."

"A corporation tax would create a further shortage of capital," he said, adding that Canadians will be reluctant to accept any increase unless they are shown clearly that the new measures are part of a co - ordinated plan to combat inflation.

"We need assurance that there is an over-all scheme. We have had too many patching jobs that have affected our industry; the door has been open one day and closed the next. If it gets that way for the whole economy, God help us."

VIEW SHARED

S. D. C. Chutter, general manager of the Canadian Construction Association, took the same view.

Investment in plant and machinery by Canadian industry has been down this year, Mr. Chutter said, and if corporation taxes go up, the volume of private investment will be reduced still more.

Investors Picking Up Bargains In Light to Moderate Trading

By FRED ROSE

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canada's major stock exchanges rallied strongly this week, reversing a four-week downward slide, but trading remained light to moderate trading.

However, market analysts declined to call the advances a major rise.

"The market isn't bullish yet," one Toronto broker said.

They described the move as a technical rally caused by heavily oversold positions.

"Investors are picking up the bargains now," one said.

The Toronto industrial index, covering 98 stocks, gained 10.22 points to 182.98, including a 2.18-point surge Tuesday, largest daily advance since early in June. The base metal industrial index gained 4.38 to 167.15.

At Toronto, industrial mines, beverages and papellam registered major advances among industrial groups. Only the construction group slipped.

The Toronto Stock Exchange index of 300 stocks rose 2.19 to 139.1, Montreal 100 rose 1.39 to 124.39, Canada 15 rose 1.76 to 151.76, Toronto-Canada Dual rose 1.31 to 139.1, Canada Dual Preferred 2¢ to 20¢, Ukraine Corp. 1¢ to 12¢, Bell Tele. 43½ to 43¾ and Bethus 14 to 15¢.

CPR dropped ¼ to 19¾, and Canada Steamship Lines ¼ to 16¾ after touching a new three-year high of 17¼.

Other declines: Bank of Montreal ¼ to 33¾, Simpsons 2¾ to 39 and Steel of Canada and Argosy 2 to 36 and 22¾. CPR rose ¼ to 49½ on 6¾.

Dominion Textile preferred 4 rose ¼ to 20¾ and Dominion Textile common ¼ to 18¾. Oil 1¾ to 22. Red Crest-Dad Bus slipped ¼ to 21 and Canadian Canners Resources, up 4 cents week, held 24¢ to 40.

In speculatives, Consgo, down 50 cents last week, was off 9 to 10 cents in sales of 1,813,000 shares. Belleterre Quebec Mines, gold prospectors, picked up 9½ to 28 cents.

Marmora Shooting Said 'No Accident'

By ROGER WORTH
Staff Reporter

MARMORA — An Ontario Provincial Police spokesman said yesterday a shooting near here Saturday night was "not an accident."

Russell Pitman, 61, is in "serious condition" in Belleville General Hospital suffering from a massive chest wound.

Provincial Police said this morning they are searching for an unidentified youth in connection with the shooting. They have called in a specialist, Inspector W. H. Armstrong, from the Central Investigations Branch in Toronto.

Hospital authorities said yesterday a single bullet was taken from the wounded man's chest. Police believe robbery was not the cause of the shoot-

The incident occurred about six o'clock Saturday evening when the wounded man was talking on the telephone with his part-time housekeeper, Mrs. Annie Woodcock, 46.

Mr. Pitman, a service station operator, lived alone about 1½ miles from here in a building

Quebec Doctors Favor Medicare

MONTREAL (CP) — The Quebec College of Physicians and Surgeons has given its support to the establishment in Quebec of a full and compulsory medical insurance plan as soon as possible, as recommended in a Quebec royal commission report on medicare issued Aug. 25.

In a weekend statement the college warned, however, that doctors must be allowed to retain their liberty and independence.

The Castonguay royal commission report proposed a plan which would include in a medical care scheme medical and psychiatric services, pay for a large number of drugs, and be run by a non-profit state commission.

In its statement, the college recommended that this commission be responsible to the legislative assembly rather than to the minister of health, as proposed by the report.

French-Canadians Called 'Kept People'

QUEBEC (CP) — French-Canadians are a "kept people" who owe their good standard of living to others, Gerard Filion, vice-president of Quebec's Central Investment Corp., said Sunday.

Only people capable of feeding themselves can be free, Mr. Filion said. But French-Canadians would still be farmers and small craftsmen if strangers had not built pulp and paper factories and aluminium foundries in the province.

"It is at the level of the belly that French-Canadians must find their liberty, but to do that they must roll up their sleeves and dirty their hands," he said in a speech to opening session of a congress of business managers here.

"Nothing indicates that French-Canadian society is ready for an effort of this nature. She is not ready politically nor psychologically."

Waiting for the Master

This pussycat was patiently waiting outside the service station-residence of Russell Pitman near Marmora last night. Mr. Pitman was shot in the chest — apparently by a person who entered the building through the rear entrance. He is in "serious condition" in Belleville General Hospital.

More Fluoride Victims Found

DUNNVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Dr. George Waldbott of Detroit, a specialist in allergies and described as a world expert on fluorosis, said during the weekend that he has found two more Dunnville area residents seriously ill with fluoride poisoning.

He also believes that people in this area 30 miles southeast of Hamilton believe a three-man investigating committee headed by Dr. G. E. Hall, former University of Western Ontario president, will do a "whitewash job."

Dr. Waldbott said he has interviewed about 20 persons and has found four definitely suffering from fluorosis and suspects another four or five cases.

Two solutions to the Dunnville problem, Dr. Waldbott said, are installation of further anti-air pollution equipment by the Electric Reduction Co. of Canada Ltd. at their fertilizer plant or company subsidization of suspected victims so they can move away from the area.

Anti-War Plea Is Repudiated

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Three U.S. Army sergeants, released from Communist captivity in Vietnam, left for Washington today after spending the night in Beirut. One repudiated anti-war statements he had made in Hanoi. Another stood behind his.

The three men—James E. Jackson of Talcott, W. Va., Daniel Lee Pitzer, of Spring Lake, N.C., and Edward R. Johnson of Seaside, Calif.—were put aboard a Pan American airliner due in Washington at 10:30 p.m. EST after stops in Rome, Paris and New York.

The men were flown to Beirut Sunday from Phnom Penh, the Cambodian capital, aboard a Czechoslovak airliner after a ceremony Saturday at which they were turned over to Thomas Hayden, representing an American peace committee.

Gregoire Denies Seditious Acts

QUEBEC (CP) — Gilles Gregoire, independent member of Parliament for Lapointe, said Sunday night he sees nothing seditious in travelling to foreign countries to raise funds to support Quebec separatism.

Mr. Gregoire, head of the separatist Rallement National party, said he does not wish to say how much he collected for separatism in his trip to France last week because he wants to irritate federalists who keep asking him.

Mr. Gregoire was speaking to about 200 persons attending a meeting organized by la Ligue des patriotes, a French-Canadian nationalist organization.

The separatist leader said it is necessary to collect funds abroad for Quebec independence because French-Canadians have no control over their own information media.

Quebec television was largely controlled by American television interests, he said.

LBJ Administration Accused Of Flat Lies, Clever Deceits

CHICAGO (AP) — Sigma Delta Chi's national Freedom of Information Committee said Sunday in a report that some of the highest officials of the Johnson administration have been "deliberately misleading the public, the press and the Congress through flat lies, through half-truths and through clever use of statistics that distort."

The report said that the administration consistently used "inaccurate and misleading statements that contradicted most of the fine words" President Johnson has spoken on freedom of information.

President Johnson's press conferences, the report said, are conducted in such a way as to make it "unlikely that he will face consistent, hard questioning."

The report, levelling sharpest thrusts at the state department, defence department and National Aeronautics and Space Administration, was released in advance of the 58th convention of professional journalism society's convention, which opens Wednesday in Minneapolis, Minn.

In Washington, the state department said it had nothing to say.

"No comment," said the defence department spokesman.

"None at all," said NASA.

The Pentagon, says the report, continues to "pour out inaccurate information on everything from the controversial TFX (plane) matter to the question whether there was joint chiefs (of staff) disagreement over the conduct of the Vietnam war."

Canada Leads Peacekeepers

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canada leads the peacekeeping nations and its defence policy is "an exceptional indication of support for United Nations service that goes far beyond that of any other country," says a new study.

It's a product of the Brookings Institution, a well-endowed "think tank" devoted to analysis in depth. Author of the just-published book, called Prospects for Peacekeeping, is Arthur M. Cox, former diplomat and Brookings staff member.

The image of the UN as a useful force for world peace has been tarnished by the Arab-Israeli war, Cox concedes. But in considering alternative means for policing international disputes, particularly from the U.S. interest, he concludes that "imperfect as it may be, the UN frequently represents the best available alternative."

Cox deals with Canada in a long section on the peacekeeping nations. He notes Canada was the first to earmark a military unit for UN duty when it created the army special force for Korea in 1950.

Since that time, more than 20,000 Canadian officers and enlisted men had participated in peacekeeping operations, with the result that men throughout the Canadian military establishment had served under the UN flag.

Cox says Canada "by all odds has the most developed and sophisticated program for UN military service in existence."

LBJ Hears Plea in Church He Explain Vietnam Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson spent a whirlwind weekend defending his Vietnam policies, then listened in church as a Virginia clergyman bluntly suggested the president should give a "logical, straightforward explanation" of U.S. policy in Vietnam.

This challenge was put directly to Johnson by Dr. Colesworth Pinckney Lewis during Sunday services at Bruton Parish Episcopal Church in Williamsburg, Va. The Episcopal Church in the U.S. is part of the worldwide Anglican communion.

For the president, the sandy-haired Dr. Lewis doubtless provided an unwanted climax to a 3,100-mile Veterans Day weekend tour that took him from Fort Benning, Ga., to the carrier Enterprise off the California coast, then back east.

In appearances at military bases Friday and Saturday before going to Williamsburg, Johnson defended his Vietnam policy and appealed for united support in the war.

Dr. Lewis, however, told the president "there is a rather general consensus that something is wrong in Vietnam."

The clergyman went on:

"We wonder if some logical straightforward explanation might be given without endangering whatever military or political advantage we hold. . . .

While pledging our loyalty we ask respectfully why?"

The minister, described by parishioners as a conservative Southern Democrat with roots deep in Alabama, said:

"We are appalled that apparently this is the only way in our history which has had three times as many civilians as military casualties. It is particularly regrettable that to most nations the struggle's purpose appears as a form of neo-colonialism."

When the rector escorted Johnson to the presidential limousine after the service, shook his hand and murmured a few words, Johnson simply nodded.

During this rather awkward tableau, about a dozen anti-war demonstrators across the street kept up a clearly audible chant of "Peace! Peace!"

Dr. Lewis later was asked if he felt the American position in Vietnam was wrong.

"I don't know," he said. "I would have to know more than I do now."

AT THE CENOTAPH on Saturday, members of the Canadian Guards stood on duty while citizens and servicemen pay tribute to the fallen of past wars.

Parades Highlight Services At Wellington and Picton

PICTON (Staff) — Remembrance Day in Prince Edward County was observed in both Picton and Wellington in the traditional manner on Saturday.

In Wellington, members of the Royal Canadian Legion paraded to the Cenotaph to pay tribute to the fallen in two great wars.

In Picton a parade headed by the Gôd Fellows Band marched from the Legion Hall to Picton's War Memorial on Main Street. A large turn out of Legionnaires, along with sea cadets, cubs, scouts and women's Auxiliary participated in the parade.

Only a small representation of 1st Battalion the Canadian Guards was present for the occasion as most of the troops are engaged in exercises at Camp Gagetown.

Four members of the Canadian Guards were posted at the corners of the memorial and members of the Royal Canadian Legion Color Party were also in the foreground.

Weather this year, in spite of having some chill in the air, was ideal for the ceremonies which were led off with a prayer by Rev. J. G. Moore of the Presbyterial Church in Picton, Rev. R. H. Stewart of St. Mary Magdalene Anglican Church in Picton read the scripture and gave the address. The benediction was given by Lieut. Charles Eyre of the Salvation Army.

In closing his address, Mr. Stewart who was speaking on the ideals of peace, said "let us all subscribe to work for the labors of peace. Nothing worthwhile can be achieved unless the price is paid and we are willing to put ourselves out for it."

Saturday evening saw members of the Royal Canadian Legion held their annual banquet at the Legion Hall. Speaker for the evening was County Engineer Donald Clark who related experiences he shared with members of the World War. Others to speak at the gathering were head table guests Capt. Clifford Rutter, Mayor H. J. McFarland, J. Fenley and Warden of Prince Edward County Robert Boyce.

CFB Sergeants Sponsor Stag For Veterans of the District

It was a 'Warrior's Day Stag" and veterans from all over the Quinte area went to CFB Trenton for the first party of its kind.

Sponsored by the Sergeants Mess at the air base around 60 veterans of World War I showed up as well as two veterans from the Boer War.

Pipers marched the old veterans in to "Music of the Anzois" and they sang six of the old songs before the party got underway. All together there were over 200 attending the reunion.

Legion president Phil Dawson of Trenton thanked the mess for the most enjoyable afternoon he'd seen in a long time. The legion supplied transportation for the veterans who came from Brighton to Deseronto.

"It was a heart-warming sight to see the old fellows singing the old songs and meeting their old buddies. We hope to be able to give them this every year from now on," said a spokesman for the mess.

There were tears in a lot of eyes and when one old fellow said, "I'm already looking forward to next year," he was speaking for the entire group.

TORONTO (CP)—Gerald D. Ryan, 56, former purchasing manager for Abitibi Paper Co. Ltd., died here Saturday after a long illness. Mr. Ryan retired last year because of ill health.

Speakers Call for 'True' Peace

TRENTON — As those who lost their lives in the armed forces were remembered here on Saturday speakers at both the Cenotaph service and Armistice Day dinner called for "true" peace to prevail throughout the world.

Leading the prayer at the memorial gates at Fraser Park in the morning the Rev. David Milne reminded the larger than usual turnout Canada's 100 years of freedom was made possible by those who made the supreme sacrifice on the battlefield.

Royal Canadian Legion Branch 110 padre Rev. J. A. Payton impressed on the gathering it was just as important to remember the cause for which they fell as those who died serving their country.

Member of Parliament, Lee Grills, bringing federal greetings to the veteran's sponsored dinner took the opportunity to thank Mayor D. James MacDonald and the town councilors for the consideration he was shown by them during Centennial year. In referring to the number of functions he had been invited to take part in in Trenton and elsewhere he observed: "Often I've wondered how many of these wonderful things could have happened if it hadn't been for our veterans."

Wing Commander T. R. N. Duff said the 60th Remembrance Day was probably the most significant, sirmen have participated in. The Canadian Armed Forces will have stemmed from unification before the next November 11 observances and there will be no separate navy, army and air force, he explained. And it is safe to say the integrated forces will face up to new challenges because of the inspiration veterans have passed on to them. "We will not flinch, we will not fail you," were the words of assurance he expressed as he concluded the reply to remarks by guest speaker legionnaire "Joe" M. Galgor of Cobourg.

Trenton legion members experienced a pleasant surprise when a member of the branch's ladies' auxiliary rounded over a cheque for $750. for the bond redemption fund bringing the total gifts to $45,000 the branch has received from the auxiliary.

Two Hunters, Lost in Bush Walk Out

Madoc Provincial Police found themselves involved in an extensive search Saturday when two men were reported lost in the woods amid stormy conditions, rain and wind.

Cambell Ienasio of Toronto spent an uncomfortable night in the bush near Stenburg Lake after a search for him was abandoned during the night because of the rain and darkness. Mr. Ienasio emerged Sunday morning in good condition.

Leslie Holmes of Queensboro was lost in the Queensboro area and spent a full day in the bush. He found his way back at about 11:00 p.m. The search for Mr. Holmes had also been abandoned because of bad weather conditions.

Ladened With Wreaths

The gates at the entrance to Fraser Park in Trenton displayed floral honors commemorating the service people from Trenton and district killed in past wars.

Industrial Brochure

Corby Distillery Oldest Industry

What's the oldest industry in the immediate Belleville area?

According to a new industrial brochure — Belleville-For Door To Opportunity— recently put out by the Belleville Industrial Commission, it is the H. Corby Distillery at Corbyville, which had already been in operation for over years at a time of Confederation in 1867.

The big distillery on the banks of the Moira river three miles north of Belleville now has a work force of approximately 400, a big percentage of them living in the city.

The new industrial brochure lists all the industries of the city and immediate area, together with the number of years in operation and the number of employees.

Also in the brochure are population figures, a breakdown of municipal taxes and assessment, together with tax comparisons' with other centres and such factors as the availability of labor, the educational facilities and other services.

For instance it shows that Belleville has a per capita tax levy of $120.56 (in 1966) — a figure ranging from 10 to 20 per cent lower than many other Ontario centres of comparable size.

By way of comparison Carnwall has a per capita tax levy of $138.60; Stratford $141.78; Woodstock $130.58 and Waterloo $146.12.

Peterborough's per capita tax levy is 21 per cent higher than Belleville; Brantford 27.5 per cent higher and Oshawa an even 30 per cent higher.

The city's total taxable assessment is given at $108,-200,000 at the end of 1966. The total debenture debt at the end of this year is $11,372,000.

In terms of the number of employees, the Industrial brochure lists the Bata Shoe Company of Batawa as the largest industry in the Belleville area with a total of 1,000 workers.

Northern Electric is the largest industry to have located in Belleville since the war and has a payroll of 850 workers.

Other large industries locating here since the war are Wilson Concrete products with 220 employees, Bakelite Company with 220, Deloro Stellite with 234 and Amplifons which prior to its layoff this fall had 200 workers.

The brochure lists three industries as having located in the city this year. These are Superior Electric Ltd. which expects to go into production early in the New Year with about 100 workers; International Cooperage and Aqua-Sol.

Foley Foundry and Machine Company, operating from the new quarters on Wallbridge Crescent is another local firm which has been in existence for more than 100 years.

Deacon Brothers Sportswear Ltd., was established 20 years ago and the Canada Cement Company at Point Anne back in 1905.

Stewart Warner Corporation came to Belleville in 1922; the American Optical Co. Ltd the same year. Stephen Adamson Manufacturing Co. Ltd started here in 1928, Dominion Radio Hardware in 1932; Mead Johnson of Canada Ltd.-in 1936 and the Bell Shirt Company in 1937.

The Bata Shoe Company and Bata Engineering started in 1940; Black Diamond Cheese in 1941 and Avon Jewellery Ltd. in 1946.

Those Who Served Called 'Loyalists'

"The roar of guns, the rattle of machine guns, those will remain with us, those who served," said Archdeacon A. S. McConnell in his address during Remembrance Day Service at the Cenotaph Saturday morning.

The service, hasked in warm, sunny temperatures, received its largest attendance in years.

Archdeacon McConnell commended the crowd on its turnout and congratulated the children there on their behavior throughout the service.

He stated that those who had served had received an honored name in the community. "They were loyalists."

Archdeacon McConnell expressed great worry about many people that he termed were disloyal. As examples he offered hippies, separatists and draft-dodgers.

"They say we glorify war," he said. "They call us war mongers. In the name of war we pray for peace."

"We must rise up in righteousness and combat those who seek to destroy us, a God-fearing people."

He closed his short address by reciting a poem, suitable to the Remembrance Day ceremony at the cenotaph.

During the laying of wreaths, Mrs. A. T. Howe, of 32 Meyers Street, a Silver Cross mother, laid the Province of Ontario wreath.

IN MEMORIAM

BARBERSTOCK — In loving memory of our dear mother, who passed away one year ago, Nov. 13, 1966.

Upon your silent grave,
Beneath it where no one lives,
And the one we could not save.
Through tears we watched you fade away,
We saw you fade away,
We saw your life slowly broken,
We longed so hard to stay,
But when we heard you crying,
So mentally free from pain,
We could not wish you back again,
Lord, in vain.
Our hearts still ache with sadness,
And tears flow down our cheek,
Death is the cruelest blow you had,
No one will ever know,
How much we miss you mother dear,
Wife Annie, eleven children and grandchildren.

PRINGLE — In loving memory of our dear father, Arthur Pringle, Bismer Maroon Pringle who passed away one year ago, Nov. 13, 1966.

Through tears we watched you fade away,
We saw you fade away,
Beneath it where no one lives,
And the one we could not save.
Your life slowly broken,
So mentally free from pain,
But when we heard you crying,
We could not wish you back again,
Lord, in vain.
Our hearts still ache with sadness,
And tears flow down our cheek,
Death is the cruelest blow you had,
No one will ever know,
How much we miss you father dear,
Wife Annie, eleven children and grandchildren.

PRINGLE — In loving memory of our dear father, Arthur Pringle who passed away one year ago, Nov. 13, 1966.

Those we love we never lose,
For always they are dear,
Memories linger daily,
Sweet memories of a mother, Gordon, Teddy, Tina and Terry.

STAPLEY — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Stapley. Ann Bigley who passed away one year ago, Nov. 13, 1966.

A wife just a year ago today,
When you were called away,
We all miss your loving smile,
There will never be another one,
Who can take your place,
Like our dear and courageous mother.

Lovingly remembered by her son Roy, daughters Ann, Mary, son-in-law Russel and all her grandchildren and great grandchildren.

TOWNEND, Sophia — In loving memory of our dear mother who passed away four years ago Nov. 13. The dearest mother, the kindest friend.

One of the best whom God could lend,
Loving, thoughtful, gentle and true,
Always a friend and a help to you.
Sadly missed, lovingly remembered by her family.

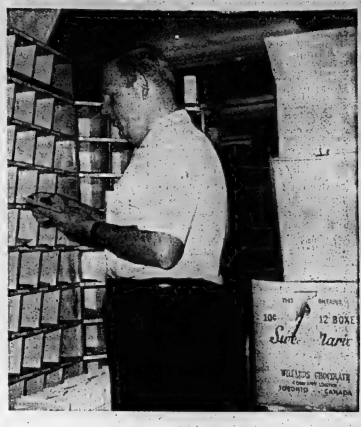
Graduation Diplomas Presented

Ward Hay delivered the valedictory address to a packed auditorium at Campbellford District High School commencement exercises on Friday evening. The Ontario scholar is now enrolled at Trent University and was awarded the English prize and of course the prize for the highest academic standing.

He paid tribute to the staff and to parents, and said that he felt divine power helped the graduates over discouraging periods and provided guidance when spirits were high.



He asked students not to get discouraged and to maintain the spirit of the Centennial year in serving the country in years ahead.

Dennis Kerr, also an Ontario Scholar was awarded the Physics and Chemistry prize and had the highest standing in Grade 13.

The guest speaker was Dr. T. Jones of the University of Guelph. His theme was "Set the pipes to powerful lips, drink deep the cup of life" and he urged the students to participate.

"The world needs compassion, infinite love, an assault on poverty and hunger and a war on illiteracy", he said. "Life is a schooling, not a holiday" said the speaker as he urged matching opinions with a sense of responsibility.

On the eve of Remembrance Day, Dr. Jones reminded the audience of the sacrifice of lives which should make for a better world. Finishing his speech he said that "Canada needs energy, enterprise, devotion and love".

Christmas Seal Season

Postal clerk, Austin Watkin, has a lot of work facing him. With Christmas only a little over a month away the annual distribution of Christmas Seals is underway. Envelopes, numbering 21,000, have to be sorted and mailed throughout Hastings County. The envelopes contain a letter, the seals and a return envelope, all of which are mailed by the Hastings County Tuberculosis Association.

Good Citizenship Expected From Graduates Says Speaker

The big day finally arrived for students at Albert College —their annual convocation on Saturday night saw 59 students receiving diplomas.

After the prelude and an introduction by the principal and headmaster the academic procession entered. The invocation by Dr. H. M. Davis was followed by the headmaster's remarks.

Robert Hamilton, who is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Oswald Scott in Belleville, presented the valedictory address. After recalling some of the old days at school and kidding his classmates about their nicknames (Bomber and Sgt. Garcia) the speaker went on to thank the school and parents. "The highest tribute we can pay to Albert is the future," commented Mr. Hamilton, who is now attending Waterloo University.

Saying that people must incorporate the ideals of modern need on a social awareness". Ending his addiss with Shakespeare's words. "The world is a giant stage and we are its players," he asked his fellow graduates, "What part will you play in it."

man into life he continued that "out" faith and man's faith de-

Two gifts were then presented to the school. The class of '67 gave the school a new crested flag and a centennial gift was also presented by the Student's Council, '66-'67.

The guest speaker, Walter Baker, who is a graduate of Albert and a lawyer in Ottawa, was introduced by T. K. Frankim. He too, reminisced about his days at Albert and then referred to the graduates as "beneficiaries of those who built the school."

"As recipients of this bounty . . . you have a solid obligation," said Mr. Baker. The speaker mentioned that good citizenship was expected from the graduates for the rest of their life.

He criticized the "attitude of festering cynicism towards public services generally" and felt that the graduates only hold the cure to a stricken society.

Mr. Baker finished his address saying "our age is not suited to complacency, don't be complacent — our age is not suited to dreams of past greatness — don't dream." "We can somehow go part way to house what the school expects."

Rev. Allan Lavis expressed appreciation for the speaker and the presentation of diplomas, certificates, prizes and scholarships ended the evening's ceremonies.

Change Purse Still Unclaimed

TRENTON — The Brighton Provincial Police are not actually running a lost and found department but they have a change purse containing a sum of money which so far has gone unclaimed.

Police said the purse was found on the 2nd Dugbill Road west of Trenton on November 6.

Two Sought for Attempting To Raise Funds for New Arena

While squabbling city politicians are seeking the most profitable way to build a new Belleville community centre, two men decided to do something definite about it over the weekend.

Only problem is city police today are seeking them — as culprits of an attempted hoax.

Apparently inspired by newspaper reports of the community centre feud among city councillors, the men launched their own fund-raising campaign Sunday.

It misfired almost immediately.

Police were called to a Cannifton road home where a woman complained a neatly-dressed man had knocked on her door and sought a subscription for the centre.

They took off when she threatened to phone police.

It was the only such complaint unearthed by officers investigating the incident, but police took it seriously enough to issue a general warning.

"Someone is pulling a caper," said Insp. Ralph Blatchford, pointing out no such campaign has been officially launched in the city.

Remembrance Service Held At Cannifton

The Thurlow Township Remembrance Day Service was presided over by Rev. A. Parsons of the United Church in Foxboro. Assisting him was township reeve Carl Thompson and Rev. John Hobbs of Cannifton United Church. Roslin Presbyterian minister Robert Cunningham also participated in the ceremony.

The provincial wreath was presented by Mrs. Percy Abey and wreaths from the Township, the Bay of Quinte High School Board, H. Corby Distillery and the Hamay family were also presented.

City Recreation

Leaving out the question of whether or not the Belleville arena project has become a political issue, and the angry words some councillors have been exchanging on the subject of "electioneering," the fact remains the city and its young people, particularly, could do with additional recreation facilities.

However, it may be asked, have Bellevillians and Canadians at large become so dependent on government that they are unwilling, or unable, to do anything for themselves in this regard?

The suggestion has been made that the city should consider the smaller type of artificial rinks being constructed in Kingston at a cost of $145,000 each. But city parks board chairman Alderman Don Williams says these were investigated and would not meet city requirements. And Mayor Ellis points out that a similar type of rink was built at Campbellford. "It cost considerably more than $145,000 — and you wouldn't want it," he told council.

Well, what does Belleville want? The people of this city seem noticeably reluctant to express their own views on the issue, as they are on other questions that affect them. So the young people have nothing to do on weekends — other than going to a dance or a movie, and some to engage in more dangerous pursuits like hot-rodding around in cars.

And so the city is reluctant to spend thousands of dollars for the arena-community centre complex. Well then, city residents should also do with something less elaborate for the time being. Certainly, with the government's current anti-inflationary campaign and the prospect of increased taxes it may well be this is not the opportune time for such a costly venture.

That leaves us with the question of what to do for additional recreation on a community basis. There is Alderman Carruthers' proposal for smaller skating rinks. Well, there would be no harm in having another look at that suggestion. If that is still not feasible, or if council itself takes no further action, there is much that can be done on an individual basis. It is not necessary to spend upwards of a million dollars to have an evening on an ice rink, or at a concert or other infrequent entertainment.

This is no original thought. The outdoor ice rinks laid out in most small rural communities and suburban neighborhoods testify to this. For hockey games, of course, something more adequate is needed. But skating, at least, is not hard to come by, as many an old time Christmas card scene will indicate.

And still on the question of personal initiative. If people are really serious about recreation, will they do anything about it? How many Bellevillians would consider snowshoeing through the woods this winter, or taking a long walk along country roads rather than city traffic, or buying a table-tennis or billiard table for the basement and becoming proficient at such recreations, instead of relying almost entirely on television?

And summer sport? Golf, tennis, swimming and so on. Well other than swimming, how many people played tennis last summer? The Zwick's Island courts were used most evenings, but it cannot be said interest in the game is widespread. And golf — here again few young people, those in their teens at any rate, take up the game.

So the question remains — just how much interest is there in recreation? In Scandinavia and Russia they skate and ski avidly, day and night, and turn out superbly fit young people with such disciplines as calisthenics. In Australia and New Zealand they also ski, but in these countries it is mostly tennis, swimming, rugby and athletics. And the significant thing is, the facilities "down under" are legion — and have been established mainly on a private club basis by groups of citizens who are themselves responsible for their upkeep.

Some councillors here have declared their willingness to contribute sums of money to start a public arena fund, and it is disappointing to see this being labelled a political move. At least it would be an opportunity to test the extent to which the public is prepared to support such a project.

When all is said and done, Bellevillians can have all the recreation they want, often for no more than the outlay in equipment and a club membership. Let people do their own thinking on these matters, the teenagers included. Let them form their own clubs if need be, and use a little personal initiative in getting them

More Sanctions?

Smith Regime Is Still Entrenched in Rhodesia

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Another Anglo-Rhodesian failure to reach a settlement on the future of that country increases the likelihood of tougher sanctions against the Ian Smith regime.

So far the minority Rhodesian whites, securing their dominance with new segregationist legislation, have weathered the existing trade embargoes and curbs with relative ease. They celebrate the second anniversary of their illegal independence today with some dents in the economy but still able to maintain a wall of defiance against the British administration.

The talks that George Thomson, new British Commonwealth secretary, held with Smith seemed to have accomplished nothing more than to define the extent of the Anglo-Rhodesian split. From Thomson's own remarks it would appear the gap is substantial.

But, the door to further negotiations has not been closed. Both sides have agreed to take time to reflect on what had been said. And from the Commonwealth view the reflection may be accompanied by a bit of mulling.

Britain has been aware for months that existing sanctions are perforated by many holes. One of the most glaring breaches is the ease with which Rhodesia is able to overcome the oil embargo. The pipeline in Beira in neighboring Mozambique has been closed but much oil still pours into Rhodesia from Mozambique's Lourenco Marques and from South Africa.

A seven-country Commonwealth committee has been examining the possibility of further curbs and informally suggest a recommendation now will go forward to the 25-member Commonwealth sanctions committee proposing a naval blockade to control the oil flow at Lourenco Marques.

This won't cut off all oil from Rhodesia—it still can get help from South Africa—but it would undoubtedly annoy Ian Smith and increase economic difficulties.

The job for the Commonwealth is to "sell" this proposal to Britain which maintains it is solely responsible for its breakaway colony. The lack of agreement with Ian Smith would appear to give Britain no alternatives. The Afro-Asian members of the Commonwealth have pressed for the use of force which Britain has rejected.

Thomson maintains, as did his predecessors, that sanctions provide the best course. And Thomson noted as he came away from his talks that "much can be done to make sanctions still tougher."

The Lord Mayor of London, Eng., Charles A. Hanson, when a young man, was the assistant leader of Bridge Street Methodist Church here many years ago and David Price, city treasurer, wrote him a letter of congratulation upon his elevation to the high office of Lord Mayor. In reply Mr. Hanson wrote to Mr. Price a very friendly letter and thanked him for the photograph of the present Bridge Street Church and also of the organ. He sent his kind regards to old friends who may remember him and in closing his letter he said, "Belleville has for me and my wife many charming associations. Without exception we met with the most kindness and it is to me a great pleasure to look back on the three years spent in Belleville".

Why Vietnam?

Remember Berlin—and Hungary

(Letter to St. Catharines Standard)

The Americans were invited into that country by the legal government to help them.

We, on this side of the water are so sure of ourselves, because we are so far away and of course "that" can't happen to us, can it?

I'm afraid that most of us are doing a lot of wishful thinking.

Can one forget the Berlin Wall, or the Hungarian uprising and the brutalities inflicted on the rightful citizens of these unhappy countries by the Communists?

We older people had a work for our education and now we have to sacrifice even when it is hard to keep a roof over our heads, to build schools and universities for the so-called future generations. The way they are acting and using these schools and universities, the future generations are going to be a race of imbeciles.

How can one learn anything by staying out of school, using LSD and other drugs? How can you have any moral fibre at all, when you don't even have the guts to make your own way through life without depending on hand-outs?"

Mrs. Diana K. Todd

Yehudi Menuhin

Noted Jewish Musician Aids Arabs

Vancouver Sun

Yehudi Menuhin has demonstrated by his own act what meaning there would be in often-abused phrase, "brotherhood of man." The world-renowned Jewish violinist raised $4,500 for Arab refugees with a concert in London last week.

He will be criticized no doubt by some fellow Jews. He showed his awareness of this probability when he said it was "definitely" the act of a Jew extending the hand of peace to an Arab. But previously Mr. Menuhin had raised much more for Israel by concerts in the U.S.

It has to be admitted to the shame of most of us that this was a unique act indeed, requiring not only courage but a rare insight into the problem of humanity in a world where, it seems, the material improvement of man's lot is out of all capacity to do infinite harm have brought little corresponding spiritual and social development.

One swallow does not make a spring, as Aristotle said, yet one good deed, shining in a naughty world, can make millions of people open their eyes — and perhaps their hearts. It was, said Mr. Menuhin, "an indication of compassion if you like, and the recognition of the fact that pain, suffering and misery know no boundaries."

What Mr. Menuhin surely meant was that Jews have known pain and suffering and misery for hundreds of years and not too many have shown them compassion. Yet some did. Those who have been the victims of genocide cannot be without compassion to others who suffer.

This lesson, reinforced by Mr. Menuhin's example, can strike home in the hearts of Arabs, Jews and Christians alike, the plight of the Arab refugees, which is at the core of much of the Middle East's intractable problem, might be eased and the Arab-Israel conflict itself made easier to solve.

Fewer Down On the Farm

Montreal Gazette

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics report on last year's census shows that the farm population of Canada declined, during five years, from 2,128,600 to 1,-961,000 — a drop of almost eight per cent.

And the pace is accelerating. And the results are obvious.

One formal acknowledgment of the change is the reallocation of federal seats in the Commons. This reallocation will give more power to urban areas whose populations have grown at the expense of agricultural areas where population has dropped.

U.S. Comparison

Productivity and Efficiency

Windsor Star

It long has been argued that Canadian industries, measured against industry standards, are less efficient than those in the United States. This probably still is true in most instances.

One cause is that the greater the production, theoretically, the less the per unit costs. Most Canadian industries are smaller than their U.S. counterparts. Also, the larger the industry, the greater the possibility of specialization. One plant can be devoted exclusively to one product instead of having to turn out several different types.

There is, however, that all Canadian plants have lower productivity records than counterparts in the United States. At a Royal Commission investigation into the farm implement industry an official of the John Deere Ltd. said its Welland plant is about equal in productivity with its U.S. factories. The Welland factory recently has been completely modernized and concentrates on the entire North American market for farm wagons.

We recall during World War II Lt. Col. C. D. Howe boasting that Canadian automotive plants were producing war vehicles more efficiently, and at lower costs, than their counterparts in the United States—and he had figures to prove it.

Centenary Article Gave LBJ Precedence Over the Queen

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

A moderate proportion of Canadians today, suffering from an adolescent national inferiority complex appear to be attempting to loosen Canada's ties to Britain.

This, deplorable and short-sighted as it may be, is their democratic privilege.

However, regardless of individual convictions a common courtesy demands a certain amount of good form. I call your attention to the November 4, 1967 issue of Weekend Magazine, page 17, subtitle of the article on centennial year. The magazine's disregard of protocol when listing heads of state who visited Expo is nothing short of boorish. Like it or not, Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth is still Queen of Canada, our own supreme Head of State. To list our Queen in second place behind an American, president or not, is an insult to the Crown, the Dominion of Canada, and every single Canadian.

This country is being peddled piecemeal northward, across the border. Surely, you need not emphasize this deplorable fact by naming our Queen behind Lyndon Johnson.

HANS VON ROSEN

They Are Only Young Once

Kitchener-Waterloo Record

Ald. Russell Ledger of Waterloo is having trouble with students and wants them investigated. In a catalogue of student crimes which he put together for Waterloo city council he listed, among other items, throwing snowballs at passing automobiles, throwing stink bombs at policemen and holding noisy parties in the small hours of the morning.

Some people, when they get thoroughly annoyed, demand an investigation of whatever annoys them. Ald. Ledger goes beyond that. He wants four investigations.

His fire is directed particularly at the co-operative residences at the University of Waterloo. He wants them investigated by the board of health, the fire department, the insurance society and the city council.

We can sympathize with anyone who is fed up by youthful prankishness. Nobody much enjoys being snowballed, eggs in the face can be messy, and it is maddening to be kept awake by the libulous frivolity of strangers.

Having said that, it remains true that young people cannot be expected to behave like old people, not all the time. If a three-year-old failed to have a temper tantrum one time in a while there would be something wrong with him. Nineteen-year-olds are apt to behave much like today's 69-year-olds behaved half a century ago.

There is no excuse for malicious damage by a three-year-old, a 19-year-old or anyone else. Should be swiftly reprimanded or punished. There is no point, though, in being surprised at occasional bursts of youthful exuberance when 10,-000 young people are assembled at two universities in Waterloo.

Ald. Ledger asked his fellow aldermen to help him block the establishment of more co-operative residences. They refused, and quite sensibly so.

Today in History

Nov. 12, 1967 . . .

President George Washington of the United States sent an army into western Pennsylvania to put down the "Whisky Rebellion" 173 years ago today—in 1794. The frontiersmen had risen in arms over federal taxation of the liquor they distilled. The rebellion was quickly suppressed.

1867—Pope Nicholas died.

1918—Gold was struck in the accident at Cherry, Ill.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1917—Austro-German forces in Italy crossed the lower Piave River and established a bridgehead near Zenson; Nicolai Lenin assumed control of the government in Petrograd following the defeat of former premier Kerensky's forces at Tsarkoe Selo and Kerensky fled.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1942—British forces recaptured Tobruk, 80 miles west of the Egyptian-Libyan frontier; seven Axis planes were shot down over the Mediterranean; President Roosevelt signed a bill providing for drafting 18- and 19-year-olds in the United States.

Counselling Seminar

Cornwall Standard-Freeholder

Just recently some 200 counsellors from secondary schools in Eastern Ontario attended. This number included three from Cornwall high schools. Purpose of the conference was to be held discussions on ways and means of improving the work of the guidance teachers.

One person, a third-year English major student at University of Toronto said in a letter of discussion that his high school counsellor had done absolutely nothing for him. Among other things, he said: "If you sat in their office and waited, coffee was leafed through the magazines, you could pick up all the latest facts at school, but not why my friend was suspended. . . or if I get hung-up, I want somebody to talk to. If you sit there as an expert, I can't talk to you. I want to talk to a human being. The fastest way to turn me off is to guide me, to tell me what to do."

Another third-year sociology student from Ottawa's Carleton University also was a member of the panel. He said high schools are rigid and he didn't think counselling could fit into such a rigid environment. He asked: "Are counselling services directed towards the needs of the individual, or are they directed toward making the individual conform to the institution?"

The meeting, sponsored by the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education, was attended by two U.S. "counselling experts" from the University of New Hampshire. One said a qualified counsellor should have a master's degree and a year of practice, or be half way to his Ph.D. Few if any, Ontario high school counsellors have such qualifications and most restrict themselves to providing students with data about careers in university or in other institutions of advanced education.

One of the New Hampshire experts said counselling is a good word and guidance a bad one, because guidance implies that somebody leads and somebody else follows. A newspaper report said the Ontario counsellors were quite enthusiastic about this approach and would try to obtain permission from their principals to follow it.

Bomb Rocks Jetliner

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — High over Colorado, an explosion rocked an American Airlines jetliner with 78 persons aboard, shattering suitcases in the plane's rear baggage compartment.

The plane, on a non-stop flight Sunday from Chicago to San Diego, dropped about 600 feet over Alamosa, Colo.

After the Boeing 727 landed two hours later in San Diego, fragments of what appeared to be a homemade bomb were found in the luggage debris.

"There's no question about that," said Mel Zikes, a public relations officer for American. "Parts of a crudely made bomb with a timing device—a face of a clock, some mechanism and a battery—were found."

The Federal Bureau of Investigation refused to comment except to say persons were being questioned.

None of the 72 passengers or six crew members was reported injured.

them to the United States, Pan American said.

Sgt. Johnson, who was reported ill with dysentery and malnutrition, was quoted by the Bilibid newspaper Al Bayrak as denying that he had been brainwashed and said: "I'm glad to be back to the war when duty calls me."

"I said what I said in Hanoi under pressure and I didn't mean any of it," he was quoted as saying. "I am an American. . . . I don't think my brain is so dirty that somebody has to wash it for me."

However, Al Bayrak said Pitzer told its reporter at the airport: "I meant every word I said in Hanoi. I am against war and I think the Americans made a mistake in getting involved in it."

Pitzer was quoted as saying: "When my plane was hit while I was bombing North Vietnam I bailed out and I was caught on the ground by an armed Vietnamese girl. She took me to a command post where they showed me pictures of civilian targets and schools hit by American bombs. I was impressed.

"Since then I have hated war. When Hanoi asked me to give my opinion about the war publicly, I spoke from deep in my heart."

Jackson said only that he was going on to Prague and then to meet his family in the United States.

Mrs. Woodcock said last night, "Mr. Pitman and I were talking on the phone when he said he heard a noise at the back door. He left the phone for several seconds and when he returned he said . . . 'Call the police . . . I've been shot'.

"He hung up the phone and I called the OPP", she said.

Following the call from Mrs. Woodcock, OPP officers rushed to the scene and called an ambulance to carry Mr. Pitman to hospital in Belleville.

Provincial police said this morning "we are searching the area for an unidentified youth.

"All we can say at the present time is that the shooting was not an accident".

Mr. Pitman operated the service station for the past 15 years.

Mrs. Woodcock lives about two miles from the scene of the shooting.

MacDonald Runs

TRENTON — Mayor James MacDonald will seek his fifth two-year term in office in the Dec. 4 municipal election.

The mayor said this morning he did not see any particular issues in the upcoming campaign and felt council "had done more work in the past eight years than in ages."

Mayor MacDonald was a councillor six years before being elected mayor in December, 1959.

Councillor Fraser has served four years on town council.

Councillor Duncan McDonald who unsuccessfully challenged Mayor MacDonald in 1965, said he will soon decide if he will return as a mayoralty candidate this year.

Contest Winners Enjoy Flight

Horseshoes — signs of good fortune — marked the flight of more than 40 lucky contest winners from Belleville, Sunday.

The trip aboard an Air Canada Viscount — the big reward in the recent contest run by the Belleville Businessmen's Association — took the winners over Niagara's Horseshoe Falls and Ontario's Golden Horseshoe prime-economy zone.

For all of them it was an exciting afternoon.

For some, it was their first time in the air — and an exhilarating experience.

"I was frightened at first," admitted Mrs. Gladys Tory, 17 Cherry Gardens. "But it was very, very well done. Everybody had a good time."

Like Mrs. Maxine Morris, 58 Everett Street, the flight banished any misgivings about flying.

"Everybody was wonderful," said Mrs. Morris.

Only disappointment of the day was the weather, which ruled out a projected flight over the passengers' home Quinte area.

However, the 90-minute air trip gave the winners a topside view of the bustling Metropolitan Toronto-Niagara Peninsula area.

ALBERT COLLEGE GUILD

The centennial meeting of the Albert College Women's Guild took the form of a singsong with Mrs. T. Franklin at the piano. Mrs. F. Davidson, who had charge of the devotional period and the program, commented on each of the songs about quilting bees, log cabin days and grandfather clocks. For the devotional period, Mrs. Davidson used a new book entitled Centennial Anthology of Prayer.

Mrs. W. Smith, the president, wearing a centennial dress, conducted the meeting.

The meeting, held in Sacred Heart Parish Hall, was preceded by a Mass for the League intentions.

There were 12 visits made to the sick and shut-ins during the month by Mrs. L. P. Hughes and Mrs. Charles O'Connor.

Boxes of used clothing will be packed for the missions at Cobourg Nov. 29. Gifts of children's toys will also be included. Financial assistance from Marmora Council will be sent to Combermere, to the Companions of St. Luke for Santa Domingo and to the missions in South Africa.

Mrs. Breen O'Connor, social action convener, defined social action as removing or remedying the causes of the conditions which necessitates this work. She noted that we must be listening and learning at all times to get the basic root of the causes. Mrs. O'Connor also dealt with the bill which is being introduced into Parliament to liberalize the abortion laws. After a full discussion, members agreed to write individual letters to the local member of Parliament, giving objections to the liberalization of the law.

Subject of a talk given by the spiritual convener, Mrs. Charles Brady, was Theology — Now a Layman's Subject. She defined theology as the science that treats of the existence, nature and attributes of God, especially of man's relations to God.

Mrs. Brady concluded that we have come to an understanding of faith that is more personal — not the acceptance of teachings, but the acknowledgment of One who is at work everywhere.

Brought to the attention of members was a final centennial meeting in Marmora Town Hall Nov. 30 with complete films showing the year's activities, on November 30th; the UCW Centennial Round-up Bazaar Nov. 24, and a CWL tea in Madoc Nov. 15. MARMORA CWL

MARMORA — "We are urged by the decrees of Vatican II to promote the true ideals of Catholic family life," said Mrs. Herbert Brown of Belleville, Diocesan President of the C.W.L., when she addressed Marmora Council Monday evening.

"The family is the basis of society, and when family life is in danger as it is today, our whole society is in danger," she said and referred to the objectives of the Vanier Institute of the Family in Indexville.

"What are the political problems and spiritual problems of family life in Canada. "Good families do not just happen, but are the result of unselfishness, good temper, forgiveness and humor. No other institution can take the place of the family."

Mrs. Brown examined the teaching of Vatican II on the role of the mother which states that helping to create a home is a vastly underrated vocation for a married woman and she can never put anything ahead of it, but a wife and mother must also take an active interest in the social structure of her community and nation.

Mrs. Brown was introduced by Mrs. Breen O'Connor and thanked by Mrs. Charles Brady.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Apple Cake Gingered-up

By MARY MOORE

Apple Gingerbread is exactly right for this month of the year. It is a hearty dessert so the preceding main course need not be as filling as usual.

APPLE GINGERBREAD

Apple Base
2-3 cup sugar
2-3 cup boiling water
8 apples
Gingerbread Topping
5 tbsps. shortening (use half butter and half shortening)
½ cup granulated sugar
1 egg
½ cup molasses
1¾ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 tsp. ginger
1 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. baking soda
¼ tsp. salt
½ cup buttermilk or sour milk or sour cream

Turn into buttered 13 x 9" baking dish and keep warm. (See note below).

To Make Gingerbread

Cream shortening and sugar together until light, then beat in the egg. Add the molasses and stir. Sift the sifted flour with the spices, salt and soda, then add alternately with the buttermilk to the creamed mixture until smooth. Spoon batter evenly over warm apples and syrup. (It is necessary for apples and syrup to be warm because batter should start baking quickly after it is put in oven.) Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for one hour. Test batter at centre with toothpick to be sure it is baked. If not, bake 10 or 15 min. longer. As soon as removed from oven carefully invert on large serving dish or oblong tray or foil - covered cookie sheet with sides, allowing pan to rest over cake for a few moments until fruit drops and all of the syrup runs over it. Serve with table cream.

NOTE Baking dish must be large, for when this bakes the syrup in bottom boils up around sides and could boil over if dish is not large enough.

MONDAY

Dinner Menus

To Make Apple Base In a large saucepan mix together the sugar and boiling water and bring to boil. Wash, pare and quarter apples and add to boiling syrup and simmer covered until almost tender.

Peden – Bertrand

Archdeacon A. S. McConnell officiated at the marriage in St. Thomas' Anglican Church, Belleville, Oct. 28, 1967 at 3 p.m. of Marilyn Grace Jane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Bertrand, Belleville, and Paul Richardson Moore Peden, Kingston, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Peden, Belleville. D. Davenport played the wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full-length sheath gown of candlelight peau de soie with ivory Chantilly lace appliques, scoop neckline and long sleeves. A train trimmed with matching lace fell from the shoulders and she wore an ivory tulle veil extending into a train. She carried a crescent bouquet of gardenias.

Mrs. L. Daub, Ottawa, matron of honour, was attired in a full-length gown with Empire bodice of burgundy colored velvet and A-line skirt of dusty pink crepe. Her headpiece was a burgundy velvet bow and she carried a bouquet of Yuletide roses and galax leaves. The bridesmaids, Mrs. C. Bertrand, Ottawa, sister-in-law of the bride, Mrs. G. Davis, Belleville and Miss D. Duffy, Kingston, were gowned similar to that of the matron of honor, but with pale pink crepe skirts.

Ann Landers Prediction Results In Months of Worry

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband is 38 and looking forward to at least another 62 years but the last two months have been hell and I'd like to tell you about it.

The night Jack graduated from high school a fortune teller told him he would die before his 38th birthday. Jack didn't think anything of it and neither did I. But he thought was always in the back of our minds and every once in a while he'll say, "Isn't it ridiculous?"

On Jack's 37th birthday a friend offered this toast at a party: "Make the most of every day, Jack because 38 is mighty old — and the end is in sight." It was meant as a joke (people had brought crutches and false teeth as gag gifts), but that toast made a wreck of us both.

ANN LANDERS

Two months ago we were driving home from a party. It was fogsy and the hour was late. Suddenly Jack's brakes gave out and we narrowly missed hitting an oncoming car. A moment before he swerved he shouted, "My God, the fortune teller was right!"

The next eight weeks were sheer torture. Jack refused to go anywhere but to work and to church. One night he had a mixed case of indigestion and he was sure it was a heart attack. Another time he got a neck ache and he knew he had polio. The following day he was certain an ingrown hair on his face was "skin cancer." Jack went to the doctor's office five times in seven weeks. I lost six pounds. He lost eight.

I write this letter, Ann Landers, on the day following Jack's 38th birthday. You'll never know how thankful we are to be looking normal five again. But we'll never forget the agonies we suffered — and it was all so unnecessary.

The reason for this letter is to plead with all fortune tellers not to predict death. In the first place, no one knows how many years a person will live — he can only guess, but the fear of dying can hasten death through anxiety or accident. — FREE AT LAST.

DEAR FREE: Your letter makes a great deal of sense and now I am bracing myself for the inevitable avalanche of letters from readers eager to redbunt personal experiences of death predictions which came true. To all of you I say in advance, it was a coincidence that your Uncle Heathcliff died on the day Cousin Anastasia predicted, so keep your stamps.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am only 13 and I have a lot to learn but I think I have something worthwhile to pass on to your readers who are much older than I.

I liked the letter from the woman whose husband gave her "the best birthday gift in the world." He quit smoking. I've heard many people say they would give anything if they could quit but they are hooked. Well, here is a poem that may be corny but all the same, it ought to work. Cut it out and carry it in the same pocket in which they use to carry their cigarettes.

Did is a word of achievement.
Won't is a word of retreat.
Might is a word of bereavement,
Can't is a word of defeat,
Ought is a word of duty.
Try is a word of each hour,
Will is a word of beauty,
Can is a word of power. — ABC.

DEAR ABC.: Corny or not, it's good. So I'll hunk it and print it.

Music Teachers' Assoc. Sponsors Piano Workshop

On November 6th the Belleville Branch of the Ontario Registered Music Teachers' Association sponsored a piano workshop conducted by Mr. Gordon Hallett. Mr. Hallett, on the staff of the Music Faculty, Toronto University, is also a well known Conservatory examiner and a performer.

From 9:30 to 11:30 Mr. Hallett lectured on the teaching of technical requirements for grades eight through associateship. After a lunch recess, he gave demonstrations of performance techniques and insights into teaching musicianship in playing of selections in the senior grades of music.

Informal discussion and questions from the teachers concluded an informative and well-spent day.

Mrs. Dolores Wahl, on behalf of those present, thanked Mr. Hallett for conducting the workshop.

Brutal Dad Produces Rebels

Dear Doris: All the kids in our family dislike our father to such an extent that we either wish we were dead or out of the house. He's got a temper like I've never seen before even in mad animals. He doesn't let us go anywhere or do anything. I'm 19 and he's driving me crazy. He still hits me, and believe me, he hits hard for he is a big man.

I recently visited a girl friend and almost cried in their faces when I saw how nice their father treated them and also how much fun it would be to have a father who would joke around and take us places or even buy us little things for no occasion, but just because he likes us enough to. — Troubled Teens

Dear Troubled: I'm sorry. Your misguided Dad is living proof that just having children doesn't turn a person into a good father. Rearing a family and doing a job of it takes good sense and some human understanding.

He is going the right way about making you all as rebellious ya be is. Which points to his own probable handicap — a disturbed childhood!

He may be a lost cause. Ten times and your mother could gang up on him. This is the very place where a child caring agency would head every effort to help you improve things. Go to one.

Dear Doris: I have met a man I'm deeply interested in; we are both in our 30's, have never been married, see one another every day in the same business.

Doris, I'm worn out trying to get through to this man; he has built a wall around himself and I am beginning to wonder if there is any hope for me. I'm the one that always has to make the first move, such as saying "Good Morning", etc.

He is a good man, and kind. Is he this way because he wants to be this way?

I must add we are physically attracted to each other. Also, there is a chance for me to get a transfer to another office. — Still Hoping.

Dear Hoping: You mean, will he fall or does he have to be pushed? He may have been worked on by experts.

Try telling him you may move to another off ice. If sho-

Points for Parents

Father: "Jane is so set on taking a trip with the Art Club. With all the college expenses, I don't know where we'll get the money, but I know she'll think she has to go if everyone else does."

It is not fair for parents to worry about money for luxuries, so the teen-ager can do everything everyone else does."

There are times when it is wise to simply say, "We can't afford it." Teen-agers actually may be unaware of this if parents always manage to provide the things asked for.

It is not fair for parents to go into debt or to be worried

SPORTS SLICES

By: Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

Some weeks ago before the bugles blew "They're Off" in the Canadian Football League Grey Cup Stakes, the office crystal ball, blear-eyed from that frantic world series baseball battle, took on a new look and focused their predictor optics on the grid gallops.

My own particular ball, called "Ananias" for obvious reasons, shook that St. Louis Cardinals' loser from its multicolored sphere, looked back at me with a suspicious wink and flashed back: "Ottawa in the East; Saskatchewan in the West; Ottawa to Take All."

If that round goggle-eyed little monster lets me down he will be sent to the salt mines of Siberia or given to Mushmouth to be used as fertilizer for his clam beds.

Strangely enough — and it looked as though crystal balls in our office had formed a union, roughly ninety per cent opted the same prediction.

But the dissenters, as I said were few, and heroes in their own rights. One or two picked Hamilton and Ottawa — a couple chose the Calgary Stampeders and Hamilton or Ottawa. But a couple who will be presented with awards for sheer bravado and wishful thinking, picked the Argonauts over all the east and all the west no matter who opposition.

And the icing on the, wager cake goes to a certain friend of mine, due no doubt, to former associations and environments who believes that anything wearing the colors of a Toronto organization in the realm of sport, are born wearing halos.

So it was that I stared at him in something akin to amazement and surprise, when two weeks or so ago, before any league game football went into game orbit, he calmly stated that the Argonauts would not only win in the east but lug home the Grey Cup before they hung up their cleats.

Not only that be he was willing to back up his prediction with a flagon of the most expensive hietand dew that was ever produced in Scotland.

So the Ottawa victory over the Argonauts yesterday makes our personal score one up; one to go down; and three to go. The three comprise a couple of sparring matches with the Tiger Cats and the main bout with the western champions, more than likely Saskatchewan.

Of the latter I'm not quite sure. My crystal ball when approached yesterday came up with more or less blurred vision. Its cloudy spectacle pictured a mounted cowboy pushed out of his saddle by a cattle stampede — and that is not very promising.

If the Saaky Roughriders can pick up where they left off after defeating the fast-travelling Edmonton Eskimos on Saturday that crystal savant will get a new lease of life.

Mayor Jack Ellis backed by city council came up with a fine suggestion and appointment the other day when he proposed the formation of a special committee to cover and select athletes of the city who are deserving of municipal recognition.

The mayoral move was made because it was felt that while some athletes and sports association have been honored in the past, there are those who should have been given tangible recognition but did not because of various reasons.

This city has been well represented in the past decade by its athletes, individual and collective. They have brought honor to the Old Lady of the Moira and publicity it would not have received otherwise.

They deserve recognition such as suggested by the mayor, and I for one am glad they are going to get it.

Hull Scores Three; Hawks Win, Tie!

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bobby Hull says he doesn't have the stamina to score at a goal-a-game average during the full National Hockey League season. But 11 rival teams are waiting for him to show some sign of fatigue.

The Chicago star and his curved stick accounted for three goals during the weekend as the Black Hawks tied Montreal Canadiens 3-3 Saturday and defeated St. Louis Blues 5-2 Sunday.

The 28-year-old left winger also picked up an assist Sunday. He has scored 14 goals in Chicago's 14 games this season and assisted on seven for 21 points to lead the NHL scoring derby.

Veteran Gordie Howe of Detroit, who held a one-point lead over Hull going into the week-end's action, did not pick up any points Sunday in a 3-1 victory over Montreal.

New York Rangers defeated Oakland Seals 5-3 and Philadelphia Flyers downed Boston Bruins 4-2 in other Sunday action.

Minnesota North Stars defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 2-1 Saturday, while Boston edged Oakland 2-1 and St. Louis walloped Pittsburgh Penguins 5-1.

Hull, who scored 50 goals in 1961-62, 54 in 1965-66 and 52 last season, has said only one or two players are strong enough physically to average a goal a game over the season.

Hull averaged more than a goal a game early in 1965-66, but tapered off during the final half of the 70-game schedule.

Hull scored twice Sunday. Ken Wharram, with the 200th of his career, Doug Mohns and the other Hull, Dennis, got one each.

Ron Schock and Ron Stewart were the St. Louis marksmen.

Dennis Hull's goal was his first of the season. He had 25 last year.

Joe Watson, Don Blackburn, Leon Rochefort and Bill Sutherland scored in Philadelphia's victory over Boston. Glen Sather and Phil Esposito replied for the Bruins.

Goaltender Bernie Parent, who Ilts Watson was left unprotected by the Bruins in the expansion draft last June, handled 37 shots. Bruin Gerry Cheevers blocked 15.

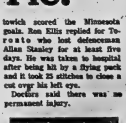
Rookie Roy Edwards, who took over in the Red Wing nets when Roger Crozier retired last week, was a standout with 36 saves—30 in the first 40 minutes.

Reg Fleming scored twice as the Rangers stomped Oakland. Jean Ratelle, Bob Nevin and Harry Howell added the others. George Swarbrick scored two Oakland goals, and Billy Hicks added his eighth.



It was Oakland's 11th successive game without a victory.

Hull started the Hawks on a comeback in Montreal Saturday after the Canadiens took a 3-0 first period lead. Team-mate Stan Mikita, defending scoring champion, and Mohns scored the others. Rookie Jacques Lemaire scored twice for Montreal and Dick Duff once.

The Leafs were outshot 36-14 by the fledgling North Stars of the Western Division.

Andre Boudrias and Bob Woytowich scored the Minnesota goals. Ron Ellis replied for Toronto who lost defenceman Allan Stanley for at least five days. He was taken to hospital after being hit by a flying puck and it took 25 stitches to close a cut over his left eye.

Doctors said there was no permanent injury.

Aces Trip Marlboros 6-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It was National Hockey League time in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior series during the weekend.

Lorne Ferguson and Earl Balfour, both former NHL stars, were standouts Saturday in Kingston where the hometown Aces tripped Toronto Marlboros 6-2.

The win permitted Kingston to maintain its two-point second-place standing behind the leading Galt Hornets, who nipped Collingwood Kings 5-3.

In the only game Sunday, Oakville Oaks, playing before 1,500 fans, largest hometown crowd of the season, clipped Barrie Flyers 5-2 in a game marred by a third-period brawl.

Twenty-two penalties, including four majors, were handed out in the brawl which started when Bill Cosburn bowled over Flyer goalie Gary Edwards outside the goal crease. Barrie defenceman Ray Gariepy and Howie Forbes pounced on Cosburn, beating him to the ice.

Oaks' marksmen were Mike Doran, Obie O'Brien, Pete Bettiol, Doug Hillman and Terry Holmes. Lorne Knowles and Dave Nicholson replied for the Flyers.

Ferguson and John Mercer each scored two goals to lead the Kingston attack. Other Aces goals were scored by Charlie Convery and Jim Sproul.

Balfour and Garry Milroy scored for Toronto.

At Galt, the Hornets got goals from Vance Millar, John Beechy, Fern Belanger, Joe Hogan and Bert Brown. Collingwood scorers were Bill Abbott, Joe Hamley and Don Keith.

BOBBY HULL

N.H.L. Scoring Leaders

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bobby Hull continued to keep Chicago Black Hawks alive in the National Hockey League by scoring three weekend goals and assisting on another.

His efforts also kept him atop the league scoring race with 14 goals and seven assists for 21 points.

Hull has maintained a goal-a-game pace since the season opened despite the last place position by last year's league champions in the Eastern Division.

By tying Montreal Canadiens 3-3 Saturday and beating St. Louis Blues 5-2 Sunday, the Hawks pulled their record to four wins and three ties in 14 games.

Veteran Gordie Howe was shut off the score sheet Sunday as his Detroit Red Wings beat Montreal 3-1, but still held down second place in the scoring with 10 goals and eight assists for 18 points, one more than Montreal power-play ace Yvan Cournoyer, who has seven goals and 10 assists.

Battered Jackson Passes Riders To 38-22 Win Over Argos!

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders rode the passing arm of quarterback Russ Jackson into the Eastern Football Conference finals Sunday with a 38-22 sudden-death victory over Toronto Argonauts.

The semi - final triumph set the stage for the fourth consecutive confrontation between the Riders and Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the two-game total-point series to determine the Eastern representative in the Dec. 2 Grey Cup.

The series opens here next Sunday and winds up in Hamilton the following Saturday.

The Riders, who finished second in the EFC standings, piled up 28 points in the first half before Argos got on the scoreboard with a single but had to regroup late in the game after Toronto narrowed the gap to five points on three touchdowns in little more than 5 minutes.

Despite a steady rain throughout most of the game, both teams relied on passing to move the ball and had considerable success. Jackson completed 18 of 30 passes for 372 yards and threw a touchdown pass in each quarter.

Veterans halfback Ron Stewart and rookie end Margene Adkins caught two touchdown passes apiece for the Riders. Stewart took a 27-yard strike in the first quarter and a 23-yard toss in the second.

Adkins, who caught seven passes for 144 yards during the game, grabbed a 19-yard pass in the third quarter and a 25-yard throw in the final period.

Don Sutherin kicked Stewart's 16 other points with three field goals, a single and four converts. He opened the scoring with a 25-yard field goal in the first quarter, added one from 17 yards out in the second and got his third from the Toronto 23-yard line in the fourth quarter. His single came on a wide field goal attempt in the third quarter.

Rookie Tom Wilkinson, who replaced Wally Gabler at quarterback for the Argos in the second quarter, also had a big day passing, completing 15 of 23 passes for 196 yards and two touchdowns. But he had four intercepted by Ottawa halfbacks.

Sutherin stole two and Bob O'Billovich and Billy Cline grabbed one each.

Gabler completed two of his five first-quarter passes for 23 yards and had one intercepted —by middle linebacker Ken Lehman.

End Mel Profit and halfback Bill Symons caught Wilkins' touchdown strikes while fullback Jim Dillard ran five yards for a touchdown right after moving the ball 86 yards on a sideline pass from Wilkinson. Dave Mann converted all three touchdowns and added a single on a 74-yard punt.

Symons grabbed a 19-yard pass for a touchdown o n the final play of the first half and profit caught his early in the third quarter two plays after Argo halfback Dick Thornton blocked an Ottawa punt and ran the ball to the Ottawa 12.

Despite his excellent passing record, Jackson took a physical beating from the Toronto defensive line. He was hit hard and often but still managed to get the ball away accurately on most occasions.

Rubbing his bruised legs after the game, the veteran quarterback admitted he was worried by Toronto's comeback, especially after the blocked kick.

"We had let up on the strength of that big lead and we had to start going again," he said in the dressing room.

Jackson was not the only player to take a physical pounding in the hard-hitting game. Adkins was carried off with a leg injury but insisted only one play and caught a touchdown pass on the first play after his return.

"Outta My Way, Buster!"

Rookie Ottawa end Margene Adkins eludes Dick Thornton as he moves for a third quarter touchdown during Ottawa Rough Riders' 38-22 victory over Toronto Argonauts in the Eastern Conference football semi-final Sunday.

Roughriders Drub Eskys 21-5

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan Roughriders p a r l a y e d George Reed's running and a stout defence into another Western Football Conference final Saturday, drubbing Edmonton Eskimos 21-5 in a sudden-death WFC semi-final game played here before 15,980 freezing fans.

The victory moved the defending Canadian champions into the best-of-three Western final with Calgary Stampeders which opens at Calgary Saturday.

The Riders got touchdowns from Halfback Ed Buchanan and defensive end Garner Ekstran. Jack A b e n d s c h a n completed t h e Saskatchewan scoring with two field goals, two converts and a single on a field goal attempt.

Peter Kempf accounted for all Edmonton points with a field goal and two singles on missed field goal attempts.

Saskatchewan held quarter leads of 8-0, 11-0 and 11-4.

Roughrider coach Eagle Keys said two key defensive plays late in the third quarter were instrumental in his team's win. With Saskatchewan ahead 11-4, Edmonton quarterback Terry Baker led the Eskimos in four plays from their own 45-yard line to Saskatchewan's nine.

Then, on two s u c c e s s i v e plays, Saskatchewan middle guard Ron A t c h i s o n broke through to hit Baker for an 11-yard loss and linebacker Wayne Shaw tossed the Edmonton pivot for an additional 16-yard loss.

"If they had scored on that play, it could have been a different game," said Keys.

E s k i m o s threatened again early in the fourth quarter, but were stopped 22 yards short of the goal line and Kempf's field goal attempt went wide for a single point.

Saskatchewan's Reed proved why he is considered the finest f u l l b a c k in the WFC. He accounted for nearly three-quarters of the Roughriders' rushing yardage, piling up 150 yards on 28 carries. For Edmonton, Jim Thomas gained 40 yards on 10 carries.

The Riders rushed for 225 yards, but had only 69 yards through the air. Edmonton was held to 89 yards on the ground and 36 yards passing.

Reed also caught two passes for 24 yards. Edmonton's Randy Kerbow was top s on either team in that category with 41 yards on two pass receptions. Don Lisbon of Edm onton caught three for 35 yards.

Saskatchewan quarterback Ron Lancaster attempted only 11 passes and completed five. For the Eskimos, starting quarterback Frank Cosentino was good on three of seven passes and had one intercepted. Baker, who played the second half, completed seven of 13 passes for 51 yards.

Picton Wins

Oil Kings Clip Napanee

Belleville Oil Kings exploded for four unanswered goals in the third period to clip Napanee Pringles 7-3 and Picton outlasted Campbellford in a 12-9 scorer's nightmare in OHA Intermediate hockey yesterday.

Napanee jumped ahead of the Oil Kings, in Tweed, 4-1 in the first period and led 5-3 going into the third. "Pug" Keilar scored twice, Jim Woodcock and Terry LeSage once each to give Belleville the come-from-behind victory.

Woodcock, Mike Sherrard and Chuck Rowbotham were the earlier Kings' marksmen.

Rick Gerrow bagged two Napanee goals with the others going to Gra.e Dave Archer and Bob Davy.

Belleville outshot Napanee 43-37 with the winners' Bill Moxon and the losers' Larry Pringle busy throughout.

In Picton, the home club scored four goals per period but Campbellford almost kept pace with period totals of two, four and three. It was a rough night for losing goalie Father Appleton and Picton's T. O'Halloran as the forwards teed off from the start. Picton outshot the losers 58-45.

George Jacklin paced the Picton sharpshooters with four goals as Jim Guernsey and Larry Pavo collected two each. Moe Hunter, Sam Mulholland, Syd Faulkner and Brian Beatty scored losers.

R. Fry triggered four Campbellford tallies with F. Smith and Andy Faulkner getting pairs, Phil Meeks one.

Picton's win was their third win in as many games.

Belleville's next start is in Trenton Thursday while Picton does not play until Campbellford visits again next Sunday.

Bata Wins Pair In Centre Loop

Lack of ice in Stirling altered the Centre Hastings Hockey League schedule over the weekend but Cloyne Blazers are likely wishing it had been called off completely.

The Blazers dropped a pair of tight, one - goal decisions. They bowed to Bata Braves 2-1 Saturday and to Stirling Rebels 8-8 Sunday.

Bata's second win was a 3-2 nod over Foxboro Merchants on Sunday.

Les Greenacre scored the winning goal in Bata's 2-1 win with Don Phillips potting the other one. Eldon Gray replied for Cloyne.

Dave Potts was the Stirling hero as he scored with just three seconds left in the game to again sink the Blazers. Les Fryar had three Stirling goals, Glen Spencer two, Don Potts, Gary Mason and Barry Turpin the others.

Sonny Foshey and Pete McLeod scored two goals each and Doug Kellar got the other for the Braves on Sunday. Foxboro scorers were Jack Stewart and John Hill.

Packers Run Wild Over Cleveland; Colts Shoot Down Falcons

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Green Bay rookie Travis Williams couldn't believe it. Cleveland coach Blanton Collier didn't want to. And, as usual, Packer coach Vince Lombardi had the last word.

"That's been our history. The Packers always rise to the occasion," said Lombardi after the Packers, led by Williams' record-tying heroics, stunned the Browns 35-7. "When we've had an injury, we always play a little better."

The Packers had the injuries—starting running backs Jim Grabowski and Elijah Pitts are out—and they certainly played well, running up a 35-7 first period margin and romping in from there.

The victory, spiced by Williams' record-matching two kickoff returns for touchdowns, kept the defending champion Packers atop the National Football League's Central Division.

Baltimore remained unbeaten and on top of the Coastal Division with a 49-7 romp over Atlanta Falcons' with Johnny Unitas providing a spectacular passing game and the Colts showing no let-down after the previous week's important victory over Green Bay.

Dallas Cowboys moved three games in front in the Capitol Division standings after a 27-10 decision over New Orleans Saints, while St. Louis Cardinals maintained a precarious hold on the Century Division lead following a 14-14 tie with Pittsburgh Steelers.

Chicago Bears bumbled New York Giants 34-7, Minnesota Vikings and Detroit Lions battled to a 10-10 tie, Los Angeles Rams whipped Philadelphia Eagles 33-17 and Washington Redskins clipped San Francisco 49ers 21-20 in the other NFL games.

"I couldn't believe it was happening," Williams said after returning kickoffs for touchdowns on runs of 87 and 85 yards for the Packers. His feat matched the league record of two kickoff returns for touchdowns set last year by Philadelphia's Timmy Brown.

And the 35 points run up by the Packers in the first period set a league record.

Donny Anderson and Ben Wilson filled in admirably for the ailing Pitts and Grabowski, Anderson scoring four touchdowns and Wilson rushing for 100 yards.

"The story of the game," Lombardi insisted, however, "was Bart Starr." Starr completed 14 of 21 passes for 269 yards and two touchdowns.

"I still don't know what happened," said the dazed Collier. "I think we wanted to win so badly we were too tight and couldn't play our game."

World Golf

Arnie, Nick; Take All!

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Arnold Palmer, the easy-going golf master from Latrobe, Pa., was off to new conquests today after capturing his first World Cup individual prize in six tries as co-winner of the American team.

Jack Nicklaus, his 27-year-old team-mate came in second as individual winner plus co-holder of the team trophy by the United States for the sixth time.

"I owe my partner a great deal for getting those clubs right," said Palmer.

"I came here to help win the team championship," added Nicklaus. "If I couldn't win the individual prize I'm glad Arnold did."

The two U.S. stars, who outstripped a field of 30 golfers from 40 nations, territories and regions, fired a combined 567 for the two rounds, 13 strokes below their nearest competitors, southpaw Bob Charles and Walter Godfrey of New Zealand.

Canada's twosome of former Winnipegger George Knudson and Al Balding, both playing out of Toronto, finished eighth in the team event with a total of 583 strokes, 36 strokes off the pace-setting U.S. entry.

Knudson, defending his individual laurels won last year in Tokyo when the tournament was known as the Canada Cup, finished 7th with rounds of 73-71-74-73—291. Balding scored rounds of 70-77-71-74 for a 292 total.

Junior 'A'

Brawls Feature Games

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The brawls were almost as plentiful as the goals in weekend action in the Ontario Hockey Association junior A series.

At Oshawa, referee Bob Naden banished all but four players on each team in the aftermath of a third-period free-for-all as Niagara Falls Flyers crushed the Generals 9-4. Naden issued majors to two players on each team and sent others to their dressing rooms, leaving only eight players on the ice.

In the five weekend games—all played Sunday—referees issued 12 major penalties and a misconduct.

In other action, Montreal Junior Canadiens upset Toronto Marlboros 4-1 in Montreal, St. Catharines Black Hawks nipped London Nationals 3-4, Hamilton Red Wings clipped Peterborough Petes 6-3 and Kitchener Rangers tripped Ottawa 67's 4-2 at Hull, Que.

FINAL PLACE WON

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) — South African defeated India 5-0 in their Davis Cup tennis interzone semi-final Sunday to advance into the final against Spain in Johannesburg, South Africa. Cliff Drysdale defeated Ramanathan Krishnan of India 7-5, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3. Bob Mand won over Jaidip Mukerjea 6-1, 6-2, 6-3.

Raiders Idle

Chargers, Chiefs Win!

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Oakland Raiders have found out that idleness won't win them any American Football League titles, not with San Diego Chargers and Kansas City Chiefs hard at work.

Playing the role of the idle rich Sunday only made the Raiders poorer as the Chargers and Chiefs each rolled to victory and narrowed the gap that separates them from leading Oakland in the Western Division.

The Chargers, 6-1-1, stumped Miami Dolphins 26-0 and the Chiefs, 6-3, hammered Boston Patriots 33-10 while the Raiders relaxed with an open date and a 7-1 mark.

New York Jets had to work hard to retain their one-game lead over Houston in the Eastern Division with a 20-10 victory over Buffalo Bills while the Oilers struggled by lowly Denver Broncos 30-18 in the other AFL games.

San Diego, off last week, also suffered the effects of idleness against the Dolphins as the high - powered Chargers managed only a 7-0 lead into the fourth quarter before blowing open the game.

"Two weeks layoff was too much," said Charger Coach Sid Gillman. "I think we will be a better football team from here on out."

WARRIORS VICTORIOUS

MONTREAL (CP) — The Loyola College Warriors captured the Ottawa-St. Lawrence Athletic Association soccer championship, after downing Ottawa University Gee Gees 7-0 Saturday afternoon. Tony Scisciola led scoring with three goals.

Oshawa Rally Turns Back Quinte's Bid For COSSA Senior Title

By ROBERT SNEPJELLA

Quinte Saints' 15-game victory string and the senior "A" COSSA title were both flung far down memory lane on Saturday.

A spirited team from Donovan of Oshawa captured the crown from the defending champions with a late-game rally that saw them score two touchdowns in the final five minutes of play.

However, the ultimate score of 15-6 does not present a true picture of the struggle that took place.

The first half was a scoreless contest with both teams unable to mount a lasting offence.

Donovan quarterback Joe Izdebski broke the scoring ice in the third quarter by kicking a single from Quinte's nine-yard line. A no-yardage penalty and short-lived offensive drive had brought Oshawa to Quinte's doorstep and on 3rd down Izdebski wisely booted the point.

Late in the third quarter Quinte began their only successful venture into Donovan territory.

Fullback Harold Townsend and backs Terry Wellesley and Barry Burnett churned downfield. The drive collapsed on Oshawa's 15-yard line, and quarterback Paul Whalen elected to boot a single. Oshawa safety Terry Smith grabbed Whalen's punt and attempted to kick it out of the end zone, but the Saints' Dale Duvall recovered the ball on the one-yard line. Moments later Townsend crashed over the goal line and Quinte led 6-1.

Late in the final quarter Oshawa's "five minutes" came. A Quinte punt went awry and the visitors took over only 30 yards from pay dirt. On third down Izdebski faked a pass and raced 20 yards through Quinte for the touchdown. The winners scored a two-point convert to go ahead 8-6.

In the final seconds halfback Drew Allman raced 30 yards through the dejected Saints for the clinching score.

Indicative of Quinte's defensive play throughout the game were five interceptions. Kevin Allen grabbed two stray Donovan passes, and Leo Baker, Al Partington and Wellesley one each.

Crisp tackling on defence combined with Quinte's lack of blocking were the keys to Oshawa's rough treatment of the Saints' attackers.

The COSSA championship was Oshawa's first.

BCI Juniors Win COSSA Crown!

OSHAWA (Special) — Mike Scarlett played the part of The Scarlet Raider in pacing Belleville Collegiate Institute to the Central Ontario Secondary School Association junior football championship played here Saturday.

Belleville whipped Donovan Collegiate Institute of Oshawa 32 to 12 to take the title.

Donovan Coach Jim C. Raigen said after the game that it was Belleville all the way. "We were outplayed pretty well throughout the game. They dominated us the entire game except for the final quarter."

Belleville opened the scoring on the second play of the game when Scarlett went over on a pass and run play.

He added another in the second quarter when he broke tackle, picked up a blocker and went 40 yards for the TD. Wright added the convert.

Wright booted two 25-yard field goals in the first half to give the winners a 13-0 lead at half time.

Drumm and Scarlett added majors in the third quarter and Wright added the convert to give Belleville an overwhelming 32-0 lead going into the final quarter.

Donovan finally came to life in the third quarter but it was far too late to overcome the lead built up by the powerful Belleville squad.

Kiraly scored his touchdown when a Belleville player tipped the ball. Kiraly bottled it, momentarily gained possession and went over for the major.

Junior Football

Edmonton Wins Title

The esteemed trophy found its way into the trophy case of a Western club for the eighth time in the last nine years Sunday when Edmonton Wildcats physically mauled Burlington, Ont., Braves 29-6.

The result left two of the Braves in dire pain; corner linebacker Adrian Taylor with probable torn knee ligaments and halfback Dave Lee with a concussion.

"Nobody has ever physically handled us like this," said a disappointed Burlington coach Burnie Curtis, whose Braves had gone undefeated since an opening game loss in the tough Ontario Junior Football Conference.

Edmonton led 2-0 after the first quarter and 14-2 at half time. After three quarters, Edmonton moved ahead.

Blues, Gaels Win!

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

University of Toronto Varsity Blues had nothing to gain in the final game of the Ontario-Quebec Athletic Association football schedule so team-mates Paul McKay and Mike Raham competed against each other.

Raham won, scoring 24 points and winning the senior intercollegiate scoring title, while McKay booted 12 points that tied a 44-year-old record as the Blues walloped McGill Redmen 39-7.

Queen's University Golden Gaels defeated University of Western Ontario Mustangs 10-5 in the other winding game of the season.

Toronto had won the O-QAA championship the previous weekend, but the scoring title was still at stake going into the final game.

Raham's four touchdowns gave him a season total of 42 points to edge McKay.

PM Irks Alberta Liberals

EDMONTON (CP) — Faith their leadership reaffirmed, Alberta Liberals set forth today along a path they hope will lead them out of the political wilderness.

Behind them is a disastrous spring provincial election in which they slipped to fourth from second in party vote.

Behind them is an apparent snub from Ottawa, which almost turned the annual Alberta Liberal convention into an inquest.

Ahead lies a special two-year policy study and a concentrated drive to increase membership.

Both the study and the membership drive were approved by resolution Saturday after bitter words spoken on the convention floor.

Some of the barbs were aimed at Prime Minister Pearson, who kept four cabinet ministers away from the convention; some were aimed at Alberta Liberals in general.

David McLean, president of the Alberta Young Liberals, said the convention was "not the best convention ever, but this is not just because of Mr. Pearson. . . ."

He said the problem lay in diseases within the party which is "tired and without direction."

The absent ministers were External Affairs Minister Martin, Transport Minister Hellyer, Finance Minister Sharp and Registrar-General Turner. All were replaced by other speakers from Ottawa, but the convention program was upset, enthusiasm died and attendance dropped.

Originally expected to draw more than 500 delegates, the gathering attracted just 446 persons, only 276 of whom were voting delegates.

Earlier, Leader Mike Maccagno was unanimously endorsed, scotching predictions that a move would be made to unseat him.

Tweedsmuir Says Mission Success

LONDON (CP) — Lord Tweedsmuir, who led a British trade mission to Quebec and the Atlantic provinces recently, said today the trip was "an unqualified success."

The 23-member mission is cautioning British businessmen that personal contacts and sales follow-ups are necessary for anyone hoping to do well in the Canadian market.

The mission, which made its tour Oct. 9 to Nov. 1, found a "fund of goodwill" for British and its products, Tweedsmuir said in a statement.

Tweedsmuir, eldest son of Canada's governor-general from 1935 to 1940, said the goodwill should be an important factor in future sales.

The mission returned from Canada feeling that the industrial development of Quebec and the Atlantic provinces should offer many business opportunities for British industry.

The trade representatives said they received a "warm welcome" during their talks with premiers, government ministers, and officials of Crown corporations, municipalities and local Chambers of Commerce.

Mission members undertook individual sales programs. There also were talks with provincial representatives on the development of technical licensing and the "sale of know-how," said a group statement.

Some Oil Additives Useful

By RAY STAPLEY

Many readers have inquired about the use of engine oil additives.

Engine oil additives are certainly not new. Even when I started in the garage business in 1926, the selection of engine oil supplements and the claims that came with them — increase engine life, do away with sticky valves, prevent oil burning, to mention only a few — proved baffling to both motorist and mechanic. However, some years ago the Garage Operators Association of Ontario distributed a poster to its members reading like this: "There are no mechanics in bottles, cans, or gas pumps", and I have yet to find an additive that will replace burnt or worn metal.

Through the years I have seen many testimonials and convincing demonstrations. Then, too, I have seen the manufacturer of one additive, when preaching the virtues of his product, ruthlessly condemn a competitor's product.

There are effective additives that serve a useful purpose under certain driving conditions. I sometimes use them myself. But before indiscriminately dumping in additives, consult a reliable technician. Few of us would consider taking powerful drugs without first consulting our physician, and I feel the same thing applies to the car engine.

The engineers tell me that, provided we select one of the various types of multi-purpose heavy-duty oils manufactured by reputable oil companies and recommended by them, depending on the driving conditions, no more additives are required.

However, car manufacturers do sell engine oil supplements which they recommend for adverse conditions such as slow-speed stop-and-go city driving. I strongly suggest following the recommendations spelled out in the owner's manual, or if in doubt, consulting your dealer. Since all domestic cars carry a 50,000 mile engine warranty, the manufacturers may not approve of an additive in the engine oil and you may void your warranty by using one.

"I drive a 1964 8-cylinder Plymouth with stalls every time I stop in cool damp weather until the car warms up. Would you be so kind as to let me know if there is a cure for this?" — Marshall Ferguson

If it is any consolation, you are not alone. Many cars stall in cool damp weather, every around this time of the year I receive dozens of complaints from readers who share your problem.

However, there is a way of correcting the trouble on your particular car. Chrysler dealers have a modified "kit" that retails for $7.50 plus installation — possibly another $3. Incidentally the use of this "kit" the heat is drawn into the carburetor from the exhaust manifold which prevents ice forming on the throttle plate, and this pretty well eliminates the stalling.

A carburetor functions on much the same principle as a refrigeration unit. The incoming air is cooled as it is drawn through the throat of the carburetor, and on damp humid days, with the temperature ranging from approximately 32 to 50 degrees, the moisture in the air forms a coating of ice on the throttle valve, upsetting the air-fuel mixture. Until the carburetor heats up sufficiently to melt this ice, the car will stall.

Both the car manufacturers and the petroleum industry have done considerable research in this problem, and many of the more recent cars are fitted with a device that, during the warm-up period, draws warm air from the exhaust manifold and allows it to flow through the carburetor until such time as it is warm enough to take care of itself. Then a thermostatically controlled spring actuates a gate which shuts off the flow of hot air and allows air at outside temperature to be fed through the carburetor to aid in cooling the engine.

I have heard of instances where the stalling problem was chronic, and devises of this nature were improvised to work on any model of car by mechanics with the know-how. The Chrysler "kit" is available for all of their last six-cylinder and some V-8 engines.

The petroleum industry incorporates additives in the gasoline which helps minimize this aggravation. A person who drives little, and still has summer fuel in his tank at this time of year may find the stalling problem more acute until he fills up with fuel formulated for winter conditions.

As well as the carburetor "anti-icer" additive, there is another which I am told is used to prevent frozen gas lines, by uniting with the water formed due to condensation inside the tank in fluctuating temperatures.

Another logical way to minimize stalling is to be sure the engine is thoroughly tuned and that the fast idle mechanism on the carburetor is properly adjusted and is not sticking. For those who have the time, usually a five-minute warm-up period will lessen the probability of stalls.

A Master Defies Rules

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I was watching a beginner at bridge the other evening. A card was played, and she promptly "covered an honor with an honor." It was the wrong thing to do, but she had heard the rule, and was following it.

A little later, her teacher made the opposite mistake. The beginner had led away from an ace. "Never," said the teacher, "lead away from an ace in a suit contract."

I forebore reminding him how many World Championship hands have been won precisely by leading away from an ace. Or from mentioning that "never" and "always" are words that don't belong in the good teacher's lexicon.

Indeed, the way most people learn to play — or are taught — bridge is the same way they learn, or mislearn, more serious matters. It might even be stated without exaggeration that most of the world's woes come from our turning a "sometimes" into an "always," and a "rarely" into a "never."

The bridge tyro gulps down a set of rules and injunctions — "Always cover an honor with an honor," "second hand low," "third hand high," "do not trump partner's ace"—and then plays blindly according to the rules, not according to the conditions and necessities of the particular hand.

"Certainly" was one of the four words barred by Confucius in his Book of Analects. He barred it because it is presumptuous folly for a human to say what always shall be, what never should be, and what certainly is in all cases.

People follow rules, even when they are inapplicable to a given situation, because uncertainty is not easy to bear, and they prefer a spurious certainty to a difficult truth. But mastering the rules is not mastering the game; in fact, the definition of a master is one who knows how, when, and why to ignore or defy the rules.

Children who are taught the traditional mistake that there is only one correct answer to every question become dutiful students and get good marks — but they also become rigidly incapable of any truly original work in any field, and especially in the sciences. For education is a process of discovery not of sausage - stuffing young minds.

In a rapidly changing world such as ours, the willingness to sustain uncertainty, the tolerance for ambiguity, is the only way to keep a firm grasp on reality. Rules are useful only as rough guides; they are worse than useless, they are dangerous, when they become intellectual handcuffs. "Always" and "never" are concepts that belong to divinity; when applied to mortality, they can become mortal errors that wreck the peace table, the conference table, and the bridge table.

Fort Marcy Out-Duels Damascus

LAUREL, Md. (CP-AP) — $90,000 for owner Paul Mellon's Jockey Mancel Yeasa apparently saw something in Fort Marcy that even escaped trainer Elliott Burch.

While Burch downgraded Fort Marcy's chances against Damascus in the $150,000 Washington International, Yeasa retained confidence in the three-year-old gelding.

When the 1¼-mile turf race was over Saturday, Fort Marcy had scored the biggest victory of his flip-flop career and earned stirring stretch duel which outdistanced seven foreign horses.

Yeasa, the Panamanian who reigns as the world's most suspended jockey, wound up as the only three-time winner of the International. What's more, he's never lost—having previously won in 1956 and 1960 aboard Bald Eagle.

Damascus, winner of 12 of 15 previous starts in 1967 en route to certain Horse of the Year honors, failed by a nose in his first grass race but only after a total of $172,080 in win bets went down the drain on Damascus, the odds-on favorite. He's A Smoothie closed at odds of about 27 to 1.

He's A Smoothie, owned by Bill Beasley of Toronto, earned $19,000 and ran his season's winnings to $100,000.

Damascus, winner of 12 of 15 previous starts in 1967 en route to certain Horse of the Year honors, failed by a nose in his first grass race but only after a record $494,575 on the race, and Tobin Bronze, the Australian representative who now will race in California under the silks of new American owners, finished 3¼ lengths behind in third place. Canada's Hey A Smoothie, the early leader of a slow pace, wound up fourth.

Fort Marcy paid $13.60, $6.80 and $5.40. Damascus returned $2.80 and $2.40 and Tobin Bronze paid $3 to show.

Celtic Wins

Manchester U. Shades Liverpool

LONDON (CP) — Manchester United, the reigning champions, took over first place in English soccer's first division by besting Liverpool 2-1 Saturday.

A great performance was put by Manchester, playing without suspended Scottish international Denis Law and injured England World Cup star Bobby Giles. Liverpool had led the division since Oct. 14.

In the Scottish first division, Glasgow Celtic returned to winning form, beating Aberdonians 2-0 in their first game since losing a brutal World Club championship playoff against Racing of Argentina in Montevideo a week ago.

Jim Craig celebrated his first league game of the season by putting Celtic ahead after 19 minutes and Bobby Murdoch completed the scoring in the 57th minute.

Manchester United, whose goals were scored by George Best, is one point ahead of Liverpool in the English Division 1 with 22 points from 13 games.

Manchester City jumped into third place with 20 points after defeating Leicester City 4-0. Francis Lee and Neil Young each scored two goals with Alan Oakes and Mike Doyle getting the others.

Sheffield Wednesday dropped to fourth place—also at 20 points, by losing 3-0 to Everton.

There was plenty of goal action in the West Bromwich Albion-Burnley game. Albion's 8-1 victory was the highest score of the season.

Governor Armbro, owned by the Armstrong Brothers Stable of Hampton, Ont., running fourth and fifth through most of the race, finished with a flourish to beat Cartiale by a head or second spot.

In the eighth, Baily drove Common Art, owned by Ivan Spicer of Franklin, Ohio, to victory over Saturday Grattan and E. M. Travel.

Chester Colossal, in the first, and Jamie Barker, in the second, combined for a $58.50 daily double. The 10th-race exacter, with Bobby Freeman and Chockoyote, was worth $53.10.

Oregon Upsets South Cal.

NEW YORK (AP) — Southern California and UCLA meet next Saturday in Los Angeles in what has been hailed as U.S. college football's Game of the Year.

But whoever made the billing should have checked first with Oregon State.

Instead of deciding the national championship, as had been expected, the contest will do no more than throw light on the Rose Bowl and perhaps not even decide the combatants in that.

Oregon State's giant-killers who earlier knocked off second-ranking Purdue and tied UCLA, scrambled the ratings Saturday by stopping No. 3 Southern Cal and its great running back, O. J. Simpson, 3-0, on a second-quarter field goal by Mike Haggard and a bulldog defence.

The UCLA Bruins crushed Washington 45-0 Saturday and the Bruins' seven touchdowns.

"A Bell for Adano" Loses None of Appeal in 20 Years

NEW YORK (AP) — A Bell for Adano in its television adaptation demonstrated that its durability is no fluke. It was a beautiful novel play and motion picture and in more than 20 years has lost none of its appeal.

The NBC Hall of Fame production Saturday night was effectively cast, handsomely produced and altogether provided one of the season's most satisfying evenings.

John Forsythe, produced a nicely balanced combination of dignity and compassion and uncompromising idealism as Major Joppolo, the American military governor of a Sicilian town in the Second World War. The conquerors found the people hungry and suspicious and conditioned to fascism.

The story traces the major's frustrating task of teaching the townfolk democracy, solving their food problems and getting them a bell to replace the one taken by Mussolini for guns. His principal stumbling bloc is his own army and particularly an arrogant general whose order keeps food and water from the town.

The necessity of crowding the adaptation into 90 minutes made some difficulties. Relationships, including the one between the major and the pretty fisherman's daughter, developed abruptly, suggesting where cuts had been made.

But it was a reassuring, warm play with a nice message.

Shirley Temple's Foes Make War Main Issue

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — The major opponents of Shirley Temple Black in San Mateo County's special congressional election Tuesday are striving to make the race a referendum on the Vietnam war.

Two contenders consistently identify Mrs. Black, the former child film star, as a hawk committed to escalating the war.

They are Republican Paul N. McCloskey, 40, a marine veteran and Navy Cross winner, and Democrat Edward Keating, 68, founder and former publisher of Ramparts magazine.

Mrs. Black, now 39 and mother of three, argued Sunday that she holds a moderate view and believes "the way to peace is by achieving a swift and honorable conclusion to the war in Vietnam."

She and McCloskey are two of four Republican candidates for the 11th congressional district seat vacated by the death of J. Arthur Younger, Republican.

Keating, 62, is one of the six Democratic candidates and an advocate of an immediate bombing halt and a world conference on Vietnam.

A runoff election is scheduled Dec. 12 between the top Republican and top Democrat in Tuesday's balloting unless one candidate polls 51 per cent of the total vote—an unlikely prospect.

A turnout of about 140,000 San Mateo County voters is expected.

The two other Republican aspirants are Earl R. Whitemore, 48, county sheriff since 1950, and William H. Draper, 39, Korean war veteran and business executive.

In the Democratic field with Keating is Roy A. Archibald, 47, San Mateo city councilman since 1958 and west coast representative of the National Education Association.

The other Democrats are:

Daniel Monaco, 43, San Mateo lawyer urging an unconditional end to bombing attacks.

Bryant McDonald, 55, former Republican who urges escalating the war to quick and complete victory.

Patrick F. X. McGuckin, 47, an Emmitsburg, Md., lawyer who filed his candidacy as a "stand-in for President Johnson" and then returned to Maryland.

Wallbridge

WALLBRIDGE — Mr. Arthur Brownell of Kingston, Mrs. Will Brownell of Cornwall and Mrs. Hilton Shorey were recent callers of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris.

Wallbridge UCW held a pot-luck dinner on Wednesday with a good attendance of school teachers and pupils enjoying a hot dinner. A UCW meeting was held in the afternoon and plans were made for the bazaar to be held November 22nd.

Mrs. Ed Spencer is still a patient in the Belleville General Hospital.

The Wallbridge congregational potluck supper will be held at Aiken's Community Hall on November 14th.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Latin spent the weekend with her parents in Kingston.

Mr. Carman Sine of Belleville took the service in Wallbridge Church on Sunday in the absence of their minister, Mr. Don Hodgins.

Mr. Stanley Purvis of Brockbridge was a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Garrison.

Rev. and Mrs. W. E. G. Dovey of Montreal spent a couple of days with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Millar of Guelph and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Sine of Ontario were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Sine.

Sidewalk Program Nears End

Neither cold, wind, sleet nor hail are going to stop construction in the Belleville area during the coming winter — they may make work a little uncomfortable though.

The Belleville Public Utilities and the public works departments are the two organizations that will be using the most outside labor.

The biggest project the Public Utilities has for the winter is the installation of water mains in the Hillcrest area. Having now been approved by the O.M.B. and the Ontario Water Resources Commission work should be starting on the mains in the near future.

E. L. Burnham, manager of the Public Utilities, says that there are other projects planned but since no approval has been given to them he does not want to announce them prematurely.

The city's public works department is also going to be kept busy this winter. There are two major projects coming under the sewer works program.

Tenders will be called shortly for the installation of sanitary sewers in Foster Ward — the job will be over $100,000.

The other major project will be the removal of dead trees. This is progressing very slowly. Approval has just been received and under the by-laws contracts must be signed between the city and the people who want trees removed.

Letters are going out for people to sign but there is already a waiting list.

Storm sewers will be installed on Bridge St. during the winter but this does not come under winter works. Bridge St. itself will not be repaved until next summer although the final designs and paper work will be completed this winter, so that early tenders can be called.

Mr. Burnham also is concerned about traffic problems created on Bridge St. because of construction work. He is glad to hear that nothing will be done until after Christmas," said Wilbur Purcell, city engineer.

Two contracts are going on at the moment — the installation of sanitary sewers on North Park St. is underway by Trahan Construction Company. Lightfoot Construction is finishing up a $50,000 contract for the general replacement of sidewalks all over the city.

Breakdown to Build

Sidewalks on Church Street in Belleville are just about the last on the general replacement contract to get redone. The $50,000 job, awarded to the Lightfoot Construction Company, is almost completed and now the public works department will be moving into its winter works program.

Ford of Canada Strike Possible

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Workers at Ford Motor Co. of Canada Ltd. have given their union negotiators a mandate to call a strike if contract talks, under way for 3½ months, fail to achieve settlement.

The existing agreement expires Dec. 1 but the United Auto Workers did not set any strike deadline.

Affected are 11,000 workers in Ford's Ontario plants at Oakville, Windsor, Brampton and Niagara Falls.

In secret ballots cast Sunday, the workers from the four centres voted overwhelmingly to give the UAW a free-hand in calling for strike action.

Key issue in the fight for wage parity with U.S. auto workers. Last week's settlement at Chrysler Corp. in Detroit produced an agreement to give employees of Chrysler Canada Ltd. wage parity by June, 1970. But no firm agreement was reached on wage parity in the Ford U.S. settlement.

"We want parity now, not in 1970," Ed Bruce, president of Hamilton Local 707, told 2,000 voting workers Sunday night in the Hamilton Forum. His local bargains for 3,400 workers at the Ford Oakville plant.

Bruce also heads the union's Canadian negotiating team.

In Windsor, more than 2,000 workers, half the total work force employed by Ford in Windsor, voted 97.3 per cent in favor of strike action if needed.

Ford's Canadian workers only recently returned to their jobs after a layoff caused by a shutdown of operations resulting from lack of parts due to the U.S. Ford strike.

No strike deadline is expected as Ford until Chrysler and General Motors negotiations are concluded. The GM agreement in Canada expired Oct. 31.

Remembrance Day Ceremony Is Held

CAMPBELLFORD — Attending the ceremony at the Cenotaph on Remembrance Day were the members of Branch 103 Royal Canadian Legion, the Legion Ladies' Auxiliary and representatives of various organizations and clubs and of municipal council.

Campbellford band preceded the parade from the Legion Hall. Lieut. E. R. Pope of the Salvation Army gave the prayer of invocation following the placing of the wreaths.

Accompanied by the band the assembly sang a number of national airs.

Rev. I. M. Presley of the Pentecostal Church read the Scripture and gave the prayer of thanksgiving, supplication and intercession.

The address was given by Rev. E. D. Jacques of Christ Anglican Church, Campbellford.

Rev. Jacques based his remarks from the Biblical text "Greater Love Hath No Man," and also pronounced the Benediction.

Last Post was played, followed by two minutes of silence, and the playing of Reveille.

Wreaths were placed on behalf of Province of Ontario, Legion Branch 103, Legion Ladies' Auxiliary, the Imperial Daughters of the British Empire, the town of Campbellford and many individuals, as well as clubs in the town.

PCs and Liberals Not Ready To Reveal Finances Like NDP

TORONTO (CP) — Leaders of the Ontario Conservative and Liberal parties said Sunday they are not yet prepared to follow the New Democratic Party's lead and reveal their financial accounts to the public.

Elmer Bell, president of the Ontario Progressive Conservative Federation, said it is possible for any party to give a set of figures "and yet have thousands of thousands of dollars spent by friends and sympathizers."

If political donations were made public, he said, it might be easier to check the accuracy of figures on donations.

"When that happens I'm prepared to review my position on this."

Liberal Leader Robert Nixon said his party would be prepared to make its campaign spending public when laws force all parties to open their books.

"I feel until the law requires all three parties to reveal their sources of funds, it is not up to us to do so."

Thieves Get Million Pounds

LONDON (AP) — Thieves working all weekend with blow torches cleaned out the London headquarters of the National Co-operative store chain and may have got away with as much as £2,500,000 ($10,000,000), police said today.

The headquarters in the Strutford section of East London is the depository for huge sums spent by Britons in the various "co-ops" which function as a giant chain store system.

The master safe and some deposit boxes were burned down and rifled, police said.

The raiders must have spent much of Saturday and Sunday to accomplish what appeared to be a highly professional job, using what are called thermal lances which burn through metal, slowly but silently.

Co-operative officials, who found the evidence at the start of the work week, were unable immediately to assess the size of the loot but a quick estimate put it at the £1,000,000 figure.

The co-operative system is shared by the customers who can buy anything they need from breakfast cereal in a bicycle, have it listed in their stamps book and then receive discounts at various periods. Many small communities as well as the big cities have co-op stores.

Police found the floor of the looted vault littered with jewelry rejected by the choosy thieves who took their pick from about 1,000 safety deposit boxes.

The society, owned by its estimated 1,200,000 member-customers, has an annual turnover of £50,000,000 ($150,000,000).

The co-op staff immediately began checking depositors to find out how much the looted boxes contained.

A society spokesman said: "We are getting phone calls from all over the area as people are anxious about their savings. "Although there would be a considerable amount of cash in these safe deposit boxes, our members also left other securities such as the deeds of their homes and investments."

Sharp Expects Aid in Cutting Spending

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Sharp said Sunday night he expects most if not all of the provinces to co-operate in his campaign to reduce spending at all levels across the country.

Interviewed on the Canadian Television Network's W5, Mr. Sharp said Canada's economic situation is serious. "I would think it would lead to the kind of recession we have avoided for years" if spiralling costs were not halted.

He was already well into the first phase of his "three-pronged" campaign against spending—examples of restraint on the part of the government "and tough decision", one of which was his announcement last week of coming tax increases.

He would reach the second phase Thursday when provincial finance ministers come here for a two-day meeting.

The final phase would be to ask the public for its co-operation. He would reveal the exact form the co-operation" would take at that time. The co-operation would have to come "in an organized way."

Disease May No Longer Be Fatal

By Dr. Joseph C. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: When I was six months pregnant I noticed a lump near the base of my neck and was sent to the hospital for a biopsy. The result was "a mild form" of Hodgkin's disease.

After the baby was born I began five weeks of radiation treatment and now return periodically for check-ups. I had no symptoms other than the lump.

The doctor said that as this was detected early I have an excellent chance to be cured. Is this possible? Everthing I have read says the disease is fatal. If so, what would be an approximate life expectancy? I am 32 and have three small children — Mrs. D.

I will give you the blunt, gloomy side of the picture first and the brighter side — there really is one — next.

The cause of Hodgkin's disease is not known, but it is a malignant disorder of the lymph glands. Being malignant it is, in a word, one form of cancer, and cells taken from an affected lymph node show the characteristic cells of malignancy.

There was a time when there was no known way of treating the disease for cure. If it was true Hodgkin's disease, that is. For there are other lymph disorders which are not malignant.

But there is the bright side. I have no doubt that you did indeed read that it is regarded as a "fatal disease,"but this is one of the numerous areas in which medicine is making advances. The picture is rapidly improving. When the preferred treatment (X-ray) is started when the disease has been discovered in an early stage, good results now are being obtained.

In your case, the disease was discovered early, as you tell me that there were no symptoms other than the lump which you described.

Only rarely does medicine make an advance which is going to be a cure-all in a short time. It takes years, as a rule, to determine whether a new "breakthrough" is for real.

This is true of Hodgkin's disease. It takes time. But already medical literature is carrying reports of cases which have been followed up for 10 years — that is to say, cases in which treatment was given 10 years ago, and the patients are still well.

Right now, all I can say is that a case, found early and treated, can show a life expectancy of 10 years. But 10 more years in this field might be able to say that life expectancy is 20 years. And so on.

You happen to have been attacked by a disease which (up to the last decade or so we have been able to combat. In time you may well be one of the "fortunates" to have had this is one of the "fatal" diseases which now can be cured.

Dear Dr. Molner: When the fifth cranial nerve is cut to relieve tric doulourecx, do you lose your hearing on that side, or does it have any effect on hearing? —P.D.

Hearing is not affected except in rare instances there may be some buzzing in the ear, and again, there often is no buzzing.

Sensations of the face and the outer ear (which has nothing to do with your ability to hear) ,will be altered, since these surface areas are served by the nerve.

Note to S.J.R: The threats and abuse obviously are a danger to your health and I suggest that your husband be put in most serious need of psychiatric treatment. However, your safety is the immediate need and for this you must consult an attorney rather than a physician.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column when ever possible.

Ontario NDP $88,776 in Red With All Bank Credit Used Up

TORONTO (CP) — The New Democratic Party's Ontario provincial council was told during the weekend it is $88,776.94 in debt, nearly half of which is the result of the Oct. 17 provincial election campaign.

Treasurer Edward Phillips reported the figure to a meeting which rejected a proposal that the federal government should seize the Sydney, N.S., steel mill without compensation to its owner, Dominion Steel and Coal Corp.

"At the last meeting you asked for a review and now you are going to get it," Mr. Phillips told party members.

The debt is made up of $47,571.08 in the current budget, which he said was boosted to accommodate preparations for an all-out effort in the election, and $41,205.86 in election expenses.

He said the central party's bank credit is all used up and the only source of revenue is the riding associations, each of which is expected to contribute 20 per cent of all campaign expense money.

The election debt would be wiped out as riding associations came through with their quotas.

However, debts totalling more than $50,000 would be due within two weeks.

Meanwhile, Julian Cwynn, NDP candidate in Ottawa West in the election, asked why the party had confidently predicted it would win when a secret poll clearly indicated it would place third.

The poll, which cost the party $1,614, showed the popular vote would be 39 per cent Conservative, 39 per cent Liberal and 22 per cent NDP. The popular vote figures in the election were PCs 41, Liberals 32 and NDP 27.

Provincial Secretary John Harney said the pollsters warned that Liberals were traditionally vague in their intentions between elections and there was Liberal confusion between federal and provincial parties when the poll was taken last winter. The NDP was told the Liberal figure might drop by seven to nine per cent.

The proposal that Ottawa expropriate the Sydney steel mill was made by Donald Nicholson, who accused Dosco of "shocking social irresponsibility in the Nova Scotia coal industry, the Wabana iron ore industry and the Sydney steel industry."

Mr. Nicholson was referring to Dosco's announced plans to shut down its Sydney operations.

Parisian Weekly Suggests Quebec Copy Switzerland

PARIS (Reuters) — La Vie Francaise, a serious economic and financial weekly, has suggested that Quebec's future may lie in being an independent state modelled on Switzerland.

This idea of turning the province into a banking and tax haven on the North American continent has not been "ruled out," by one member of Quebec Premier Daniel Johnson's immediate entourage, the newspaper says.

The weekly's editor, Rene Sedillot, who recently visited Quebec with other financial writers at the invitation of the provincial government, says in this week's issue that immediate independence for Quebec would be too soon.

"But in 15 years it would come too late. In between, if Quebec launched into this adventure, it would not lack trump cards. Quebec is in full expansion."

Sedillot says that for an independent Quebec, "there is a solution that almost no one has considered and which, being super-liberal, would call Quebec to super-prosperity."

He goes on: "It would be sufficient for Quebec to adopt the Swiss banking system, put only a tiny tax on the headquarters of companies, abolish succession taxes on personal estates: Capital would flood into this American Switzerland, ap-Sasis of fiscal immunity.

"Perhaps this is where the future of Quebec lies. I am in a position to say that someone in the immediate entourage of the prime minister does not rule out this policy."

Philip Aids Canadians Remember War Dead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Prince Philip helped Canadians Saturday remember the dead of two world wars.

In Toronto, the prince ended a four-day visit to Canada by placing a wreath at the cenotaph in front of the old city hall.

Dressed in full naval attire, he appeared embarrassed when the crowd of more than 3,000 broke into applause after he had placed the wreath.

In Ottawa, Mrs. Elsie Adams of St. Catharines, Ont., represented Canadian motherhood in a ceremony at the National War Memorial. Mrs. Adams, who lost two sons in the Second World War, placed a wreath and returned to stand between Governor-General Michener and Prime Minister Pearson.

The weather was wet when the 40-minute ceremony started, but the sun was shining by the time 184 veterans and 500 regular-force men of the army, navy and air force marched past the official party on Parliament Hill.

U.S. Economists Join LBJ in Seeking Inflation Slowdown

WASHINGTON (AP) — Economists in the government, and many outside it, predict today's U.S. consumer dollar may be worth about 85 cents this time next year if taxes are not raised soon.

The forecasts of most college and corporation economists in the United States show solid agreement that inflation is a serious threat. They count in fact, much like the speeches being given by President Johnson's aides in behalf of his 10-per-cent income tax surcharge proposal.

But there is far less unanimity among industry economists that the surtax is the only answer. Sharp cuts in government spending or vigorous credit restraint are favored by many.

Most, however, favor some kind of tax action, perhaps in combination with other curbs on demand. And an informal canvass of economic opinion—inside and outside the government, on the record and off the record—produces this consensus of what 1968 may be like if there is no tax increase:

Prices—The increase is guessed at between four and six per cent for consumer prices and around three per cent for industrial commodities.

Interest—The government might have to pay six-per-cent interest on its bonds. High-grade corporate borrowers, already paying six per cent and up, could find themselves paying eight or nine per cent.

Credit supply—Many smaller borrowers would find credit unobtainable because of heavy government borrowing to finance a potential $28,000,000,000 deficit. Mortgage funds would dry up. Homebuilding industry leaders fear there would be a housing recession.

Wages—A new round of big wage increase demands would develop. The wave has been subsiding, though new settlements still average about five per cent and the Ford Motor Co. settlement was around six per cent.

Profits—Profits after taxes would climb to a record high. The proposed 10-per-cent surtax on corporations, on the other hand, might cancel out the gain and leave profits below the 1966 peak of $82,200,000,000.

Even if the surtax takes effect Jan. 1 as Johnson has urged, many economists believe inflation will cut family buying power in 1968 by as much as 3½ cents on the dollar.

The consumer price index now stands at a record 117.1 per cent of the 1957-59 average. That means it now costs a typical U.S. city family $117.10 to buy what it could get for $100 less than 10 years ago.

If a five-per-cent rise should occur during the next year, the same bundle of goods and services would cost about $122.

Congressional coolness toward higher taxes has been encouraged by the latest batch of economic indicators.

Joblessness increased in October, retail sales declined, the factory work week was reduced and the long buildup of military spending levelled off. New factory orders declined in September for the third straight month.

Snowfall Produces Quinte Traffic Snarls

Winter Cools the Scene

The touch of loneliness which winter imparts seems emphasized by a deserted, snow-covered Ann Street in Bellevile early today. The city's first brush with another cold season was expected to leave up to four inches of snow in its wake by tonight.

4-Inch Shroud Feared

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

The Quinte district shuddered head on into winter today — and the impact may shake down a four-inch snowfall before sunset.

Dangerous - driving warnings were posted for all roads in the Belleville-Trenton area as the fall-out filtered across the region, causing traffic to falter — often with damaging effect.

To noon, no serious mishaps had been blamed on the weather breakdown.

But the worst was still to come.

Snow was predicted throughout today piling up to a depth of four inches by early evening — and the start of homeward rush-hour traffic.

It was the first major snowfall of the upcoming winter season, and it gave the district the glazy look of a Christmas-card scene.

However, the more wrath-

Synopsis: Cold Arctic air covers all of Ontario today. A rapidly moving disturbance northwest of Lake Superior early today will be in the lower Great Lakes region by tonight. Snow in advance of this weather disturbance has already covered northeastern Ontario and will reach southern Ontario regions this afternoon. Accumulations are expected to be light except for the snow belt areas around Georgian Bay and Lake Huron where five to five inches are likely in the next 24 hours. Wednesday will be mostly sunny and cold.

Air Defence Forces Jump Gun, Drop 'RCAF' From New Badge

OTTAWA (CP) — Air Defence Command has jumped the gun on armed forces unification.

Though the unification bill which was passed by Parliament in April has not yet been proclaimed law, the command has issued a new badge eliminating the crown and the initials RCAF.

A spokesman for the command headquarters at North Bay said Monday the new name —Canadian Forces Air Defence Command in place of RCAF Air Defence Command—was adopted because names of military establishments in Canada have been changed to "Canadian forces bases."

A spokesman at defence headquarters here said, however, that the Royal Canadian Air Force will continue to exist until the unification legislation becomes law.

The command has chosen for its central figure the bluish-grey long-tailed jaeger, native to the Arctic.

However, the bird is native not only to the Canadian Arctic. It breeds also in Alaska, Greenland, Spitsbergen, northern Russia and Siberia and on Novaya Zemlya, the Soviet island where megaton bombs have been tested by the Russians.

The jaeger symbolizes the fighter planes (U.S. jet Voodoos) used by the command. Lightning bolts on the badge represent radar and other electronic equipment.

Though the new badge refers to "Canadian forces," the unification legislation, expected to be proclaimed Jan. 1, 1968, says the services shall be known as the Canadian Armed Forces.

The female jaeger lays one or two eggs a season.

Provinces Want Medicare Delay

OTTAWA (CP) — Provincial finance ministers are expected to ask the federal government this week to share responsibility with them for another year's postponement of medical care insurance.

On political grounds, Finance Minister Sharp will say no.

Federal payments to qualifying provincial plans will be available, as now promised, after next July 1 despite almost universal agreement that this is economically unwise.

Campbellford Youth, 20, Charged with Shooting

By ROGER WORTH
Staff Reporter

Brian Rudy Ellis, 20, of Campbellford, was charged last night in connection with the shooting Saturday of Russell Pitman, 61, near Marmora.

Hospital officials said today Pitman is in "a serious but improved condition" in the intensive care unit at Belleville General Hospital.

An intensive two day search by Ontario Provincial Police culminated with the arrest of Ellis on Campbellford's main street yesterday evening.

Inspector W. H. Armstrong, of the criminal investigations branch of the OPP in Toronto, said last night Ellis will be arraigned on a charge of "shooting with intent to maim" when he appears in Hastings County Court Thursday morning.

The shooting occurred about six o'clock Saturday evening at the back door of a service station and general store operated by Pitman on highway 7, 11½ miles west of Marmora.

"Ellis was picked up on a break and enter warrant, which has been outstanding for a number of days, but has since been charged in the shooting," Inspector Armstrong said.

The Toronto OPP officer says he talked with the wounded Pitman at Belleville General Hospital. "He (Pitman) claimed he didn't see the person firing the rifle."

"Mr. Pitman said he was talking on the telephone prior to the shooting," Inspector Armstrong said. "He claimed he heard a knock at the back door and shouted to the person to enter. When no one came in he left the phone and proceeded in the rear entrance."

"He told me he noticed the porch light was not on but he opened the inside door . . . and when he pushed open the storm

Steelworkers May Surrender Right to Strike

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The leadership of the United Steelworkers' union is considering a plan to surrender its right to strike in the 1968 contract talks with the basic steel industry.

I. W. Abel, president of the union, is pictured as the chief architect of the plan.

Abel has been a critic of the growing role of the government in important labor disputes in recent years, fearful that unionism is losing its independence. With the war on in Vietnam, Abel feels, the government would quickly declare an emergency and step into the 1968 talks if a stalemate developed.

"Bad news, chief. Your union application has been rejected!"

Commons Keeps Oath Unchanged

OTTAWA (CP) — In an overwhelming voice vote, the Commons Monday refused to let a Quebec Liberal introduce a private bill that would remove all mention of the Queen from the parliamentary oath of allegiance.

Auguste Choquette, MP for Lotbinière, said it would end the reluctance of "certain members from Quebec" to take the present oath of allegiance and avoid "silly denunciations" about violations of the oath.

His version would require new MPs and Senators to swear allegiance "to the democratic government of my country and its constitution," rather than the Queen.

News Briefs

CAMIRI (Reuters) — The military court trying French Marxist writer Regis Debray and five others on charges of rebellion, murder and armed robbery in connection with Bolivian guerrilla activity, retired Monday to consider its verdict, expected Friday.

TORONTO (CP) — The 64-year-old widow of a tailor, shot to death last week during an attempted robbery of his store, died Monday after suffering a heart attack. Zelda Mayzel had been placed under sedation after she heard about the death of her husband, Morris, 66.

Helicopter Crash Kills General

SAIGON (AP) — The United States lost its first general in the Vietnam war today. Maj.-Gen. Bruno A. Hochmuth, 56, commander of the 3rd Marine Division, was killed in a helicopter explosion and crash north of Hue.

Hochmuth served as an instructor at the Canadian Army Staff College in Kingston, Ont., in 1953.

No Canadian Arms Go Direct to Vietnam: Martin

TORONTO (CP) — No nation has the right to interfere in the matters of other countries except under the auspices of the United Nations, External Affairs Minister Paul Martin said Monday.

The 64-year-old minister told the Canadian Club that he has always supported the U.N. and the League of Nations before it in their peacekeeping efforts.

He reminded his listeners that he is the only living Canadian who took part in establishing the league.

Commenting on North Vietnamese charges that Canada is selling arms to the United States for use in the war, Mr. Martin said the same charge could be made against the Soviet Union and its allied countries, such as Poland.

Poland is a member of the International Control Commission along with Canada and India.

Mr. Martin told reporters that he was "not aware at all" that the U.S. is using Canadian-made arms in Vietnam and repeated several times that Canada is not selling arms for direct transshipment to any theatre of war.

He said that under Canada's defence-sharing agreement with the U.S. going back to 1945, "we import over $300,000,000 worth of arms ourselves" annually.

Most of the arms purchased by the U.S. from Canada sod vice versa, Mr. Martin said, are used to fulfil obligations to the UN and other peacekeeping bodies.

During his speech, Mr. Martin dealt mainly with Canada's role in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the North American Air Defence Command.

He said that no Canadian government, regardless of its political slant, could pull out of NORAD without a "complete transformation in our relations with the United States."

Claims of some allies that NATO can afford to reduce its defences because the Soviet Union will not mount a war on the West is erroneous.

"... The Russians have continued and are still continuing to develop their already formidable military power," Mr. Martin said.

Regarding this country's role in NORAD, he said:

"Unless one is prepared for a complete transformation in our relations with the United States, we have two options—to make some contribution to the bomber defence system and thereby exercise some control over it; or to give the United States freedom to defend North America, including the use of Canadian territory."

Dealer Removes Current Issue of Playboy from Stands

"I don't understand Playboy coming out with this kind of stuff — it's a good magazine," is Ernie Colbourne's opinion, distributor for the magazine in this area.

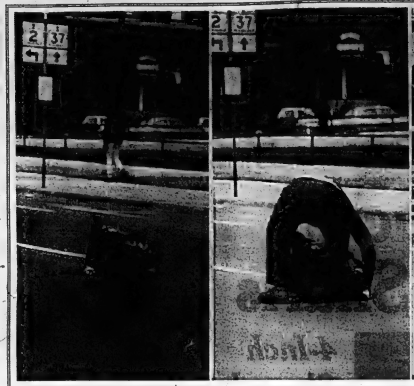
Mr. Colbourne is referring to the current issue of the magazine which has caused such a furor across Canada because of two pages of pictures that some people consider pornographic. Mayor Tom Campbell of Vancouver called the particular section "filthy."

Although Mr. Colbourne feels "it wasn't a very good issue with the pages," he criticized the publicity the magazine got out west over the Canadian Press wire. "With publicity like that the wholesaler must pull the magazine off the stands," he commented.

However, Playboy magazine, published in Chicago, disagrees with the charge of pornography. Amnon Mount, who is public affairs manager for the company, tried to point out some of the hypocrities of the situation.

He mentioned that a large segment of the film industry is involved in stag films (2,000 films are available) and that surely it is an area for serious study of society's mores and sex-habits. He said that the article (one of a series on "Sex in Cinema") was approached seriously.

Information for the article came from Indiana University which has the largest collection of stag films in the world and Mr. Mount felt it was the fact that the pictures came from a stag film that created the problem rather than anything else.



"There is really nothing pornographic about the pictures," said the Playboy representative.

Canadian distributors still feel otherwise and Mr. Colbourne said that the magazine is no longer available in Belleville. Mayor Ellis complimented the action taken by Mr. Colbourne and commented that "I am very grateful that he would take this action on his own initiative."

Mr. Mount of Playboy felt that one of the reasons the magazine was accepted in the U.S. and criticized in Canada was because "Americans feel closer to Canada than Canadians do to the U.S."

In some ways he felt that it was more a rejection of something peculiarly American—a rejection of a rival culture to assert their own culture. "The fact that our culture rubs off on Canada more than theirs does on us causes a certain amount of resentment," he said. "They are quick to point things like that out."

Mr. Mount would not comment on the publicity the magazine had received in Canada.

Target.... Attack.. And Retreat!

Somehow a plastic garbage bag stuffed full of refuse ended up in the middle of Pinnacle St. yesterday around noon. Most of the traffic avoided it and all the pedestrians ignored it. However, one conscientious member of the Public Works Department saw the bag and knew it better be fast removed before some cruel motorist decided to spread the problem out.

McFarland Awarded Contract

The H. J. McFarland Construction Company of Picton has been awarded the contract for grading, drainage and granular base for 8.24 miles of reconstruction on No. 62 Highway north from the Coe Hill turn.

The total amount of the bid for the contract was $1,122,638.90. In addition to the 8.24 miles of No. 62 highway, the contract also calls for reconstruction of approximately one-third mile of secondary highway No. 620 west from the Coe Hill turn, and also construction of a culvert at Egan Creek.

Clarke T. Rollins, MPP for Hastings East, has said he has been informed by Highways Minister Hon. George E. Gomme that work on the above will be scheduled to get underway early in December.

Turn Sod for New S.A. Citadel

The sod-turning on Saturday for the new Salvation Army Citadel was well attended by the public, special guests and of course, the Salvation Army.

The ceremony opened with a song and ended with a benediction by Lieut. Col. W. Hawkes.

Looking on while Mayor Jack Ellis turned the first sod for the building, were special guests Lee Grills, MP, Hastings South, The Advisory Board and Judge J. C. Anderson.

The $200,000 citadel will be located at Victoria and Chatham Streets in the city and will be quite modern.

Seeks Council Seat

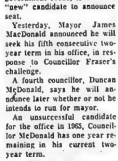
TRENTON — A familiar local personality says he will make his debut in municipal politics in the upcoming Dec. 4 civic elections.

E. M. "Ted" Parker last night tendered his resignation to Trenton's Board of Education, effective Dec. 31, and announced he would be a candidate for one of three vacant town council seats.

Mr. Parker has been a board member for five years, and has acted as chairman for the past two years. He had one year remaining in his current two-year term.

"I think council needs some new approaches to issues," explained Mr. Parker, "and besides, I think I have some ability that could prove valuable in serving my community."

The council terms of D. R. Fraser, C. V. Graham, and J. D. Kinney expire this year.



Councillor Fraser says he will contest the town mayoralty, Councillor Graham has indicated he may end long years of council service and resign, while Councillor Kinney appears ready to seek another term.

Mr. Parker, making his first appearance on the municipal government scene, is the first "new" candidate to announce seat.

Yesterday, Mayor James MacDonald announced he will seek his fifth consecutive two-year term in his office, in response to Councillor Fraser's challenge.

A fourth councillor, Duncan McDonald, says he will announce later whether or not he intends to run for mayor.

An unsuccessful candidate for the office in 1963, Councillor McDonald has one year remaining in his current two-year term.

Members Quit

TRENTON — The local Board of Education lost 10 years of experience last night when two members tendered resignations, to become effective at the year's end.

E. J. "Will" Wilkinson announced he was resigning after five years as Trenton's separate school representative on the board.

President of the local Rotary Club, and an executive of an eastern Ontario chartered accountants' organization, Mr. Wilkinson told board members last night that other duties would be demanding more time than he could afford to spend, and still continue his board responsibilities.

One function that would be demanding much of his attention in the near future would be his post on town council's Industrial and Economic Committee, said Mr. Wilkinson.

Another five-year Board of Education veteran, the past two as chairman, E. M. "Ted" Parker also announced his resignation effective Dec. 31.

At the same time, Mr. Parker officially announced his candidacy for a town council seat in the upcoming Dec. 4 municipal elections.

Mr. Parker has one year remaining in his current education board term.

Both men received the praise and best wishes of fellow board members.

Board Briefs

TRENTON — A Board of Education committee will study the need for town bylaws protecting school property from vandalism by prohibiting activity such as loitering on school grounds.

Buildings and Grounds Committee chairman Lou Aziz said the assurance of Separate school properties is also being considered as a possible deterrent against vandalism.

Mr. Aziz told last night's regular education board meeting a suggested plan would move a number of light standards on town streets that several feet into school grounds.

Some school areas could be lit twice as effectively in this way, he said, and additional costs could be gradually paid off in Public Utilities Commission rental fees.

Some Trenton school facts and figures mentioned at last night's regular education board meeting: there are now 2,331 pupils in town elementary schools: October's elementary school attendance was 97 per cent; 775 out of Trenton High School's 1,120 students require additional vaccinations; some 715 persons are now enrolled in the 1967 night school program at the high school, about 100 more than last year.

Trenton High School principal John Garrett told Board of Education members this year's THS commencement exercises will be held Saturday evening, Nov. 25.

Guest speaker for the event will be J. K. Bradford, president of Loyalist Campus of Sir Sandford Fleming College.

Education board chairman E. M. Parker wanted to know why high school bands seem at half - time in US. football games were so impressive and sizeable. Are all their high schools that much larger than ours?

Trenton High School principal John Garrett suggested one pertinent factor.

Bears Plentiful

Some Hunting Deer After 'Kill'

Whether or not hunting gangs are getting their deer this year depends a lot on the hunting grounds.

At least that is the story being told by returning hunters, whose success ranges all the way from a full quota to a complete skunk.

But one thing vouched for by most hunters is that bears are almost as plentiful as the deer with some gangs killing as many brains as they have antlered game.

And some of the bears are hunting deer after they have been shot by the hunters.

At least that is the story told by one hunting gang of which local creamery operator Don McNevin is a member.

The gang, hunting in the Millbridge area shot six deer last week and one morning discovered one of the deer missing from where it was hung outside the camp. Investigation revealed it had been stolen by a marauding bear.

This week Mr. McNevin is back on the hunting trail with hopes of getting another deer to make up for the one stolen.

But bears apparently are not the only deer thieves, as can be vouched by a loser hunter in the Gilmour area.

The hunter shot a buck late in the afternoon but afraid to leave the venison in the woods overnight, trekked to the highway to get assistance to carry it out.

He flagged down a car and the driver volunteered to return to the bush with the hunter and help him bring out the deer. On their way in the two met another group of hunters carrying what turned out to be the first hunter's deer.

Further north in the county a group of hunters including Bancroft R e e v e Jack N. Brown reported being completely skunked this year.

"Our count had been going down every year for the past several years and this season we didn't get a single deer," he said.

"But the deer will come back," was the optimistic comment.

Still another group of hunters a gang of 12 including Hastings county clerk treasurer, Carl E. Bateman, report getting their full quota after only one week in the bush.

"There were all kinds of deer," said Mr. Bateman.

But despite the varied success reported by different hunting gangs, the freezer lockers in Belleville are seeing all the deer they want.

Jack Cook at Spencers Lockers reports "quite a few deer" being brought in. Up at Glen Roy Lockers a total of 60 deer have already been processed this year.

Labor Council Endorses Bid

Urges Christian Service

Belleville and District Labor Council is indirectly participating in city elections for the first time.

It's champion? Ian Reilly, a political veteran with two provincial election campaigns to his record as a New Democratic Party candidate.

Last night the labor council unanimously endorsed Mr. Reilly's bid for alderman. Financially, and with moral support.

The council agreed to donate $75 out of its treasury to Mr. Reilly, while members will carry the message for support back to affiliated unions.

Mr. Reilly reciprocated the pledge with an address blasting the city's industrial commission and boosting a "decent arena" centre for Belleville.

He charged the commission Is "not trying to bring any and all industry here for reasons best known to themselves."

"This commission is not responsible to council and yet council gives the taxpayers money to them to do with as they see fit."

Council should abolish its grant to the commission and instead finance a group "made up of citizens, from all sections of our population, and responsible to council."

He listed a new community centre as one project that would enhance the city.

Mr. Reilly said the city would reap financial and publicity advantages from such a project — used as a convention centre and, perhaps, an NHL training camp.

"The time has come for those elected to Belleville council to stand up and be counted by everyone, not just a few who seem to wield power in this city," said Mr. Reilly.

Earlier, outgoing council president George Dainard noted the BDLC had displayed growing participation in community affairs in the past year.

"I hope this trend will continue," he said.

Fuller participation was necessary if the council was to continue exercising comment on community affairs, warned Mr. Dainard.

"When we're prepared to criticize and talk about things in the community and in the area, I believe we have to be prepared also to accept some of the things these criticisms entail."

Under his leadership, the BDLC embarked on such a course this year, the events of his office being climaxed with Mr Dainard's unsuccessful demand that Mayor Jack Ellis be censured for actions during the Wilson Concrete Products strike.

He was succeeded as president last night by Ray Bradshaw, of the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers Local 219 at Point Anne.

Other executive members are: Harris Hull, Rosemarie Hamilton, vice presidents; Aileen-Loucks, treasurer; Leona Kydd, sergeant - at - arms and Daisy LaRue, secretary.

Giving His Word

Ray Bradshaw (left) is sworn in as new president of Belleville and District Labor Council last night. Administering oath of office is Henry Nokes, Canadian Labor Congress area representative.

Romance Blooms

Senior Citizens at Yeotes Court Plan Wedding for November 25

Nigh on winter, the senior citizens' retreat at Yeotes Court has blossomed with that younger-than-springtime feeling — romance.

And already the happy ending is being busily penned by its two most important figures.

That day the octogenarian widower and widow will pledge themselves at St. Michael's church then return to share their lives — as man and wife — at Yeotes Court.

The romantic episode is as new as the residence itself.

It began shortly after the city opened the low r e n t a l housing project on Turnbull Street when Jimmy and Florence moved in as neighbors in a single-tenant apartment with other senior citizens.

"We'd known each other for some years before," recalls Mrs. LePage, "when we were attending the Senior Citizens' club. We used to go on picnics and that."

Settled into their new quarters, Mrs. LePage began cooking meals for her neighbor. It continued until the day-to-day meetings resolved in a serious proposal.

After that, it was only a matter of setting the date.

The things they share in common include a British background.

Mrs. LePage was born in England and came to Canada in 1949 via the United States.

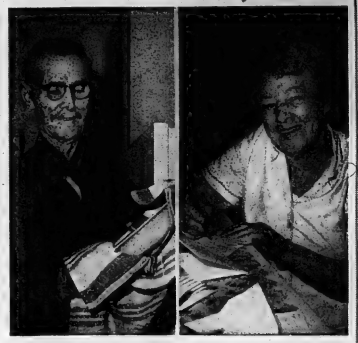
Among other job pursuits he spent a time as a shantyman logging in North Hastings in the closing days of the lumber industry there.

"I was on the last log jam to come down the M o i r a River," he recalls.

That was early in the century, a few years before he finally moved and settled down in Belleville in 1907.

Both have families by their earlier marriages.

Mrs. LePage now counts four grandchildren and seven great grandchildren among her offspring. The groom has three sons, a daughter and seven grandchildren.



Already, their new living quarters are prepared for them. In fact, Jimmy already is living there.

He has traded in his $37-a-month single apartment for a double renting at $42. He moved in last month when the number of double units locked like being filled b e f o r e the wedding date.

He still cooks his own breakfast daily. The rest of his meals are prepared by his bride - to - be.

As for Mrs. LePage, she has a double reason for celebrating this month.

Nov. 26 was the eve of the wedding — she has her birthday. She'll be exactly 80 years of age.

Seven Million Scientists Work In Russia Rotarians Are Told

Canada is a wonderful country — but it would be truly a paradise on earth "if, labor would work for management," according to businessman Nick Mika.

In an address on The Russian Revolution, Mr. Mika told fellow Rotarians yesterday that in the Soviet Union today there are more than 7,000,000 scientists working on various projects.

In the 50 years since the revolution he said more than 120,000,000 students have graduated.

A native of the Ukraine, Mr. Mika remembers the bitter-day Soviet Union with earlier times in Russia when 85 per cent of the people were uneducated and there was no middle class.

He said Soviet achievements should also be measured against the fact that the country lost 4,000,000 people in the first world war and 20,000,000 in the last war.

Since then Russia was the first to launch a man into space, industrialization had grown apace and the once forbidding region of Siberia been made habitable.

Mr. Mika, who was born in the Crimea and grew up in Poland, where he graduated from university, said the revolutionary process had actually begun in Russia since the time of Catherine the Great.

He traced the evolution of Soviet society from that time culminating in the fateful events in Petrograd (now Leningrad) in 1917 which led to the establishment of the Soviet Union as it is known today.

A former newspaperman in Europe, Mr. Mika is the author of four books written while living in Germany. He is also well-known for his works on Belleville, Trenton and Toronto published since coming to live in Belleville. Today Mr. Mika owns a silk screening business in Belleville.

Not Running for Mayor

He was an unsuccessful mayoralty candidate in 1965 against Mayor James MacDonald and still has one year remaining in his current council term.

There will be at least a two-way contest for mayor with Mayor MacDonald seeking his fifth consecutive year term, challenged by Councillor D. R. Fraser.

Leisure or Pressure ?

Today's society with all its problems, from the growing concentration of people in cities to traffic congestion, pollution, inflation et al, is one of more and more pressure and involvement.

What is this trend doing to people caught up in it? The oft-mentioned age of leisure, the three or four-day week that is supposed to be around the corner — what real evidence is there of such a development? Is it largely a myth?

Considering the growth of cities and the parallel denuding of the rural population in a country that constitutes the second largest land mass on earth, and could support many times its current population of some 20,000,000, will this create a society of near-automatons cut off from the lonely spaces still awaiting development?

Perhaps more disturbing, will it create a society blinded to everything but the creation of more concrete, more polluted air and water, more carbon monoxide from more cars? In short, are we witnessing the first chapters of the end of 1984 — the society in which the individual is of little account, and controlled by a few?

That modern pressures are bearing down to a much greater extent on people is already evident. For instance, while aid for alcoholics is more available today, drugs are becoming a greater problem. Pills were not available 20 years ago to the extent they are now.

A member of the Alcoholism and Drug Addiction Research foundation in Toronto, Dale Faulkenhagen, discussed this problem recently. Mr. Faulkenhagen told a Peterborough audience that a doctor in that city had said that as high as 15 a day from many patients wanting prescriptions renewed and refilled. He said they may not be addicted to drugs but they are dependent on them.

Ontario has more than 100,000 alcoholics and 1,000 drug addicts with thousands more dependent on drugs. Of the 100,000 about 50 per cent are people working full-time, 40 per cent are housewives and retired people and only ten per cent are "skid row people as you think of alcoholics."

Mr. Faulkenhagen said people who should be in psychiatric units are in bars drowning their problems. But even this is not the complete story. Psychiatry is one thing — but environment is another. These declining days of the year are hard on many people, particularly the elderly and the unemployed.

Like Swedes, Canadians may suffer more from environmental stresses than those who live in more temperate climates. Perhaps there is an idea here for a service club — taking older people, and underprivileged children, on outings and thus widen their horizons.

Apostle of Separatism

Gilles Gregoire, the independent MP for Lapointe and leader of the separatist party Le Ralliement Nationale, has stated he has no intention of seeking another term as a member of parliament.

Perhaps this is just as well. At least he will remove the taint of anarchism that surrounds most of his statements in the Commons. He has even been accused of sedition arising from his activities during a 16-day visit to France.

Mr. Gregoire spent his time in France enlisting support for an independent Quebec. He conferred with French sympathizers on separatist policy and sought funds for the furtherance of the separatist cause.

Mr. Gregoire at last makes no bones about his views. He is determined to have Quebec secede from Confederation. To that extent he represents a threat to the political integrity of this country.

But this is a free country, and presumably he is free to engage in such activities. But for how long? If Mr. Gregoire is actively pursuing the breakup of this nation how long can such a course of action be tolerated?

Thus, to the extent that Mr. Gregoire is preaching separatism and the withdrawal of Quebec from Confederation his activities will have to be watched closely in the days ahead.

Hand of Fate

Shakespeare was right when he observed. "When troubles come they come not single spies but in battalions."

Unhappily, the world scene furnishes ample evidence of such misfortunes. Air disasters in Hong Kong (though in this case only one life was lost) and in England; a train crash — also in England — and a typhoon in the Philippines in recent days have claimed more than 250 lives.

Last month 76 were killed and 300 more were missing after a cyclone struck coastal regions of the eastern stake of Orissa in India.

Ottawa Offbeat

Peaceniks Aided by Tommy Douglas' Tasteless Politics

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Got a hot blast of the other day in a round-robin, multi-signatured letter complaining that nothing ever appears in Offbeat about the New Democrats in general and Leader Thomas Clement Douglas in particular.

Then let it be said here and now that Tommy Douglas the man is a strange contradiction of Tommy Douglas the politician.

Douglas the man is a warmly glowing personality, and friend of and to everybody here on Parliament Hill.

Douglas the politician is a cold-eyed wildly anti-American extremist, admired by few and scarcely tolerated by many including a couple of his own New Democrats.

Even those who wrote Douglas off as partisan long gone beyond the point of reason on Viet Nam were shocked by the way he allowed the Peaceniks to use him as an instrument to defy the Government and demean Parliament.

It happened in the recent protest march when, against a Government directive announced in the Commons, 350 Peaceniks staged a tasteless anti-American demonstration on Parliament's lawns.

Speaking for the Government, Public Works Minister George Mcilraith, an old Ottawa hand, told the House that the protest marchers could not be allowed to use the amplifying system nor stage plays at the foot of the Peace Tower because such conduct was not permitted other demonstrations.

An ordinary meeting, yes — but more than that, no — and if the marchers wanted that kind of show there were other places than The Hill to stage it, ruled Mcilraith, with Prime Minister Pearson nodding agreement.

So what happens?

When the Vietniks marched onto The Hill with their own loudspeakers, Tommy Douglas took over the microphone to lead the anti-American diatribe.

The RCMP, understandably, hesitated to move in on the NDP Leader, and the demonstrators, with the blessing of Tommy Douglas' respectability, went on to things other than speeches.

They brought out a toilet-chair and with tasteless gesturing, read Parliament's Speech from the Throne.

A youth, apparently a Canadian, was forced into the uniform of the U.S. Marine Corps, handed a mock machine - gun and sent crawling across Parliament's main steps shooting at everybody in sight.

Then, when the crowd had its fill of chanting "Pearson, Martin, LBJ — how many kids did you kill today?" and yelling "Ho Chi Minh of Johnson no," they stuffed the Speech from the Throne into the toilet bowl amid howls of laughter.

And Tommy Douglas had made it all possible.

That is one picture of Douglas the anti - American, the politician.

Here is one of Douglas, the man, the warm human being, the person everybody likes, perhaps some even love.

It is a personal picture.

The writer of Offbeat, as Ottawa correspondent for The Daily Express, had been rushed, on orders of the big London paper, to Ottawa airport the night the then Labor Opposition Leader Harold Wilson was flying out, under instructions to ask him just one question.

The Profumo - Christine Keeler scandal had just broken in London and The Express wanted to know what Mr. Wilson had to say.

"Nothing," he replied, "and in wide screen, stereophonic sound and gorgeous technicolor."

Tommy Douglas and New Democratic Whip Stanley Knowles were there and heard it, and were as mystified as The Express correspondent.

It appeared in The Express, just a sentence in the Profumo-Keeler story.

Time went by, bringing Harold Wilson to power as Britain's Prime Minister. And one night, for a reason still unknown, he was asked in Parliament about that sentence and denied ever saying it.

The Express demanded cabled explanations from its Ottawa man. Could we "prove" that Wilson had really said it?

Well, upstairs, that night, in his office above the Commons, was Tommy Douglas. Would he confirm it? He would.

Knowing that it would damage his old friend and now British Prime Minister Harold Wilson? Yes, knowing that.

Would he say so on the Trans-Atlantic phone to The Express editor in London? Of course, he would, "just get him on the line for me."

And he did. But why, when he didn't really have to — when he could have pleaded he didn't remember or couldn't be sure?

"Honesty and the compulsion to tell the truth," explained Tommy Douglas, hoping he hadn't hurt Harold Wilson. "What else could I do?"

Nationalist Wins Scottish By-election

Brantford Expositor

The surprising victory of a Scottish Nationalist in the recent British byelections has been accompanied by claims that Scotland will have home rule within a decade. The winner in this case was the 28-year-old mother of three who stressed the need for a better financial deal for Scotland.

Home rule could be an attractive will-o'-the'wisp for some but its effect would be restrictive for Scottish politicians generally.

Canadians will recall that their first two prime ministers were Scottish. In Britain since the Earl of Bute in 1762, prime ministers have frequently been Scottish or of Scottish background.

In this century, of 13 British prime ministers, five have been Scots or of Scots descent. They were Campbell-Bannerman, 1905-06; Bonar Law, 1922-23; Ramsay MacDonald, 1924 and 1929-35, and more recently Sir Alec Douglas Home and Harold Macmillan.

Scotland, in our century, has provided 40 per cent of British prime ministers, and countless lesser officials, from a country with only one-ninth of the British Isles' population.

This is a tribute both to the political capacity of the Scots and the wisdom and understanding of their more numerous English associates.

Home rule, despite its lures for some, is not likely to impress Scots who would prefer to see their own running the whole island rather than the northern segment.

Frankford Phone Users Are Out in the Cold

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

I feel that it is time the Bell Telephone Company re-examined its rating system.

I live in the village of Frankford and was surprised to find that although we use the Trenton call numbers of EXeter we are not on their exchange and are therefore not able to call Belleville without the usual long distance rates. This also applies to Brighton and Wooler as well.

There are very few phones that we, in Frankford, can reach. For the sum of $3.45 plus tax we have the grand privilege of calling our local village plus phones in Trenton and Wooler. The fairness I refer to is that Trenton residents (for 20 cents more per month — plus tax) can reach phones in Frankford, Wooler, Brighton, Belleville and Carrying Place. In other words for about the price of one long distance call to Belleville they have the privilege of reaching thousands more phones.

In Frankford we even have to pay long distance charges to reach Stirling, seven miles away. I can understand a dividing line but we seem to be caught between two dividing lines.

I did call the Bell Telephone office to inquire as to the reason for this, but of course all I got to talk to was an office girl who was unable to answer my questions.

Another thing I have never been able to understand is the tax on the telephone rentals and also long distance charges. Good heavens, we aren't buying the phone or the long distance although sometimes when I get my bill I wonder. The Bell is very careful to tell you that this is not a sales tax but what tell you what it is, other than it is a tax laid down by the government and they don't know what for.

Personally, I feel that the Government is more democratic than to impose a tax on everybody and not tell them what it is for. It seems ironic that this started appearing on our bills at the same time that the Ontario sales tax went into effect.

I am not asking — if it is not sales tax will some one tell me what it is. Surely we, as Canadians living in a free country have a good right to know what this tax is that we are required to pay each and every month. Are we not taxed enough without this mystery tax, too?

I am also reminding you people in Frankford, Brighton, Wooler - who used to enjoy the Why Not Call program on CJBQ each morning that we have now reduced to long distance charges again unless something can be worked out. I guess that everyone took for granted that all us EXeters would have the use of the direct service to Belleville, and therefore the Trenton telephone numbers are disconnected.

I respectfully ask the Bell management to reply with some sort of explanation other than "It's too bad that Frankford and the surrounding district were left out but they have to start somewhere." A good company tries to look after all its subscribers. — "A SUBSCRIBER"

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Nov. 14, 1967 . . .

President John F. Kennedy and Gen. Park Chung Hee, head of the South Korean Military government, issued a communique at the end of a meeting at the White House six years ago today—in 1961. The communique said the United States would continue to provide South Korea with economic aid and that it would send armed forces to aid South Korea in the event of a Communist attack.

Mortality Still High in Canada

Windsor Star

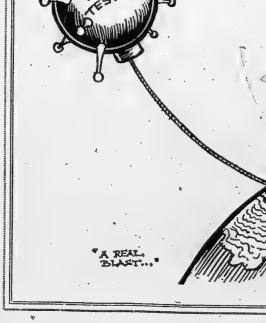
One great progress in the field of health in the advanced countries has been in lessening the infant mortality. This is shown by the rate per thousand births (in the first year of life) as being as low as 13.3 in Sweden with the high ranging to 100 in some parts of Asia, Africa and Latin America.

The decline is notable in Canada, down to 23.6 compared with 31.9 in 1956. That in the United States is slightly lower at 23.4, while in Britain it is only 19.6. This suggests there still is real room for improvement in Canada.

It always seemed strange that in some countries where midwives are used the rate is less than in Canada. We never had a logical explanation for this.

Chilly Days On the Farm

Windsor Star



This is the time of the year when there still is outdoors work to be done in rural Ontario and when a farmer gets chilly doing it. And, curiously, is apt to get more chilly than he need did.

One gets cold sitting on a tractor, hour after hour, in a chilly day especially if there be misting rain—not enough to come in out of but too much for comfort. In earlier days one could keep relatively warm walking behind a one-furrow plow or other horse-drawn implement.

One job, now a rare one in most parts of Ontario was apt to be in miserable weather. That was when most farms had several acres of turnips for animal fodder. Turnips stored best in the old root houses when taken in with a chill on them.

This meant leaving them in the ground until the cold weather. Then one had to top them, with a sharp hoe, harrow them out of the ground and pick them to unload in the root houses.

Topping turnips wasn't an unpleasant job on a nice day. A fellow with a keen eye, quick wrists and a sharp hoe, could walk up and down the rows snipping off the turnip tops without missing a stroke. But on a cold, damp day, with the large leaves of the turnips wet, it could be miserable. And it could be chilly on the hands when picking them and tossing them into the wagon box. Gloves were an impediment to quick work.

Johnson: We'll Use Sydney Steel if We Buy DOSCO

MONTREAL (CP) — Premier Daniel Johnson said Monday night Quebec will purchase steel ingots from the Sydney, N.S., plant of the Dominion Steel and Coal Corp. for a minimum of five years if negotiations to purchase a Dosco plant in Sidbec are successful.

"Nothing would prevent us from buying the products of another province which appears to be in difficulty provided the price is competitive," he told a press conference.

Dosco has announced it will close its Sydney steel mill next April 30.

Mr. Johnson said the Sydney mill could be kept running to produce steel ingots for a mill in Quebec, if negotiations are successful.

The premier's office announced Friday night that Sidbec, Quebec's government-backed steel company, has been authorized to negotiate for certain steel-making operations of Dosco, outside the Maritime Provinces.

Mr. Johnson did not indicate what Dosco installations Sidbec is negotiating for, but observers believed the Dosco rolling mill at Contrecoeur near Montreal may be involved.

Sidbec, established some years ago, has never entered production but has proposed building an integrated iron and steel complex at Becancour.

Dosco has not officially said that it wants to dispose of its Quebec holdings which, in addition to the Contrecoeur mill, include a 150,000-ton electric steel furnace at Montreal and a rod-producing steel mill in the Montreal suburb of LaSalle.

Two years ago it offered them to the Quebec Liberal government but Jean Lesage, premier at the time and now Opposition leader, turned them down, presumably because the price was too high.

The Nova Scotia government has said it will underwrite losses on Dosco's Sydney mill if the company delays its planned shutdown.

However, a Dosco spokesman said Monday night in Toronto one condition imposed by the company on Nova Scotia if it continues to operate the mill—that of providing semi-finished steel to the Dosco Contrecoeur rolling mill at competitive prices—may be "wiped out" if Sidbec takes over the Contrecoeur operation.

In such a case, he said, Premier G. I. Smith of Nova Scotia would probably agree to provide the Contrecoeur mill with semi-finished steel from Sydney until Sidbec can build blast furnaces for primary steel production of its own.

Mr. Johnson said he has discussed the possibility of a deal between Quebec and Dosco on several occasions with Premier Smith.

The press conference was called to announce plans for an $8,500,000 expansion program at the Bertheirville, Que., plant of Great Lakes Carbon Corp. (Canada) Ltd.

Snowfall

rousing realities of a Canadian winter wonderland were soon ruling local residents.

The storm moved in from the northwest this morning — hitting the Belleville-Trenton area around 5 a.m. before most district-dwellers were awake.

Provincial and city police in Belleville were swamped with the first mishaps as the early-morning rush-hour started.

In Belleville, despite broadcast warnings, only seven buses reported accidents at city intersections between 7 a.m. and 9 a.m.

Provincial police reported similar conditions around the city, as vexed motorists wrestled with vicenish weather conditions.

To compound complaints, temperatures remained cool — encouraging the snow to stick around.

Forecast high-in the Belleville area today was 35 degrees, with a low tonight of 25.

The weather will continue cool tomorrow — with a possible frosting from further snowfurries.

A similar weather pattern prevailed through the northern townships of Hastings.

At Bancroft, the Department of Lands and Forests recorded a low of 10 above during the night, with more than an inch of snow this morning.

In northern bush country, the fallout hit the last week of deer season, with hundreds of hunters still encamped, awaiting big game.

While it improved hunting conditions, the snow might further have worsened bush roads, already weakened by heavy rains, game wardens surmised.

In the city, work crews toiled to reduce the hazards of snow-covered streets and sidewalks.

On the main routes, two public works trucks went on salt patrol as the threat to early-morning motorists shaped up by 8 a.m.

Call Conciliation Officer To Resolve Union Issue

A conciliation officer has been called in to resolve an issue between recently unionized city utilities workers and the Belleville public utilities commission.

At dispute is the commission's refusal to credit employees on the negotiating committee with time off work during contract talks, Douglas Tinsley, district representative of the Canadian Labor Union of Public Employees here, said last night.

Mr. Lindsay told the Belleville and District Labor Council last night the public utilities board since the PUC employees were certified Sept. 8 as members of CUPE, have failed to resolve the issue.

"Therefore we've applied for conciliation service," he said, and a conciliation officer will arrive in Belleville Nov. 20 to discuss the problem.

Mr. Lindsay claimed management representatives will meet with the five-man workers committee only during the day.

City hall and school board employees already members of CUPE are allowed time off work when sitting on similar negotiation committees, said Mr. Lindsay.

Obituary

MRS. LEONA LUCILLE VIRGINIA FAIR

Funeral services were held from the chapel of the John R. Bush Funeral Home on St. Thomas' Anglican Church for Mrs. Leona Lucille Virginia Fair on Monday. Archdeacon A. S. McConnell officiated, assisted by Rev. Arnold Dunlop and interment was in Belleville Cemetery.

The bearers were Flt. Lt. D. G. Crowe, Flt. Lt. R. R. Dundas, Flt. Lt. G. R. Shaw, Sqdr. Ldr. M. H. Nibblett, Flt. Lt. E. C. Geldart and Sgt. G. Y. Rose.

He also said the PUC had hired a Toronto labor lawyer—by David Churchill Smith — during negotiations.

The move, he felt was "away out of line for a town this size."

"Belleville," he said, had "enough lawyers" who could have handled the task."

"I don't know why they have to call a professional in. I think the management is spending the city's money needlessly — and delaying negotiations needlessly," he charged.

PUC manager E. L. Burnham said the commission took the stand its agreement with CUPE was still being processed.

Until it has been approved the PUC could have "no good reason to pay people for being off work."

"We don't anticipate anything in the agreement until it's all drawn up," he said.

door he heard and felt a shot. He crawled to the phone and was able to make the person on the other end of the line aware that he needed help."

At the time of the shooting, Mr. Pitman was talking on the telephone with his part time housekeeper, 40-year-old Mrs. Annie Woodcock. She said Sunday Pitman left the phone after he told her he heard a noise at the back door. "The next thing I heard was 'Call the police. . . I've been shot," she said.

Provincial police arrived following Mrs. Woodcock's call and called an ambulance to carry Pitman to Belleville General Hospital.

Ellis was moved from Campbellford to Madoc and then to the County jail in Belleville last night.

Police officials said earlier, Pitman was shot in the chest with a 22-calibre rifle; a single bullett was removed during an operation at the hospital.

Mr. Pitman has operated the service station and general store near Marmora for about 15 years. He was alone at the time of the shooting.

Until a year ago, Ellis lived with his mother across the road from Pitman's store. Then the family moved to Campbellford. At the time of his arrest police said Ellis had no fixed address.

Police say they confiscated a .22 calibre rifle from Ellis' brothers.

Saturday night provincial police said the shooting was "not an accident."

The investigation was headed by Cpl. B. D. Shaw of the Madoc detachment of the OPP.

Smaller TV Stations Want 'Dual Affiliation'

OTTAWA (CP) — Some private television stations in smaller cities have banded together to protect their financial interests in face of the looming advent of a literate Canadian viewing fare in their areas.

Thirteen stations prepared a special submission to a public hearing of the Board of Broadcast Governors opening today. They say some way must be found around a situation that could sink them financially.

All are privately-owned stations affiliated with the CBC and operating in areas where they now provide the only Canadian signal.

They want some sort of "dual affiliation," allowing them to carry programs from both the publicly-owned CBC and private-owned CTV networks.

They say this could be accomplished by rescheduling some of their current CBC programs to allow transmission of such popular CTV fare as football or hockey games.

Some small-market stations might be allowed to set up a second antenna. One would carry CBC network programs and the other CTV. Local production would be carried by both when they were not tied into the networks.

If some nearby CTV member station is allowed to provide alternate services through a repeater station, the brief says, this means a cut of 50 per cent in the existing station's local, regional and national advertising.

It points out that the 10 English-language stations in the list averaged a net profit of 14.3 cents on each $1 earned in the fiscal year 1962-63. For the three French stations, the average was 7.46 cents on each $1.

The stations say that arrival of a station owned and operated by the CBC in their area, with consequent disaffiliation for them, means they are faced immediately with finding programs to fill almost half their daily schedules.

The brief was a combined effort by CFCY-TV Charlottetown, CJCB-TV Sydney, CKCW-TV Moncton, CKBL-TV Matane, Que., CKRT-R-V Riviere-du-Loup, Que., CKTM-TV Trois-Rivieres, Que., CKPR-TV Port Arthur, CKX-TV Brandon, Man., CKOS-TV Yorkton, Sask., CKBI-TV Prince Albert, Sask., CJLH-TV Lethbridge, Alta., CHAT-TV Medicine Hat, Alta., and CHBC-TV Kelowna, B.C.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids... and repair damaged tissue.

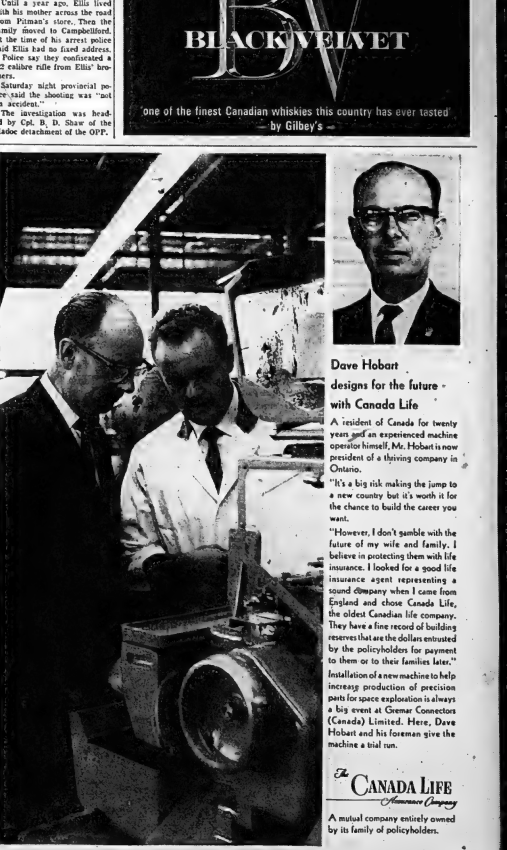
A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and tissues—parts of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.



Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Satisfaction or your money refunded.

Dave Hobart designs for the future - with Canada Life

A resident of Canada for twenty years and an experienced machine operator himself, Mr. Hobart is now president of a thriving company in Ontario.

"It's a big risk making the jump to a new country but it's worth it for the chance to build the career you want.

"However, I don't gamble with the future of my wife and family. I believe in protecting them with life insurance. I looked for a good life insurance agent representing a sound company when I came from England and chose Canada Life, the oldest Canadian life company. They have a fine record of building reserves that are the dollars entrusted by the policyholders for payment to them or to their families later."

Council of Nurses' President Makes Frequent Trips Abroad

OTTAWA (CP) — For Alice Girard, president of the International Council of Nurses, several trips a year to Geneva, London or Paris are "just routine."

The first Canadian president of the world-wide organization, Miss Girard is also the first woman dean of nurses at the University of Montreal.

As president, her official duties range from representing the council at such functions as the recent opening here of the Canadian Nurses' Association headquarters to attending ceremonies abroad.

During the first half of her four-year term of office, which began in 1965, she attended the 75th anniversary of the Nurses Registration Act in South Africa. Next on her agenda is a possible South American visit.

The International Council of Nurses consists of 63 national associations, of which Canada is third largest. Designed as a link between these associations, the council also promotes better nursing care standards and helps the exchange of nurses from one country to another.

Miss Girard said the council, started in London in 1899, is the oldest international association in the world. Its affiliates today have a total membership of 600,000 nurses.

The council has its headquarters in Geneva and works closely with the nursing division of the World Health Organization, the International Red Cross and other international medical associations.

Highlight of Miss Girard's term of office will be the quadrennial congress of the International Council of Nurses in Montreal in 1969. About 12,000 nurses from around the world are expected to attend the congress, held once before in Montreal in 1929.

KIDS GO COWBOY

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Appetites in the children's ward at Colorado General Hospital have zoomed since the usual steam delivery cart was converted into a ranch-type chuckwagon complete with canvas canopy resembling the pioneer covered wagon. When the chuckwagon rolls into the ward the children eat heartier and happier," said the chief dietitian, Mary McCracken.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Fruit, Nut Filled Cake

By MARY MOORE

When Christmas 1966 was so near that all of our Christmas baking had been done, and the columns written and dispatched, we received several letters from readers asking for a fruit and nut filled cake with almost no batter. We even received samples of a cake made by a California firm who advertised it in brilliant color in magazines. It tasted wonderful. My friend Mooney gave me a recipe which was a reasonable facsimile. We made our own interpretation and have since made up three cakes. One of these has been in my freezer ever so carefully freezer-wrapped, and we have cut it and approved it and here it is for 1967 fruit cake buffs.

3 large eggs
1 cup granulated sugar
2 lb. pecan halves not chopped

In clean dishpan put dates cut into thirds, and pineapple cut in ½" pieces about same size as dates. Add whole cherries. Sift sifted flour and baking powder together over fruits. Mix well with hands, coating and separating each piece of fruit. Beat the eggs until frothy. Add the sugar to them slowly and gradually. (I beat it 10 minutes all together.) Add to fruit - flour mixture. Mix well. Add whole pecans and mix with clean hands thoroughly. Double-line pans with wax paper and butter surface that batter will touch. We used three 1 o a f pans, 8½ x 4½ x 2¾". Press batter into pans by taking it by the handful and packing it in firmly. As soon as that there are no empty spaces. Have attractive colorful bright cherries and pineapple on top. (You could even make a design with cherries and pineapple.) Put water pan in oven — broiler pan nearly full. Bake at 250 deg. Fahr. 1½ hrs. until it looks and feels dry on top. Cool 5 min. on racks in pans. Remove from pans. I had to run a knife blade between paper and pan to loosen it enough to turn out onto racks. Peel off paper immediately as it begins to stick slightly at once. Cool. Wrap inside up, on racks. Wrap well and store in refrigerator or freezer-wrap and freeze.

Dairy foods go with good living

Milk's the instant refresher for young party-goers. Plain, flavored or in a creamy shake, it's quick to vanish as the fun progresses.

Butter crisp chicken makes a popular summer come food time. To oven fry, melt butter in a large shallow pan, coat chicken pieces in seasoned flour and place skin-side down in pan. Bake at 450°F for 35 minutes, turning just once after 20 minutes. Cream gravy to try the crispest chicken ever!

Note: Our favorite seasoning mix consists of 1¾ tsp. salt, ¼ tsp. pepper, 1 tsp. paprika, 1¾ tsp. onion powder and 1¾ tsp. poultry seasoning per ¼ cup flour.

At dessert time, do-it-yourself sundae makers will delight in spooning a thick chocolate peanut butter sauce over vanilla or coffee ice cream. Simply melt 1 6-ounce package semi-sweet chocolate pieces over hot water, stir in ¼ cup peanut butter, ¼ cup corn syrup and 2 tablespoons cream.

Another swinging dessert starts with a quick cake mix, finishes as an à la mode treat. 6 tablespoons butter ⅔ cup lightly packed brown sugar ¾ cup chopped walnuts 2 (15-ounce) canfruit cocktail 1 (19-ounce) devil's food cake mix

Melt butter in two 8-inch round cake pans. Mix sugar and nuts and divide between pans; spread with fruit cocktail. Prepare cake mix to package directions; spread evenly in pans. Bake 50 to 60 minutes at 350°F. Cool 10 minutes; turn onto serving plates. Serve warm with vanilla ice cream.

Ex-girl Friend's Actions Provoke Wife

Always keep a dictionary handy to look up words that are new to you.

Dear Doris: Last year I married a man who had been engaged before and broke it off because, as he said, he didn't really love the girl. I know they had an affair.

Now if we happen to meet her at a dance she asks him to dance with her, and he does. Later, when I object, he laughs it off and says I am being unnecessarily jealous.

Am I? On my wedding night I was a virgin. I am so very afraid that my inexperience will drive him back to her. Nightmares haunt me every night. I am pregnant, but I can't help wondering if he wouldn't be just as happy with his ex-girl's baby. — Green Monster

Dear Green: He married you. She still wants him. You are the mistress in his home, and about to start a family. All fine reasons for you to feel smug.

So feel that way. And improve your knowledge of how to show your love. Wouldn't it be just ducky if your self-doubt got across to him?

Dear Doris: This year I have a whole batch of children to buy gifts for. Besides my own four, my sister has taken on six foster children between nine and 14.

They are all from broken homes and she wants this Christmas to be one for them to remember. Can you give me some ideas about presents that would really be good ones for them? — Sister and Aunt.

Dear Sister: I have the very thing: A list supplied to foster mothers by the Hamilton Children's Aid Society. Specifically for children about nine years of age and up.

DORIS CLARK

This is available to perplexed parents, aunts, grannies, gramps, for a five-cent-stamped, self-addressed envelope and ten cents. Ask for "Suggestions for Santa."

Dear Doris: A 13-year-old girl wrote in for advice about washing her own hair. Her mother usually did it because of the mess the girl would leave. Why not have her do it in the bathtub after her bath?

She could go on her knees in the bottom of the tub; turn on the taps and put her head under to rinse her hair. All in the tub — no fuss, no mess. This is the way I wash my hair and would not do it any other way.

May the Lord guide you at all times. We all need help at some time or other. — A Fan.

Dear Fan: The bathtub is the very place. Thank you for suggesting it. Wish Washer, are you reading us today?

When writing in, allow Doris four weeks for private reply, which will be sent if a five-cent-stampte, self-addressed envelope is enclosed.

Ann Landers

Teen-ager Answers Sour Sixteen's Letter

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several months ago I read a letter in your column from a 15-year-old girl who signed herself "Sour Sixteen." She said she hated her father because he was a drunk and embarrassed her in front of friends. It took until now to get up the courage to answer her. I hope you will print my reply.

ANN LANDERS

DEAR SOUR SIXTEEN: I am sorry for you, but not because your father has caused you embarrassment. I am sorry for you, because you are filled with hate and bitterness. This will cause you more harm than anything your father could do or say.

I am also 16. My father died last year from a liver disease. He was an alcoholic as far back as I can remember. My father said and did some disgraceful things, too, but he never disgraced me, poor man, only himself. And I know, too, that after he sobered up he was miserable and ashamed.

Now that my father is gone I remember the few kinds and thoughtful things he did for me. There are so many little things that you don't notice but once they are gone you will miss them.

I am sad knowing that when I marry I will not walk down the aisle on my father's arm. I am sad, too, knowing that my father will not be here to see me become the woman I will some day be.

Please give your father a kiss for me because I cherish the memory of the few times my own father gave me and I will never know them again. — ALSO SIXTEEN.

DEAR FRIEND: You speak of the woman you will some day be. You are already more of a woman than many who are three times your age. Such compassion and insight is rare at any age. I salute you.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: For those married men who have gotten themselves messed up with another woman I would like to relate this little incident:

I work in a restaurant and I meet all kinds of people. This rather attractive but depressed looking man came in at 8:00 a.m. for breakfast. I knew him and I knew his history. He was married but living apart from his wife and three nice kids. The reason: a bottle blonde who works in his office.

This particular morning he sat down at a corner table and with sort of a catch in his voice said, "I'd like a glass of warm orange juice, two slices of burnt toast, two cold fried eggs, and a cup of warmed-over coffee. And please sit down and nag me, I'm homesick." — MR. B.

DEAR MR. B.: Why didn't you tell him to go home and get the real thing? I'll bet his wife and kids would be happy to see him.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a girl 15 and have been bugged by something for the last three years. My girl friend has the same problem only not as bad.

I do babysitting and save my money to buy gifts and things I really need. Three times since January my mother has asked me to lend her money (the last time it was $6.) She promised she would pay it back by Saturday. Well, that was three Saturdays ago and I still don't have my money. This morning when I reminded her again she fumbled something about a light bill. Now I'm sure she will never repay the $6, just as she didn't repay the $4 and the $7.

Is there any solution? Please come up with something. — NEW MEXICO.

DEAR NEW: Bank your money instead of letting it lie around the house.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "John, I waited for you in the car after school. You had an appointment with the dentist."

John: "I went out the other door. I forgot about the appointment."

Mother: "Mark your dental appointment on the calendar. You can get the bus as soon as school is out and be there on time if you hurry."

The first step to maturity is responsibility for oneself. A teen-ager becomes responsible sooner if mother does not make a habit of remembering the things he forgets.

Freed by Viet Cong

Freed Prisoners Given Cheers

FORT BRAGG, N.C. (AP) — Fellow special forces soldiers shouted "Welcome Home" and embraced Staff Sgt. James E. Jackson Monday night as he and two other U.S. Army sergeants returned to the United States after years of captivity by the Viet Cong.

The cheer for Jackson came from a trio of his comrades as he stepped off a military plane that returned him and Master Sgt. Daniel Lee Pitzer of Spring Lake, N.C., to Fort Bragg.

Pitzer walked unsteadily and lay down on an ambulance stretcher. An army official said he had a serious vitamin deficiency.

The third prisoner of war released in Cambodia Saturday, Master Sgt. Edward R. Johnson of Seaside, Calif., was removed from the plane in a stretcher at Washington and taken to Walter Reed Army Hospital. He was reported suffering from dysentry and malnutrition.

The three sergeants were accompanied as far as New York by Thomas Hayden, a Newark, N.J., writer who brought them out of Cambodia. Hayden is a member of an American peace committee that also includes Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Dr. Benjamin Spock and Singer Joan Baez.

King said the release was a gesture of goodwill toward American Negroes. Jackson and Johnson are Negroes.

"We appealed to the humanitarian instincts of the North Vietnamese," King said, adding that the committee hopes to aid in the release of additional U.S. prisoners.

Jackson smiled, as three fellow Green Berets embraced him and slapped him on the back on his arrival at Fort Bragg. Jackson, Pitzer and Johnson all received their special forces training at Bragg.

Jackson accepted a cigarette but declined to answer questions about his captivity.

Jackson's mother said her son "had the training (as a Green Beret) to take a brainwashing job just to win his release."

Jackson's jubilant manner contrasted sharply with Pitzer, who walked down the plane's ramp with a halting step, looking drawn and pale. He spoke to no one and stretched out on a bed in the ambulance for the short trip by hospital on the Fort Bragg post. His wife was waiting there.

The three sergeants had been kept under wraps in Cambodia after the news conference announcing their release Saturday. They arrived in Beirut, Lebanon, aboard a Czechoslovak airliner Sunday and then were flown to Rome and Paris before landing in New York.

Army officials said Jackson would get members of his family at Fort Bragg. He has a wife and two children.

Jackson, captured July 5, 1967, had spent less time in the Viet Cong's hands than the others. Pitzer was captured in October, 1963, and Johnson had been a prisoner since 1964.

Amendment Rejected

Advisory Manpower Body Gets Approval

OTTAWA (CP) — The House of Commons approved a bill Monday night to establish an advisory body of private citizens for the minister of manpower and immigration. This group, to be called the Canada Manpower and Immigration Council, is to have not more than 15 members.

The bill was passed after the Commons rejected by a vote of 73 to 64 an amendment by Robert McCleave (PC—Halifax) that would have required the council to report to Parliament once a year.

It now goes to the Senate, which resumes sitting Nov. 21.

The Commons is expected to resume debate today on second reading, or approval in principle, of a bill to limit capital punishment. The bill would abolish the death penalty for a five-year trial period for all except slayers of policemen and prison guards.

The Commons also gave second reading Monday to a bill that would increase the lending ability of the Industrial Development Bank, established in 1944. This bill now goes to committee for detailed study.

Debate on the bill to establish a manpower and immigration council arose unexpectedly on third and final reading.

Manpower Minister Marchand had already, during debate on second reading, rejected the idea of an annual report to Parliament.

But Mr. McCleave revived the argument and his proposal was seconded by Roger Regimbal (PC—Argenteuil — Deux Montagnes). It was also supported in speeches by Andrew Brewin (NDP—Toronto Greenwood) and Charles-Arthur Gauthier (Creditiste-Roberval).

Seventy Liberals were joined by two Social Credit MPs and J. A. Mongrain (Ind — Trois-Rivieres) in voting down the amendment. Voting for it were 47 Conservatives, 12 New Democrats and five Creditistes.

Mr. Marchand said the council will be an advisory body and the requirement for a report to Parliament would only make its work more difficult.

The bill concerning the Industrial Development Bank proposes to increase the bank's authorized capital to $75,000,000 from $50,000,000 and to allow it to borrow up to 10 times the total amount of its paid-up capital and reserve fund.

Other amendments would put the deputy industry minister on the bank's board of directors as a member of its executive committee in place of the deputy trade minister. The latter would remain a member of the board. The directors of the Bank of Canada make up the rest of the board.

During debate on second reading, Gordon Aiken (PC—Parry Sound-Muskoka) said the bank's first concern should be the value to the community of the business or industrial proposition on which a loan application is based, and not the bank's chances of getting its money back.

John M. Reid (L—Kenora-Rainy River) said the bank "should be taking a look around and expanding the services which it provides." Existing restrictions on the type of loans should be removed and the maximum loan period should be 20 years instead of 10.

Lemay Trial

Repeated Explosions Blew Out Bank Floor

MONTREAL (CP) — The third week of the Georges Lemay trial began Monday with the blow-by-blow description of an all-night dynamite assault on a downtown Montreal bank vault six years ago.

Jacques Lajoie, 46, is testifying as key Crown witness in the burglary and conspiracy trial of Georges Lemay.

Lajoie pleaded guilty to his part in the $633,605 robbery of the contents of nearly 400 safety deposit boxes on the July 1 weekend of 1961, and served a one-day sentence after having spent two hours in jail awaiting trial.

Three other men have been convicted for the robbery. They are Roland Primeau, who got 12 years, Andre Lemieux, sentenced to seven years and his brother Yvon Lemieux, four years.

Lajoie said Georges Lemay gave most of the instructions and provided the dynamite for the break-in from a considerable cache of explosives at his island chalet about 25 miles north of Montreal.

Lajoie described how the gang blasted open the floor of the bank vault with repeated dynamite explosions in an abandoned sewage tunnel directly below.

He said he was standing at the other end of the tunnel, at a side entrance of the bank, in communication by walkie-talkie with Yvon Lemieux, who was stationed as a look-out in a second-floor office across the street.

Andre Lemieux was in the tunnel, detonating the explosives. Lemay and Primeau were evidently outside the bank building. Lajoie said, because when Andre Lemieux told him the vault floor had been blasted open, he relayed the information to Yvon Lemieux and "Lemay and Primeau came running across the street."

Lajoie's testimony for the prosecution ended Monday at noon. Judge Jacques Trahan adjourned the trial until today to enable defence lawyer Rene Maranda to refer to a complete-

The Intelligencer

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 1967

So they said the National Hockey League expansion contest troops would be like sending the men against the boys.

From here it looks like these "boy scouts" of the weaker six have quit helping old ladies across the street and confined themselves to knocking the "old men" of the eastern millionaire half dozen plumb out of their way.

To paraphrase an old piano advertisement "They Laughed When They Came Out to Play" It looks like the old mixed coaching massive have run into students that can tinkle out a victory tune when it is least expected.

I didn't exactly shudder when I saw the Minnesota North Stars play the Pittsburgh Penguins here in an exhibition tilt but I did think at the time that any of the "Big Six" wouldn't have much trouble.

And what happens?

Last Thursday night out in Los Angeles, the local Angelinos stirred in amazement as the smog lifted. Had they known where to look they would have gazed in amazement at Jack Kent Cook's hockey Taj Mahal where the Kings of Kelly were whomping the stuffing out of the world champion Maple Leafs.

Saturday night from the barren wastes of Minnesota, the bowls of the sled-dogs echoed down as Wren Blairs' North Stars sent the Leafs home with a 2-1 defeat hanging in their tails.

And would you believe the North Stars outshot the targetenders of Toronto by the incredible margin of 36-14.

And where the pundits get this "men against boys" stuff I do not know. A National Hockey League release says the average age of the twelve teams is 28.1.

The "oldest" squad in the loop is the Pittsburgh Penguins with an average age of 30-7. The Toronto Maple Leafs shade the St. Louis Blues 29.5 to 29.8.

The New York Rangers and Oakland Seals are next with identical averages of 28.8 while the Philadelphia Flyers and Detroit Red Wings are close on their heels with 28.4 and 28.3. The "patriarch" Gordie Howe at 39 boots the Red Wings' figure.

Kelly's L.A. Kings rate a 26.7 with the Montreal Canadiens showing 27.6. The Minnesota North Stars have a 27.2 average.

The Bruins have four players 30 and over. Ron Murphy is 34; John Bucyk 32; Ed. Johnston 31 and Eddie Shack 30.

Oaklands' over 30's are Larry Cahan 33; Wally Boyer 30; Billy Harris 32; Gerry Ehman 35; and Kent Douglas, Bob Baun and Charlie Burns all 31.

Pierre Pilote is the "gramps" of the Chicago Black Hawks at 33. Other plus-thirties are Ken Warram 34; Doug Mohns 33; Gerry Goyer 31; and Eric Nesterenko 34.

The Red Wings have no less than seven over-thirties led by the ageless Howe at 39. Others are Jean Guy Talbot 30; Howie Young 30, Alec Delvecchio 35; Ted Hampson 30; Floyd Smith 32 and Dean Prentice 35.

Kelly's L.A. Kings have Brian Kilrea at 34. Two 29'ers are Terry Gray and Brian Smith. Oops, we almost forgot Terry Sawchuk at 37.

Parker MacDonald at 34 tops the Minnesota oldsters. The nibers are Bob McCord 33; Elmer Vasko 31 and Pete Cowgill 33.

Jean Beliveau rates top age-wise with the Canadiens. He is 36. Then comes Claude Provost 34; Dick Duff, Ted Harris, Henri Richard each 31. Ralph Backstrom is 30.

With the Rangers are Harry Howell 34; Bernie Geoffrion 36; Reg Fleming 31; Orland Kurtenbach 31; Phil Goyette 34 and Don Marshall 33.

Philadelphia has Larry Zeidel at 39; Forbes Kennedy 32; John Hanna 32; Bill Sutherland 33; Claude LaForge and Pat Hannigan 31 and Jean Gauthier, Wayne Hicks and Ed Hoekstra all at 30.

The Penguins are a group of "old birds." No less than twelve over 30. These are Bolvin 33; McNeil 32; Pyne 31; Straeton 32; Pronjerue 33; Bashgate 35; Ingarfield 33; Schinkel 34; Dea 34; Ab MacDonald 31; Basseu 34 and Binkley 31.

The St. Louis Blues have Hueyl, Arbour and Stewart each at 35; Allwell 34; Metzyk and McKenney 33; Glenn Hall 36 and Seth Martin 34.

The Maple Leafs have ageless Johnny Bower 44-45, take your choice; Pronovost 37; Tim Horton 37; Oliver 36; Pulford 31 and Allan Stanley 41.

West Sweeps Schenley Awards

Liske Named Outstanding Player!

MONTREAL (CP) — Western players Monday made a clean sweep of the top 1967 Canadian football awards.

In the 15th annual poll of football writers and broadcasters, conducted by Schenley Distilleries, Calgary's record-breaking pass combination—quarterback Peter Liske and end Terry Evanshen—topped the balloting along with defensive tackle Ed McQuarters of Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Evanshen beat Russ Jackson; Ottawa Rough Riders quarterback, as Canadian Player of the Year.

Liske wins $2,000 in savings bonds; Evanshen and McQuarters $1,500.

The Calgary quarterback led his team to first place in the Western Conference this year, with all-time records of 308 pass attempts, 203 completions and 40 touchdown passes. He set a league single-season record of 4,479 yards gained through the air.

Both Liske and Evanshen, his favorite target, were traded to Calgary by Eastern Conference teams.

Liske, six-foot-two and 195 pounds, is 26 and lives in Plainfield, N.J. He was drafted by Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League after starring for Penn State. He played one year for New York Jets in the American Football League before coming to Canada.

Evanshen, 23, is five-foot-10 and 180 pounds. He came from Montreal Alouettes in trade for Canadian guard Tony Pajaczkowski.

The Montreal-born speedster was Rookie of the Year in the Eastern Conference in 1965 and leading pass receiver in the West in 1966 when he was named to the western all-star team and tagged a runner-up in the voting for outstanding Canadian player.

In 1966, Evanshen tied a CFL record when he combined with Jerry Keeling on a 109-yard pass-and-run play against Winnipeg.

McQuarters, 24, is six-foot-two and 220 pounds. He joined Saskatchewan Roughriders for the last nine games of the 1966 season and was a key figure in his team's march to the Grey Cup that year.

He recovered a fumble and ran it for a touchdown to lock up the final games against Winnipeg in the WFC playoff.

An Oklahoma University graduate, he was drafted by St. Louis Cardinals of the NFL and spent most of 1965 on their taxi squad. He was the last cut by St. Louis in 1966. Married with two sons, he is an insurance adjuster in St. Louis during the off-season.

College Scoring

Blues' Star Wins Title

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A four-touchdown outburst in the final game of the season against McGill Redmen last Saturday gave University of Toronto fullback Mike Raham the football scoring championship of the Ontario-Quebec Athletic Association by one point over teammate Paul McKay.

Raham, who last year tied for the scoring title, scored seven touchdowns this fall for 42 points. McKay, a defensive back with the title-winning Blues, did not score a touchdown all season but collected 12 converts, seven field goals and eight singles for 41 points.

McKay's seven field goals equalized one of the oldest records in the O-QAA book. It tied the mark set in 1923 by Pep Leadley of Queen's.

McKay also had the best punting average in the league with 38.4 yards.

Dennis Walker of the University of Western Ontario was next with 35.4.

Sazio; Selection A Shock

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Terry Evanshen's first reaction to learning he had won a 1967 Canadian football award was to turn to his wife Lorraine and yell:

"Yahoo. We won it honey."

Evanshen, star end with Calgary Stampeders, joined teammate Peter Liske and Ed McQuarters of Saskatchewan Roughriders in giving Western Football Conference clubs a clean sweep of the awards announced Monday night in Montreal.

McQuarters, named top lineman of the year, was not available for comment but Saskatchewan coach Eagle Keys said the 220-pound defensive tackle had not had "a bad ball game all year. . . ."

Evanshen, named Canadian player of the year, was "really honored" to have beaten out Ottawa Rough Riders quarterback Russ Jackson in the 15th annual poll of football writers and broadcasters.

Liske, named Canada's most outstanding player, was modest.

But coach Jerry Williams wasn't modest.

"The awards didn't come as a surprise to me. They certainly deserved them. We're real proud and very happy."

While the westerners were tickled pink, Ralph Sazio of Hamilton Tiger-Cats was despondent.

"That's ridiculous. I'm amazed at three Western players being selected. I just can't understand it . . . this certainly is shocking."

Sazio said he remembered McQuarters "only vaguely."

McQuarters was cut in 1966 from St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League and joined the Riders for the last nine games that season.

Tommy-Joe Coffey of the Tiger-Cats, who lost out to Liske, said he wasn't surprised at himself losing, but "Barrow didn't win? You're kidding."

John Barrow, also of Hamilton, lost out to McQuarters.

Barrow said there was "no loyalty" in the East.

"One year I made all-pro and played 60 minutes, going two ways the whole season, but I lost out to a one-way player."

Barrow has won the award once in five chances.

Roughriders Depend On Momentum!

CALGARY (CP)—Calgary Stampeders and Saskatchewan Roughriders last met in a Western Football Conference final in 1948 and 1949, and Calgary coach Jerry Williams wishes he could roll back the calendar.

He doesn't feel that way just because the Stampeders went to the Grey Cup game in each of those years and won it in 1948. He favors the scoring system that was then in effect.

The WFC final was a two-game, total-point system, as it now is in the four-team Eastern conference, and Williams figures he has the perfect ball club for such a series.

The Stampeders, he says, can exploit the frailty found in the first home game of such a series and then use its defence—the toughest in the Canadian Football League this year—to protect it.

The final series opens here at 2 p.m. MST Saturday and will be seen on the CTV national network. The second game is at Regina Nov. 22 and third, if necessary, at Calgary Nov. 26.

The Stampeders defeated the Roughriders in two of three games this season but McQuarters' rushing moved Liske to say: "I hope we can find some way to keep him out of there."

The Stampeders face a club which hopes it has some momentum working for it after defeating Edmonton Eskimos 21-5 in the sudden-death semi-final at Regina Saturday.

Said Jack Gotta, assistant coach of Saskatchewan, the 1966 Grey Cup champions:

"We stopped the guy we had to stop. We stopped that guy 'Mo Mentum' someone said the Eskimos had going for them. We hope to have him with us in Calgary."

Williams said: "Considering the conditions, I thought it was a good game and Saskatchewan looked excellent. There were a few times I didn't seen from them before."

Neither club reported any players with major injuries.

Cats' Hurdles; Jackson, Low Scoring

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats have two major hurdles when they start their two-game, total-point Eastern Football Conference final in Ottawa Sunday against the Rough Riders—scoring and Ottawa's Russ Jackson.

Hamilton scored only 250 points in 14 league games to the Riders' 337, averaging 17.9 points to Ottawa's 24.1.

Jackson, the 1966 winner of the Canadian Football League's outstanding player and outstanding Canadian awards, has always been a nemesis to the Tiger-Cats.

This year's final series will be the fourth consecutive time the same two clubs have met to decide the Eastern representative in the Grey Cup, scheduled for Dec. 2 at Ottawa.

Sunday's game at Ottawa will be carried on the CBC-TV national network starting at 2 p.m. EST while the second game, scheduled for the following Saturday in Hamilton, will be seen on the CTV national network, again starting at 2 p.m. EST.

During Monday's workout, coach Ralph Sazio was attempting to work halfback Allen Smith into the Tiger-Cat attack. The recent acquisition from Buffalo Bills of the American Football League is seen by the Hamilton Club as a replacement for injured Dick Cobee.

"We hope he'll help our running attack," said Sazio, "That way we can monopolize the football."

Willie Bethea will remain at fullback for Sunday's game while Smith will replace Dick Gibbs in the backfield.

But Jackson is another problem.

"We won't have a chance if we can't do something about those bombs of Jackson. A heavy rush or blitz can't be the whole answer because Jackson has progressed past the point where he can be bothered by such things."

It's All Over; Als Workman 'Homeward Plods His Weary Way'

MONTREAL (CP) — Ted Workman's long and futile fight with this city's football fandom is at an end.

The fleet, that sputtered and blazed intermittently since Workman took over control of Montreal Alouettes after the team's 27-26 Grey Cup loss to Edmonton Eskimos in 1954, ended abruptly Monday. The decision was in the form of a four-minute announcement by club president Joe Atwell of the Alouettes.

Atwell, a former director of Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Eastern Football Conference and co-owner of the Als with Workman since December, 1965, said he was buying out his partner's share of the club and that Workman would resign as vice-president as of Dec. 5.

Atwell had originally held 40 per cent of club stock and Workman 42 per cent with the remaining 18 per cent spread out among the board of directors.

Monday's transaction, for a reported $400,000 cash, now gives Atwell 88 per cent and an opportunity to bring in other partners.

The fortunes of the team on the field hit their lowest ebb this season, as the.Als won only two of 14 games and fan support dropped accordingly.

The fans and news media were at war with Workman as the losses mounted to nine in a row.

"Forces beyond my control have caused me to become an increasingly negative focal point in the Alouettes, providing a public crutch on which to hang all blame, and people in football an excuse to be half-hearted," Workman said in a statement issued after the ownership announcement.

"Furthermore I find it no longer sane or sensible to be identified with a game in which a man's character can be assassinated publicly by a few misinformed and prejudiced among the news media."

Atwell said the sale became final Sunday. No board of directors meeting was necessary and no approval of the sale was needed from the Canadian Football League.

Atwell outlined a four-point, off-field program to get the club off to a good start for the 1968 season.

—One of his first steps will be the appointment of a fully-qualified general manager to handle administration and promotion while Kay Dalton remains in firm control of player personnel in his position as head coach.

—The acquisition of "two or three sports-minded Quebec businessmen" as shareholders.

—Immediate improvements in stadium facilities, with an eye to leasing Expo 67's now vacant Autostade.

—Establish a permanent home for himself in Montreal. He currently divides his time between Hamilton, Ont., Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and Montreal.

He has business interests in all three cities.

Workman, now 37, purchased the Als at age 24 for a reported $250,000. He was visibly shaken by the turn of events, but refused to elaborate on the misregrapped remarks. that revealed some of his resentment and some belief he has been falsely accused of mismanagement by the fans and the press.

Workman had served as the club's general manager since coach Jim Trimble was fired after the 1965 season.

Has Three-Point Lead

Hull; 16 Goals Shy Of 400 Mark!

MONTREAL (CP) — Bobby Hull, Chicago Black Hawks' left winger, continued his goal-a-game pace in the National Hockey League last week and leads the individual scoring race.

Hull, who needs only 16 goals to reach the 400-goal mark, has 21 points on 14 goals and seven assists in 14 games played to date.

Statistics issued by NHL headquarters today give Hull a three-point lead over veteran Gordie Howe, Detroit Red Wings perennial all-star. Howe has scored 10 times and added eight assists for 18 points.

Yvan Cournoyer, Montreal Canadiens' right winter with the left-hand shot, is third in the race with seven goals, 10 assists and 17 points. Stan Mikita (4-12 —16) of New York Rangers is one point behind Cournoyer.

Veteran Andy Bathgate, now with Pittsburgh Penguins and Bill Hicke of Oakland Seals, both in the expanded Western Division, have with 15 points. Both have scored eight goals and assisted on seven.

Hull is the goal-scoring leader with his 14, while Alex Delvecchio, Detroit's veteran captain and centre, is the assist leader with 13.

Bernie Parent, who went from Boston Bruins to Philadelphia Flyers in last June's expansion draft, has become virtually unbeatable in recent games.

The Montreal native allowed only three goals last week as the Flyers stretched their undefeated streak to four games. Since giving up nine goals in their first two games, the goal-tending duo of Parent and Doug Favell have moved the Flyers from last to a second-place tie in the Western Division with a combined goals-against total of 22—a 2.08 goals-against average.

Veteran Johnny Bower and Eruce Gamble of Toronto Maple Leafs are second in netminding with an average of 2.77.

Boston defencemen Ted Green took over the individual lead in penalties in 40 minutes, one more than Ed Van Impe of Philadelphia.

Call To Rochester

Leafs; Help Wanted

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs, reeling from injuries and two consecutive losses to expansion teams in the National Hockey League, announced Monday they are summoned help from Rochester Americans of the American League.

Defenseman Larry Hillman and Jean-Paul Parise, a left winger, will be in Toronto lineup for Wednesday night's game against Boston Bruins.

Hillman reported to Rochester about a week ago after almost a month off skates when he and the Leafs couldn't arrive at a satisfactory contract.

Parise, 26, played 18 games with the Bruins last season and scored two goals. Oakland Seals picked him up in the expansion draft last summer and recently traded him to Rochester for Gary Ehman.

Toronto coach Punch Imlach announced centre Dave Keon has aggravated a chrarley horse in his right leg and probably will not play Wednesday.

Allen Stanley's head injury—he was hit by a flying puck at Minnesota Saturday—and the loss last week of Frank Mahovlich with a nervous disorder prompted Imlach to call for reinforcements.

Under 12-1 Avalanche

Frontenacs Inter Juniors!

According to the OHA Eastern Junior "B" schedule, the Belleville "B's" were not supposed to play in Kingston last night.

And judging by the scoreboard, most of the players didn't.

Belleville had only 12 players for the game, including two defencemen, but held Kingston to a slim 1-0 lead in the opening heat. "We played like a bunch of donkeys in the second period," said "B's" manager Jim "Snipe" Matthews. It was 10-0 going into the third and Kingston made it 12-0 by the mid-way point of the third.

The "B's" broke Frontenac goalie Dave Gavel's bid for a shutout in the final minute of play.

Doug Potts picked up a pass from Rick Rosebush and gunned it past Gavel for Belleville's lone tally, at 19.31.

Over the route, Belleville iested Gavel but 21 times while Paul Smith in the losers' net faced 36 shots, stopping but six of 13 in the middle frame.

The Frontenacs' dozen goals were divided among six players with Douglas collecting three. Dave Balson, Chris Seale, Lollar and Brooks scored two each with Veley adding the other.

Kingston drew nine of 16 penalties assessed, including a second - period misconduct to McFarlane.

The "B's", now with a record of one tie and six defeats, are idle until Peterborough Don Byes visit Belleville on Friday. Score: Bet 76.

According to the schedule, last night's game was to be played in Kingston tonight.

Mo-Hawks Host Marlies

Double M's Seek Win!

Somebody will snap a losing streak here tonight when the Mo - Hawks entertain Joe Kain's Toronto Marlboros in an OHA Senior "A" battle at 8.30.

Marlboros started the season like a runaway horse and are still rested to be one of the circuit's top clubs.

But, like the Mo - Hawks, they have not been able to come up with a win lately and have dropped down in the 10 - team group's second division along with Belleville, Woodstock, Barrie and Orillia.

Here at home, Mo - Hawk coach Floyd Crawford has been racking his brain for a solution to the slump. The club has lost four and tied one of its last five games.

"We have played better hockey than that, by a long shot, but the only answer is to play better yet. That's what we will have to do Tuesday," Crawford said yesterday.

He has been tinkering with the idea of moving Bob McAlpine back to a defence spot and may make the move tonight, following a two - hour workout Sunday, and a shorter one last night. "Bob is plenty big enough, can skate and was really digging and belting them in the corners Sunday", was Floyd's comment.

The newest addition to the Mo-Hawk camp, Hec Lalonde, worked out last night and the veteran centreman looked impressive. However, he will not be available for play tonight since his transfer from New Jersey is not expected until later in the week.

Crawford expects to have a full quota of players in good condition for tonight and one opinion last night was "We'll start a win streak tomorrow that will at least match the losing one."

It sounds like a great idea.

Minor Hockey

Early - season results indicate a close, competitive league in the Belleville Minor Hockey Association's juvenile division this winter.

In last night's doubleheader, Tigers nipped Melrose by a 4-3 score - while Aces and Ontario School for the Deaf battled to a 3-3 deadlock.

Curtin's goal was the winner for the Tigers after T. Ford triggered a pair and Deveau one. A. Ray drew the only two assists. B. Beecher, G. Hopkins and R. Preston fired the Melrose markers. K. Abrams and McLaughlan had assists.

The winners took six of 10 minor penalties.

R. Lang was the game's only two - point man in the tie contest as he scored one goal and assisted on another for O.S.D. N. Frappier and L. Sicoli were the club's other goal-getters. C. Crossen, J. Dafoe and M. Acquafreddo blinked the light for the Aces. M. Myers and J. Hill had single assists.

O.S.D. drew seven of nine minor penalties.

Association for Retarded Holds Annual Banquet

NAPANEE — Speaking at the third annual banquet of the Lennox and Addington Association for the Mentally Retarded in Morven last Wednesday evening, Rev. Ernest Phipps gave a human picture of the work he does as its chaplain. The picture was not one of gloom, but of hope, and of happiness at being able to form close contacts with his charges. He spoke of his satisfaction at having interested members of churches of various denominations in the district, with such good effect that many of these children and young people are now attending churches of their own faith each Sunday, with transportation arranged by church members.

Mr. Phipps was introduced by Garnet Brooks, master of ceremonies, who first led a sing song following the banquet. Andrew Michalski of the Enterprise area thanked the speaker.

At the close of the address, Mr. Brooks introduced members of the executive, and Harold Todd of Newburgh, president, spoke of the assistance being given also by many not on the executive. He mentioned, particularly, Mrs. Betty Stewart of the Enterprise area, who is the contact between the Association and the roughly 40 children of this county who are pupils of the school in Smiths Falls. Each receives a card on his birthday and on special occasions, and a gift at Christmas from the Association.

Rev. Father Agnew of Centreville also spoke briefly, voicing public appreciation of the work of the Association.

Mrs. Patricia Senn, the secretary, thanked the women of St. Thomas' Anglican Church for the turkey banquet they had prepared, and the groups, present and the Association with a cheque to further its work. Mrs. Fritz Jullunsen asked Mr. Phipps to accept from the Association a cheque for $40 toward building the indoor swimming pool at the Mountain Memorial School, which will be so useful for therapy

Red Cross Entertains Senior Citizens at Tea

DESERONTO — A tea given for senior citizens last Wednesday in the Deseronto Legion Hall was a big story here. This town, the effort of a small group of people who gained the support of all the people.

The local branch of the Red Cross Society has only a handful of active workers, 12 at most, and yet 150 invitations were sent out for the tea, not only to the senior citizens, but also to any of their kin who have lived in the town, as well as to former Red Cross members. Over half the invitations were accepted, and those who were not there were kept at home by the infirmities of old age.

All had a wonderful time getting re-acquainted some of them after years of separation. The whole afternoon was planned to make them as comfortable as possible, and there was a total absence of formality. Long tables were gay with arrangements of autumn leaves, bittersweet and ornamental pepper.

No program was planned, to give the guests the full time for visiting. A table of antiques was the centre of much interest. The newspapers and the pictures went back to the days when Deseronto was in its heyday, the days when the Rathbun Company was the sole employer. There had to go fair afield to find employees. Many were brought from Quebec.

To add to the atmosphere of other days, there was old time piano music in the background, with Mrs. L. E. Tunnicliffe playing old time favorites. Mrs. Floyd Hodges played a selection of old hymns.

Mrs. Stafford Claus, Sr., president of the branch, and Mrs. Donald Dawson, welcomed the guests, and tea was served as Mrs. Fred Hall and Mrs. Gerald Lott presented the numerous prizes which had been donated. Mrs. Christy Young and Mr. Lural Clement won the prizes for the woman and man who had come farthest. They reside at Hastings Manor in Belleville, and had been brought by the matron, Mrs. Kenneth Yorke.

The oldest man present was Mr. Chas H. Laifman and Mrs. Calvin Emmons was the oldest woman. Both received prizes. Those who had birthdays due to the event were Mrs. Albert Merritt and Mr. Arthur Brim. Mrs. William Lott and Mr. Laifman were awarded for having the most buttons. Mrs. Harry Oliver happened to be seated in the lucky chair and Mr. Ron Brickwood had the lucky key. Mrs. Frank Gannon and Mrs. Ethel Vandewater were awarded a prize for having brought in a "little red schoolhouse". Mr. Percy Stover was a prize winner for being a Deseronto resident longer than anyone else present. To Rev. William Heodry went a prize for being the youngest clergyman present. To each senior citizen present also went a medical identification card, and to the 30 oldest a centennial pin.

The medical identification cards for the wallet and larger cards to be placed by the telephone in the Identifier-Medication are the latest aids made available to senior citizens by the Canada Red Cross Society.

Absent because of illness were Deseronto's oldest citizen, Mrs. Amey Gilbert, and Mr. Michael Ryan, who, as branch chairman of committee services for Senior Citizens, was chiefly responsible for the planning.

Government Criticized

CBC Directors Reject Judy's 'Rotten Management' Charge

OTTAWA (CP)—The CBC board of directors flatly rejected Monday Judy LaMarsh's "rotten management" charge against the corporation, calling it unsubstantiated and offensive.

Although branding her statement as the sort of provocation that may have reserved the response of a mass resignation," they said they will remain on the job until new broadcasting legislation comes into effect.

They also criticized the government for remaining silent on the charges by Miss LaMarsh, the state secretary who reports to Parliament on the CBC.

The tough statement was read in French and English to reporters by J. Alphonse Ouimet, president of the publicly-owned corporation.

The statement, drafted during a day-long special Sunday meeting of the board, said the directors "reject categorically" the charge of mismanagement "and related unsubstantiated statements. . . ."

"They come as a regretable lapse, for example, from the minister through whom the CBC reports to Parliament. General attacks of this nature on public officials of Crown corporations are foreign to the Canadian political tradition."

The statement said her remarks had "profoundly distressed" the directors.

"When to her charges against management and the directors there has been added the silence of the government itself on the propriety of her statements, the directors as the public trustees for the corporation feel it essential to speak out."

The directors' statement was round No. 4 in the battle that erupted when Miss LaMarsh spoke of rotten management in many areas of the CBC on the Pierre Berton TV program Nov. 5.

She was grilled on her comments in the Commons during the next two days and Mr. Ouimet sent her a letter Nov. 3 asking that she turn over the information on which she based the charges.

Miss LaMarsh wrote him a letter the same day. She said she had not made "any wholesale charge of mismanagement" against CBC employees in general and was not implying there was anything crooked or improper in its operations.

She rejected the implication that she should have to answer to Mr. Ouimet or the corporation.

The head-on clash sparked speculation that either Miss LaMarsh or Mr. Ouimet might walk off their jobs.

However, Mr. Ouimet submitted his resignation more than a year ago to CBC head, agreeing to stay on until new legislation overhauling broadcasting regulation was brought in. Such a bill now is before the House.

Miss LaMarsh has spoken about leaving the cabinet and not contesting the next election.

Answering questions in the Commons, Miss LaMarsh said her statement about poor management in many areas of the CBC is common knowledge. This had been pointed out by a committee study of broadcasting under R. M. Fowler, a royal commission study of government operations and the standing Commons committee on broadcasting.

She also described Mr. Ouimet's letter as "arrogant."

Miss LaMarsh was away from Ottawa during the weekend and returned after Mr. Ouimet issued the latest statement.

A source in her office said she was informed of the statement but had no immediate comment.

The CBC statement as it was signed by Mr. Ouimet and directors J. M. R. Beveridge, Maxwell Cohen, Andrew F. Hyndman, D. M. MacAulay, E. B. Osler, Stephanie Potaki, J. G. Prentice and Leonard Rousel.

Glue Sniffing Can Do Much Damage

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: I have seen teen-agers sniffing glue and would like to know:

1 — Is glue sniffing habit-forming?

2 — What harm does it inflict upon the brain?

3 — Can it cause death?

4 — Why is there no law to convict glue-sniffers?

5 — How long does it take to inflict harm on the human body? — M. B.

I can't find hard-and-fast answers to all your questions but here are some:

1 — Glue sniffing doesn't appear to cause addiction the way narcotics do, but it seems to cause a strong habit in some users—they need larger and larger amounts to get their "kicks," and some then turn to more dangerous drugs, including heroin. The glue seems to lead to a psychological dependence rather than physiological addiction.

2 — I don't know of any determination of the amount of brain damage but we know that heavy use can cause hallucinations, stupor, or wild actions. There have been stabbings, and such crimes by young people under the influence of glue fumes. One boy, thinking he could fly, plunged off a roof top. Another lay down on a railroad track with a train approaching. It certainly goofs up their thinking.

3 — There have been cases of death from glue sniffing, usually when heavy users sniffed it by the dangerous method of pouring the stuff in a plastic bag and breathing from the bag.

4 Many glue-sniffers have wound up in juvenile court, and some have been put in hospitals to try to straighten them out. I would think it would be most difficult to write and enforce laws against glue - sniffing. For one thing, many products contain hydro - carbon solvents giving off the dangerous fumes, not only the "Airplane-type" glues. Enforcing the law would be harder than enforcing prohibition. The better course, it seems to me, is to try to teach young people how much they harm themselves by indulging the habit.

5 — As with virtually anything else except potent poisons, there is no way to specify the length of time before the body is harmed. In a sense, the potential harm doubles begins with the first sniffing.

What we do know is that after repeated sniffing damage appears in the liver as well as in the blood. Treatment can help but cannot alsseverity for years. How many together repair the damage once it has occurred.

As with any other form of drama w to the body, some individ sis suffer harm sooner than v ners.

In s ry event, the fumes from these products are known to be so dangerous that they carry warnings on the labels, telling people to use them only in well-ventilated areas. This is to protect the health of people who are using the glue or other products for legitimate purposes.

Yet foolish youngsters do the exact opposite and suck the perilous fumes into their lungs deliberately. Result: Accidents; crimes; sometimes death; sometimes "graduation" to more vicious drugs; often liver or other damage which may not reveal its true cause of cirrhosis of the liver, years hence, will have been started by glue-sniffing? We don't know, but it is likely to be nasty, nasty thousands.

Glue sniffers are mixed-up persons who need psychological help.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can thick lips be corrected by plastic surgery? — H. H.

Yes, it is being done if really necessary.

Note to Mrs. W. I. C.: Neither arteriosclerosis nor high blood pressure would have had any relation to your husband's lung cancer. It was an independent affliction.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Couple of Real Professionals Delight in Variety Hour

NEW YORK (AP) — The combination of a couple of real pros, Frank Sinatra and Ella Fitzgerald, singing everything from The Lady is a Tramp, to Ode to Billy Joe resulted Monday night in a mighty fine hour of musical entertainment.

Sinatra, it appeared, was in high good humor and in excellent voice. He even took on Old Man River as a solo. Miss Fitzgerald, who sometimes seems a bit uncomfortable before the cameras, was at ease and relaxed and, vocally, match for the star of the NBC special.

The program suffered, as so many of them do, in those awkward moments when the singers are between songs or climbing on stools and finding it necessary to exchange a little banter. The conversation is usually pretty stiff and silly. Sinatra would do well to take some lessons from his clansman, Dean Martin, who really handles it nicely.

ABC has decided, after all, to drop its new western series, Hondo, after the Dec. 29 show. It will be replaced the following Friday with a new series, ABC's Operation . . . Entertainment.

Shirley's Election Today

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP)—The political debut of Shirley Temple Black hangs in the balance today as San Mateo County, a flourishing suburb south of San Francisco, votes on whether to send the child film star or one of her nine male rivals to Congress.

The 39-year-old mother of three teen-age children wound up her decidedly-tinged bid in verbal slugging match with the fellow Republican rated her strongest challenger.

Paul McCloskey, 40, a lawyer and a marine in the Korean War, charged her before the fair campaign practices committee in Washington, D.C., with impugning his patriotism by falsifying his views on how to end the Vietnam war.

Mrs. Black promptly sent a telegram to the committee with the counter-charge that it was being used by McCloskey for campaign purposes.

A forecast of morning rain threatened to cut deeper into a prediction that only 60 per cent of the more than 223,000 eligible voters would turn out for the special election in 375 districts.

A runoff election is scheduled Dec. 12 between the two Republican and top Democrat in today's balloting unless one of the four Republicans and six Democrats in the race polls more than 30 per cent—an unlikely prospect.

The county registration is predominantly Democratic.

The Republican nomination was set by Governor Ronald Reagan to fill the seat vacated by the death of Representative J. Arthur Younger, a Republican.

Mrs. Black, who wants the Vietnam war pressed to a military conclusion on decisions left to the joint chiefs of staff, and McCloskey, who favors a negotiated peace and a withdrawal within the next two years, were rated strong as Republicans.

On the Democratic side, it appeared to be narrowed to a race between Edward M. Keating, 61, the author-lawyer who founded Ramparts magazine, and Roy A. Archibald, 47, a councilman for the county's largest city, San Mateo.

The flareup at campaign's end between McCloskey and Mrs. Black was over his position on what to do about South Vietnamese civilians "aboard we permit South Vietnam to fight its own war."

In a television interview Nov. 5, McCloskey said "we must offer to those people who would be executed upon our withdrawal . . . the opportunity of sanctuary and refuge to come out with us."

A Nov. 8 letter by five of Mrs. Black's advisers to 83,000 voters called attention to McCloskey's statement. McCloskey said the letter failed to mention his sanctuary or refuge" stand, thus impugning his loyalty and patriotism as an American citizen.

The other two Republicans in the race are Earl Whitmore, 49, sheriff of San Mateo County since 1950, and William H. Draper, III, 39, head of a small investment company.

The other Democrats are Daniel J. Monaco, 41, a San Mateo lawyer; Bryant McDonald, 55, a Daly City realestate man; Andrew Baldrica, 49, a teacher in Redwood City; and Patrick F. X. McGucken, an Emmitsburg, Md., lawyer who came out long enough to establish residence, filed as a self-proclaimed "stand-in for President Johnson" and left without campaigning.

The polls are open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. PST.

Neighbors Defend Mrs. Timbrell

PRESTON, Ont. (CP) — Neighbors defended the actions of Mrs. Arthur Timbrell Monday as testimony concluded in an inquiry ordered by Premier John Robarts after two foster children were taken from her in a Sept. 28 incident.

Judge Harry Walsberg adjourned the inquiry to Nov. 27 in Toronto to hear final agreement and submissions by lawyers before drafting his report.

A wild scuffle began outside the Timbrell home when Mrs. Timbrell was arrested after refusing to return the two sisters, Peggy, 5, and Valerie, 3, to the Waterloo County Children's Aid Society.

She claimed the CAS planned to separate them.

In other testimony Monday, Dr. J. J. Hartford, a Waterloo, Ont., psychiatrist, testified that Ruth Conley, a Waterloo CAS psychiatrist case worker, had the ability and training to describe psychopathic behavior.

Earlier, in a CAS report made public at the inquiry, Mrs. Conley described the behavior of Mrs. Timbrell as psychopathic and said the mother of nine had an unhealthy possessiveness toward children.

However, Dr. George Scott, of Kingston, chief psychiatrist for federal prisons in Ontario, examined Mrs. Timbrell during her incarceration and said she showed no psychopathic behavior and was mentally fit.

Clarence Buchanan, a Timbrell neighbor, said he believed the situation would not have led to the removal of Sept. 28 if there had been "a meeting of the minds" in August between the CAS and Mrs. Timbrell.

William Patullo, another neighbor, said he agreed with Mrs. Timbrell's refusal to return the sisters but did not encourage her to defy the CAS.

Shortly before testimonies, George Lochead, CAS lawyer, said Mrs. Conley had undergone psychiatric examination herself. The first time was part of a course of training as a psychiatric case worker and the second time she was seeking psychiatric therapy in an effort to resolve marital problems.

Dr. Hartford, chief psychiatrist at Kitchener - Waterloo General Hospital and consulting psychiatrist to the Ontario Reformatory at Guelph, said Mrs. Conley had been employed by him for a year to assist in group therapy sessions.

He described her as a well-trained psychiatric social worker and said he recommended her to the Waterloo CAS.

Thomas O'Neill, Mrs. Timbrell's lawyer, asked Dr. Hartford if "in view of her background of marital difficulties the CAS made a wise decision to assign Mrs. Conley to the explosive Timbrell case."

Dr. Hartford said he did not believe it was an unwise decision.

U.S. Private Sent to Jail For Refusing Viet Duty

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A general court martial has sentenced army Pfc. Ronald Lockman to 30 months at hard labor for refusing orders to go to Vietnam.

The court convicted and sentenced Lockman Monday after a trial punctuated by clashes between military police and antiwar demonstrators at the Presidio, U.S. 6th Army headquarters.

Seven demonstrators were arrested outside the courtroom. MPs carried six others from the court.

"I would do it again," said Lockman, 23, a Philadelphia Negro, after hearing the sentence. "My father had doubts about this, but I know for a fact that I was right."

The court officers deliberated only 11 minutes before convicting Lockman on two counts of refusing to obey lawful orders.

They pondered 20 minutes longer in deciding the 30-months sentence with dishonorable discharge. The maximum term is five years.

Stanley Faulkner, one of Lockman's lawyers, said a direct appeal will be made to the U.S. Supreme Court.

He said a habeas corpus action in the high court will probably test the court martial's banning of any challenge of the constitutionality of the Vietnam war.

From the time of his Sept. 15 arrest for refusing to fly to Vietnam, Lockman has said he believes the war to be illegal.

Mrs. Vivian Williams, Lockman's mother, collapsed in the courtroom after hearing the prison sentence for her son.

Mrs. Williams and Lynette Polk, 20, of Philadelphia, Lockman's girlfriend, sat by him with tear-filled eyes at a news conference after the trial.

As formal charges were handed to the court officers, one spectator shouted: "This trial is illegal and unconstitutional."

MPs carried the man, who identified himself as Richard Charipar, 42, of Los Angeles, from the room.

Five other spectators were carried from the courtroom.

Myer Rush Indicted

Jury Returns True Bill

TORONTO (CP) — While stock promoter Myer Rush, critically injured in a bomb blast, battled for his life, an Ontario Supreme Court grand jury Monday returned a true bill against him and also other men accused of a $200,000,000 stock conspiracy.

The indictment charges Rush with possessing $5,661 in cheques, knowing they had been obtained by fraud.

Toronto lawyer Joseph Williams, 56, and Robert Colacci, 48, are also charged on counts of conspiring to defraud the public of $200,000,000 in shares of Darien Exploration Co. SA, and British Overseas Mutuel Fund which leased the mines searched to them by the accused.

Earlier, doctors told police little credence could be given to Rush's attempts to identify the persons responsible for a bomb blast in his Sutton Place apartment last Friday.

The stocky 44-year-old businessman remains in critical condition and is conscious only intermittently. He had earlier signified recognition of several persons by nodding and blinking his eyes when police showed him photographs.

A drawing board and marking pencil have been placed beside Rush's bed in hospital in hopes he will find enough strength to scrawl the name of the person or persons who tried to kill him.

Meanwhile the hospital issued an official report on his condition which varied considerably from earlier reports.

It said Rush's progress is uncertain. His most critical injuries were said to be skin on his chest and within his lungs from the bomb, which had been placed under his mattress.

"He has no fractured ribs, but the impressions of fractures may have been created by the burns," the hospital statement said.

"There is no damage in the chest wall. Mr. Rush is only intermittently conscious and would not be lucid to questioning or able to talk."

Teachers Just Hired Brains

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I have read many thousands of words on the subject lately, and I still can't understand why some people think it is "wrong" for teachers to go on strike.

Teachers are not really a professional class, although they and we often like to pretend so. They are simply hired brains, laborers of the mind, and are treated on the average than a bricklayer or carpenter in our society.

This ought not matter so much if they had true status, as they do in Europe. But in America, for the most, a teacher is regarded as a kind of upper servant, as a stopout from "real life," as someone who has relinquished the possibility of success and settled for tenure.

Moreover, if teaching were truly regarded as a profession, the better teachers would be able to get higher pay and perquisites. But a teacher's salary bears no intrinsic relation to his personal merit, only to the degrees he has dutifully accumulated and the years of experience he has had — even if the degrees are meaningless, and the experience has taught him nothing but assiduous timidity.

If we really cared to turn teachers into a professional class in the U.S., our school of education would not be nearly at the bottom of the rank in academic standing, and the profession would begin to recruit some of the best brains entering college, not most of the mediocre.

And the only way to attract these brains is higher pay, plus a real respect for our educational needs. Higher salary alone will not do it; many sisters teaching for the money in it, which is why teachers have to be pretty disgruntled and desperate before they go on strike.

But we have little respect for our educational needs. We want our children to slide through school and enter a "good" college — not to be educated, but to get a degree, which is merely a work-permit for the higher type of occupation. The diploma itself is important, not what it should stand for — and we would much rather have a bad teacher pass Johnny than a good teacher flunk him.

When we know what a teacher ought to be, when we understand what a sound education consists of, when we are willing to pay the price for works of the mind rather than kryptonians and fiddlesticks, then teachers will get the tools, and the attitudes, and the rewards required to educate young people properly. And, then, a teacher who goes on strike will be an absurdity, rather than a reproach.

City Auto Movement Collapses in Storm

Frayed Tempers Match Snarls

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Bellevillians buttoned up for the blitzes of one more winter today — after the season's first storm left motorists as snarly as city traffic.

The city's vexing rush-hour problems last night piled up along with the snow at busy intersections, plugging the downtown area with traffic for over an hour as the storm blew itself out — in the windshields of motorists wearily wending homewards.

There was irony as bitter as the weather itself in the situation.

The traffic became its own worst obstacle to solution as it slowed and backed up along the main city routes.

A city works official said today sanding trucks had difficulty driving through the traffic to the zones worst hit by the heavy fallout.

The four - inch snowfall that caused it all, also ambushed city clearance crews, geared by earlier forecasts to half that volume of fallout.

However, this brought little solace to fretting motorists lined up along the rush-hour routes.

One man claimed it took him 40 minutes to cross the city — from Palmer Road to the north end of William Street.

An out-of-town motorist complained Belleville had among the worst traffic problems in the province.

Another claimed there was a lack of police direction at main city intersections.

However, Police Inspector Ralph Blatchford said officers were on downtown point duty as usual — at the Bridge-Front, Pinnacle streets crossings and Front and Campbell Street.

Officers were kept on the run investigating a rash of minor accidents, said the inspector, who left his car to personally unsnarl a tie-up on the Victoria Avenue hill at Pinnacle Street.

The spot was one of several that public works officials claimed sanding crews had difficulty in reaching because of stalled traffic.

"We also had a lot of problems on Bridge Street hill and lower Bridge Street," said the works official.

He said plans for street control had been projected on a two-inch snowfall forecast earli-

TRAFFIC

This was the kind of traffic scene calmly observed that had motorists loosing their cool last night in Belleville:

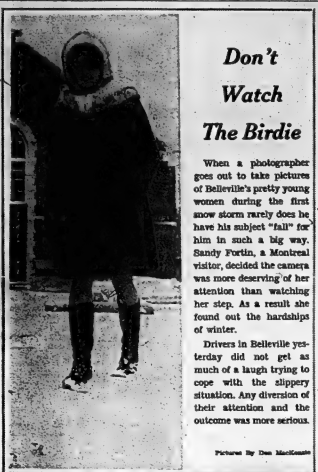
Time — 5 p.m.

- Traffic backed down Pinnacle Street in a single lane — in both directions along Dundas Street;
- All lanes plugged at Four Corners intersection; vehicles in solid bloc from Coleman Street to top of Bridge West Hill and east to Pinnacle as cars spinning on bridge ramp.

Time — 5.30 p.m.

- Traffic backed along West Bridge to fairgrounds;
- Coleman Street solid line-up of cars from Bridge Street to Upper Bridge;
- West Moira Street down to Upper Bridge also with traffic line-up — possible impediment to engines at nearby fire hall;
- Pinnacle and Station Street intersection plugged;
- Church Street traffic slowed by cars unable to make steep hill.

No Hope for Home



Stunned by sudden loss of home, Mrs. Margaret Blakely, mother of eight, weeps quietly as firemen scramble in losing battle to save burning Foxboro home. (For story and pictures see Page 3.)

Don't Watch The Birdie

When a photographer goes out to take pictures of Belleville's pretty young women during the first snow storm rarely does he have his subject "fall" for him in such a big way. Sandy Fortin, a Montreal visitor, decided the camera was more deserving of her attention than watching her step. As a result she found out the hardships of winter.

Drivers in Belleville yesterday did not get as much of a laugh trying to cope with the slippery situation. Any diversion of their attention and the outcome was more serious.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Bitterly cold north winds dropped temperatures sharply across Ontario during the night. Skies will clear gradually today as winds diminish and a large high pressure area approaches the Great Lakes. Afternoon temperatures are not expected to climb above the freezing mark in the south and will only make it to 28 degrees in the north. Rusk Chides Critics

NEW YORK (AP) — Screaming anti-war pickets clashed with police in a sporadic running street battle Tuesday night as they protested a speech-making appearance by State Secretary Dean Rusk.

Police counted at least 46 persons arrested. They estimated the number of demonstrators at 3,000. Five policemen, and an undetermined number of civilians were injured.

The violence broke out in front of the New York Hilton Hotel where Rusk was addressing a dinner meeting of the Foreign Policy Association.

Running along sidewalks and into streets, the mostly young, long-haired demonstrators hurled plastic bags of red liquid at police and passing cars.

Renewing his offer in the North Vietnamese government to "negotiate today without condition," Rusk said "if a representative of Hanoi would make himself available anywhere to discuss peace, I would be there."

He chided opponents of the war who, he said, "would brush aside a security treaty as a scrap of paper," urging his listeners to "reflect soberly on the dangers which would arise if it should be discovered that our security treaties do not mean what they say."

Departing from his prepared text he took note of the demonstrators and challenged "those scrap of paper," urging his listeners to "reflect soberly on the dangers which would arise if it should be discovered that our security treaties do not mean what they say."

Canadian Woman of Achievement Is Tweed's Reeve, Barbara Allen

TRENTON — Another plaudit has been accorded Mrs. Barbara Allen, Conservative Reeve of Tweed's all-woman municipal council.

A spokesman for the 1,500 member Women's Canadian Club in London, Ontario, announced that Mrs. Allen will be one of five Ontario ladies to be awarded Canadian Woman of Achievement Awards.

Senator Josie Quart, one of the recipients, will also present the other awards Jan. 15 in London.

The London club is making the awards for the first time to rather in Canada's second hundred years," the spokesman said.

The five-member Tweed Council, including Reeve Allen, is believed to be unprecedented. The council took on its unique status following the resignation of a male, who had been elected last year.

Mrs. Allen says her council has been the subject of countless newspaper and magazine articles and several television interviews.

Besides Senator Quart and Reeve Allen, other awards will be presented in London to Mrs. Douglas Blair of Ottawa who has served as hostess at Rideau Hall for visiting V.I.P.s during Centennial Year; Doris McCarthy of Toronto, the first woman president of the Ontario Society of Artists; and Mrs. Oliver Smith of the Six Nations Indian Reserve, near Brantford, who presented samples of her hand-made pottery to Queen Elizabeth last June.

Public School In Tyendinaga To Be Opened

Consolidation is the answer and tonight the new Tyendinaga Public School opens officially with a ribbon cutting ceremony.

The school is located seven miles east of Belleville at the intersection of Hastings County Road 7 and Highway 401 and it is replacing 19 one-room schools. Clarke T. Rollins, M.L.A. for Hastings will assist in the ceremony and the reeve of the township, Delbert Harver and the councillors are expected to be present.

A special invitation has been issued to all parents and friends of the township area schools as well as the public to attend the opening of the 11 room, $250,000 structure.

School officials for the local board as well as representatives from the Ontario Department of Education will also attend.

'Past Presidents' Day Enjoyed by Kiwanians

Good spirits, plenty of humor and food remembrances characterized the meeting of the Belleville Kiwanis Club yesterday afternoon. It was "Past Presidents Day", a celebration of Kiwanis history and accomplishment.

Many past members returned to the Kiwanis Centre on Dundas Street to participate in the weekly meal and fun.

Past presidents of the organization beginning with its first, Jack Meldrum, back in 1927 reminisced of the accomplishments of the club.

An active member of the club, Lawrence Kells reminded the group of the "let's match" project and its attempt to get a motorized fire engine for the city on the eve of present R.C.M.P. Musical Ride.

Kells also reminded the group of the "Kiwanis Song" and the song leader Bill Fairman in 1951, Ralph Graham in 1963, O F. Bradley in 1965, Lawrence Kells in 1954 and the present president John Trafford

Constable John Graham says "it is surprising how many children are riding their bicycles since yesterday's heavy snowfall."

"We're not only concerned with the fact they may fall because of slippery street conditions—it's where they fail that worries us."

Less concern was expressed for the older operators of motorbikes although the police spokesman warned that they should exercise extreme caution.

"The best place for a bicycle at this time of year is in someone's garage," said Constable Graham.

Bicycle Riders Warned

TRENTON—The local police department has launched an unofficial safety campaign directed at drivers of two-wheeled vehicles.

How sweet their memory still,
But death has cut a sunder
The loved ones are missed.
Sadly missed and remembered by Son and Doris, Danny, Harry, Andy, Mary-Ruth and Murray.

MUIR — In loving memory of a mother and grandmother, Mary Ann Muir, who passed away Nov. 13, 1962.
Peacefully sleeping, resting at rest,
God took her home, it was for the best.
In silence she suffered, in patience she bore,
But God called her home to suffer no more.
Always remembered by Son-in-law Theodore Hall.

MUIR — In loving memory of my dear mother, Mary Ann Muir, who passed away Nov. 13, 1962.
I have lost my main companion,
A life friend with my own,
And I miss her more each day,
As I sadly ponder this alone.

Till the end of time dear mother,
We'll love and remember you here.

MUIR — In loving memory of my grandmother Mary Ann who passed away Nov. 13, 1962.
And gently took her spirit home,
Her children are taking their turn,
I got more than my share,
Although its took the best.
One year ago today,
She left us to dwell the years He in her rest.
—Always remembered by granddaughter Linda and family.

NOLAN — In loving memory of a dear husband Ray F. Nolan, who passed away November 13, 1965.
It is sad to walk the road alone,
Sad to think you're gone,
But to all there comes a season,
Why should we mourn or complain,
You gave us years of happiness,
Then came sorrow and tears,
From Heaven send memories,
I will treasure through the years,
Remembrance is the only gift I can give,
But that I think of you.
Dearest Dad, you were very good,
But some replaces you,
Many a kind deed he had,
When I am alone,
He can I know no very much, the Memories are my treasure.
—Always remembered, and sadly missed until we meet again by his wife, Dorothy.

Off Job Act Can Justify Man's Firing Says Judge

Judge J. C. Anderson has ruled an employee's conduct away from his work could justify his dismissal.

The Belleville judge, one of Canada's leading labor arbitrators, says a worker could be discharged if his actions away from his place of employment reflect on the company or hinder the firm's direction of its work force.

Judge Anderson handed down the ruling after upholding dismissal of an employee of Millhaven Fibres Ltd., in Kingston.

The man was fired for damage to the houses of two fellow employees who had crossed a picket line during a three-month strike.

The incidents occurred a month after the strike was settled. The man made restitution and joined Alcoholics Anonymous. Judge Anderson recommended the company offer him re-employment.

Judge Anderson said it would be an intolerable situation if the company could not discipline an employee who threatens and wilfully damages the property of another worker.

"The man's action," he said, "was in effect a criminal act toward a fellow employee."

The judge said a company is entitled to expect its employees not to carry on the raw feelings of a strike once the dispute has been settled.

Dirt Makes It Clean

Short-cut problem used by school children at north end of Wright Avenue has been cleaned up — with loads of dirt. City filled in mud-soaked area after Sidney township gave go-ahead Tuesday — since land is outside city limits. Mayor Jack Ellis (right) called out city workers to finish project as weather worsened yesterday.

Urges Christian Service

Whatever task you pick, do it thoroughly and do it well," suggested Robert Porter, Executive Director of United Community Services. Speaking to the combined Catholic Women's Leagues of Belleville's three Roman Catholic parishes Mr. Porter urged individuals and organizations to commit themselves to Christian service.

"The useful and productive volunteers who make the most meaningful contributions, are those who agree to and do indeed carry out a necessary job."

"The singular role of the voluntary organization today when government programs have reached an all - time high, resides in voluntarism itself."

Mr. Porter explained that voluntary organizations can act speedily when haste was appropriate. They could meet the needs that were first or recognized locally, but not necessarily provincially or nationally.

"Municipal governments are being increasingly restricted in their powers by provincial legislation but local control continues to be the essential ingredient of voluntary service."

Mr. Porter reminded the group that it was the commitment to the ideal or of the task that made the experience a meaningful one to the volunteer.

He outlined some of 'the needs in Belleville today, a "furniture exchange", services to the aging, and family day care services.

Tweed Welfare Cases To Be Investigated

TWEED — At the recent meeting of the Village Council of Tweed, Councillor Jeanette Whitfield tabled the report received from the Public Utilities Commission dealing with arrears in payment of water bills.

Problems associated with welfare cases is far thorough discussion. A welfare officer from Belleville will shortly spend a few days in Tweed investigating cases.

Campbell Simpson appeared before council to discuss problems associated with the financing of the Tweed Library Board. The subjects covered included the village grant to the library, the monthly rent of $150. paid to the village for space in the Municipal Building and the annual provincial grant, which is based on the Board's total expenditure during the 12 months period.

Later, Council met with Oliver Lloyde, an engineer with the Ontario Water Resources Commission. He will present plans within ten days for separate storm and sanitary sewers in the village. The plan will include setting up of a pumping station and sewage disposal system. Council hopes to complete part of the plan in 1968 and finish the entire project in 1969.

Family of Eight Homeless After House Fire in Foxboro

A fire in Foxboro this morning at the residence of Bernard Blakely destroyed everything and left his family of eight homeless.

"We were just eating breakfast, me and the kids and I started to go upstairs - the ceiling was falling with fire," stated Mrs. Blakely.

The sky over Foxboro looked as if a blizzard had hit the area from the smoke and ashes of the fire. Nobody knows yet how it started but Mrs. Blakely thought that it began upstairs in the pipes.

"I didn't even smell or hear anything and neither did the kids," she said. Only two of her seven children were with her in the house, Michael aged five and April who is only two years old. The other five children ranging in age from six to 13 were all in school.

The fire was burning extensively when the Fire Department arrived at the scene with two trucks and with only 600 gallons of water available the situation was hopeless. In only a few minutes the three hoses exhausted the water supply and an auxiliary pump had to be put down at the Moira River to get water.

The brief lapse in time allowed the fire to spread throughout the house and the heat, even at the road 100 feet away was unbearable.

Mr. Blakely was called from his job at International Hardware to his home and tried to help and console his wife when was removed with her children to a shop a few houses down.

When he first saw the home he cried "Oh! my God!" and went on to his wife. Everything in the house was lost but Mr. Blakely was lucky in one respect — he had just paid his insurance last week.

Belleville Fire Chief Ted Poste had a close call and if it hadn't been for the watchful eye of one of the firemen, he might have been seriously hurt. A hydro wire leading from the road to the house burnt through where it was connected to the home and the chief was standing directly under it.

A fireman standing behind Chief Poste yelled out just as the wire fell with a shower of sparks onto the snow and he managed to get out of the way.

The firefighters also had trouble with the wind which not only helped the fire burn more fiercely but created a problem with the smoke. Blowing from the north the wind whipped the smoke and put up a screen across the centre front of the house.

Only at intervals was the interior of the home visible.

Chief Poste said that "even if the fire had been in the city it would have been almost impossible to stop it — the house was gone when our boys arrived there." The cause of the fire is a matter of conjecture at this point but the Chief said that Mrs. Blakely saw the fire coming from the partitions — "perhaps it was in the wiring," he commented. No estimate of damage was given.

Foxboro Home Burns Out of Control

Bernard Blakely and his family of eight are homeless and virtually "belongingless" after a fire this morning burned their Foxboro home to the ground. The fire was so far advanced when the fire department arrived that there was nothing that could be done to save the home. Mrs. Blakely and two of her children were the only people in the house and they managed to get to safety.

Shirley Temple Loses In Political Debut

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — Shirley Temple Black, former child movie star attempting a political debut, was defeated Tuesday for the Republican nomination for Congress by Paul N. McCloskey, Korean war hero who advocates American disengagement from the Vietnam war.

McCloskey, 40, Navy Cross and Silver Star winner, faces Democrat Roy A. Archibald, 47, in a Dec. 12 runoff election for San Mateo County's 11th District seat, vacated through the death of J. Arthur Younger, a Republican.

Mrs. Black told her supporters: "I will be back. This was my first race and now I know how the game is played. I plan to dedicate my life and energies to public service because I think my country needs it now more than ever."

The campaign confrontation on Vietnam between McCloskey and Mrs. Black, now a housewife and mother of three, was mainly on the Vietnam issue.

She urged leaving conduct of the war to the joint chiefs of staff, "the experienced military leaders of the United States."

In a victory statement, McCloskey declared voters had endorsed his idea "that pressure for negotiations to gradually disengage U.S. forces from Vietnam."

Archibald, the Democratic nominee, also is a critic of present Vietnam policy.

County School Board Gets Mixed Reception in Hastings

Premier John Robarts' announcement yesterday that the Ontario government would abolish 1500 school boards on Jan. 1, 1969 and consolidate control of education in 100 county-sized boards of education, has met with mixed reception in the part of Quinte area municipal and educational officials. (For details of the Robarts' proposal see page 22).

Mayor J. R. Ellis said that a county board of education was what the Quinte executive committee had sought last year but ended up with only the larger high school district.

"Our intention at that time was to get both boards of education in the lower half of the county, together, so this sort of justifies what we've been doing on this over the last couple of years," he said.

Mayor Ellis said he could see the value of boards of education issuing their own tax bill and added that election of board members was another thing which had been promoted by the executive committee.

He said the announcement by Mr. Robarts sort of "fits in with the items that have been promoting — The Quinte Area — with the province now having taken a forward bringing together the most important facet of regional government — that of education."

Mayor Ellis said the premier's announcement would likely make redundant the work of the special committee appointed with Arthur Orr as head to look into all aspects of education in the Quinte area.

The ultimate aim of the local committee would have been to do just what the premier had announced, he said.

Public Schools Board chairman MacDonald Smith said the premier's announcement was "a move in the right direction."

He said that generally he felt that school boards across the province were looking for this to happen and were ready for the education minister to take the initiative.

Mr. Smith said he felt the move to larger areas of administration would run fairly smoothly. The full year would give ample time for planning.

The move to larger areas will not mean anything to the children in January 1969 but in the long range they will benefit from special classes and in an improved over-all educational program," he said.

Mr. Smith said the premier's announcement might cause him to change his mind about quitting the school board and running for city council as he had indicated last week.

"Now with so much (for the school board) to do, I may reconsider," he said. "With my experience on the school board, I wonder where I might be of the most use."

Carl Thompson, reeve of Thurlow township, who in recent months has protested strongly against larger areas of school administration, said he wasn't too happy about the premier's announcement.

However, he said he had not had a chance to read the details.

"I would want to give it more thought before I made any statement," he said.

But Stirling High School Principal J. L. Lambert, who earlier this year objected to the dissolution of the Stirling-Rawdon High School District and its being joined to the Bay of Quinte area, said today the premier's announcement "meant the end of local control and the establishment of another bureaucracy."

"I feel it has some merits — but local control will be minimal and the new board will have to have extensive clerical and administrative staffs."

Last night county council approved the dissolution of the Stirling-Rawdon High School District and the Centre Hastings District and being joined with the Bay of Quinte District at of Jan. 1, 1968.

At the same time council approved of the setting up of a single public school board in Centre Hastings.

A council educational consultative committee proposal for all of South and Centre Hastings to be joined in one school board was turned down.

Townships in the southern part of the county — Sidney, Thurlow and Tyendinaga — and Frankford village opposed the move, taking the attitude that they "wanted to be left alone."

Traffic Slowed by Storm

ler. However, the department's full complement of four sanding trucks had been busy throughout the afternoon, concentrating mainly on major traffic routes.

But the situation was compounded when the fallout increased in intensity during the late afternoon — as the evening rush hour neared.

Roads that had been salted and sanded were suddenly recovered with snow.

Outside the city, drifting along the Macdonald-Cartier Freeway and its access highways posed a threat through most of the day and night.

However, when provincial police increased their fingers this morning there was only one serious mishap on the record.

At Plainfield, a car driven by Myra Bailey, of Islington, skidded out of control on an icy stretch of Highway 37 and rolled over in the ditch.

Mrs. Bailey, who police said is a cousin of local coroner Dr. J. Russell Scott, was treated at Belleville General Hospital for cuts and bruises.

Damage to her 1964 automobile was estimated at $1,000.

Rural routes still were treacherous in spots this morning.

The department of lands and forests at Tweed reported several inches of snow in the area.

However, it was still warm compared to the record low for this time night — a three degrees above zero in 1933.

Forecast low for tonight is 10 degrees.

The weather also blew colder in Quinte's northern townships.

At Bancroft, where seven inches of snow fell yesterday, the mercury skated down to an icy four degrees while the coldest spot in the area was Pleiva, northeast of Kaladar, with two degrees above.

There's nothing magic about a label— just hocus-pocus

No matter what you've heard, a label has no effect on the wine inside the bottle. Quality has to be tasted. Labels can't be.

If you judge a wine by its taste, we invite you to test any of the fine Canadian wines listed below. If you judge a wine by its label, you won't be impressed. Brights labels are only printed paper. The magic is in the wine.

President Champagne • Canada's prize Champagne.
President Burgundy • A great dry red table wine.
President Sauterne • A delicate light white wine.
President Sherry • Ideal before lunch or dinner.
President Extra Dry • A dry white wine of quality.
President Port • A distinguished dessert wine.

Educational Stimuli

Letters on this page today draw attention to two significant needs in Belleville — continuing industrial expansion and diversification of cultural and recreational activities.

In the latter sphere the news that the permanent site of Loyalist community college is to be in the immediate Belleville area is encouraging. The courses being offered at Loyalist in its present temporary location at Centennial High School, and additional ones and other facilities that may be expected later are bound to give a boost to the city generally.

Loyalist and the other newly-established community colleges do not have the full status of universities, but Belleville nevertheless is fortunate in having such an institution of learning. Like a university it ultimately will attract to itself some of the best minds of our day to give lectures on various subjects to both students and public. Presumably the college will have an auditorium which will provide the city's facilities for the presentation of concerts, ballet, opera and the like.

Some day perhaps the college may reach the point where it can engage in research projects, with the aid of government grants.

Consider some of the benefits citizens may derive from exposure to a college or university atmosphere, and to courses and lectures offered to members of the public. The University of Michigan, for instance, recently celebrate its 150th anniversary. To mark the occasion it presented a series of lectures on such varied subjects as economics, history, psychology, politics, anthropology, theatre, opera, space research, chemistry, and many others.

We need all the educational and cultural stimuli we can find. We need to come out of our shells and learn more and communicate more, and yes smile more — both for our own sake and that of generations to come. Failure to do so is to admit that the past clings too close and that the future is not for us.

Soviet Justice

Reports of the incident by the British and Soviet authorities were conflicting, as might have been expected. The Foreign Office charged that Tkachenko was being kidnapped and it protested against the "lawless and outrageous conduct" of Soviet embassy personnel involved. The statement said the young Russian had been given an injection at the embassy after he was forced into a car later traced to the embassy. Police had intervened after receiving word he had been bundled, shouting "help me, help me," into the car.

The Soviet authorities countered by saying Tkachenko was suffering from a nervous breakdown and had been given an injection to calm him. Moreover they said he was being taken home to Russia for treatment.

The Soviet version of the incident seemed plausible enough. It asserted he would be better off receiving treatment in his own environment than in British. Tkachenko's wife, meanwhile, was said to have been offered a ticket but had refused. However, he was reported to have remained in London, though according to a Soviet source, "separated" from her husband, while a British spokesman said she was a "free agent."

It was all very mysterious in the best cloak-and-dagger fashion. What became of Tkachenko? presumably he is in good hands if he has in fact elected to remain in Britain. And the fact remains that even if the Soviet explanation of the incident were true, 50 years of the great communist experiment have done nothing to erase the trappings of the police state from Soviet society.

A young British seaman recently had first-hand information of this. Freed from a Soviet jail where he had languished since March, John Weatherly, 29, reported conditions there were "abominable." He said he saw people die, mostly from lack of food. Many were suffering from tuberculosis and malnutrition.

Weatherly said the camp contained some 250 non-Russians, including Americans, Chinese and Greeks. A fellow prisoner was Gerald Brooke, an English lecturer jailed for seven years on a charge of distributing anti-Soviet propaganda. Weatherly, who spent 15 days of his confinement in a cell 20-by-33 feet with 20 other men, said Brooke was "seriously ill."

Communism has not changed that much from Stalinist days if men convicted of political crimes in Russia are still treated like animals. Weatherly was jailed on a charge of hooliganism (a Western term for rowdism used also by the Russians) after a fight at a wedding party in Leningrad. He does not dispute the charge — but he does take issue with Soviet-style justice.

A Cultural Desert—or A City With Possibilities for Future?

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

City Council has wisely postponed any decision on a second arena for Belleville. I should like to take advantage of this lull in attempt to fill a very obvious gap in the reasoning that has hitherto been offered to the citizens.

There appears to be concern about the dearth of entertainment offered here for the personnel of prospective industries, let alone the local inhabitants. Now, are we really so short-sighted and provincial-minded that we do not understand this term entertainment? We have observed that Belleville already has one arena, and that many hockey games are held there. This is good. But surely, even in this city, hockey cannot be the final word on entertainment!

Belleville's entertainment is desperately lacking in diversity. A cynic would define this as a cultural wasteland, a desert where tired camels tread beaten paths to stagnating watering holes. But this would be unjust. Many have dismounted from their camels, and stopped in their thirst to look for new oases. Witness the response to the Toronto Symphony concert, despite the ghastly setting under the girders of a hangar. Or the attendance at the National Ballet. This is the great year of Canada's coming of age. And it is true! But in the midst of this a new culture is still a dirty word!

I am a newcomer to Belleville. I teach high school, but I do little else here. I envy the Belleillians want to know how outsiders really feel; they should listen to them. It is impossible for this place to remain a backwoods town. Let us just look around — at the number of theatres and concert halls being established in Ontario, catering to entertainment of a more refined nature, to symphonies, to drama, to ballet to foreign films.

If he pulled his head out of the sand, even the ostrich would recognize that life is more than hockey sticks and screaming crowds.

Northern Electric Omitted From Expansion Plans Here

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

The most significant aspect of new industrial commissioner Ray Brown's report of belated plant expansion and meagre increase of new jobs was the omission of Northern Electric from the list of firms expanding here.

Although owner Bell Telephone has spent millions on expanding its plants in Bramalea, London, Ottawa, Montreal, etc., the Montreal head office has drastically downgraded the Belleville plant to a holding operation.

At one time there were high hopes Northern would continue its early expansion to bring unlimited prosperity to the area.

As makers of a wide variety of specialty products requiring high engineering and technical skill, Northern offered another opportunity for promotion and advancement. Plant spirit was high. Employment was at a peak of 1,250. Most were looking forward to permanent jobs with the opportunity of bringing up their families in a fine community which enjoys unrestricted living conditions.

When the decision for plant expansion was made however, it was Bramalea and not Belleville that got the nod.

Some 300 executives, many against their wishes, were transferred to Bramalea and other Bell plants.

Most of the specialty products produced in the Belleville plant were dropped and supplanted with the production of standard telephone equipment for Bell operations. This change of production emphasized the employment of women for routine operations, rather than highly paid executives, engineers and technicians. Once the largest firm in the city, Northern's employment has dropped to 600 and its payroll has been surpassed by that of the CNR.

As No. 2, Northern's fears of being too large in the community are invalid.

It would be a great promotion for this area if the city were to make representations to the Bell head office stimulating the advantages of this city such as the availability of employees from some 150,000 population in 25-mile radius, adjacent serviced land for plant expansion and a Community College capable of training students in all the technical and executive skills required by the communications giant which has been so progressive in other communities throughout Canada.

Belleville needs Northern expansion.

Hectic Life of the Jet-Set

Oliwen Journal

Ah the rich. We follow their important social lives around the world in newspaper columns, magazines and even on television. In Bey Kelcher-hecher's column we see that Aristotle Onassis (he's quite big in ships) had a party at Maxim's in Paris and all the women were listed Lauwrels, except one, and she, poor dear, were a Dior.

The "season" is about finished in Paris now and the jet-set is frantically packing its fabulous Laurents and Diors in anticipation of the other "season" in Acapulco. In succeeding Kelcher-hecher columns we will probably read how a fabulous lady, fed up with, was pushed into someone's pool in Acapulco. God, what beauty stuff!

And yet. . .

What's the betting we don't have more fun than they do?

Getting the gang together to clean up the cottage is likely to draw many real laughs per five minutes than all the money Sally will get to have in an hour. The impromptu gathering of last rubbers in someone's basement rumpus room in the lowns these evenings, followed perhaps by a mass invasion two hours later by a terrible hamburg house, is harrah better than outgrowning the entrenched hands of flunkies who will serve cold borlach for twenty dollars. And what's a pool in Acapulco got to compare with a leafy backwater of the Rideau River, specialty if the fish aren't biting and a fellow gets a chance to do nothing? Sliding on the Gatineau Hills is as fast as you'll get in Switzerland for it is survival that determines one's choice of hills — unless he likes to reckon that counting aircraft, hotels, food, fancy equipment and tips every run costs him $24.8 cents American.

No thanks, as Kenocio might have said, we'll play it our way, Suzy.

Guitars have taken a terrible beating in the last couple of decades. They have been slashed at by millions of unscrupulously picks and forced to admit tortured, unnatural sounds; knobs and chromium screws have been appeared in wondrous profusion on their faces; and some have been subjected to a life sentence on three chords.

Choosing A Career A Haphazard Business

Montreal Gazette

The Minister of Manpower and Immigration, Hon. Jean Marchand, has raised an important point in his address at Mount Allison University. It is the puzzling fact that most people move into their careers in the most haphazard manner. The link between education and the career is singularly lazy. Many of those who do well in later life, or who marry, are equally indebted to the chance that has happened to land them in suitable or unsuitable employments.

What is so obscure, as Mr. Marchand says, is the whole problem of how young people come to make educational and occupational choices; to what extent the process is one of rational planning and decision-making, or one of drift and accident; whether the way in which young people make their choices varies from among different regions, different types of schools, and different family and economic backgrounds.

How little relation there seems to be between the student and the best job prospects is seen in a survey that shows that only a negligible proportion (less than one half of one per cent) of high school students indicate an intention of a career in the managerial field, while at the same time 15 per cent of eight-year-olds created over the past five years were managerial jobs.

"In a society in which the big organization is becoming a more prominent way of doing most things," says Mr. Marchand, "and in which management competence is greatly needed, it is striking that high school students do not seem either to be aware of this kind of career, or to regard it as a particularly interesting or worthy one."

It is true, of course, that this is a line of work into which one moves at a later stage in one's career. But Mr. Marchand points out that this was truer of the past than it will be of the future. More younger people will be needed with such managerial responsibilities than ever before.

The real trouble seems to lie in a want of communication between the world of work and the educational world that is preparing students for work. The result may be unrealistic ideas of what work opportunities there are, and unsuitable choices.

Quebec—Facts and Figures

Vancouver Sun

It was time somebody found out what the mass of French-Canadians really want from their English-speaking fellow citizens. The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's new department deserves commendation for conducting a public opinion poll in the French provinces that really reveals something.

The result is a collection of facts which should astonish the politicians and discomfit not a few of them.

The outstanding fact is that while 85 per cent of French people in Quebec want more power given their provincial government, only seven per cent of those polled favor separation.

The overwhelming attachment of French-Canadians to Confederation is shown vividly in that 77 per cent want that language retained as the official and working tongue of Quebec.

But only 21 per cent would want the "Maitres chez nous" for their province while, at the other end of the spectrum, no fewer than 70 per cent want closer ties with the rest of Canada.

A very large majority of French Canadians feel bitter about their treatment in Canada. The feeling is deepest among the better educated (ages 35) and the young (18-24). They feel there is discrimination in favor of the English persons.

This outlook can be challenged, of course. The survey shows that the element of truth in the charge often made that Quebec's past educational policies have been responsible for the sometimes inequalities under which the French have labored in Confederation.

Of the sample surveyed only 4% per cent had attended high school while 13 were primary school dropouts. Significantly, the largest single group in the separatist minority is the primary drop-outs.

In the past six or seven years much has been done in Quebec to change that situation. But Quebec is still well behind Vancouver, for example, where 75 per cent of pupils reach Grade 12.

But only a third of the more extreme portion of Quebec's French, the 18-24 age group, want special status. 9 per cent want the constitution unchanged; the over-all majority proposing education, unemployment, wages and inflation ahead of constitutional change.

It is interesting to note that 6 per cent of those polled said they spoke no English because they had had no opportunity to learn.

Those Homey Kitchens of Yesteryear

Owen Sound Sun-Times

Now a woman lecturer in home management at the University of Alberta, and a housewife, says the perfect kitchen is a family room.

Such thinking will receive wide approval, particularly from those men who can recall big, homey kitchens of their boyhoods. In former days the kitchen was really a family room, where the children played, or did their homework, while father sat in an easy chair in a corner, reading, and mother sat nearby sewing or hustled about completing the day's kitchen duties. There was a large wood burning stove, its heat pleasing in the cold of late fall and winter, the scent of burning wood adding to the homelike atmosphere. The woodbox in the corner offered a chore for one of the boys. And the family enjoyed the lack of formality which surrounded the family meals, particularly supper — which, somehow, everybody was home, something that never happens in many homes today.

The big, old fashioned kitchen was, in reality, a way of life. But it would be a tremendous burden to today's housewife with her bridge, curling, golf club engagements which, in many cases, takes up a lot more time than is spent by the family together.

That Old Double Standard

Peterborough Examiner

Whether we like it or not, the old double standard is still with us and what is acceptable behavior for a 25-year-old bywowing wild oats, it used to be called — is not regarded so leniently in the case of a girl. In some instances, girls who visit hippieland in search of adventure wind up as prostitutes. Others, like the unfortunate girl in New York's East Village, end up murder victims.

It is an unfair fact of life that women, young or old, cannot enjoy the same degree of freedom as males — but a fact, nonetheless.

Mr. Meltzer on Real Estate
"What's Your Problem"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

Neighborhoods change, but often the real estate doesn't. Sometimes, by converting these properties from their present use to another use, additional value is created.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: When someone promises something for nothing, one naturally becomes suspicious. Yet, this is exactly what a real estate broker says will happen.

A 65-year-old, five - storey building is located on a good business corner. There are three stores on the first floor, but the upper floors are all vacant. They used to be occupied by manufacturing firms.

The property can be bought for $80,000. The broker says that if I invest an additional $120,000 and convert the upper floors to apartments, the property will become worth $200,000. I don't understand how $120,000 can materialize out of thin air. Have you ever heard of a similar situation? — Mr. A.

ANSWER: One and one often make three in real estate. This may be such a case.

The property, apparently, is not at its highest and best use. Evidently the neighborhood has changed and the best use for the property is now for apartments and not for manufacturing space.

It is the change in use — that is, using the property for apartments — that explains the extra $120,000 value. The resulting extra value by this method is common in real estate.

However, I'm still suspicious. Under ordinary circumstances, one can get a $200,000 mortgage on a $300,000 property.

If the figures are correct, the broker doesn't need you. He can finance out.

Ask your bank to recommend a real estate investment analyst. I think he will probably be able to show you where the figures don't add up.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I signed a contract to build an addition to my house. In a short time, I knew I had picked the wrong builder.

The first set of plans he showed was unsatisfactory. During the next three months, he showed me four more sets. Each was worse than the other.

Realizing I had made a mistake, I sent him a registered letter, notifying him I was cancelling out. Back came a letter telling me I owed him $2,000. What for! He did no work. — Mr. E.

ANSWER: The contract, as is true of many home improvement agreements, apparently contains a so-called "escape" clause. In lay language it means that if you don't go through with the job, you must pay.

I recommend that you get an attorney immediately to examine the contract and determine your liability.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: How long is a lifetime? When my new siding was installed, I received the written guarantee for lifetime. Now, three years later, the siding is blistered and warped. Before I consent to tell me if three years is covered in a lifetime guarantee. — Mr. E. F.

ANSWER: In order to improvement field, a lifetime guarantee usually lasts for the lifetime of the guaranteeing company. It has been my experience that companies which give lifetime guarantees last about one year.

Investigating, I find that the company that issued your guarantee was somewhat shaky to say the least — it lasted for one year and four months. Incidentally, the former owner is now in the driveway business and is presently loudly issuing double lifetime guarantees.

DOSCO Future Again Subject Of Discussion

HALIFAX (CP) — Talks of the future of the Sydney steel mill were to resume here this afternoon between provincial cabinet and officials of the Dominion Steel and Coal Corp.

The discussions were resumed at day-long discussions Tuesday between the government and Tory Emmett, president of Dosco, and C. H. Drury, president of Dosco Steel Ltd.

Dosco, parent of the latter, Hawker Siddeley Canada Ltd., plan to shut down the Sydney operation in 1969.

Premier G. I. Smith said Tuesday's meeting dealt with "one of the arrangements Dosco would insist on imposing if the province takes over the operation next spring. The government would have to agree to keep the plant operating until Dec. 31, 1969, to fill Dosco's contract agreements and would have to compensate the company for its assets at Sydney.

Mr. Smith said Mr. Emmett had not confirmed a report that the Quebec government was negotiating to buy the Dosco plant at Contrecoeur, Que.

Mr. Emmett flew to Ky to Ottawa after today's meeting for a federal-provincial meeting of finance ministers.

Martin Merner, president of Local 1064 of the United Steelworkers of America, met with the premier earlier Tuesday for general discussions.

Mr. Merner later sent a telegram to Prime Minister Pearson urging him to make clear the federal government's stand participation in continuance of the steel mill.

Cape Breton members district director, James Nicholson, said in an interview here that the federal government should "remember and come in with the provinces" in bearing the cost of continued operation at the plant beyond April 30.

Premier Smith had said the federal government agreed to share costs up to April 30, but not beyond.

Mr. Justice Samuel Hughes was appointed more than two years ago to inquire into the $54,000,000 collapse in June, 1965, of Atlantic Acceptance Corp. Ltd.

He was on the bench through more than 18 months of public hearings. When the inquiry ended in May, Mr. Justice Hughes started tackling the formidable task of reducing to writing the mountain of evidence.

Working in a wood-panelled room on the second floor of the Ontario government building in Toronto, Mr. Justice Hughes spends his days — and often nights — preparing a report on the financial house of cards put together by the late C. Powell Morgan.

He expects the first draft to be ready by the summer and the final report by December next year, allowing for the printing and proof-reading of what will amount to three volumes containing about 500,000 words.

Mr. Justice Hughes says the most important task is to tell the Atlantic story. Any gaps in continuity will be because circumstances outside the control of the investigating staff.

The judge feels that the death in the early stages of the inquiry of Mr. Morgan, Atlantic's president, deprived the commission of considerable information.

But some of Mr. Morgan's thinking was learned in two bedside interviews with the commissioner before Mr. Morgan's death of leukemia late in 1965.

The judge usually sits at a long table in his quarters, surrounded by papers, bound copies of evidences and a mass of other material.

"I miss court work, but this is an absorbing task."

New information is continually coming in. Investment tax investigators are showing interest in certain aspects of evidence and a re-assessment of corporate and individual taxation is certain.

The inquiry already have resulted in prosecutions and convictions. Ontario tax officials believe the attorney-general's department will pay close attention to Mr. Justice Hughes' report.

Up to January of this year, the Atlantic inquiry had cost the taxpayers $607,644, a figure that will be increased by Attorney-General Arthur Wishart.

By the time final accounts are rendered, government officials estimate the bill for the inquiry may total $1,000,000.

Welding Students Have Best Training Shop and Instructor

Welding class students at the Canada Manpower Adult Education Centre on Wallbridge Road really have something going for them.

Not only do they have one of the best — if not the best — equipped training shop in the province, but also they have as part time instructor the former chief metallurgist at Deloro Stellite, one of Canada's foremost leaders in the development of high temperature alloys.

The former chief metallurgist at Deloro Stellite is Carl Whittemore, who as chairman of the local Canada Manpower advisory welding committee was mainly responsible for setting up the shop on Wallbridge Crescent.

Mr. Whittemore saw to it that only the best and most modern types of welding machines available went into the shop and he is currently setting up a testing laboratory that is also unique in training schools.

When completed the laboratory will provide complete testing facilities for all types of welded metals. The equipment includes a microscope capable of enlargements as high as 1500 diameters.

The shop itself has four different types of welding machines along with cutting and grinders of a type normally found only in the best production shops.

Following completion of the concentrated 10 weeks welding course, it is the hope of school officials that graduates will be able to go into any type production shop and almost immediately do production work.

"At least that is the intention of the course," says Mr. Whittemore.

A native of Canada's East Coast he is the holder of a master of science degree in metallurgy from McGill University.

Prior to and after graduation he spent six years with Canadair (Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co.) at Trail, B.C.

From there he went to Dominion Steel as metallurgist and for the past 28 years until his retirement in June was chief metallurgist for Deloro Stellite.

As chief metallurgist with Deloro, Mr. Whittemore developed plus production of high temperature alloys, making his firm the first in Canada to go into this field.

For many years he has been associated with the welding division of Canada Standards Association.

As technical director for International Coatings Mr. Whittemore expects to do considerable travelling as a trouble shooter on production problems.

He says that on short notice he could be called to production plants in the U.S. or Europe or in the American South, and although officially retired he is expected to be consulted by his former employers.

As part time instructor at the welding school Mr. Whittemore's job will be that of technical advisor and teaching the theoretical aspects of welding.

Actually the position really seems to be tailored to enable him to develop while with Dominion Steel some years ago.

It sounds like a job to write what of a challenge," he says.

Bank of West Canada Can Wind Up Affairs

WINNIPEG (CP) — The never-opened Bank of Western Canada has a green light to wind up its affairs.

The Manitoba Court of Appeal unanimously rejected Tuesday an appeal which had been blocked winding up proceedings.

Mr. Justice R. G. R. Dickson, while admitting that this was the first attempt to wind up a solvent Canadian bank, said he is of the opinion that since 71889 it has been open to a solvent Canadian bank to wind up voluntarily with court approval."

Mr. Justice Dickson said Mr. Justice Roy Matas was correct in deciding that this was Queen's Bench had the right to entertain the petition of the bank to wind up.

At the same time, he said, a stay of proceedings against winding up — authorized by Mr. Justice R. D. Guy in Court of Queen's Bench — also be set aside and the bank could proceed with winding up.

Mr. Justice Dickson assessed costs against the appellants, Canadian Finance and Investments Ltd. of Winnipeg, Toronto financier Sinclair Stevens and Toronto shareholders John Paul Charlebois, Peter Albert Charlebois and William Mollard.

Charles Huband, counsel for Mr. Stevens, said he had no instructions to carry the case further.

The appeal had been spearheaded by Mr. Stevens as president of CFI which entered the CFI arguing that only an act of Parliament could wind up a solvent bank.

In his judgment Mr. Justice Dickson said that on Dec. 14, 1966, the bank met the Winding Up Act, with the voting 62,943 in favor and 61,787 against.

MOIRA VALLEY DISTRICT COUNCIL

The annual meeting of Moira Valley District Council, Boy Scouts of Canada, was held at the "Log Cabin", Actinolite, in the form of banquet and social evening.

Rev. J. H. Thompson, president, opened the meeting and gave a toast to the Queen. There was a moment of silence in memory of the late Dr. George Mullin, who had served the movement for over forty years until ill health forced him to resign.

After dinner, Rev. Thompson introduced several of the new personnel in the leadership movement in the district.

Mrs. Gordon Russell led in a song and, with all the banquet, sang "O Canada".

In his address, Capt. Thompson referred to the Jamboree, particularly the new "Land 'O' Lakes" group. He announced his resignation, but that he would be serving in scouting in another field. He asked for a volunteer to fill his position.

John Van Volkenburg resigned as vice-president. Treasurer Ted Desormeaux resigned in office. Mrs. Bernice Young was officially installed as secretary.

Mr. Thompson introduced the newly-appointed Provincial field executive: John Pedefer who has had 22 years in Cornwall. He brought greetings from headquarters. In his remarks, he said that 1969 will be the new program for Scouts and mentioned the Provincial Jamboree to be held north of Toronto.

In closing he expressed his willingness to help whenever necessary.

District Commissioner Joe Irish spoke on the work accomplished in the past year, although two groups have ceased activities, two new ones have been organized. He presented Pat L. wood badge to Robert Jeffrey, his son-in-law.

The musical report was accepted.

Brian Jones, of Tweed, assisted by Mr. Post, showed slides of his trip to World's Jamboree in Idaho, U.S.A. In his description of each picture the group was taken on an imaginative journey with Brian and his group, travelling in Viscount plane to such places as Sault Ste. Marie, Regina, Calgary, Frank's Slide, Century Falls and many more. Through the different gateways of the Jamboree were seen activities which included 1,200 boys from Canada.

The meeting was closed.

Successful Living

Talkative Neighbour Upsets Household Routine

Dear Doris. I work part time and when I come home in the afternoon try to catch up with my house chores but just about that time my neighbor comes in, interrupting my va- ming etc. She sits down and never stops talking and I mean never stops, until I've prepared dinner and it is ready for the family to sit down to before she gets up to leave.

My husband, who detests her, has insulted her but it's all a big joke as far as she is concerned. We both have children that play together and I hate to spoil it for them. I like good neighbors but how can I solve this without having a quarrel? — Nervous Wreck

Dear Wreck: We've had this dilemma before. But I'm publishing your letter to give you a suggestion which a social worker friend of mine gave to a similarly harassed client:

"Tell her pleasantly but firmly that she has come at inconvenient time. That you are up to your ears in dishes and cooking and dinner getting. That you can't hear yourself think while she is talking.

"Let her know you are good neighbors — that you could only say these things to someone you know will understand. Then invite her for a tea time a few days later. On that day, have dinner in the oven before the bell is due to ring.

"Answer door, sit down with knitting or sewing, relax and visit."

DORIS CLARE

To Glasses Left Over: Old spectacles couldn't end up in a better place than at 14 Old Sehore Road, Indore, M.P., India. This is the address of Miss Frances Stevenson Christian Compound.

The senility there uses the frames to supply cheap reading glasses to those who cannot afford to buy them. Be sure the glasses look old or are marked as old or used.

Dear Doris: I am 13. My mother says I can keep a time well, and I would really like to have singing lessons.

Therefore this is my question: "Where can you have singing lessons (good ones) and what time and cost?" — Love to Sing

Dear Love: Lucky girl! To have an ear for music can lead you into one of the most soul-satisfying pursuits: singing, or playing some instrument.

Most large or fairly large centres have conservatories of music. If you can't locate one, ask your school or library about singing teachers. You will be tested and told when and how to begin training your voice.

HITS MIDDLE-AGED

Parkinson's disease is a common ailment that usually affects people over the age of 45.

What advice do you have for me, Ann Landers? — GYPSY.

Dear GYP: Settle for a short guy with a loud voice.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just read the letter from the mother whose retarded child died. Well-meaning but insensitive friends kept coming up to her at the funeral and saying such things as, "It's all for the best."

Not long ago I lost my husband. He was an alcoholic and his drinking drove him to an early grave. I can count on one hand the number of people who said, "I am sorry and let it go at that. Almost everyone had to let me know that my husband's death was no surprise and no loss to society — although he was an MD and did a great deal of good in the world.

The two MDs who worked with my husband didn't say a single word to comfort me. They just came over, shook their heads and walked on. I never realized how heartless and cruel people can be. But I do now. — PREMATURE WIDOW.

DEAR WIDOW: Please don't mistake insensitivity for cruelty. People often say the wrong thing when they don't know what to say. Their presence was an indication of friendship. Accept it as such and don't be bitter.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My little grandson who is eight years old has gotten into the habit of licking his lower lip about one inch below the natural lip line. This has been going on for several months now and part of his chin has become so raw that people are constantly asking what is the matter with him.

I have told the boy his chin looks dreadful and to please break himself of the habit. He says his lips always feel dry and he can't help it.

Have you ever heard of anything like this? What can be done about it? — GRAM.

DEAR GRAM: The boy has a nervous habit and you can't nag or shame a person out of a nervous habit, so stop trying.

A water-repellent ointment will help the chin to heal. Ask your physician about this type of medication.

Girl's Height Results in Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a career girl in my mid-twenties who has a college degree, good family background, solid reputation for respectability, pleasant personality, interesting (but not beautiful) face and a better than average figure. I have plenty of dates, but the problem is that every man who takes me is shorter than I am. In my stocking feet I am five feet eleven.

I have an aunt who is my height and she married a man who is five-eight. All through childhood I remember how odd my uncle and aunt looked together. I vowed that I would not spend my life bending over to hear what my husband was saying. Yet the tall guys I have dated never seem to have anything to say that is worth listening to.

CWL Groups Give Cheque For Hospital Furnishings

The Catholic Women's League presented a cheque for $1000 to Harleigh Hamilton, Chairman of the Board of Governors of Belleville General Hospital last night.

The cheque will furnish a room in the new hospital section, now under construction.

"The new wing is nearing its completion," Mr. Hamilton said upon receipt of the money. "It's almost right on schedule."

Mr. Hamilton told the league that contrary to certain rumors he had heard "in the streets", the new wing had not caused the budget to be lost.

He mentioned that soon the function of the new section to the old one would cause some complications and inconveniences.

Four of 12 Children Budding Artists

ORILLIA, Ont. (CP) — Four of the 12 children of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Shilling are artists or budding artists.

The family lives on the Rama Indian reserve near Orillia.

Paul Shilling, 14, is the most recent of the children to decide on art as a career.

A third son, William, is a commercial artist and sister Glenna, 21, is studying art in Montreal.

They embarked on their careers in the face of handicaps. Mr. Shilling, a carpenter, could not raise the dozen children and the money for art supplies too. But the children managed anyhow.

Mrs. Shilling had other ideas for a career for Paul. "I had hoped he would be a Mountie. It would have been nice to have one Mountie in the family."

But that didn't work out and now she is encouraging Paul in his art studies.

In addition to looking after her own children still living at home, Mrs. Shilling works with retarded children at the Ontario Hospital in Orillia.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "Johnny, if you go out without your boots, your feet will be wet all day and you'll catch cold."

Johnny: "I won't walk in the water."

Mother: "Wear your boots this morning. The streets are full of puddles and it looks as if we'll have more rain."

A threat gives a child the choice of obeying or taking the consequences, and is weaker than a direct command. When it's a question of health, a young child should have no choice.

SOCIALS

Sister M. Bernice of Nazareth, Michigan, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Deady, Mrs. Lorretta Nicholls and Joe Barube, Detroit, Michigan, have returned home after attending the McDermott — Whitefield wedding. They were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Daley, Read.

Many Requests Received For Homemade Pizza Recipes

By MARY MOORE

Pizza you want. Pizza you get.

I am bombarded with requests for homemade pizza, goodies and imitation. I resist because I have given you three or four hot my fashion are down for young folks have gone pizza mad and they are good fun to fix.

This variety is to be served on a hamburg bun but you could use toasted thick slices slender crusty French bread or even slices of white bread.

PIZZA BUNS
(Kitchen ½-bun pizzas)

2 tbsps. corn oil
½ cup chopped onion
One 15-oz. can tomato sauce (or 1 cup tomato paste diluted with ½ cup hot water)
¼ cup corn syrup
½ cup sliced stuffed olives, divided (or ripe olives)
3-3 cup drained sardines, chopped (or spiced sardines from Portugal or anchovies)
½ clove garlic chopped
½ tsp. oregano
½ tsp. pepper
8 hamburg buns, split crosswise and lightly toasted (or 1" slices crusty French bread or simply thick slices of white bread)
About ½ lb. sliced Mozzarella cheese cut into thin strips for topping

Heat oil in saucepan or frying pan. Add onion and sauté stirring until wilted but not brown. Add tomato sauce, corn syrup, half of the olives, sardines (or anchovies), garlic, oregano and pepper. Bring to boil, reduce heat and simmer 15 minutes stirring occasionally. It looks too wet but thickens with cooking. Spoon onto and spread over lightly toasted bun halves (or toasted thickly sliced French bread or ordinary white bread). Top attractively with cheese slices and remaining sliced olives. Arrange on broiler pan and about 3" below preheated broiler burner, broil until the cheese begins to melt — about 1½ minutes. Be sure to watch them closely. Serve at once.

Needless Bigotry and Expense

Councillor Asks NWT to Secularize Area's School System

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (CP) — The Northwest Territories council was told Tuesday it will be asked to abolish the separate school system and secularize all schools in the Territories.

Duncan Pryde, 31, of Bathurst Inlet, told the council at the second day of sessions in this new territorial capital that Roman Catholic schools had created "needless bigotry, needless trouble, needless expense and needless religious prejudice."

He said separation of schools on the basis of religion was inherently wrong.

"The religious segregation of school children is on a par with racial segregation or any other form of segregation and, as such, is to be condemned in the Northwest Territories."

Roman Catholic and non-Catholic students were separated at a school at Inuvik, he said.

"A more ridiculous and unnecessary division does not occur in the Northwest Territories, unless it is perhaps the residential school at Fort Simpson, which exists under exactly the same conditions."

Mr. Pryde joined other councillors in scoring radio broadcasting in the Territories.

"It was "a disgrace" parts of the territories could not receive radio signals from Yellowknife or Inuvik but could obtain English-language broadcasts beamed to the North from Moscow and Peking, he said.

Chief John C. Tetlichi (Charlie), 51, in his maiden speech, said that after 30 years of experience with native people he was convinced their problems "are of our making, not theirs."

Mr. Gibson, 63, a retired logging executive and a former member of the British Columbia legislature, called for an assessment of peoples in the Northwest Territories to determine the types of help needed by Indians, Eskimos and Whites.

Council followed the address with legislation and gave first and second readings to seven bills covering juvenile delinquents, labor standards, a Companies Ordinance bill that would affect about 400 companies operating in the Territories and a highway traffic and licensing bill.

Council was to give second reading today to bills requesting authorization to borrow $5,000,000 from the federal government for relocation of the capital at Yellowknife, a social assistance ordinance, and an operating expenditures bill.

Miss Betty McAdam, a November bride, was entertained at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Sharpe Wednesday night with Miss Jean Sharpe, Miss Janet Johnston, Miss Susan Richardson and Miss Judy McAdam as hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bicknell, Petrolia, spent some time recently with her brother, Frank Hutchinson, and Mrs. Hutchinson.

Tyendinega Township Honors Older Citizens

Senior Citizens of Tyendinaga were honored by their township last Saturday at a mid-day banquet in the hall at Melrose. Master of ceremonies Charles Bates, the centennial committee chairman, welcomed some 155 members in what was the final large event of the township's extensive centennial year program. Mrs. Bates read to them a letter of greeting and good wishes from the Prime Minister of Canada.

Head table guests, introduced by the deputy reeve, Carmen Gibson, included Reeve Delbert Denyes and Mrs. Harvey and the riding's federal representative, Lou Grills, MP and Mrs. Grills. Through the kindness of Mr. Grills, the tables were decorated with centennial flags and each guest the recipient of a centennial lapel pin. The blessing was given by the Rev. George A. Futcham of Roslin.

In keeping with the day of national recognition, place settings included a poppy, while Mrs. R. K. McKechan read a Remembrance Day poem. Musical numbers rendered by the Cassibo family of father, daughter and three sons were outstanding and were received most enthusiastically by their audience.

Mrs. William McLaren received an award for being the oldest woman present while her husband was presented with the one for being the oldest man on hand, both being in the neighborhood of the 90 mark. An award for the oldest veteran present was given to Frank Clark and one for the mother present having the most sons who served in the armed forces was presented to Mrs. James Topping.

Needless to say, it was an occasion for greeting old friends and a bit of reminiscing and from the happy atmosphere that prevailed throughout, it was quite evident that one and all found it a most enjoyable event. The ladies of the Melrose Women's Institute who looked after the catering arrangements were thanked by the chairman for helping to make the day the success that it was.

Shoot Police

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Police are searching for persons armed with automatic weapons who shot up a police substation in the predominantly Negro Hunters Point area, wounding two officers. Police said the gunmen were described as three young Negroes armed with at least two automatic carbines. Police said they could find no motive for the assault.

Death Penalty Debate

Aikenbrack Rakes Compromise Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — Douglas Aikenbrack (PC-Prince Edward Lennox) Tuesday joined the ranks of critics of the compromise bill before the Commons on abolition of the death penalty for murder.

Mr. Aikenbrack hit the government's action in "wasting the time of Parliament" with it. Solicitor-General Pennell was "a great sentimentalist" but his bill did nothing to protect the lives of the masses of population of Canada.

Mr. Aikenbrack said he would not be "lured" into voting for the bill because of the provision for execution of the murderers of policemen and jail guards. He did not believe the government would back up the courts in such cases.

He suggested that the same people who support abolition might favor the "killing" of unborn babies through abortion, or the indiscriminate practice of euthanasia in hospitals.

Mr. Aikenbrack also cited the case of an Italian immigrant acquitted in the slaying of his brother-in-law and said he should be deported.

"Are you going to leave him here in Canada?" he asked the government. "Is he a desirable candidate for citizenship?

"... for taking the law into his own hands he should be returned to the country of his origins."

Hubert Badanai (L-Fort William) said public opinion in Canada is moving towards abolition faster than ever before.

An increasing number of Canadians regarded hanging as "a barbarous relic," out of place in modern administration of justice.

Mr. Badanai said he has found in his own riding that the number of abolitionists has been rising year by year.

L. R. Bud Sherman (PC-Winnipeg South) said he has always been against capital punishment and will continue to take that view. But although he would vote for the compromise bill he felt it was a piece of "despicable hypocrisy" by the cabinet.

Both he and Jean Wadds (PC-Grenville-Dundas) criticized an earlier speech by Registrar-General Turner.

Mr. Sherman said the Turner speech almost turned him into a retentionist. The minister had brought up a series of side issues without facing the question squarely.

Mrs. Wadds, who opposes abolition of the death penalty, said Mr. Turner's good looks were not matched by his logic. He had tried to be all things to all people.

She said the bill is a silly compromise "in which the death penalty is sometimes right and sometimes wrong." Parliament's decision last year to retain capital punishment should be left to stand.

Leger Asks End to Public Appeals to Aid Him

MONTREAL (CP) — Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger said Tuesday he wants "to be as inconspicuous as possible" when he leaves Montreal in mid-December for his new role as a missionary - priest among lepers in Africa.

For this reason, he said, he is discouraging public appeals to raise money on his behalf for his new work. However, he would accept private donations.

In a statement, the cardinal said:

"Many . . . are sending me offerings and I accept them gratefully. But I am afraid that public appeals, such as those that are being organized, risk creating confusion in the minds of people.

"While I appreciate the generosity that inspired them, may I therefore request that such appeals not be organized and that, where their implementation has already begun, such projects be abandoned."

Vietnam Subject of Talk To Kiwanians

PICTON (Staff) — Members of Picton Kiwanis Club last night heard Troy Linton of Vernon N.Y., speak on the people and life in Viet Nam. Mr. Linton's talk, illustrated with slides brought the ways of the people and the country in which they live directly to Picton.

Mr. Linton explained that he wanted to present Viet Nam on a "People to people basis."

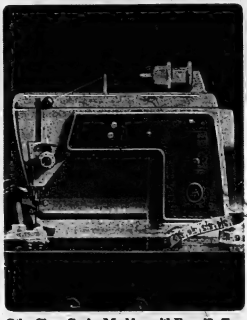
He noted that Viet Nam's population was only slightly less than that of Canada, and he traced the country's history through its early beginning, when it was known as Indo-China, until the present day.

Mr. Linton's work in Viet Nam was with a team of 10 engineers who set up a tactical communications system in Viet Nam which was a radio telephone technique and utilized 10 stations and 72 channels. Mr. Linton, now with an engineering firm, showed slides on the way of life of the populace and stressed the lack of sanitation in the country.

Mr. Linton, a member of the Kiwanis Club of Vernon, N.Y., told of the work his Club and the Vernon's Girl Scouts were contributing to the support of a Vietnamese Orphanage in Saigon.

Mr. Linton was introduced to the Picton Club by past president Jesse Mason and thanked by Dr. LeRoy Hall.

ARE FARTHER APART



LONDON (AP) — Commonwealth Secretary George Thomson told the House of Commons Tuesday the British government and the rebel white-minority Rhodesian regime are farther apart than ever on the question of Rhodesia's seizure of independence from Britain. Thomson returned last weekend from a tour of Commonwealth countries in Africa and two days of talks with Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith.

Act of Patriotism

Stanfield Will Seek to Force Election

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield, who takes his Commons seat for the first time today, says his party will seize any opportunity to defeat the government and thus force an election.

It would be an "act of patriotism" if the Conservatives could oust the Liberals, who had lost the confidence of Canadians, the 53-year-old former Nova Scotia premier said in an interview.

Standing in the Commons: Liberals 123, Conservatives, 85, NDP 22, Creditistes 8, Social Credit, 4, Independent 3, vacant 3—total 265.

Mr. Stanfield was to be sworn in at 10:30 a.m. S MP for the Nova Scotia riding of Colchester-Hants in the office of Commons Clerk Alistair Fraser.

He will take his front-row place as Opposition leader when the Commons meets at 2:30 p.m. after Speaker Lucien Lamoureux declares: "Let the honorable member take his seat."

Prime Minister Pearson in the Commons Tuesday paid a handsome tribute to Michael Starr, interim Opposition leader since the House resumed its session Sept. 25.

He congratulated Mr. Starr on the way in which he had carried out his responsibilities and said the MP for Ontario is held in the regard and affection of all MPs.

Mr. Starr said he almost felt like a blushing bride.

Mr. Stanfield said the Conservatives will apply the most pressure on the government on the issue of the administration's "mismanagement" of its financial operations.

The major concern for Canadians in the next month or so would be inflation and the government's proposed tax increase, as yet unspecified, he said.

He said the most important problem facing Canadians is national unity.

He suggested the Canadian public can help politicians—provincial as well as federal—by accepting generally that it is only fair that there be French-language schools outside Quebec.

"How do you put a price tag on Confederation?" he asked.

"Fundamentally, it boils down to this: Is English Canada ready to accept in its heart that this is a country of two official languages?"

Mr. Stanfield continued:

"There is a growing appreciation of the problem but there is still a good many Canadians who think it is an artificial problem in that it is being created.

"It is not artificial."

"There is a real dissatisfaction in Quebec. We will not effect a cure-all, of course. There is a continuing relationship between French- and English-speaking Canadians and things will happen from time to time to create difficulty."

Mr. Stanfield added he is optimistic that Quebec will stay in Confederation.

Mr. Stanfield said the Liberals hope to make their views known on the constitutional issue early next year. These proposals would be given thorough study by the Conservatives, who, at the same time would be working out their own party position.

Faith Healing Probe Behind Closed Doors

TORONTO (CP) — A faith healing probe into the Anglican Diocese of Toronto is proceeding behind closed doors despite an appeal by the church's national newspaper for a public inquiry.

He said information will be released only by the chairman.

Ontario NDP Caucus To "Adopt" Ridings

TORONTO (CP) — The 20-member Ontario legislature caucus of the New Democratic Party voted Tuesday to accept a party executive recommendation that each member "adopt" up to two ridings in addition to his own seat.

Under the proposal, members will be responsible for giving leadership within the adoptive ridings in membership, finance, election organization, publicity and nomination of candidates.

Caucus chairman Stephen Lewis said members would be expected to visit the adopted ridings several times a year "and to remain in close communication with local party executive members."

"Together with our regular party staff and other provincial executive members who have agreed to work on this project, we will be covering every one of Ontario's 117 constituencies in our organizational drive this coming year," Mr. Lewis said.

The NDP member for Scarborough East also announced formation of eight caucus committees to cover vital areas of government operations. Each committee is to meet in advance of the next legislature session to discuss major issues and tactics.

Fluorine Content Low In Dunnville Water

DUNNVILLE, Ont. (CP) — The amount of fluorine in water samples taken near the Electric Reduction Co. Ltd., fertilizer plant here compares favorably with the amount in Toronto water, a medical officer of health said Tuesday.

Dr. W. C. V. Mills said a report from the Ontario department of health laboratories showed from 0.12 milligrams to 0.35 milligrams per litre of fluorine in the Dunnville - area samples. Toronto water samples show 1 milligram per litre, he said.

Tests made on samples of corn and wheat from farms near Dunnville showed no trecis of fluorides.

An inquiry into air pollution in the area near the fertilizer plant was ordered by Health Minister Dymond after a Detroit doctor said he had found traces of fluoride poisoning in two farmers.

Wanted Man Said In Panama City

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says Robert Colucci, one of three men charged in a $100,000,000 stock fraud case, is living in Panama City.

In a telephone interview with the former Toronto alderman, the newspaper says Colucci was shocked when told about the bombing of Meyer Rush, one of his co-defendents in the case. Rush is in serious condition in a Toronto hospital.

"That was one hell of a thing to happen to anybody," the newspaper quotes Colucci.

Colucci, Rush and lawyer Joseph Williams, all of Toronto, are charged with conspiring to defraud the public in connection with sales of shares of British Mutual Overseas Fund Corp. and Darien Explorations Ltd.

The Globe and Mail quotes Colucci as saying he plans to return to Toronto "when the smoke clears."

"At the right time my innocence will prove itself. I couldn't afford to be hanging around there Toronto for a couple of years while this thing drags through the courts."

Colucci left Canada May 2 and arrived in Panama, site of the head offices of British Mutual and Darien, May 12. Warrants for his arrest and the other two men were issued June 20.

Ontario's School Boards to Be Revamped; County-size Units to Levy Own Taxes

GALT (CP) — Premier John Robarts has announced a sweeping new education plan that will make Ontario's school boards directly responsible to the electorate for their spending.

Legislation will be introduced at the next session of the legislature to abolish 1,000 school boards Jan. 1, 1969, and consolidate control of the province's education in 100 county-size units.

In a speech Tuesday night at the opening of a Galt school, the premier said the legislation—expected in early February—will require the new education units to take responsibility for their own fund-raising by issuing separate tax bills to the public. At the present, boards requisition funds they need from municipal councils.

Mr. Robarts said the move would bring the public closer to the provincial school system.

"This will insure that the ratepayer will be able to hold the appropriate unit of government responsible for the spending of tax money."

Ontario now has 1,854 school boards—882 of them running public schools, 245 responsible for secondary schools and 528 in separate schools.

When the new policy takes effect, they will be reduced to about 100 with responsibility for both public and elementary schools. Another unit system is being contemplated for the separate schools, the premier said.

The new units will be established on county boundaries, except in large cities which will retain their own boards of education. In the North, where there are no counties, large school units will be designated by the government.

Mr. Robarts said the change will mean an increase in school grants, but government officials said they did not expect the move to result in a massive building plan because 90 per cent of Ontario students are already attending centralized, multi-roomed schools.

"The larger units will make it possible to extend to all students the benefits now enjoyed by our more-favored school systems," Mr. Robarts said. "Under a single, larger unit it is possible to provide more adequately for youngsters who have special talents or special problems."

Education officials said the main benefits would be the provision of special services such as classes for perceptually handicapped children. The new boards can provide special circles and children will not have to travel to find school areas to suit their disabilities.

"The larger unit," the premier said, "will facilitate planning on a broader base and will permit the development of a system of priorities and will enable a realistic provision for the financing of both capital and operating costs.

"At the same time will be possible to insure that any duplication of accommodation transportation, staffing and the like is avoided while establishing the basis for a sound utilization of the tax dollar."

"All of the property in this unit will now support the total education program, thereby eliminating to an even greater degree inequities within the area . . . it will reduce further financial inequalities between areas."

Meanwhile Tuesday night, reaction to the plan was mixed.

School trustees in Metropolitan Toronto welcomed the plan and William Ross, chairman of the city's school board, said it will "raise the level of educational opportunity across Ontario."

Small boards cannot operate special educational classes for handicapped children, Mr. Ross said, adding that many parents have moved to Toronto take advantage of special classes for their children.

But Neil MacEachern of Waterloo, president of the Ontario Education, expressed disapproval. tion, expressed disapproval.

"Without knowing the details I can say that I am opposed in principle to both aspects of the reform."

He said trustees would be unable to cope with the responsibilities of a county-level education system. "It's getting hard to handle school affairs even at the township level."

Mr. MacEachern said he was against school boards levying their own taxes. Separate tax bills will mean a doubling of collection costs.

QUESTION: We are planning to visit Miami Beach and wondered if we can stay there on a limited budget this time of year?

ANSWER: You don't have to be a millionaire to visit Miami Beach, but of course it helps. If you go on a limited budget, your rooms may not be as luxurious, your food as sumptuous, but you will have the same lovely warm sun, clear air and lots of water.

There are 379 hotels in the city with 32,000 rooms and 3,000 apartment buildings with 35,000 units. They range from posh palaces along the ocean front to one room apartments.

Along Collins avenue and Ocean Drive, about two miles south of the largest hotels there are many hotels and apartment hotels with varying price ranges.

The prices of these will double after Dec. 16, so it is best to holiday before this time. They may not have restaurants in the hotels but you can get a good breakfast at a modest restaurant for 60 cents lunch for under $1.50 and dinner around $2.50.

Your room shouldn't cost you more than $10 to $13 a couple. This would bring room and meals for around $20 a day for two.

There are many things to see that cost very little, Parrot Jungle, Tropical Paradise, the Seaquarium, the Serpentarium, the Monkey Jungle, where the animals roam freely in the forest, or the orchid Jungle.

For free you can visit the zoo, the Fairchild Tropical Garden, with the world's largest collection of Palms, or the Museum of Natural Science.

Then there are fishing boats which run half-day trips and supply equipment for $4 and up.

If you have a car or rent a car there are many more things to see. It is well worth the time to drive or take a bus ride down Collins Avenue, either during the day or at night, to see the beautiful hotels and motels.

A drive through some of the private islands, reached via the McArthur, Venetian, North Bay and Broad causeways, presents many magnificent homes and estates. The architecture runs from Spanish-Mediterranean to modern.

Most of the large hotels have nightly entertainment during the winter season with such big name stars as Frank Sinatra, Jackie Gleason and Sammy Davis Jr. entertaining, but the fare will be as high as $25 per person.

Among the biggest attractions for visitors are the beaches. Most of the hotels on the ocean have beaches.

Along Collins Avenue are department stores and specialty shops to fit any budget. Lincoln Road Mall is worth a visit, even if funds won't allow purchases from exclusive shops.

The Mall has fountains and is beautifully landscaped with tropical flowers.

Gray Bus Lines offer half-day and full-day tours and to... sightseeing boat cruises that leave daily from The docks location, 16th street at Collins Avenue, for "Millionaires Row", the Everglades and the inland waterway to Fort Lauderdale.

Reservations are recommended for this trip.

Horse racing is one of Miami's most popular attractions. Racing at Hialeah, Tropical and Gulfstream begins the middle of December and continues until the first of April.

Hialeah Park is one of the world's most beautiful tracks. It is noted for its gardens, tropical trees and many tropical birds, including 400 flamingoes. The park is open all year, daily from 9.30 to 5 p.m. Except during races, admission to the track is free. Guided train tour 75 cents.

Sharp Tells Americans Of His Inflation Curbs

NEW YORK (CP) — Finance Minister Sharp, on a confiden restoring visit to this centre of the Western world's financiers, said Tuesday he prays every night for stability in the American economy.

He dismissed as an unequal partnership any idea of a Canada-U.S. economic union, but said a wider free trade area involving North America with Britain and Western Europe might well be studied.

And he told American businessmen that Canada is able to live within the restrictions it accepted on its foreign exchange reserves, in return for exemption for new Canadian securities issues from the US. interest equalization tax, which is designed to deter Americans from investing abroad.

These views were expressed by Sharp during a question period following a major address to the Economic Club of New York. In it, he said Canada is moving to restore good health to its inflation-stricken economy, it will continue to need and welcome foreign investment, and it issue of Quebec separatism.

Robert V. Roosa, former undersecretary of the U.S. treasury for international affairs and now a partner in the prestige investment firm of Brown Brothers Harriman and Co., described Sharp's speech as "reassuring to us here."

Roosa fired the questions of the audience of businessmen at the finance minister, saying Americans were "somewhat envious of the forthrightness with which your government has moved towards a temporary tax increase." A request by President Johnson for a 10-per-cent hike in taxes is bogged down in Congress.

Sharp wouldn't comment on the U.S. tax proposal but said he hoped his plan to raise taxes temporarily in Canada later this month would be as warmly received at home as it was among the financiers here.

He was asked "whether the measures he is planning would actually control inflation in Canada, if it isn't stopped in the U.S. He said Canada can't isolate itself. Its economy is so closely bound with the U.S. that

It is believed he outlined to them privately his views on how inflation can be moderated in Canada by new tax and spending policies the Canadian government is adopting, and by eliciting public support for restraint on upward wage and price pressures.

Death Penalty Ban Wins New Backing

OTTAWA (CP) — Two more MPs who voted against abolition of the death penalty 18 months ago said Tuesday they will support a compromise bill now before the Commons.

Registrar - General Turner and Augusta Cloquette (L—Lotbiniere), Roland J. Patrick Nowlan (PC — Digby) - Annapolis-Kings), who spoke last Friday, in seconding the compromise move.

The three lawyers all voted against a bill April 5, 1966, that would have abolished the death penalty for murder.

The bill put before the House by Solicitor - General Pennell would reserve the gallows for murderers of working prison guards and policemen.

Among the 27 speakers so far in three days of debate on second reading, 14 have said they will support the bill and 12 have said they will oppose it.

Eldon Woolliams (PC—Bow River), a retentionist in the last vote, didn't commit himself. Seven of the nine Liberals who spoke said they will support the bill.

The Conservative score is 7 to 4 against.

All Three NDP speakers have favored the bill while opposition has come from a Creditiste, a Social Credit member and an independent MP.

The last executions in Canada took place in December, 1962, when the Conservative government was in office.

Mr. Turner said that while he voted against abolition last time, he had supported an amendment that would have restricted execution to murderers of police and prison guards.

While he now advocated abolition "intentionally and emotionally," he felt the majority of Canadians are probably retentionists.

He said the questions raised by capital punishment are as difficult as those posed by divorce and abortion, other areas of probable statutory change in the present session.

In divorce, the instinct against legislating morals collided with the belief that the family unit is fundamental to Western society.

"What about abortion, where the Liberal instinct in favor of individual choice runs up against the feelings for the sanctity of human life?"

These conflicts had to be taken into account.

The bill drew opposition Tuesday from Conservatives Martial Asselin (Charlevoix), Douglas Harkness (Calgary North), Douglas Alkenbrack (Prince Edward-Lennox), Jean Wadds (Grenville-Dundas), Independent J. A. Mongrain (Trois-Rivieres) and Liberal Yves Forest (Stanstead) and Stanley Haidasz (Toronto Parkdale).

Mr. Alkenbrack suggested that supporters of abolition also may favor "lifting" unborn babies through abortion, or indiscriminate mercy killing in hospitals."

Supporters of the bill included Mr. Turner, Mr. Choquette, Stanley Knowles (NDP — Winnipeg North Centre), L. R. (Bud) Sherman (PC—Winipeg South), and Hubert Badanai (L —Fort William).

Mr. Sherman said he will support the bill although he felt it was a piece of "despicable hypocrisy" by the cabinet had fleeted the law for four years through commut...as without moving effectively towards abolition.

The debate continues today with a free vote on the principle of the bill to be its climax.

Destroyers To Get Guns From Italy

OTTAWA (CP) — The navy for some years has been the only one of the three Canadian services to make major use of weapons designed or built in Canada.

Now, officials say, even the navy is losing its distinctive Canadian flavor in the weapons field.

The defence production department has announced that it will buy Italian guns for four new helicopter - carrying destroyers. The hulls will be built in Canada but the propulsion system, helicopters and surface-to-air missiles will come from the U.S.

The launcher for the missile will be made by a Canadian subsidiary of a U.S. company. While its control system will come from The Netherlands.

The navy's main submarine detection gear—variable depth sonar—is a Canadian development. But its aircraft carrier, the Bonaventure, was built in Britain, its submarines were built in Britain and the U.S. and its anti-submarine planes are America-designed.

Levesque Not Joining Separatists

MONTREAL (CP) — Rene Levesque says rumors that he and the separatist rassemblement pour l'independance nationale have decided to unite are not true.

Mr. Levesque, welfare minister in the former Quebec Liberal government, said Tuesday he met with pierre Bourgault, RIN leader, last Saturday but the meeting was just an exchange of ideas.

He said in an interview that Mr. Bourgault also would deny reports of an alliance if he were not in Europe.

SUCCEEDS WARD SMITH

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney - General Arthur Wishart Tuesday announced the appointment of Douglas Lucas, 36, as director of the Centre of Forensic Sciences, Ontario's provincial crime laboratory. He succeeds the late H. Ward Smith, who died July 14 after serving as director for 16 years.

Sidesteps CBC Row

Judy Declines to Fire 2nd Volley

OTTAWA (CP) — State Secretary Judy LaMarsh Tuesday stoutly resisted all temptations to fire another volley at the CBC board of directors.

Appearing before the Commons broadcasting committee, she also sidestepped an invitation to start a row with CBC producers who kicked up a giant broadcasting fuss last year over the Seven Days program.

Harold Stafford (L—Elgin) asked Miss LaMarsh whether she agreed with him that the producers never should have been allowed to take their case against management to the Commons committee.

"I just get out of one controversy and you're trying to get me in another," answered a smiling Miss LaMarsh.

Miss LaMarsh has been pelted with questions from opposition MPs since Nov. 1 when she said on the Pierre Berton television show that there is rotten management in some parts of the CBC.

Mr. Stafford, a St. Thomas, Ont., lawyer, tried several times without success to have her comment on the press release.

At one point she did say that her criticism of CBC management had done some good. Some members of management had been awakened "and that is helpful, very helpful."

She chided MPs for condemning the CBC in last week's Commons debate on the government's broadcasting bill.

Terry Nugent (PC—Edmonton Strathcona) said the minister's remarks were "sheer effrontery." MPs had a duty to reflect the views of their constituents.

Replying to questions of MPs before the committee gets down to clause-by-clause study of the bill, Miss LaMarsh:

—Said she was not wedded to the name Canadian Radio Commission as a title for the new broadcasting regulatory body proposed in the bill.

—Said she thought the cabinet might agree if the committee decided to do away with the 48-hour ban on political advertisements on TV and radio prior to election day.

—Stood firm on the proposed $100,000 fine for private broadcasters found guilty of breaches of the new act. It was an indication of the government's determination to wipe out any such offences.

—Said federal government views on educational television probably will be placed before the committee this week. They would be the starting point for a long-term initiative study, she hoped.

Miss LaMarsh also revealed that she had been instrumental in having the CBC cancel plans to bring Alfred von Thadde to Canada for a program.

Court Awards Damages For Operation Mistake

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto General Hospital and an anesthetist were ordered Tuesday to pay $170,000 to a woman who was left with the mentality of a seven-year-old child after a 1962 operation.

Elizabeth Ainsley, 32, was undergoing open-heart surgery when air escaped from a bearing machine connected to a vein.

Mrs. Ainsley's heart stopped beating and when doctors revived her, it was discovered that the air bubble had gone to the brain, causing a cerebral embolism.

Mr. Justice Donald Morand held Dr. R. L. Matthews, staff anesthetist, 60-per-cent negligent and said the hospital was 40 per cent to blame because of the actions of assistant anesthetist Dr. Robert Porteous.

Mrs. Ainsley's husband, also on the staff of the hospital, was privately employed by Mrs. Ainsley for the operation.

Mrs. Ainsley remained at Toronto General Hospital for a year before being transferred to Homewood Sanitarium in Guelph, where she has remained since.

Mr. Ainsley was awarded $22,000 damages for loss of consortium.

Defeated Cabinet Minister Replaced in New Brunswick

Cabinet replacements announced were: H. H. Williamson as labor minister, Norbert Therriault as health minister and Dr. Joffre Daigle as youth minister.

Mr. Williamson had been house speaker and Mr. Therriault municipal affairs minister. Dr. Daigle is a newcomer to the legislature.

Robert Higgins, in his first trip to the legislature, will head the new department of economic growth and former backbencher Raymond Doucet the new department of public buildings.

Dinosaur Skeleton Lifted

Helicopter lifts part of an 1,800-pound dinosaur skeleton from a 30-foot gully in the Trochu area of east-central Alberta. Request for lift came from the University of Alberta which found the skeleton during a summer field program. New Brunswick Liberals Hold Seats

FREDERICTON (CP) — Liberals had four seats confirmed Tuesday in Saint John Centre and Moncton recounts of New Brunswick election results Oct. 23.

Progressive Conservative officials in both ridings requested that the judicial recounts that started last week be ended, at 33 of 104 ballot boxes in Moncton and 39 of 122 boxes in Saint John Centre.

On amended count in Moncton, liberal L. H. Cyr had a 35-vote margin over Paul Creaghan, highest standing Conservative, instead of original margin of 18. Liberals won the three Moncton seats.

In Saint John Centre, Conservative H. C. Tracy conceded victory to Liberal Robert Higgins by a margin of 20 votes—19,671 to 19,651.

New Operation on Spinal-cord Damage Restores Use of Limbs to Paralysed

TORONTO (CP) — With a dramatic demonstration at a Toronto hotel Tuesday night, an elderly surgeon unveiled a surgical technique that allows persons paralyzed from spinal-cord injuries to regain the use of their limbs.

Dr. Gordon Murray, 72, of Toronto, speaking at the annual dinner of the Toronto East General and Orthopedic Hospital Research Foundation, had attendants wheel in on a bed a 36-year-old accident victim paralyzed from the shoulders down since October, 1963.

Before the operation, Dr. Murray said, the victim, Bertram Proulx of St. Jean de Chevbourg, Que., "was utterly hopeless—[illegible] despair." He could not move his hands or elbows and he breathed with his diaphragm, unable to expand his chest.

Mr. Proulx then lifted himself to a sitting position, unassisted, by pulling on slings attached to a bar over the bed. After resting, he then, with the aid of nurses, moved off the bed to a standing position on the floor, supporting himself by his elbows on a walker, a mobile device used for support.

"He hasn't moved a joint for three years," Dr. Murray said.

Dr. Murray, honored for pioneering work in open heart surgery and development of the artificial kidney, said his research to disprove the textbook theory that the spinal cord could not be mended began eight years ago.

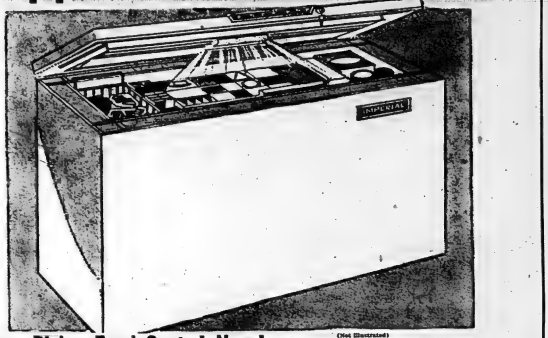
He and his associates cut the spinal cords of animals while they were under anesthetics to emulate the human condition, then tried to bring the ends together exactly opposite each other.

"My theory was that the reason the cord doesn't regenerate is that the ends are not in apposition," Dr. Murray said.

The difficulty was in bringing this about, he said. The spinal cord is made up of more than 30,000,000 axons or nerve cells and forms a soft tissue which cannot be sewn.

He said he cut through the spinal cord, removed the damaged portion, cut through the surrounding bone to shorten the cord and brought the ends together. This required special tools to bore a curved hole through the bone so it could be wired together.

Dr. Murray showed pictures of rabbits used in his research experiments. One, with its spinal cord cut through, was on its feet after three months and was energetic and active after five months.



He said improvement in humans begins to show about the third month after surgery.

The thing that encouraged him and his associates to try the operation on human was the hopelessness of paraplegics and quadriplegics, Dr. Murray said.

Other methods have been tried in an attempt to get spinal cords to regenerate, including the use of saliva of snakes, snake venom, extract of cancer of mice—all without success. The secret is always to be bringing the ends of the cord into apposition.

He said later that two of the seven patients operated on by him to date had not shown improvement. They [illegible] from a spinal cord lesion in which the cells were destroyed.

Experiment Ends as Brooding Machine Fails to Function

Joe Roth has this thing about exotic birds. The only thing is has temporarily laid an egg. Nothing daunted, he's hatching plans about it for next mating season.

The scheme involves crossing a white peacock with a Rhode Island Red hen.

And if some chickens think Joe has some neck results to indicate the well-known Belleville upholsterer might be just successful.

Earlier this year the experiment paid off with a clutch of 10 eggs dutifully delivered by the Rhode Islander after the peacock's blandishments.

"They were all fertile—the only trouble was with the brooding machine," Joe notes with a tinge of wistfulness.

The machine was new and Joe wasn't exactly acquainted with its workings—hence the end of the experiment.

However, he now figures he's got the process licked and is good-humoredly awaiting next mating season to renew the experiment.

However, the little project is only a good-humored sidelight on a more ambitious undertaking that yet may bring delight to city parkgoers.

For the past two years Joe has been assembling a collection of fancy and exotic birds behind his residence at 108 Station street.

It's a hobby he's been seriously pursuing across Southern Ontario.

So far, his purchases have nested him some fine specimens—including black ducks and nursing ducks from India, pheasants, peafowl and even a brace of swans — the last purchased from Woodstock parks board.

It's more of a person pursuit than it once was.

Joe says a bister complaint among fellow-fanciers is that the railroads now won't ship live birds and specimens must be collected personally at purchase points.

However, the results of his endeavors later next year could well be on public display.

Joe says he already has discussed with city officials the possibility of bird pens at Zwick's Island Park where the live collection could go on display in summer months.

Among them likely will be the aforementioned Rhode Island Red and its white peacock.

And maybe some little red peacocks and Rhode Island Whites?

In any event, there's a glint of the future as Joe eyes the brooding machine behind his workshop.

"I found out what the trouble was," he states — positively.

Feathers--and No Fuss!

Neither Joe Roth, nor white peacock, appear unduly concerned that plans to cross-breed with typical barnyard hen recently didn't hatch out. Good-humoredly, the city upholsterer who collects exotic birds as hobby, hopes to try again.

Tiger Meets Brawler

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Dick Tiger is the light heavyweight boxing champion of the world and he defends the title here Friday night against Montana's No. 1 rated 175-pounder, Roger Rouse, who admits he was once the best street brawler in Anaconda.

The 39-year-old Tiger—christened Richard Ihetu in faraway Nigeria—has his immediate thoughts pinned on the national televised fight. But his deepest concern hinges on the turmoil in Africa and the safety of his family in the new secession state of Biafra in the eastern part of Nigeria.

Tiger is staying and training at a downtown hotel. The most important furnishing in his room is a shortwave radio. It is tuned in on the Voice of America.

Before and after drills Tiger has the set on, trying to hear anything possible of the strife in his native country.

"I have a wife and six children—it should be seven by now—and I haven't been able to hear a word about them since I left for this country," Tiger said Tuesday, venturing into a personal and political subject he doesn't like to dwell upon because of the possible repercussions to his family.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat and help regain slender, graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of ugly fat disappear from your neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way so admired by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

you will read my booklet, "How to Deal With Varicose Veins." Buy a copy send 30 cents in coin for printing and self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Molner, in care of the Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P. O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill.

However, for your problem you will also have to let your physician find out whether your faulty circulation is primarily because of the defective veins or whether some problem in the arteries is also causing trouble.

Only when that has been determined is it possible to guess whether medication can improve the circulation. That is, you may have two problems rather than one, and will require two types of treatment for maximum relief.

Removal of the varicose culation in that other veins are forced to take over the work that should have been done by the varicose ones. Assuming the other veins to be in better condition, they can keep the blood flowing instead of allowing it to stagnate in swollen, varicose ones. So read the booklet to get picture well fixed in mind.

Dear Dr. Molner: Are spices and banana constipating? When one has hiatal hernia? Is there danger of a hiatal hernia becoming strangulated? — Mrs. H. E. R.

Postural drainage (placing the head lower than the chest), to help remove phlegm because of bronchiectasis or some similar condition) contradicts the advice given for hiatal hernia, which is to keep the head higher — raising the head of your bed several inches if pregnancy in the last week before time for my period to begin. Do you agree? — Mrs. C. C.

There is less chance, but this is not totally foolproof. Mother Nature can play tricks — your cycle may be disturbed, the period late, and it wouldn't be the last week.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it harmful to do postural draining when one has hiatal hernia? Is there danger of a hiatal hernia becoming strangulated? — Mrs. H. E. R.

No, they are not constipating. And so far as that goes, trying to eat something that might be constipating is not a satisfactory way of combatting diarrhea, however many people believe that to be true. It isn't.

veins ordinarily improves circ-

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband feels there is no danger of a hiatal hernia becoming strangulated? — Mrs. H. E. R.

However, in general I would consider the postural drainage more important than the amount of discomfort which might result as regards the hiatal hernia. The likelihood of any damage to the hiatal hernia is remote, anyway.

A hiatal hernia is quite different from an inguinal or abdominal hernia. In the case of a hiatal hernia, it is a matter of the upper portion of the stomach being pushed upward further than it should through the opening of the diaphragm. This is quite different from an ordinary hernia, in which a loop of the intestine can be forced through a gap in the groin and become trapped there. Hence strangulation is most unlikely.

A pox on practical jokers.

The voice on the telephone gave me the hero treatment. "You're one helluva swell guy" he gushed. "And I'm one who appreciates your work."

I told him I had no use for hair tonic, mini-pants, my shirts are as white as can be, I can't stand colognes, I'm immune to bribes and I have no yen to grab a gas-station free trip to Ball-Salt.

"Nothing like that" he said. "I'm sending you a pair of Grey Cup tickets. Thought you might appreciate them. No cost, no nothing. They're free and on me. I'll put them in the mail."

The receiver at the other end clicked.

The guy was sincere. He send me the Grey Cup tickets all right. But:

They were circa 1963.

And speaking of Grey Cup tickets. They're not so hard to get.

All you need is know Jr the Prime Minister; the leader of the opposition; the Festival Committee; the Expo Committee, anyone connected with senate, intermediate or junior football across the country, television sponsors, club owners, brewaries, distilleries, insurance companies, hotel associations, and so on.

As of now you won't be able to get into Lansdown Park with the traditional shoebox. In fact the shoebox couldn't make it on its own.

And don't bother writing friends in Ottawa, If you have any. Your favorite politician can't help you either.

In case you didn't know, the Big Game is not controlled by the Rough Riders club, it is a league game. They divide up the tickets in Toronto and send the Ottawa allotment to the Riders. The best 5,000 seats are held out for the two participating clubs in the Grey Cup game.

Ottawa has 12,000 season ticket holders. Divide the Riders' allotment among them — and well — you figure it out. Even stars of the Riders football team who purchased four season tickets were jolted when they got their Cup tickets. They were high in the bleachers well out of sight.

But hold your breath. A story from Ryburn says that if the Riders get into the Grey Cup they'll be getting more tickets and good ones — about 1,000 of them. There are temporary seats poked up in front of the south side stand goal-line to goal-line. There will be about 1,500 of them at $10. each. There will be a $7.50 section of bleachers alongside the west zone.

So there is a bare chance. If Ottawa wins the eastern conference title just pack your sleeping bag, toothbrush, wallet and bottle-opener and take off for Ryburn three or four days ahead. It's really not bad sleeping in a snow drift. Getting the tickets will be a nightmare anyway, so what.

They're having ticket troubles out west too. Take Calgary. A Calgary fan must belong to their booster club to get Cup tickets which means they must fill over ticket prices, namely $25 for a $13 ticket, $35 for a $19 seat.

Vancouver fans cannot get their tickets in Vancouver. They make their arrangements and then all Vancouver tickets will be available for them in Ottawa. This prevents Vancouverites from sending their tickets to friends in the east.

But Cup-fevered Ottawa isn't worrying about that. In fact there will be no fever than nine special trains from Western Canada (even in the heyday of Toronto Grey Cups the tops was nine trains). Arrangements have been made for "rube" bands to board the trains about 30 miles out of each city. In addition to a royal serenade the visitors will be presented with special "survival kits".

What seems a bit strange about the whole Ottawa set-up is the public relations committee still pours out the cause-an releases yet. In practically the same breath tells you there are no game tickets; no tickets for the dinner and no rooms or accommodation within fifty miles of the place.

If my creditors are curious as to my whereabouts on Cup Day they'll find me sharing room with Sam Orlando the poop deck of a typewriter in the press box.

Lose To Marlboros 4-2

Skidding Mo-Hawks Cellar-Bound

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

Toronto Marlboros discovered how to snap a losing streak here last night.

Play the Belleville Mo-Hawks.

The Mo-Hawks, looking worse instead of better, bowed 4-2 to extend their winless string to six games. Only 762 fans braved the first real winter night to watch the contest.

Belleville skidded into ninth place in the OHA Senior "A" standing with the setback, just one point out of the cellar, with a record of three wins, one tie and eight losses.

The Mo-Hawks failed to impress last night despite a 32-25 shooting margin. Lack of skating and forward personal play was obvious throughout, and passes went astray all night.

"The talent is there but somehow I'm just not getting it out of them," said a downcast coach Floyd Crawford.

The Marlies, who have lost five consecutive games, snapped a 3-2 tie with a pair of goals in the third period. The clubs played a scoreless first and Belleville twice overcame Toronto leads in the second.

Moe Galand won the Marlboro scoring here with both third-period goals and an earlier assist. Don Fuller and Gary Milroy potted the others.

Dave Jones triggered both Mo-Hawk tallies with "Weiner" Brown and Mickey Chervatyy assisting each time.

Galand swept in on a one-on-one play and beat goalie Joe Junkin with a 12-footer low in the corner after a minute of play in the final period.

Junkin kept it close with a big save as Galand's pass sent Earl Balfour in on the fly around the seven minute mark while at the other end, veteran Gerry McNamara was as good as he had to be. Time and again the Mo-Hawks failed to finish plays or got a stick on a loose puck near the Toronto goalmouth.

Fuller had opened the scoring on a powerplay early in the second. Bob Avery fired from the point and Fuller tipped it in at the 2 minute mark. A minute later the Mo - Hawks had a manpower advantage only to see the Marlboros narrowly miss adding to their score twice.

Jones tied it at 7.03 where Chervatyy hit a post. Jones, just off the corner, lifted the rebound over the sprawling McNamara. The line of Godson, Menard and Baker had McNamara jumping at the 15-minute mark, with Baker robbed twice, but the Marlboros made it look easy on the return rush as Milroy's shot, from an uncovered wing position, built a 2-1 lead.

Three minutes later Jones found an open position in front of the net, caught Brown's pass from the sideboards and took his time to flip it high in the rigging.

The Mo - Hawks showed hustle in the first period but lacked the finishing punch.

Brown's hot powerplay blast was kicked aside and Ralph Plane lost control after beating the last man between him and paydirt. Baker appeared to have a goal when he lipped another Brown drive between McNamara's legs only to have the puck somehow miss the net. Godson and Menard, as was the story all night, failed to get their sticks on the puck at the goalcrease. Junkin robbed Galand on a powerplay stinger just as the period ended.

Crawford used Bob McAlpine on defence and he was far from the worst man in a Mo - Hawk sweater, digging hard from his new position.

Oagville Oaks visit here Friday and the Mo-Hawks go to Woodstock Sunday afternoon.

Kings Fell Oaks 6-1

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Collingwood Kings are getting closer and closer to first place in the Ontario Hockey Association series and they owe a lot of thanks to Jack Lumley.

He scored three goals Tuesday night to lead the Kings to a 6-1 victory over Oakville Oaks and sole possession of second place in the series. The Kings now have an 8-3-1 record for 17 points, one less than first-place Galt Hornets.

In other games "Tuesday night, Woodstock Alcans, paced by the brilliant goaltending of Verne Potter, defeated Orillia 3-2 and Toronto Marlboros downed Belleville Mo-Hawks 4-2.

Don Keith, Dave McComb and Joe Hanley got the other Collingwood goals as the Kings outshot Oakville 19-7. Bill Cosnburn got the lone Oaks goal.

In Orillia, Bob Robinson, Dino Leggio and Dan Mahony scored for the winners and George Ford and Bill Forhan got the Orillia markers. Orillia had a wide edge in play in the final period, but could not get by Potter who stopped 16 shots and 34 in the game.

Fast Eddie Tangles With Old Buddies Of The Blues Tonight

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Fast Eddie will be back in Maple Leaf Gardens tonight and the fans will probably love him—at least until he ducks his first Punch Imlach, Maple Leaf fans last year continued calling "We want Shack We want Shack."

But this year as Toronto and Boston Bruins battle for the lead in the National Hockey League, Shack is with Boston and apparently more subdued than when he "only had a couple of minutes (a game) to show myself."

Eddie has been playing on a line with rookie Derek Sanderson and veteran Tom Williams and so far has managed four goals and an assist in 12 games.

The Bruins are a point behind Toronto, New York Rangers and Detroit Red Wings—all tied for first with 17 points. But the Beantowners have two games in hand on the Leafs.

New York and Detroit are idle tonight, but Thursday the Rangers visit Philadelphia Flyers and the Wings are in Oakland to play the Seals.

In other games tonight, Montreal Canadiens visit Minnesota North Stars, Chicago Black Hawks are in St. Louis against the Blues, Philadelphia is in Pittsburgh to play the Penguins and Los Angeles Kings are in Oakland.

At the end of last season, when the Bruins got Shack in a trade he's been a driver who has four goals and nine assists in 15 games for Toronto. Boston general-manager Milt Schmidt passed off a remark about the crowd loving Eddie.

"We didn't get him to entertain the fans. He's a pretty fair hockey player."

What Schmidt got was the man Boston has been looking for for a long time to lift the team when it's down.

Tuesday, watching Shack cut fancy circles and entertain Toronto faithful who went to see him practice at Maple Leaf Gardens, Schmidt observed:

"He hasn't stopped skating all out since the first day he arrived at spring training.

"He led the guys around the rink the first day and it's been like that ever since."

The Boston players were a little concerned about him at first, but his concentration on hockey since joining the club and his boundless spirit have quickly won them over.

But even he is concerned about his production after scoring 26 goals for Toronto in 1965-66 and 11 last year while seeing only infrequent duty.

He's playing an unfamiliar left wing, which could account for part of the problem, and observes "well, maybe I could get going better . . . four goals so far."

The Leafs will be without three big players in defenceman Allen Stanley, centre Dave Keon and left-winger Frank Mahovlich.

Mahovlich is recovering from acute depression that sidelined him early this month and will not possibly until the end of next month. Stanley is in hospital at Bloomington, Minn., where he is recovering from an eye injury, suffered Saturday, and will be out about two weeks. Keon, hobbling with a charley horse in his right leg will rain at least tonight's game.

Called up to fill the gaps are defenceman Larry Hillman and left-winger Jean-Paul Parisa of the American League Rochester Americans.

Montreal also will be short a pair of key players with centre Jean Beliveau nursing an injured knee and winger John Ferguson a broken hand.

Kings Tie Aces 2-2

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Howie Menard turned scorer just in time for Springfield.

Menard leads the American Hockey League in assists with 14 and stands third in the overall scoring race. But until Tuesday night, he had only four goals.

Then, with less than a minute to play in the second period, he scored the Kings' tying goal against Quebec Aces and it held up through a scoreless third period for a 2-2 tie in the only AHL game played.

Quebec's Jean-Guy Gendron and Springfield's Gerry Foley traded first-period power play goals. Then Bob Cleary's unassisted goal gave Quebec the lead midway through the second period before Menard tied it for keeps.

The Miracle Tire Cord

Nearly two years ago, Canadian Tire introduced Polyester miracle-cord in their high performance summer tires. Coming soon, most major rubber companies are expected to follow with Polyester in their most expensive summer tires. Right now, a year ahead of most others, as usual, another record for Canadian Tire. Polyester Winter Tires . . . here RIGHT NOW!

If you ever experienced the sheer delight of being behind the wheel of an automobile equipped with "Hiway-Byway" winter tires, you have doubtless told others about the fun of bulldozing through drifts and wheeling past cars struggling for traction. You've also taken for granted the confidence of being master on ice and hard-pack snow. Now with better-than-ever Polyester "Hiway Byways" you'll get more miles and an incredibly smoother ride — more like summer tires — be it at 7 or 70 mph. "Morning thump", even on the stiffest cold mornings, will be a thing of the past. Initially of course, Polysters do cost more; but, you'll soon agree they're worth every penny of it.

Booster Club Organized At Tweed

TWEED — Plans have been finalized for the operation of the Minor Hockey Booster Club for 1967-68 and tickets will be on sale this week.

The tickets will not be sold in the stores this year, only by members of the BMHA.

Many local merchants have already been contacted and have generously pledged their support by donating $10.00 merchandise vouchers to be used in prize draws during the months ahead.

Booster Club chairman, Paul Meraw, states that any merchant who has been missed and who wishes to contribute should contact him as soon as possible. He also thanks all who have contributed vouchers to date.

It was also pointed out that several private citizens have donated $10.00 cash prizes for the draws. There will be approximately 25 draws throughout the season.

Minor Hockey

Three shutout victories were registered in as many BMHA novice games last night.

Bruins won 4-0 over Leafs, Hornets downed Wings 8-0 and Bears clawed the Aces 10-0.

Names of shutout goalies were omitted from the scoresheets.

Malo collected three goals and Mc assist while Kollan had one of each to account for the Bruins' scoring.

P. Murray had three goals and a helper, T. Armstrong two and one, Galvin and J. Hale a goal and assist each for the Hornets. P. Heinz got the other goal and M. Ferris had an assist.

Bears received three consecutive goals, plus an assist, from S. Jonopoulos with Roger and Rickey Sprague combined for four goals and an assist between them. T. Sladey, R. Skelly and T. Britton also scored. D. Flesch, G. Grant and T. Belch had helpers.

Toronto (CP) — Two Vancouver players topped the rankings announced Tuesday by the Canadian Badminton Association. Allison Daysmith is No. 1 in the ladies' sigles, Wayne MacDonnell in the men's.

Red Sox 'Yaz' Named AL Most Valuable Player

NEW YORK (AP)—Carl Yastrzemski of Boston Red Sox, coming within a single first-place vote of unanimous selection, was named the American League's Most Valuable Player for the 1967 baseball season today.

The 28-year-old outfielder, winner of the circuit's Triple Crown while leading the Red Sox to their first pennant since 1946, drew 19 votes for first place and one for second in the balloting by 20 members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

Cesar Tovar, a Minnesota sparkplug while playing second base, third base and centre field, drew the other first-place vote, but finished in a seventh-place tie in the over-all balloting. Tovar batted .267 last season.

Yastrzemski then failed to match the unanimity achieved by Orlando Cepeda of St. Louis Cardinals in capturing the National League's MVP award last week.

Yastrzemski collected 273 points in becoming the first Red Sox player since Jackie Jensen in 1958 to take the MVP prize. The voting by two baseball writers from each city was on a basis of 14 points for a first-place vote, nine for second, eight for third down to one for each 10th place vote.

Twins' slugger Harmon Killebrew placed second with 161 points followed by catcher Bill Freehan of Detroit Tigers, 127 points; pitcher Joe Horlen of Chicago White Sox, 81; outfielder Al Kaline of Detroit, 88 and pitcher Jim Lonborg of Boston, 82.

Tovar and shortstop Jim Fregosi of California Angels had 70 points apiece. Pitcher Gary Peters of the White Sox and first baseman George Scott of Boston rounded out the first 10 on an over-all list of 34.

Frank Robinson of Baltimore, a unanimous choice as AL MVP in 1966, finished 11th this year with only 21 points. He was sidelined for almost four weeks with a mild concussion that resulted in double vision, but still wound up second to Yastrzemski in batting with a .311 average.

Yastrzemski's batting mark was .326. He tied Killebrew for the home run title with 44 and led in RBI with 121.

Killebrew batted .269 and drove in 113 runs.

Yastrzemski and Killebrew were the only players to be named on all 20 ballots. Freehan's name appeared on 19.

The once-dominant New York Yankees were shut out in the voting this year for the first time ever.

"Disappointed"

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Carl Yastrzemski said today he was disappointed that the vote that brought him the American League's Most Valuable Player award was not unanimous.

"I'm slightly disappointed it wasn't unanimous. But the big thing is to win it," said the Boston Red Sox slugger, here for a speaking engagement.

The circuit's Triple Crown winner collected all except one of the first-place votes in the balloting by 20 members of the Baseball Writers Association of America—two from each of the 10 league cities.

Cesar Tovar, a .267 hitter for Minnesota, drew the other first-place vote.

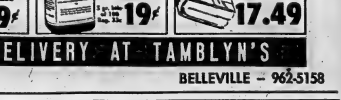
Timid types, that's who.



It's funny what you hear about Mellow 83. Like, it's the whisky for old fogeys. Or, only timid types drink 83. We know different. All kinds of people are drinking 83 these days—and for the best of all reasons. They like the mellow, mellow way it tastes. Who are these individuals? Well, they weren't born in 1883. And they certainly weren't born yesterday.

Stampeders Hope To Shake "Player-Of-The Year" Gremlin

CALGARY (CP)—It could be one of the strangest Western Football Conference finals in history if Saskatchewan Roughriders and Calgary Stampeders play true to form in their best-of-three series that opens here Saturday.

Both teams have shown a tendency over the 16-game schedule to come from behind for their victories, Calgary in winning the conference championship and Saskatchewan in coming second.

Both teams finished the schedule with 12 wins and four losses, but Calgary got the nod because they beat the Roughriders in two of three meetings.

The 2 p.m. MST (4 p.m. EST) game will be nationally televised by the CTV network.

Saskatchewan won its way into the final by beating third-place Edmonton Eskimos 21-8 last Saturday in a sudden-death semi-final.

But over the season the Riders won six of their games after trailing the opposition at one point or another, while Calgary did it five times.

Even in the game that decided the western championship, Calgary and British Columbia Lions exchanged the lead five times before the Stampeders prevailed 25-20.

One of the big questions for Saturday's game is the weather and its affect on the passing of Calgary quarterback Peter Liske, this week named the CFL's outstanding player.

The weather office Tuesday said it wasn't yet prepared even to take a guess.

"The long-time mean temperature for Nov. 19 is 26 degrees but that doesn't mean much. We've been above normal in Calgary for a few days. They should have played Monday. It was 59."

The fear in Calgary is that a bitter winter day could affect the performance of Liske. But he says cold isn't major factor.

He has said wind could affect this game more than cold but in a 40-mile an hour wind at Regina Oct. 28, Calgary won 29-11 as Liske completed 34 of 52 passes and for 360 yards and two touchdowns.

Calgary has relied on the passing game all season while the Roughriders have had a more balanced attack, led on the ground by George Reed with 1,401 yards—more than all Calgary rushers combined.

Reed is one of the players listed by Saskatchewan coach Eagle Keys as bruised after the semi-final game Saturday but the bumps "won't stop anybody from playing Saturday."

Keys also said defensive tackle Ed McQuarters, named CFL Lineman of the Year, was bothered by a sprained ankle. Al Ford was still suffering from rib injuries and Dale West a sore shoulder.

The Stampeders hope to overcome the jinx that if a team has a player named CFL player of the year, "it doesn't win the Grey Cup game.

Russ Jackson of Ottawa Rough Riders was named 1966 player of the year and top Canadian but Ottawa was defeated 29-14 by Saskatchewan in the 1966 football classic.

Tiger - Cats Sharpen Offensive Claws For Duel With Riders

HAMILTON (CP) — Coach Ralph Sazio says the only way for his Hamilton Tiger-Cats to beat Ottawa Rough Riders in their two-game, total-point Eastern Football Conference final is to monopolize the ball.

He may be setting his conference champions more of a task than appears at first glance as they prepare for Sunday's opener in Ottawa's Lansdowne Park.

The 2 p.m. EST game will be televised nationally by the CBC.

The Ticats hope to generate a lot more offence than they showed in winning 19 of their 14 league games, including wins over Ottawa in two of three meetings.

Even in losing two of three, the Riders outscored the Ticats 48-46—losing 16-14 and 32-17 before winning 17-8.

In their 10 victories, the Ticats managed only three lopsided scores—all against weak teams. They beat Winnipeg Blue Bombers 32-4 and Montreal Alouettes 19-1 and 26-4.

The secret of Hamilton's success this year has been defence, the toughest in the league allowing only 195 points. Ottawa allowed 207 points.

On the attack, only last-place Montreal scored fewer points—even though Hamilton end-place kicker Tommy-Joe Coffey won the conference scoring title with 107 points—as Hamilton picked up 250 compared with Ottawa's leading 337.

Ottawa's big threat is the arm of quarterback Russ Jackson and the speed of receivers Margene Adkins and Whit Tucker, along with the running of fullback Bo Scott and half Ron Stewart.

Neutralizing Jackson has been the aim of opposing coaches all season and Sazio is no exception.

Hamilton has been more successful than any other team and it may be the difference by the time the second game of the set—scheduled for Hamilton Nov. 25—is over.

On the season Hamilton's pass defence was the stingiest in the Canadian Football League, allowing 2,583 yards against passing.

The key man in the Hamilton defence is slender, Garney Henley. In this series he'll probably be assigned to watch Adkins and the battle between the two should be one of the series' highlights.

But Henley is ably supported by as fine a defensive backfield as there is in the league in Bill Redell, Ted Page, Bob Krouse and Dave Fleming.

They picked off 20 enemy passes during the season and helped the defensive line gobble up 20 of 36 opposition fumbles, compared with 19 of 36 by Ottawa.

The defence finally jelled into in the season when Ron Brewer came out of retirement to take over at middle linebacker and defensive end Billy Ray Locklin came back to his all-star form of the previous season.

These developments allowed Dave Viti to concentrate on his duties at the other end position and allowed tackles Angelo Mosca and John Barrow to concentrate on stopping the opposition's opposite quarterback.

Sazio has added Allen Smith, lately with Buffalo Bills of the American League, to his backfield to replace injured Dick Cohee.

Private Stations CBC, CTV All Demand Security From BBG

OTTAWA (CP) — The Board of Broadcast Governors marched into a tangled thicket Tuesday on the question of how second-channel television service should be brought to second-ary cities in Canada.

The only clear agreement among private broadcasters, the privately-owned CTV television network and the publicly-owned CBC to emerge after seven hours of discussion at a public hearing was that viewers everywhere would like to have a choice of program fare.

At the core of the discussion was a submission by 13 private-ly-owned TV stations, now CBC affiliates, serving in areas where they broadcast the only Canadian signal.

They expressed fears that they might be sunk financially with second stations in their areas without special considera-tion by the BBG.

Lawyer E. S. Eagle outlined the stations' dilemma.

If the CBC set up a corpora-tion-owned, corporation-operated station in their community, they would lose their affiliation and would have to find else-where 50 or more hours a week of programming they now get from the CBC.

The natural place to turn would be to CTV but some stations were not wanted by the private network and others could not afford to join it, Mr. Eagle said.

Only a few of the stations in more prosperous areas could see a possibility of successful operation outside both networks on the limited financial re-sources available, he added.

As a solution, the stations sug-gested they be allowed to carry programs from both networks in their areas.

This could be done initially by being allowed more flexibility in the CBC network programs they are required to carry, Mr. Eagle said. For example, CBC's Festival could be shifted to Fri-day from Wednesday night, al-lowing the station to show the CTV Wednesday night National Hockey League game.

Next step could be erection of a second transmitter tower. The station then could use one tower to carry signals of the CBC net-work and the other for the CTV network.

Gordon Keeble, CTV presi-dent, said there are only three smaller-market areas his net-work wants to move into at this time—Saint John, N.B., Sudbury and Saskatoon.

CTV did not want to force anyone out of business and if it could be demonstrated this would result "we will with-draw."

Ron Fraser, a CBC vice-presi dent, said corporation planing for complete national servic across the country includes eventual establishment of sta-tions owned and operated by the CBC in each province with a tied-in system of satellite sta-tions. The CBC had to have channels held for its future "liv-ing room" if it was to achieve this.

Bigger Prize List To Feature Dairy Show

More entries and a bigger prize list will feature the Cen-tennial year British Empire Dairy Show being held this year in Belleville on Nov. 28-30.

The show will again be held at 181 Front Street and plans for the cheese show, sponsor-ed by the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association, are well advanced.

The Association annual con-vention will be held at the Tops Motor Hotel — a switch from the Hotel Quinte loca-tion. The closing cheese mak-ers' banquet and dance will be held at Club Canara on Nov. 30.

A special feature of the ban-quet program will be the pre-sentation of pins to all Associa-tion past presidents. Ladies in old time costume will be wel-come.

This year's Ontario Dairy Princess, Marie Battaglini of Campbellford, will be a visitor at both the cheese show and the cheesemakers' annual con-vention and banquet. It is the first year that the Ontario Dairy Princess has been from the Central Ontario area.

Other visitors at the show will include Roland Balbo of Madison Wisconsin. Mr. Balbo is head of the world cheese show held every two years at Madison.

Debbie Skinkle, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Skinkle of R. She's probably more confused than most observers because at the area school she attends the township's name with the letter "h" on the end is considered proper spelling.

Try And Get One

"A Ticket, My Kingdom For A Ticket!"

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders have a two-game total-point series opening this weekend with Hamilton Tiger-Cats for the Eastern Football Conference, but fans here seem more concerned with the Grey Cup ticket situation than the immediate fate of their team.

In some ways, their concern is understandable. The Riders have been in the EFC final seven times in the last nine years, meeting Hamilton six times in that span.

But the last Grey Cup game played here was back in 1939—28 years ago.

With a new grandstand just opened this year, Lansdowne Park now can seat 27,684 customers for a football game. For the Grey Cup Dec. 2, there will be an additional 2,000 extra seats along the south sideline.

The new grandstand, on the north side of the field, has 14,-842 covered seats. An open stand on the south side holds 7,301 and the remainder of the regular seats are in the end zones.

But ticket distribution for the Canadian Football League championship is a CFL matter, not up to the host club, and so far Ottawa fans are limited to 6,000 seats.

This is less than half the number of season ticket subscribers and less than a quarter of the 27,085 fans who turned out for a scheduled game against Hamilton Sept. 17.

The Riders also will get a share of the new sideline seats, possibly as many as 1,000, and if they win the EFC title they get an additional 1,000 of the general seats.

But this still will not be enough to satisfy Ottawa fans.

Sam Berger, club team president, says: "There's a great deal of dissention among fans and we're making a great many enemies.

"If we get into the Grey Cup and win it most of the fans who can't get tickets may forgive us. But if we lose, we could be in trouble for, ticket sales next year."

Art team president, Berger can get only 10 tickets for himself, and already has personal requests for close to 1,000.

Berger had hoped to get some tickets returned from teams in the West, but early reports indicate that those will be sold by Western teams. In Vancouver, the B.C. Lions reported earlier this week that all their tickets have been sold.

Meanwhile, the Riders returned to the practice field Tuesday to get ready for the Hamilton series. Coach Frank Clair gave the players a day off Monday, but most of them returned up for film sessions to study the Hamilton players and plays.

Once A Broke Grocer

Millionaire Cash Shy!

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jerry Wolman once said it took friendly creditors and friendly banks to raise him from a bankrupt grocer to a multimillionaire sportsman and financier. Tuesday, he called on both to keep his diversified empire from tottering.

Wolman sold his interest in Philadelphia Flyers of The National Hockey League several weeks ago, but owns the new $12,000,000 Spectrum where the club plays.

The owner of Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League confirmed at a news conference he was in financial trouble because of a cash shortage and loans.

A report accounts prepared for Wolman listed his total assets at $32,182,846 and liabilities at $83,321,440. He said he sent the report to his three creditors, asking them to wait for their money.

He said all his assets but the Eagles were for sale, including the new $12,000,000 Spectrum.

Three Brothers Good for Eight Goals

Ivanhoe Knights had a trio of 'white knights', all answering to the name of Chapman, last evening.

Three Chapman brothers scored eight goals as Ivanhoe clobbered Wooler 8-0 in Centre Hastings Hockey League game.

Stirling Rebels won the other contest by default when Thomasburg Thunderbirds were unable to ice the required minimum of nine players for the game.

Bob and Gerry Chapman scored three Ivanhoe goals and Rich Chapman potted a pair. Another brother combo, Jack and Ralph Francis, had one goal each as did Dave Muir and Harold Douglas.

Waldedin marksmen were Fred Armstrong and Terry Casselman.

Flyers Nip Nationals

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Niagara Falls Flyers capitalized on a two-man advantage with four minutes left in the game to score a tie-breaking goal and go on to defeat London Nationals 4-2 in Ontario Hockey Association Junior A action Tuesday night.

Steve Atkinson lofted a 45-foot shot forward but Flyers' Garry Ted Oulmet's right hand at 15:0 of the third period while London defencemen Don Colbert and Bob Pate sat out minor penalties handed out 36 seconds apart.

The Nationals pulled Oulmet with 45 seconds left in favor of a sixth forward but Flyers' Garry Swain flicked a 125-footer down the ice and into the empty London goal to insure the Niagara victory.

Blues' Eben Most Valuable

TORONTO (CP) — Mike Eben of the University of Toronto Blues Tuesday was named most valuable player to his team by opposing players in the Senior Intercollegiate Football League.

Eben, a halfback and split end, led the league in pass catching with 30 over successive seasons. In 24 games, he caught 113 passes and gained 1,870 yards.

High Prices and Taxes Keep Implement Firms Out of West

OTTAWA (CP)—Western Canada will have to reduce land prices, lower taxes and improve training facilities for skilled labor if it is to attract farm equipment manufacturers, the one-man royal commission on farm machinery was told Tuesday.

A brief presented at a public hearing by New Holland division of Sperry Rand Corp. of New Holland, Pa., said Grand Island, Neb., was cut over Winnipeg as a site for the company's new combine plant.

"Corporate taxes would have been higher than in Nebraska, land costs in Winnipeg ran $300,000 more than in Grand Island for a comparable site, an 11-per-cent tax on building materials and production machinery in Manitoba would have made the initial cost of the plant considerably higher in Canada."

Replying to Dr. C. L. Barber, commission chairman, Kenneth Thompson, marketing director for New Holland explained the tax difference was considerable —$80,000 a year in Winnipeg and $50,000 in Nebraska.

The brief stressed many of the advantages of manufacturing farm equipment in Canada and said the increasing potential of Western Canada as a market for farm machinery would enhance its attractiveness for plant location in the future.

Free trade with the U.S. in farm machinery allowed Canadian plants to tool for volume production to serve the whole North American market.

The brief cites lower labor rates in Canada and the exchange rate on the dollar as advantages in locating in Canada. The drive for wage parity with the U.S. would "reduce or remove Canadian production advantages."

Strictly Personal

Love Is More Than A Feeling

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

One of the best arguments against marrying young is rarely made by those who caution against juvenile marriages. And that is the indisputable fact that the rate of intellectual, or spiritual, or emotional growth varies greatly with different individuals.

One kind of person, for instance, may have reached his or her maximum growth by the age of 18; nothing much of any consequence will happen to the person after that; he or she will remain the same, more or less.

Another person may have reached the same stage at 18, but with a latent capacity for personal growth in many areas. If these two young people decide to marry at 18, because they share the same interests or because of other mutual attractions, they may find that in a half-dozen years the latter has grown far away from the former.

Socrates has remarked that Washington is such a sad city, socially, because it is full of important men who married the girls they knew when they were young. The men continued to grow or, in some cases, merely to swell — and the women remained uncharmed with disastrous conjugal results.

Of course, the opposite is just as likely to happen in our female-educated society. Many women marry men whose mental and emotional lives have been stunted by vocational demands at an early age, while the wives go on to a higher plateau of comprehension and sensitivity — due to the affluence and leisure which such men are able to confer upon their wives, while they themselves remain chained to the wheel.

In both cases, the partner who has grown away feels guilty, while the other feels justifiably resentful. And there really is no "right" or "wrong," or anyone to blame, in such matters — for young couples in love never bother to reflect that while they may be on the same level at 18, one of them may already have stopped growing, while the other has completed only half the distance.

These tragedies are consequences of the great American myth that love is a "feeling" — and the feeling is all that counts. But feelings change as we grow older, and if the people do not change along with them — do not expand and mature — the feelings float away and attach themselves to other objects.

Love is a lot more than a feeling; it is, among other things, the ability to understand another person's needs, and the capacity to fulfill them. And that is a lot rarer than the movies and pop songs ever tell the young.

CITY CLERK.

John James is studying History, Economics, English Literature... and People!

John studies all kinds of people . . . shopping people! People who want something more than just items to put in their shopping buggy. People who like a little extra attention when they shop. And people who shop happily on their own. People in a hurry. People who have time to stop and chat. Newcomers who don't know "where to find it". Old friends who already know where it is. John's getting to know them all . . . and their needs. "People" are a big subject to study. Especially when added to your regular school curriculum. But, Dominion's "part-timers" like John have what it takes to make a success of both. These are the "part-timers" that Dominion chooses to be "full-timers" . . . "part-timers" who know you and your needs. Say hello to our "part-timers" in your favourite Dominion this week. Hope you don't mind being part of their study.
And all this time you thought they just stocked shelves and carried out groceries!

23 Turks Perish In Cyprus Strife

Greeks Yield To UN

NICOSIA (AP) — Tension eased on Cyprus today as Greek Cypriot troops withdrew at sunrise from two villages they overran in the most serious outbreak of communal fighting in nearly two years.

The government forces also released to UN peacekeeping troops about 250 Turkish-Cypriot men who had been rounded up in a house - to - house search Wednesday after eight hours of fighting.

The UN troops took control of the villages and prepared to return the men home.

In Ankara, Turkey's Cabinet met through the night, its armed forces were placed on the alert and Turkey's airports were closed to civilian traffic for several hours. But the Greek-Cypriot backdown appeared to ease the threat of retaliation from Turkey, 40 miles north of Cyprus, and the Turkish airports reopened.

UN sources in Nicosia said medical teams from the UN force found 23 Turkish-Cypriot bodies in the two villages 40 miles south of Nicosia, Turkish Kophinou and Greek-Turkish Ayios Theodorus.

10,000 Teen-agers Around World Phone Singing Star in Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ten thousand teen-agers from around the world telephoned Los Angeles late Wednesday night, cutting off all incoming long distance calls to Los Angeles County's 7,000,000 inhabitants.

Telephone company officials were frantic.

In response to published advertisements girls from Tokyo to Seattle to London called the publishing offices of Dig and Fifteen magazines collect, anxious for a chance to talk with Mark Lindsay, star of Paul Revere and the Raiders singing group.

A telephone company spokesman said the calls blocked incoming long distance calls to Los Angeles for almost two hours.

Pedlar in Panama City May Be Gestapo Chief

PANAMA CITY (AP) — Panamanian and West German police are investigating a greying, shabby pedlar arrested on suspicion that he is Heinrich Mueller, Hitler's last Gestapo chief and Adolf Eichman's boss.

The mystery man claimed he was 61-year-old U.S. citizen, Francis Willard Keith, born in Webb City, Mo., but Panamanian authorities said his German-accented English was barely intelligible.

His fingerprints were flown to West Berlin for comparison with those of Mueller, who was reported alive in Hitler's bunker just before the fall of the Nazis in 1945.

The chief of Panama's department of investigations, Hector Valdes, said there was a strong resemblance between the man arrested Tuesday and photographs of Mueller but his department had failed to connect the two.

"I don't believe he is the man," Valdes told a reporter.

West Germany's justice ministry said the suspect was identified as Mueller by a Belgian informant who also said a Belgian graphologist had confirmed the suspect's handwriting was that of the former lieutenant-general in Heinrich Himmler's SS (Elite Guard).

BERLIN (CP) — A press spokesman for the West Berlin city justice department confirmed today that the divorced wife of former Nazi Gestapo chief Heinrich Mueller said "that's him" when shown a picture of a man being held on suspicion in Panama.

City Prosecutor Gerhard Spletzer, reached earlier by telephone, said he could not confirm West Berlin newspaper accounts of the identification by Sophie Mueller.

The press spokesman, asked to comment on the newspaper accounts, declared: "I can confirm that Mrs. Mueller said: 'That's him.'"

Mrs. Mueller could not be reached for comment directly, Spletzer said only that he had been in Munich to see Mrs. Mueller.

Missiles Planned At Border

WASHINGTON (CP) — Ten potential defence missile sites — five on or near the Canadian border — were announced Wednesday by the U.S.

They will be surveyed for use in the so-called "thin" missile defence system the U.S. recently decided to build over six years for a $5,000,000,000. The official reason is a defence against a missile threat from China in the 1970s.

Sites will be surveyed at Seattle, Grand Forks, N.D., New York City, Detroit and Boston, said the U.S. defence department. Others are Chicago, Salt Lake City, Dallas, Albany, Ga., and Hawaii.

Sharp, Provincial Treasurers Start Two-day Economic Study

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Sharp is scheduled to open a two-day meeting of provincial finance ministers, today with a survey of economic prospects for 1968.

Informants said that generally the outlook will be it will be a boom year for the United States, but much less of a boom year for Canada.

Much depends, the economists say, on congressional action in Washington on a request by President Johnson for a 10-per-cent surcharge on income and corporation taxes, and on action by all governments in Canada to fight inflation.

Mr. Sharp set the tone last week when he announced federal government spending next year will be kept to an increase of 4% per cent over this year.

This is regarded as a severe limitation in view of government spending growth rates of 10 per cent in the last two years. Within the 4½ per cent must come price and wage increases, and other expenditure increases, geared to Canada's growing population.

Mr. Sharp will meet the provincial treasurers — three of them are premiers, as well — in a committee room on the West Block of the Parliament Buildings.

The meeting will be closed to the press and public, but some of the main statements may be made public. The Economic Council of Canada suggested two years ago that these annual conferences of finance ministers be open, so there can be more knowledgeable public debate about the subjects discussed.

After the review of the economic future, medical care insurance and tax reform measures are bound to be the main topics of discussion.

Toronto Hunter Injured In Accident at Hillier

TRENTON — A 37-year-old Toronto man is in critical condition in Toronto General Hospital this morning after an accidental point-blank shotgun blast hit car windows behind which he was sitting Wednesday afternoon.

Peter Vronos spent four hours in a Trenton Memorial Hospital operating room before being rushed by Rushnell ambulance to Toronto last night, accompanied by Dr. M. A. Bishop of Trenton.

The mishap occurred in Hillier township, about 15 miles south of Trenton along Highway 33.

Vronos was one of a party of four Toronto men who told police they were rabbit hunting. A second hunter, 19-year-old Paul Sarantopoulos, was approaching the party's car, police said, when he slipped and the 12 gauge shotgun he was carrying discharged.

The pellets shattered two car windows on the side occupied by the driver, Vronos.

The blast came from a distance of about five feet, police said. The other members of the party, Harry and Peter Panagapos, drove the injured men to hospital in Trenton where Sarantopoulous was treated for the loss of a finger.

A hospital spokesman said Vronos spent "about four hours" in surgery in Trenton, and was transferred to Toronto about 7:30 last night. Toronto General officials said this morning the injured man was undergoing further surgery for his extensive head wounds.

Picton Provincial Police were called to investigate.

Rocket Plane Pilot Is Killed

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — "I'm in a spin . . . I'm in a spin."

Those words from the calm-voiced pilot of an X-15 rocket plane that plunged into the desert from an altitude of more than 50 miles Wednesday left investigators with a mystery.

Air Force Maj. Michael J. Adams died in the crash. Adams reported control troubles, but officials say that alone wasn't enough to cause the crash.

A National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesman said Adams may have delayed pulling his ejection mechanism in a last-ditch effort to gain control. That delay may have cost him his life.

Adams was on his 11th flight. The craft was dropped from the belly of a B-52 at 10:20 a.m. and shot to about 203,000 feet on a routine research flight.

The X-15 burns its 19 tons of fuel in about 85 seconds as it accelerates. Then the ship moves over and begins the long dive to earth.

As it enters denser atmosphere the pilot begins to pull the craft out of its dive and begins a glide to a landing. This is where Adams ran into trouble.

The X-15 holds the record for manned flight at 4,534 miles per hour set Oct. 3, 1967. It also holds the record altitude mark of 354,200 feet—67 miles, set Aug. 22, 1963, by the late Joe Walker.

Stanfield Takes Seat in Commons

OTTAWA (CP) — It was a big day for Bob Stanfield, former premier of Nova Scotia.

Beginning at 10:30 a.m., Mr. Stanfield:

—Was sworn in as member of Parliament for Colchester-Hants.

—Took his seat in the Commons as leader of the official Opposition.

—Found himself voting against most of his Conservative followers and with the government.

—Opened the new Macdonald - Cartier library as Progressive-Conservative headquarters.

Joined critics of State Secretary Judy LaMarsh for her "ration management" charge against CBC top brass.

It was in all-party applause that Mr. Stanfield took his seat as "he Commons opened at 2:30 p.m.

He thanked all those who made him welcome and said a good opposition is essential to good government. If the Conservatives could improve the government, all Canadians would rejoice.

He took the front-row seat previously occupied by John Diefenbaker, Mr. Diefenbaker was absent.

Later in the day, Mr. Stanfield told a gathering at the opening of the new Macdonald - Cartier library that unless the Conservative party makes Canadian unity a fact today, it falls both the past and the future.

The party had to be a "genuine institution of innovation" and develop the habit of establishing precedents.

He switched briefly to French and got a round of applause. "I get more applause from those who live in Saskatchewan," he said with a smile.

The Blakely family, burned out of their Foxboro home in freezing weather, yesterday found neighbors responding to their distress, as offers of clothing, bedding and cash began trickling in. A subdued group of seven children watched their mother, Margaret, on the telephone as they found temporary shelter with relatives. Children (from left) are: Michael, 5, Rodney, 12, Barbara Ann; 8 Cathy, 13, David, 6, Sandra, 9 and 18-month-old Apryl.

Neighbors Come to Aid of Family Which Lost Its Home by Fire

A dash of neighborliness is something to savor when you've had a taste of bitter experience.

Ask Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Blakely.

Yesterday, they were homeless, without a single possession saved from the fire ruins of the Foxboro house they had been slowly improving for years.

Worse, they were without any but the bare clothing essentials for their seven children — the chief victim of the winter's-day blaze.

Today, the world is a warmer place — thanks mostly to their neighbors who, after witnessing the destruction of the Blakely home began rallying around.

Clothing and bedding were offered to the family.

One neighbor, Mrs. Jean Van Wyk, said last night she and other Foxboro residents were planning a fund for the distressed family.

"Everybody has just been wonderful," Bernard Blakely reacted today.

The 36-year-old truck driver with International Hardware has taken new heart from the gestures of neighborliness, and today is planning re-settling his family.

Tuesday night he worked late laying a new $120 plywood floor in the Foxboro home where he and his wife Margaret had lived for 13 years.

Yesterday morning he was called from work to find the house burning to the ground.

While the possessions of years were gone, Bernard however, pointed out the most important had been saved.

"We got all our children out," he said.

Last night he took the rest of the week off work to begin the job of relocation for his wife and children.

Temporarily, they have been divided among relatives in Belleville and Brighton.

But he hopes to have them all united by Monday when he returns to work.

Bernard says he already has a house in mind in Foxboro.

He also intends to rebuild his home and continue living in the village.

"My neighbors have been good," he emphasizes. "I don't like to move away from them."

Kiwanis Club president, John Trafford, and club member Albert Kroetsch are repair team on the Kiwanis Christmas Toy Project.

Kiwanians Fixing Toys

That's the word going out these days from the Dundas Street Kiwanis Centre where club members are working on their annual toy repair project.

Club member, Don Finkle, who for many years had headed up the service club toy project says club members and volunteers have been hard at work for more than a month repairing a wide assortment of tricycles, toy trucks and trains which, come Christmas time will be distributed among underprivileged children in the city and district.

Following repair, the toys receive a new paint job at a local "paint shop. And thanks to the efforts of a volunteer ladies' organization all the dollies get new dresses.

Then a few days before Christmas city firemen pick up the toys and dolls, add in a quantity of new toys, play equipment, candies and nuts, and play Santa Claus to the children of district needy families.

Each year between three and four thousand wagons, kiddie cars, dolls and doll carriages are repaired and given away through the toy project.

So the demand for used toys continues. They may be left at any Shell service station, at either Trafford, or dropped off at the Kiwanis Centre.

Joss Will Not Run

Alderman Donald Joss, member of city council for the past four years, will not seek re-election at the December 4 municipal election.

In making the announcement today Ald. Joss said his decision not to run was not based on lack of interest in civic or public affairs.

"It is my feeling that a councillor after spending two terms on city council should take a leave of absence from city government and observe it as a citizen for a while," he said. "Too long on a body, be it elected or appointed, tends to get one in a rut and not willing to accept new ideas."

"Experience is certainly an important qualification," he went on, "but we must realize that we look to our staff at city hall for experience and administrative ability, whereas the city council must be looked to for policy initiation and action."

Noting that most successful businesses were continually changing and moving their key staff to get the maximum value from available talent, Mr. Joss said he hoped the voters of Belleville will carefully select their aldermanic candidates and search out new talent, new ideas and new approaches to pressing city problems.

"If this is done, civic government will continue to be a strong and effective one," he said.

Since his election to council four years ago Alderman Joss has served on the Parks and Recreation Commission, and also has been a member of the planning board.

Former Trenton Publisher Leaves $60,000 for Minor Sport

TRENTON — The will of a former Trenton newspaper publisher contains a stipulation for a $60,000 grant for promotion of minor sport — if it can be matched by a community service group.

A spokesman from the Belleville office of Victoria and Grey Trust Company, sole executors for the estate of J. Nowlan Slocomb, said this morning a similar offer was made in the will to two other Ontario communities.

Mr. Slocum, owner and publisher of the Courier-Advocate during the latter part of his life in Trenton, shared his early journalism days in Trenton with Roy Thomson, now Lord Thomson of Fleet and the world's foremost newspaper tycoon.

The Victoria and Grey spokesman says that the grants — 20 year annuities — are offered to the communities of Trenton, Tiverton and Little Current on Manitoulin Island.

Mr. Slocum who died within the last year, spent much of his life in Northern Ontario.

The will stipulates the $3,000 annual grants must be used in the promotion of minor sports and must be matched by local groups in the respective centres.

The executors are now awaiting response from letters sent to service organizations in the three communities to determine local response to the offer.

Another Facet of Rural Life Ends with Post Office Closing

The modern trend to centralization is to mean the end of another facet of rural life which has been a part of the Moira district 15 miles north of Belleville for well over a century.

On January 15 the 125-year-old rural post office is to be closed out with area residents after that date to get their mail through the Roslin office.

On that date about 200 box holders will see their addresses changed from R. R. 1 Moira, to R. R. 2 Roslin — and even calling the moving van.

The change will also mean that M. H. Thompson operator of the village store and post office, will lose a sizeable slice of his annual income. And rural mail courier, Frank Emerson, will be out of the job which he has held for three decades.

Four years ago there was talk of the Moira post office closing but a petition fired off to Ottawa delayed the fall of the axe.

This time a second petition with more than 100 names was taken up but so far without success — or response.

Postmaster Thompson who took over the Moira General store and post office from Mrs. Frank Herity about 10 years ago sees the pending post office closure as another indication that the rural districts are being left out in the cold toward centralization.

"The rural districts are being forgotten. First it was the schools and now the post offices — they are receiving no consideration at all", he says.

For Mr. Thompson the move will have its financial implications. He claims the loss of the postal revenue could result in his income being pared to the extent that he will also have to close the store.

He forsees loss of store revenue through residents no longer having to come in to get their mail.

The Moira office serves slightly more than 50 families for which it is all personally for their mail. The other 40 families get their mail by rural delivery.

Restore Service This Afternoon

Approximately 700 telephone subscribers in the northeast section of the city were without service this morning as a result of underground cable trouble near the corner of Camilton Road and College Street.

Telephone repair crews were on the job early, but a broken six-inch watermain in the same area immediately caused a water problem.

Chas. Buckley, Bell Telephone Manager, today at noon said service would be restored by three o'clock this afternoon.

E. L. Burnham, manager of the Belleville Public Utilities, said a break in a six-inch watermain had been discovered just north of College Street.

He said Utilities crew m e n were also on the job and would work continuously until the watermain break was repaired. He expected this would be some time tonight.

A telephone crewman said it appeared the cable trouble spot was where the pole cable line carrying the 700 wires dipped underground to cross under neath Camilton Road at College Street.

It was expected that a hole may have occurred in the plastic cable covering allow i n g water to get in and short the wires.

Telephone workers dug down only about a foot when the hole filled with water faster than it could be pumped out.

Public Utilities m a n a g e r Burnham said the watermain break was in a six inch line installed a number of years ago by Thurlow township when the Hillcrest area was still outside the city.

The main served the entire Hillcrest-Bonnell area north of College and also Hillcrest before the recent installation of the new 24-inch transverse main in that section of the city.

New Track at Quinte

Quinte Secondary School will have a new track, at least in principle," Ray of Quinte High School Board decided last night.

Prior motion of accepting the idea in principle was the result of board members wanting more information.

The proposed track will cost $12,000, a goal to which the students of Quinte Secondary have raised $3,000. The students have promised $1,000 more, as well.

In a report submitted by D. C. Stirling, Superintendent of Secondary Schools for this area, it was decided that effective last Monday no dessert would be served with the regular meals in the cafeteria.

To obtain dessert a student now must pay extra for it. The board carried a motion that a committee be formed to look into catering in the schools.

The refrigeration plant at Centennial Secondary School was the subject of long discussion by the board.

CARDS OF THANKS

We would like to say thanks so much to everyone for their best wishes with cards, gifts and calls to the office, in making our anniversary such a pleasant and memorable occasion.

Sincerely Gerald and Helen Bailey.

Even 3-year-old Jeffery Likes School

SHANNONVILLE — Little Jeffery Lepp last night went exploring a brand-new scene that will shortly be his to share with many more youngsters near here.

The three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Lepp was probably the youngest visitor among more than 300 as Tyendinaga township opened its new consolidated public school.

He busily explored every one of the eight classrooms — tried the blackboards and even a piano used for music lessons — in the sparkling new $225,000 building where he will shortly begin his education.

His interest was matched by that of parents and township councillors viewing the institution which marks the new trend in local education.

The school, now with an attendance of more than 200, replaces 10 one-room units in a 100-square-mile area and ends the era of the one-room school house here.

The official opening last night was marked by the traditional ribbon-cutting ceremony performed by Clarke Rollins, MPP Hastings, assisted by six-year-old Cindy Lou Wilke, a grade 1 student.

The school's construction was also of satisfactory note to the local taxpayer.

Cost estimates when the bills for construction and outfitting were submitted were only $182 more than estimated, noted school board secretary - treasurer Steve Gonejia.

In a time when large deficits on public projects are not uncommon, the Tyendinaga school represented "quite an accomplishment," he said.

Centennial Costume Ball Will Close Celebration

More than 500 are expected to throng the city armory for the city's Centennial Ball — the grand finale of local yearlong celebrations marking Canada's first century.

There'll be music and dancing through the evening—with the excitement accentuated by colorful costumes.

Tickets for the event have been on sale and the organizers hope the patrons will mark the event by climbing into Centennial costumes.

Others also are watching ticket sales.

The ball, for all its gaiety has a serious side.

Proceeds from ticket sales will be turned over by the city's Centennial committee to Belleville firefighters.

In turn, they will use the cash for their Christmas children's fund.

There's another big bonus on hand for those attending.

Bobby Gimby, the famous musician who penned "Canada" — the hit which became the Centennial's national signature tune — is appearing as top guest star.

And for those who made an extra effort through the year to help Belleville and Bellevillians celebrate the big birthday party, there's also a reward.

Now being readied by PM Industries are more than 70 plaques.

The emblems will be presented at a banquet preceding the dance, honoring the many groups and personalities who volunteered time and effort and put frosting on the civic birthday cake.

More than 400 certificates also are being drawn up marking citizen service to the Centennial.

'Home Ownership' Subject of Talk

Gerald Joyce was the guest speaker last night at the anniversary of the Emmanuel Baptist Men's Group in the Church Hall, on Rollins Drive.

The subject for the speech was, quite appropriately, "Home Ownership." He divided his speech into different areas and first gave a little history of the real estate field and the Canadian Association of Real Estate Boards.

The first part of his speech was about the nature of real estate and real property was defined. "Land itself cannot disappear . . . and with the passage of time tends to increase (in value) rather than decrease," said the speaker.

Mr. Joyce then went on to discuss the economic significance of the value of land and the competition that resulted from this value as well as the "make work" aspect of real estate. He also referred to real estate as "a basis for taxation", "a basis for credit" and a "speculation."

Value captured the speaker's attention next along with the economics of property and Mr. Joyce took a few moments more to discuss home ownership with the audience.

He listed the advantages of owning your own property and said that the economic reason for doing so is the most important. He said that you cannot freeze your accommodation debt for more than a couple of years when you rent but that by buying "it is the only cost of living that you can control 25 years in advance."

He finished his talk stating that most probably before your home has been paid off the owner would have been tempted to sell for 200 per cent of the original price and in the meantime "the home has been your castle."

Tender

PICTON — Prince Edward Collegiate Institute board Tuesday decided to recommend acceptance of a tender on the new $1.5 million addition.

High tender was almost $1,400,000. Additional costs for equipment and architect's fees will raise the total price for the new wing to $1,550,000, just over the estimated cost from the Ontario Department of Education. Equipment cutbacks should bring this figure to within reach of the original estimate.

The new addition will include eight classrooms and several technical, option shops, laboratories, a lecture room, and a new gymnasium.

Herbert McCabe Dies Suddenly At Hunting Camp in North

Long a public figure in the Belleville area and operator of the Bay of Quinte Fisheries for a quarter of a century, Mr. Herbert McCabe, 260 Bleecker Ave., died suddenly yesterday at his Weslemkoon Lake area hunting camp.

Death was believed to have been the result of a heart attack. The hunting camp was at Noisy Lake.

Born at Hay Bay, Mr. McCabe was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William T. McCabe and had lived practically all his life in the Belleville area.

A lifetime sportsman, he had hunted deer for more than 35 years. He was a member of the Belleville Fish and Game Club and was a director of the Eastern Ontario Fisherman's Association. He was a former member of the Belleville Harbor Commission and a one time game warden for the Belleville area.

A staunch Liberal, he was a past president of the Belleville Liberal Association, and also the Hastings South Liberal Association. He was an adherant of Bridge Street United Church.

He is survived by his wife, the former Effie Matthews, one son Ralph, of Toronto and three daughters, Mrs. Jack (Jean) Bullin of Lethbridge, Alta.; Mrs. Charles (Doris) Ford of Belleville, and Mrs. Max (Isobel) Maguire of Stirling. There are 16 grandchildren and one great grandaughter.

Two sisters, Mrs. Ross (Emma) Perry of Chatham, and Miss Hazel McCabe of Kingston also survive.

The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon from the Thompson Funeral Chapel with interment in Belleville Cemetery.

Easy does it.

Maybe for you. Not for us. When it comes to making 5 Star, there's only one way. The difficult way. Which means selecting whiskies from our five distilleries across Canada (only Seagram's has five, by the way). Then blending and re-blending them to get 5 Star's easy taste.

Is it worth it? For you, definitely. And once you start telling your friends about this easy whisky they're missing, it'll be worth it for us too.

By the way, have you seen our elegant new bottle? Easy on the eye.

Motorists Frustrated

Belleville motorists must be a breed apart to put up with the archaic traffic movement evidenced during Tuesday's storm.

For the hour between five and six o'clock the entire downtown area was a snarling mass of steaming drivers. It can be said that the only thing which resolved the dilemma was time — certainly not any planned attack.

It raises certain questions which should be forcibly brought to the attention of every candidate seeking office this Dec. 4.

For Ald. Russell Scott, Ald. Arthur Keegan and supporters who halted all work on the Dundas Street bridge — not just planning for the western approach — they should be penalized to ride the Coleman-Front-Pinnacle-Bridge figure eight at five o'clock for a week.

If the police department assumes point duty men at three downtown intersections are sufficient, senior officials should have their wives drive along Coleman street. West Moira and across the Upper Bridge — especially in snowy storms.

If the works department is having trouble with its weather forecaster it should change. This newspaper and the radio had early morning reports of four-inch snowfalls on the way with the main burden to come exactly when it did — in late afternoon.

Let not Mayor Ellis and the rest of council go unscathed. There should be a top priority placed upon traffic movement in downtown Belleville.

It is bad enough that antiquated traffic controls require through traffic to pass through the main business section. It will be disastrous if solutions are delayed to the point that atrophy of this important tax revenue source becomes a blight.

Campaign Oratory

Aldermanic candidate Ian Reilly has twice within two weeks challenged the integrity of city council and the Belleville Industrial Commission.

In announcing his candidacy Oct. 27, he said "council members must be willing to speak out regardless of whose toes they step on, and I do not feel this is the case with many council members at present."

On Monday night of this week, in referring to the community centre decision, he said: "The time has come for those elected in council to stand up and be counted by everyone, not just the few who seem to wield power in this city."

It is our opinion the present members of city council were quite explicit where they stood on the community centre question.

For more than Mr. Reilly has given any evidence he is going to be, if these opening shots indicate the tenor of his campaign.

As to the industrial commission he waved any even vague wand in plumping for cutting off the city council from charging the commission is not trying to bring any and all industry here for reasons best known to themselves."

These are the innuendos and negative criticisms which do no good to any city. These tactics have been considered pasee by most positive-thinking politicians for many years.

The Belleville and District Labor Council at which Mr. Reilly spoke did little to increase his stature by a blanket endorsement and a campaign contribution to Mr. Reilly's expenses.

If he wishes to put himself forward as a logical replacement for sibling or retiring aldermen he has three weeks in which to substantiate his allegations.

Then if elected, he might find out that loyalty to the community transcends even such things as labor affiliations or party politics. It might be an interesting development to watch if the future of the community were not at stake.

The IQ Syndrome

The thicker the girl's ankle the more interesting she is. This is one of the findings of an inter-university research team which made a study of 140 Canadian athletes at the Pan-American Games in Winnipeg.

From this gem it may be deduced that no factor is irrelevant in seeking to arrive at the truth. Dr. W. F. Barry of the University of Ottawa says tests on the males demonstrate that IQ scores are also positively related to general physique. The better the build the better the brain.

It is ironic that the $75,000 grant the university obtained for this research came from the United States Office of Education. Could this be because the United States is perhaps more IQ-oriented than this country and has firms that do nothing else but dream up new tests for luckless students?

In any event it is another indication of the extent to which this country is dependent on United States' capital — here in the university as in other spheres.

Finance Minister Plays Politics with "Restraint" Plea

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — The provincial treasurers came to town today to hear from Finance Minister Sharp what he can do with their help — proposes doing about inflation with its rising cost-of-living and falling purchasing power of the dollar.

The mayors and other representatives of some 50 leading Canadian municipalities have had the treatment.

The Finance Minister is being very sporting about it.

He is appealing for public support — been doing it, without much success, for a couple of months now — for "restraint" on cost, wage and price increases, now under the pressure of promised tax hikes.

Meanwhile, he has been given warning that he is going to have a nationally-spotlighted opportunity to practise what he preaches and make the Federal Government a national example of good economic housekeeping.

And not the unconvincing examples of cutting "hundreds upon hundreds of millions of dollars," as Prime Minister Pearson described it, from next year's Government spending program—some, perhaps much of it money that wouldn't have been spent anyway.

Presenting him, exquisitely timed, this real chance of a finance minister's lifetime to set th. style in restraint are the Federal Government's own seaway workers in particular and civil servants in general.

The seaway workers — who, three years ago, reached the match to the inflation rocket with the 30 percent wage increase the Government gave them to end their strike — are back for another 2¢ percent.

And the vast army of the 300,000 Civil Service begins collective bargaining in the new year with the Government.

Canada's financial leaders—and even some very senior Federal bureaucrats such as Civil Service Commissioner Chairman John J. Carson — have charged publicly that the Government itself is to blame for inflation by over-spending, over-staffing and with some of its people, over-paying.

Politicians — and Mitchell Sharp and his Cabinet colleagues are as political as they come — get elected by promising more programs, more welfare (medicare) and more handouts. They never get elected by promising more taxes.

But they must pay off their promises.

And there are only three ways of raising the money: 1. Increasing taxes; 2. Borrowing from the public through sale of Government bonds; 3. printing more currency.

The Finance Minister already has gone just about the limit with Bond issues — and, indeed the experts, even beyond the acceptable limit of printing more dollars.

That leaves taxes.

But raising taxes is obviously politically unpalatable.

So what to do?

Easy.

Plead for public support for "restraint."

This shifts the glare of responsibility from the public sector (the Government) to the private sector (business, industry, and the wage and salary earners) of the economy.

Then, when the pleas don't work all that well — and wages and prices continue up, some, as in the automobile industry, towards parity with American levels — break the end, had now of the tax increase.

Break it gently, with reluctance. Be it more in sorrow than in anger.

But do it with a straight face, emphasizing how unpalatable it is personally for you as Finance Minister to take this hard course that, unfortunately, has been necessitated by the failure of business, industry and labor to hold the line.

That way, you, as the Finance Minister, get out from under public blame and credibility take your big-spending Government with you.

Name of the game is politics. Or, as bluff old C. D. "Trader" Howe, the straight-talking former Trade Minister, used to say: "Tax and spend, tax and spend."

And isn't that exactly what has happened?

Ottawa's Cash Needs Increasing

Montreal Gazette

The speech which Mr. Louis Rasminsky, Governor of the Bank of Canada, delivered recently before the Canadian Club of Winnipeg was something of a cry of anguish. As a warning it was all the more impressive, as it was also a confession that his best efforts as Governor of the Bank of Canada are failing to control the unheeding rise of inflation.

In the past Governors of the Bank of Canada have been able to regulate the rate of inflation fairly well by decreasing or increasing the money supply, by the prudent and calculated exercise of the monetary powers placed in their hands. But what Mr. Rasminsky said in a warning that inflation has gone quite beyond his control.

There is no great mystery to what has been happening. The country is spending what it does not have, and labor, again and again, is demanding far beyond what it is producing.

How the federal government's cash requirements have gone up is seen in the fact that two years ago they amounted to $1bn million. Last year they had swollen to $720 million. In the current year its disbursements of all sorts will exceed its receipts of all sorts by nearly $1,-600 million. Most of this amount will have to be borrowed.

Mercenaries A Problem

Manchester Guardian

Mercenaries in Africa symbolize the failure of African states to maintain stability within their boundaries and, when stability breaks down, to fight their own wars effectively. Mercenaries represent only themselves. But they pose a grovelling political and moral problem for their countries of origin, not unlike the problems attendant on the supply of arms to inflammable areas.

Toronto Just Wants To Be Toronto

From a recent address by Toronto Metro Chairman William Allen

Recently a Toronto newspaper publisher said we lack the type of leader they have in Montreal or New York. I don't want to be like Montreal or New York, or Los Angeles, or any of the other forty metropolitan cities who came to Toronto this year with envy to see what we have. I don't want to be like Montreal where they pay anywhere from ½ to ¾ per cent more to borrow money for their municipal purposes than the taxpayers of Metropolitan Toronto have to pay. Rather an objective test which we can hold up in pride of what we are doing in the way in which we are doing it. I don't want to be like Montreal, even though Mayor Jean Drapeau has endorsed and is promoting a federated municipal structure similar to Metropolitan Toronto for the Island of Montreal and surrounding areas. This was a term item in early September, which was not given much prominence in our newspapers.

I do not want to be like New York with all of their attendant social problems, among other things, their overcrowded population. I do not want to be like New York, where the mayor of New York, Mayor John Lindsay budgeted expenditures of over $3-million for his last campaign. His defeated Democratic opponent went for over $1.5-million in campaign expenses. I do not want to be like Los Angeles, where public transportation has been sacrificed for expressways to the detriment of over - all planning and the convenience of its population. I want Toronto to be Toronto for what we are and for what we have and what we can attain.

We can improve in many ways. Achievements and accomplishments will be brought within our grasp much more quickly and advantageously if we have the unified support of news media, citizenry and other levels of government. Let us change our system only when we can satisfy ourselves that the result is predictable and helpful, not only to satisfy a minority at the most situation" or to satisfy a desired change for the sake of change, or for any other reason.

Lift your spirits and express your pride in Metropolitan Toronto openly. As a good citizen, acquaint yourself with what is being done in Metropolitan Toronto which is still Canada's largest organized metropolis, still and will remain the English speaking capital of Canada. This is your Metropolitan Toronto — second to none.

Love Versus War in A Warring World

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

Your editorial of last Friday in praise of war averred in part "young people prattle about making love not war, forgetting that war is basic to human nature, and that it stems from the need to preserve prestige and self-esteem, spheres of influence and beliefs without which men simply are not men."

War was certainly basic to the human nature of primitive man, along with such other basic natural activities as torture and murder, rape, theft and destruction visited on weaker neighboring tribe or clan.

No doubt evolution and civilization have not yet completely bred out many basic elements of base human nature.

Because war may still be basic to large areas of human nature is not in justify it as an acceptable form of conduct.

Animals have similar basic urges and grow and raise their hackles and generally feel great about the increased flow of adrenalin.

Kids of school age also enjoy contact sports and some fights and combat, and no doubt it is for them, at their stage of development physiologically healthy.

Animals, however, lack the human murder instinct and kill only for food with rare exceptions.

This fine human instinct which you would exalt over the love you would exalt over the love you would exalt over the love

Multi-million Dollar Coal Deal with Japan Is Simmering

VANCOUVER (CP) — Negotiators working on a multi-million-dollar coal deal with Japan hope agreement will be reached soon.

Officials of Crows Nest Industries Ltd., whose vast British Columbia coal deposits are owned by Kaiser Steel Corp. of California, were in Japan again this week working on details.

If agreement is reached, the deal could mean $80,000,000 poured into development of coal deposits in the southeastern corner of British Columbia and an export contract that could be worth about $50,000,000 a year to the provincial economy.

Kaiser officials have said they hope the contract will be signed before the end of the year.

The biggest stumbling block is transportation.

When contract talks with the Japanese began, CNR was unable to reach agreement with Canadian Pacific Railway on a price for shipping the coal to Ridewater at Vancouver. Later, Crows Nest said it would build 90-mile rail spur to connect with the Great Northern Railway line through the U.S.

Under this plan, the coal would be shipped through the U.S. to a new port to be built at Roberts Bank, B.C., just south of here.

The provincial government said it planned to sponsor construction of a "superport" at Roberts Bank to handle large bulk-carrying ships.

Recently, the federal transport department announced it too planned to construct a super-port at Roberts Bank, but in stages over the next 30 years.

Last week, following meetings in San Francisco between provincial Transport Minister Robert Bonner and Kaiser officials, it was disclosed Kaiser may use both rail routes.

Under this proposal, part of the 3,000,000 tons-a-year shipment would move via CPR over the Canadian route, and part would move through the U.S. via Great Northern.

Albert P. Heiner, Kaiser's vice-president of traffic, said that in addition to the 3,000,000-ton contract, it is hoped that between 300,000 and 500,000 tons a year could be moved through a B.C. port to Kaiser's steel plant at Fontana, Calif.

Kaiser is understood to have proven up more than 100,000,000 tons of coal in its initial studies of the CNR mines. Large-scale development of these deposits would involve substantial investment in Kaiser in new equipment and other facilities, estimated between $50,000,000 and $70,000,000.

Officials say if there is to be a contract, it must be signed soon. CNR's current Jeppesike contract involving 900,000 tons annually expires in the spring of 1968.

Mr. Bonner has said that B.C. will proceed with its own Roberts Bank port development provided a deal involving Kaiser is signed. The terminal, he said, would be needed by 1976.

Mayoralty Candidates Lead Discussion with Homebuilders

A political plum had a lot of jokes squeezed out of it last night when Fred Deacon, guest speaker, presented the Chamber of Commerce's proposed "Magic Circle" to the Quinte Homebuilders' Association plan. He emphasized the necessity of the Dundas street bridge project for the realization of urban redevelopment. Both Mayor Jack Ellis and mayoralty candidate Dr. J. Russell Scott were present.

Mr. Deacon came out strongly for the completion of the project as quickly as possible, after quoting figures on the cost of the project he appealed to the homebuilders by pointing out the $1,000,000 loss in assessment to the downtown area which is costing the city $40,000 annually in lost taxes.

"Can Belleville afford to lose $40,000 this year and it will happen again next year if something is not done about it," he asked. Lost taxes will have to be made up through the residential assessment, he continued, "which represent two-thirds of Belleville's assessment."

Mr. Deacon told the builders that they are being hurt and that it would be to their advantage to support the "Magic Circle" which "first entails the completion of the Dundas street project," he concluded.

Mayor Jack Ellis congratulated the Chamber of Commerce for their work on the mall idea and explained the bridge project to the group and said he felt it was necessary. He referred to the city council meeting I've missed all year." "Work would have been under way today on the bridge if a motion to stop all work hadn't been passed in my absence."

The mayor continued, "I am extremely sorry that this thing was cancelled . . . I don't think the motion would have been brought up if I had been there."

"We are over planned and under developed," began mayoralty candidate Russell Scott. "We should be telling people what they can do rather than what they can't do," he said. "This would be a change in method."

Dr. Scott said that the deficiences are too high and that they should be paid off before another major project was undertaken. "Taxes will go up five or six cents next year even if we don't spend another nickel."

The doctor felt that the bridges should be built but that it should be built first and that the rest of the project should follow gradually.

Gerald Joyce asked both men to make a statement about the community centre. Dr. Scott refused to comment and said only that "there has been too much said about it already — I stand on my record."

Mayor Ellis made an emphatic statement. "There will be an arena (community centre), it will be built in Belleville and we will be proved of it." "I hope to see it built next year." Mayor Ellis felt that the arena project was tabled because "there was not enough information before council." "I don't think we would have got serious tenders for the construction because everything about the centre was still so nebulous."

23 Turks Perish

UN headquarters in Nicosia said the number of casualties had not been established, but seven wounded Turkish-Cypriot civilians had been evacuated to Nicosia.

Turkish President Cevdet Sunday broke off a tour of Turkey's eastern provinces to hurry back to Ankara. Gen. Cemal Tural, chief of the Turkish general staff, met twice during the night with the cabinet. One of the commanders told newspapermen the armed forces had been put on the alert and might intervene in Cyprus "if necessary."

Turkish Premier Suleyman Demirel said the cabinet would inform the Parliament about the situation on Cyprus. In answer to queries, he did not say the crisis had lessened but noted that Greek-Cypriot troops had pulled back.

A diplomat in Ankara said it was believed pressure from the Greek government in Athens played a role in the withdrawal.

Turkish Ambassador Turan Tuhi conferred in Athens today with Greek Foreign Undersecretary Constantine Christopoulos but there was no announcement afterward.

Turkish-Cypriot leaders accused the Greek-Cypriots of attacking first.

The commander of the UN peace force for Cyprus, Gen. I. E. Martola of Finland, reported that Greek-Cypriot troops disarmed UN posts in the two villages, seized his troops' equipment and disabled the UN radio equipment. He made a strong protest to the Cypriot government. Some 700 Canadians make up a major portion of the force.

The Greek-Cypriot government claimed that the fighting started when a police patrol was fired on as it passed through the Turkish sector of Ayios Theodoroi. The police returned the fire, the government said, and the fighting spread to nearby Kophinou, on the island's busiest highway between Nicosia and Limassol.

UN sources said there were no reports of any injuries to UN units composed of British troops manning posts in the area.

Wilson Seeks Billion Loan to Support Pound

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Wilson called a cabinet meeting today amid a deepening atmosphere of crisis over Britain's financial situation.

Informants reported that his government is seeking a massive loan, probably totalling $1,800,000,000, to bolster the increasingly shaky position of the pound sterling. The immediate reaction was alarm and criticism from members of Wilson's Labor party.

Britain's international trading position, hard hit by dock strikes and the Middle East war's closure of the Suez Canal, has seat the pound tumbling to its lowest position for years.

Financial authorities said it would come under still sterner pressure this weekend as foreign holders of sterling switch to other currencies for fear of devaluation-unless new and impressive foreign credits could be arranged.

These credits, authoritative sources said, are being sought from advanced industrial nations, among them the United States, Canada, West Germany and Switzerland.

But the big question in the lobbies of Parliament was whether Wilson's government could accept the inevitable conditions tied to the credits—conditions almost certainly demanding cuts in social welfare programs.

These would involve detailed control of imports of the kind which a previous Labor regime tried after the Second World War.

Coupled with controls would be a sequestration of Britain's immense overseas investments, estimated at more than £10,000,000,000 ($30,000,000,000), most of it in private hands, to back the pound's international value.

Sequestration is a suggestion made by some Labor MPs but it has not reached an official stage yet, and may never do so.

During the Second World War, the government forced the sale of stocks held by British subjects in overseas companies and gave them government bonds in exchange—in effect, pounds for dollars. Similar action could now be taken by a vote of Parliament.

Without measures of this kind, these Laborites believe, a devaluation of the pound would be inevitable.

Debate Capital Punishment

Stanfield Takes Seat, Splits With Most PCs

OTTAWA (CP) — Robert Stanfield took his seat in the House of Commons as leader of the official Opposition Wednesday and, before the day was out, found himself voting in opposition in most of his Conservative party.

The division came on a motion by Roland Godin (Creditiste - Portneuf) to adjourn debate for the rest of the day on a government bill to limit the death penalty to murderers of police men and prison guards for a five-year trial period.

The motion was defeated, 125 votes to 71, and this was immediately interpreted by some supporters of the bill as evidence that it is on its way to passage.

Margaret Rideout, parliamentary secretary to Health Minister MacEachen, and Stanley Knowles, New Democrat House leader, both said the result is an indication the bill will go through.

The vote on second reading, approval in principle, now is expected to come tonight. If the bill gets through, it is then up for clause-by-clause study before third and final reading in the Commons.

On the motion to adjourn debate Wednesday, Mr. Stanfield told his followers they were free to vote as they chose. Fifth - seven chose to vote for adjournment, along with five Creditistes, three Social Credit members, three independents and three Liberals.

Mr. Stanfield and 15 other Conservatives voted with 96 Liberals, including Prime Minister Pearson, and 15 New Democrats against adjournment.

Either way, the result could have no practical effect on the progress of the capital - punishment debate. It was already 6:30 p.m. EST when the vote was taken and the Commons always sets government business aside at 8 p.m. on Wednesdays to consider bills sponsored by individual MPs. As for the next day, the government calls the order of business each day and capital "punishment would be coming up again today in any case.

But the adjournment motion did demonstrate the anxiety of the government to press on with the bill. When Mr. Godin made his motion at 4:40 p.m., after a fierce attack on the bill, many seats in the Commons were empty. The division bells were kept ringing for 40 minutes, to permit many members to regain their seats before the voting proceeded.

After Mr. Stanfield took the front-row seat formerly occupied by John Diefenbaker, who was absent, Mr. Pearson walked across the aisle to shake his hand, and the Commons applauded. The public galleries were packed for the occasion.

The prime minister assured him of his intention "to co-operate with him in every possible way," although not to the extent of bringing down the government and forcing an election.

New Democrat leader T. C. Douglas praised the former Nova Scotia premier as "a man of high dedication" who would handle his responsibilities in such a way as to bring "credit to himself, distinction to his party and benefit to the people of Canada."

Honor System Works

Attendance Optional at BCI--Will Other Schools Follow Leader?

By STEVE BISHOP
Youth Reporter

The Grade 13 students at BCI are operating on the honor system this year.

The system, which is not in use at any other high school in the city, makes attendance at Grade 13 classes optional.

Moira and Quinte Secondary Schools use the permissive system, whereby a student is compelled to attend classes, but may do as he likes with his free periods, or spares.

William McKay, principal of BCI claims he initiated the honor system after noting its effectiveness at other schools in the province. A meeting of four Grade 13 teachers and the presidents and vice-presidents of the four classes was convened during the second week in September to discuss the proposal.

The students and teachers brought the ideas back to the student body and teaching staff. Two subsequent meetings and an overwhelming endorsement of the proposal by both students and teachers, plus a favorable vote by the original committee, brought the honor system into being in October.

The Board of Education presented no objections to the adoption of the system.

Mr. McKay indicated in a recent interview, that the system has certain reservations. "If a student is continuously absent from class and has not kept his work up to date for an extended period, such as two weeks, the teacher of that class may refuse him admittance until his work is caught up."

"For the most part the system has not been abused in this manner," Mr. McKay stated. "Students may skip classes to attend such functions as football games." Mr. McKay said.

"Some things come ahead of classes at times, so that these absences are not frowned upon by the school."

Mr. McKay explained the advantages of the honor system and assessed its initial success. He stated that the system is an ideal preparation for university, where attendance at classes is not compulsory, and all work must be done by the student on his own.

The Grade 13 students this year, he feels, are working for their education, and are being rated on their actual work — not on their attendance. "The students feel that they are actively seeking after something they want themselves," Mr. McKay said.

"High school," he said, "is a transition point. Within that five years there has to be a changeover. We wanted to turn out a more responsible person."

Mr. McKay indicated he is pleased with the honor system so far, although of course it is too early in the academic year to assess it completely. He said that another meeting would be convened next September to review the system, and to decide whether or not it would be continued. He hopes the students will contribute their own thoughts and suggestions concerning the issue.

That is, briefly, what the honor system is all about. All indications are that it is a definite forward step in education.

It may well succeed in making Grade 13 what it ought to be — a transition year between high school and university, rather than an extra year of high school tacked on to junior matriculation.

How Do Other Principals Feel About Changes?

The principals of Belleville's other high schools made the following comments on the honor system:

John Hayman of Quinte Secondary School said that he had not given much thought to the honor system. "Quinte's Grade 13 students are on the permissive system, provided they attain an average of 60 per cent or better," he said.

Mr. Hayman did not anticipate using the honor system.

"The purpose of being at school is to attend classes," he said.

Linton D. Read of Moira Secondary School said he would institute the honor system in the second half of the current academic year for those Grade 13 students who attained first class honors (75 per cent or better) on the Christmas exams.

"Moira," he pointed out, "has been on the permissive system for two years — longer than any other school in the city."

Mr. Read stated that he expected to make greater use of the honor system in the future although he added, "We'd like the students to prove themselves first."

W. J. Musgrove of Centennial Secondary School felt that the effectiveness of the honor system varied from school to school according to student behavior. "Fifteen to 20 per cent of the students could wreck it for all the rest," he pointed out.

Centennial does not have Grade 13 yet. When asked if he would institute the honor system when Grade 13 came to Centennial, Mr. Musgrove replied, "If I feel the students are ready for it, I will introduce some system like this."

Sister Mary Theresa of Nicholson Catholic College claims Grade 13 students at Nicholson now use a system whereby they may study in an unsupervised area during their spare periods. She approves of the honor system and said, "I think it's quite likely that we might move from where we are now to an area that's much broader."

Youth in Quinte Area

Correspondents Enthused About New Feature Page

A page devoted entirely to the activities of youth in the Quinte area — that's what the reader can expect to see here every Thursday afternoon until the end of the school year.

With the rapidly increasing teenage population, the changes in teen fads and fashions and the apparent need for a weekly wrap-up of teen activities the Intelligencer decided to present a youth page.

PATRICIA BRIDGE

Beginning next week youths can expect to find a report from various schools throughout the Quinte area, a feature story devoted to an issue of interest to teenagers, a top ten listing, as well as photographs of various school activities.

STEPHEN HUNTER
Moira

Last week representatives from Belleville and Trenton secondary schools met to present their ideas on the composition of the new feature page.

In following weeks reports will be available on past and upcoming activities at Nicholson Catholic College, Quinte Secondary, Belleville Collegiate, Centennial Secondary and Moira Secondary as well as a report from Trenton.

The feature articles for the page will be written by Steve Bishop, an Intelligencer staffer, with much of the information provided by students and school administration officials.

The correspondent at Centennial Secondary, Sue Ellis says she thinks the page will provide a necessary billboard for the youth in the Quinte area. "We'll have a place to express our opinions."

Tom Thrush, a grade 12 student at BCIVS thinks the page should provide necessary reading material for all teenagers. "It should be a page devoted to nothing but youth activities," he claims.

STEVE BISHOP
Youth Reporter

Trenton correspondents, Jeanne Christoffersen and Pamela Mountenay look forward to providing a round-up of teen activities in their area. "We have lots of activities in the school — it should give students a chance to have something for themselves."

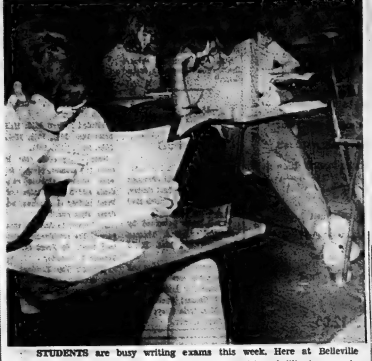
SUE ELLIS
Centennial

Donna Whalen, correspondent at Nicholson Catholic College thinks the youth page is excellent. "I think it will be a wonderful thing for teenagers," she said.

Quinte Secondary's correspondent, Gary MacLeod, is also looking forward to the first reports from the various schools. "It will give students a chance to hear about youth activities in other schools."

Stephen Hunter of Moira Secondary likes the idea. "It's something that is needed by the young ages," he said. "I especially like the idea of having a feature article on a subject involving students.

Loyalist College correspondent, Patricia Bridge, is all set to send in her first report. "It should give youth a chance to present views that really matter to the younger generation."



TOM THRUSH
BCI

Reports are also expected from various other schools in the Quinte area.

Restaurant Cooks Now Using More Frozen Easy-to-Fix Meals

NEW YORK (AP) — More and more restaurant cooks are expected to do just what mothers do—reach into the frozen food locker for easy-to-fix meals.

The U.S. frozen food industry expects frozen food sales to more than double in the next 10 years and much of the growth is expected because of institutional buying.

Industry sources say frozen food sales topped $6,000,000,000 last year, compared with $3,700,000,000 in 1965. Sales are projected at $13,600,000,000 in 1976.

The market area that appears brightest is in schools, hospitals and other mass-feeders.

"The day of the cook in the kitchen is vanishing," says A. W. Dutcher of Le Sueur, Minn., who has just ended a year's term as president of the National Association of Frozen Food Packers. "It's a matter of skilled labor in the kitchen."

High costs are forcing the mass-feeders into frozen prepared foods, says Edward L. McNulty, an official of the frozen food packers.

Frozen items eliminate the need for workers to peel potatoes, mix hamburger and eliminate left-overs, he says. It becomes a matter of heat and serve.

Then, too, some restaurant chains prefer to hire one highsalaried chef working in a central kitchen where food for all the other restaurants is prepared, frozen and shipped out.

New items are coming out every day, says Dutcher. Currently, about 1,300 items are frozen, including such dishes as snails and knishes.

"The course in frozen prepared items is Chinese food," says McNulty.

Some in the industry see more combination foods available for the bagpiewife, such as foods with sauces. Fruit frozen in bags which gradually thaw when the bag is placed in cold water is another. Frozen juice concentrate in cardboard type cans with flip-open tops similar to beer cans also is in the works. Frozen meals for two or more are becoming popular.

But, says Dutcher, "frozen foods won't replace canned foods."

Old-fashioned Christmas Theme for Bridge St. UCW Tea

The United Church Women of Bridge St. Church recreated the theme of an old-fashioned Christmas for their annual bazaar and tea yesterday afternoon at the church.

In the entrance and the tea room hall Christmas trees dominated the scene. They were hung with red and green paper chains, popcorn strings, crepe paper, paper bells and candy canes. Evergreen boughs tied with red ribbon and dotted with miniature canes were placed in bottle bowls, baskets and china wash bowls about the rooms. Here and there on the bazaar tables were antiques, adding a further old-fashioned note to the decor.

Mrs. Bruce Cronk and Mrs. J. B. Leslie were convenors and Mrs. William Holroyd was in charge of the tea room. Mrs. R. Mott and Mrs. R. Miles took tickets at the door and Miss Olive M. Root was in charge of publicity. Mrs. C. L. Dodds and Mrs. William McGee convened the kitchen and Mrs. A. D. Cameron did the decorating.

Receiving at the door were Mrs. H. M. Davis, wife of the minister of the church; Mrs. D. Williams, president of the UCW; Mrs. J. S. Laynes, vice-president of the UCW; and Mrs. R. Jeffreys, director of Christian education.

The tea table was covered with a white cloth and centred with an arrangement of greens, pine cones, and red and green tapers in apples hollowed out as candle holders. Red ball fringe added a gay note to the borders of the table cloth. At one end of the tea room, Miss Helen Sulvan and Mrs. Hilton McMurray sat knitting in front of a fireplace, its mantel set with antique clock, brass candlesticks and evergreens. The women's costumes added to the old-time flavor of the decorations.

Individual tables were covered with white cloths and centred with apple candle holders and red and green candles tied with ribbon. Tea room hostesses were Mrs. William Dallas, Mrs. A. Cameron, Mrs. C. Reynolds, Mrs. A. E. Miles, Mrs. S. Hagerman, Dr. Elizabeth Scott, Mrs. H. Parker, Mrs. Ray Grant and Mrs. C. Twiddy.

Pouring tea were Mrs. Milton Rowe, Mrs. R. Beryl, Mrs. Everett Fairman, Mrs. Carman Massey, Mrs. J. R. Reynolds, Mrs. E. Miles, Mrs. S. Hagerman, Dr. Elizabeth Scott, Mrs. H. Parker, Mrs. Ray Grant and Mrs. C. Twiddy.

Dr. H. M. Davis opened the bazaar, where the candy, apron, sewing, home baking, fancy work, variety and craft tables were convened by the unit leaders.

Senior Citizens' Club Holds Tea and Bazaar

Red, white and blue centennial motifs, and gold and green streamers adorning the various sales tables set a colorful scene for the Belleville Senior Citizens' Club tea and bazaar held Wednesday afternoon at the Recreation Centre, Pinnacle Street. The successful event was convened by Mrs. L. Longhurst assisted by Mrs. A. Scales who also assisted Mrs. F. Bedell in taking tickets at the door.

Promptly at two o'clock Lloyd "Red" Dorey, recreation director officially opened the event and brought warm greetings on behalf of his department and commended members of the Club for their endeavor. The Senior Citizens' Club was formed 14 years ago and since its inception has been most active with a tea planned annually. A special tea to mark centennial was also held this spring.

Past president Mrs. Clapp assisted by wife of the present president Mrs. M. Taylor received the guests at the entrance to the hall, which was a hub of activity with both men and women of the group contributing. The focal point of interest, however, was the attractive tea table with its cutwork cloth centred with a colorful floral display flanked with green, red and gold candles in silver tri - branch candelabra. To complete the setting were silver tea service and dainty serviettes adorned with centennial emblems. Guest tables were also in keeping with the decor, each centred with a miniature Maple Leaf flag nestled in a cluster of fruit - color maple leaves.

Throughout the afternoon quiet music was rendered by Mrs. L. Adams.

Those who poured tea were: Mrs. S. Smith, Mrs. F. Sly, Mrs. E. Laffman, Mrs. M. Gill and Miss L. Lawmer. Making tea in the kitchen was Mrs. L. Shorts while a number of other members assisted in replenishing and serving.

The homebake table with its tantalizing aroma of home-made bread and buns, pies, cookies, tarts drew many patrons and was convened by Mrs. K. Ferguson, Mrs. J. Doyle and Mrs. Forestell.

A fine assortment of maple creams, fudges and popcorn balls were available at the candy table with Mrs. Douglas and Mrs. H. Pickers in charge of sales. The sewing table had a grand array of fancy work and knitted garments with Mrs. B. Denille, Mrs. Akey, Mrs. F. McDonald, Mrs. Botting and Mrs. Copeland convening. The white elephant table with its general run of miscellaneous items was convened by Mrs. M. Doyle and Mrs. H. Bettesley.

The men of the group also convened a table which was laden with a supply of assorted articles ranging from jams, jellies, groceries to biddies mitiens and socks and arranged by H. Taylor, C. Robinson and S. Smith.

Selling tickets on a basket of groceries were Mrs. F. Cook and A. Longhurst.

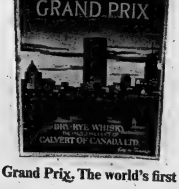
How Calvert found a new way to make rye incredibly smooth.



The name of the rye is Grand Prix. We made it incredibly smooth by making it dry.

And we made it dry by discovering a new way to make rye without any cloying sweetness.

This makes Grand Prix a full-bodied rye so smooth you can actually sip it straight. And like it.

Nobody ever made a rye as smooth as Grand Prix before because nobody ever knew how. It took Calvert ten years to do it, and naturally our Master Blender is pretty proud of it.

But try it yourself. In ten seconds you'll know why he's so proud.

Calvert Grand Prix. The world's first dry rye.

Organize Club

Seventy tropical fish enthusiasts met last Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Wessels, 71 Lewis Street, to form a tropical fish club and to join the (C.A.O.A.C.) Canadian Association of Aquarium Clubs. Guests attended from Marmora, Port Hope, Trenton, Bayside and Belleville.

Mrs. Wessels spoke briefly and introduced the guest speaker, Mr. H. Rees of Port Hope, president of C.A.O.A.C. He explained the proper procedure of starting an aquarium club, and the art of raising tropical fish.

A question and answer period followed.

Mr. and Mrs. Wessels had seven aquariums on display, showing several varieties of tropical fish. The next meeting will be held in January at which time Mr. Rees will show films on tropical fish.

A social hour was then enjoyed.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "You've grown so much this year that you may find it harder to stand straight — but you'll look so much better if you try not to let your spine and shoulders slump."

Encourage your gangly adolescent to walk tall and straight, but do it in an understanding way. His posture is partly influenced by the shape he was born with. It is more fitting for a tall spindly boy to stand straight then it is for a stout, stocky one.

Successful Living

Marriage Is Not for Children; Especially Spoiled Ones

Dear Doris: This girl has been married three years, has one lovely girl. Her husband is stubborn and spoiled as she is. He doesn't come home when she expects him, so she gets mad, and tells him to get out.

She will not cook him a decent meal and is a filthy housekeeper. So he goes home to his mother, then comes back to his wife and begs her to have him back.

She is so stubborn she does not understand what this is doing to the children, and when she's mad at her husband she slaps the poor kids for no reason. Even hits them over the head. I think she needs psychiatric treatment. Maybe it will do her some good when she reads your answer. — Worried.

Dear Stubborn: You married too soon, too young. In a way glow you had him for better or worse; not saying how much worm you could take. Nor realizing how long "till death do us part" could be. Marriage is not for children, especially spoiled ones.

Hitting small children is bullying; not the way to take out your anger over your disappointing mate. Not the way for you to grow up, if you ever plan to.

Unless you will willingly take the blame for poorly reared children, better take stock and get some skilled help in the way of marriage counselling.

Dear Doris: Good idea (re Anonymous testimonial on bequeathing eyes).

We are four in the family, and all of us have pledged our eyes to The Eye Bank of Canada. — Hoping For More Help For The Blind.

Dear Hoping: Good for you. It is easy enough to do: a donor merely contacts a local CNIB branch or writes to The Eye Bank of Canada, 1929 Bayview Avenue, Toronto, Ontario for the details. A simple form has to be completed; a close relative has to be informed.

Dear Doris: Granny retired recently and I think it was a real blow, although she insists to people about sleeping in in the morning, and how he can do anything he wants to.

What he does do is fiddle around in the house or go for a walk or read a book. He is far too active a man to be idle like this. Is there anything I could get him for Christmas that might get him going on a new tack? — Fond Grandson

Dear Fond: Depends so much on his special talents I couldn't pin down anything specific, more information.

But you say he reads. There is a book which will set him thinking, then acting, I hope. The author was a doctor himself ("I was used to sitting around listening to people's troubles"), Gems of wisdom, humor, cartoon-like drawings, make easy reading.

Says everybody needs something to do. Makes a bid for us to forget all about this leisure stuff and keep working at something. He is Dr. Joseph H. Peck; the book: "Let's Rejoin the Human Race." Good reading!

Is it a point of etiquette that is troubling you? Doris can tell you how it's done in Canada.

Homemade Cream of Chicken Soup

By MARY MOORE

The reason I made this Cream of Chicken soup was as an alternative to the Cream Chowder served at an Elders' meeting (see Nov. 9th) for those who cannot tolerate shellfish.

It was so good I do not want this quantity recipe to be lost to posterity or conveners or dinner party hostesses — especially those with lovely soup tureens.

HOMEMADE CREAM OF CHICKEN SOUP (twenty 1-cup servings)

One 3-lb. chicken
¼ bay leaf
1 tbsp. chopped onion
1 tsp. salt
2 tbsp. chopped fresh parsley (or bottled flakes) (optional)
7 cups water
½ cup flour
3 chicken bouillon cubes
Two 10-oz. cans undiluted chicken vegetable soup
One 10-oz. can undiluted cream of vegetable soup
One 10-oz. can undiluted golden mushroom soup
1 qt. (4 cups) homogenized milk

Into soup kettle put whole ready-to-cook chicken with the bay leaf, onion, salt, parsley (if used) and water. Bring to boil and simmer, covered, until tender and legs begin to fall from body—about 2¼ to 2½ hrs. Turn chicken over once during simmering period. Carefully remove to big utility tray and when cool enough to handle peel off and discard skin. Slip meat from bones. Discard bones and gristle. Cut meat into ¼ or ½" dice. I had 3 cups. Chill. Strain broth. I had 7 cups. Measure out 1 cup of this broth which by now is cool and into it heat with rotary beater the flour to a smooth paste. Add bouillon cubes to remaining 6 cups broth and reheat to boiling. Stir in flour-broth paste until thick. (Note: If desired, up to this stage the Cream of Chicken Soup may be made in advance and cooked chicken and thickened broth may be chilled in refrigerator overnight.)

At mealtime add to the chicken broth and chicken the undiluted soups and milk and heat stirring constantly to just below boiling. Serve one measuring cup servings to 20 people.

Ann Landers

Reader Claims Ann's Column Is Hazard

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Every weekday morning I drive 22 miles to work. I have four female passengers who live in my neighborhood (I am a man.) One of the passengers always has her newspaper in her hand when I pick her up. The first thing this girl does is open the paper to your column and read it aloud. Then they all proceed to give advice, argue about it and sometimes a heated discussion gets along.

ANN LANDERS

I don't mind the letters about cheap boyfriends or noisy neighbors, but I do get uncomfortable when you print problems about sex. The letter from the 70-year-old woman who had an affair with the yard man nearly put us in a ditch.

So please, Ann, keep in mind that your column could be a hazard on the highway. Cool it, will you? — NOT KIDDING.

DEAR NOT: Last week I received a letter from a man who asked me to keep my Sunday column serious because he reads there during church and when he laughs out loud everyone gives him dirty looks.

I will tell you what I told him. When I put the column together I try to select letters that are practical, educational, interesting and a reflection of life as a great many people live it. This means there will be letters about every conceivable aspect of life and of course sex is included. Where folks choose to read the column is up to them.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am beside myself with worry. Our neighbors have two sons, 15 and 10 years of age. We have a daughter, and often these neighbors have told us how lucky we are. They always wanted a girl but never had one.

Several months ago they learned of an attractive 16-year-old girl who needed a home because of a pathetic family situation (alcoholic father and promiscuous mother.) They could not adopt her but they arranged to take her in as a foster-child.

Our son who is a pal of the 10-year-old told us last night that this girl and the older boy got together in the bedroom and lock the door every chance they get. The parents go out about four evenings a week and I'm sure they have no idea what is going on.

Should I tell the mother about this or not? I am afraid the girl might get pregnant and then I would blame myself for not speaking up. Please advise me. — NO NAME PLEASE.

DEAR NO NAME: That 16-year-old girl and that 15-year-old boy know what causes babies, so don't feel it is your responsibility to educate them. Since the parents are obviously blind as bats, let's hope that the 10-year-old brother opens their eyes and soon. As for you, stay out of it.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I felt sorry for the 14-year-old boy whose voice was changing and whenever he answered the phone the caller would mistake him for his mother and say, "How are you, Doris?"

Our son had the same trouble and he finally hit on the solution himself. Instead of saying "Hello" he said, "Hello, this is Robby talking."

Please print this suggestion if you think it has merit. — ROBBY'S MOM.

DEAR MOM: I do and I will. Thank you.

U. S. Steel, Copper Firms Planning Price Increases

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders in the steel and copper industries plan price increases as the government reports a second straight monthly drop in U.S. industrial output.

As the price increases were being announced Wednesday, Chairman William McChesney Martin of the federal reserve board urged Congress to raise taxes to halt inflation. President Johnson's proposed 10-per-cent income tax surcharge appears all but dead for this session of Congress.

U.S. Steel announced it will boost prices of most types of wire and various materials for railways by less than three per cent, effective Nov. 27, and involving about three per cent of its total shipments.

The increase in the latest in a series of steel industry price boosts this year.

Phelps-Dodge Copper Products Corp. said, meanwhile, it will increase prices of its full range of tube products about four cents a pound beginning Friday.

The copper industry has been hit by a strike of miners since July 15.

The federal reserve board, announcing the decline in industrial output, blamed strikes and a six-per-cent drop in oil production resulting from an improved supply from the Middle East.

The board's index of industrial production dropped five-tenths of one point in October to 156.2 per cent of the 1957-59 base period. The index slipped 1.5 points in September, largely because of strikes—the biggest at Ford Motor Co.—and the curtailed oil production.

Trains Collide Injuring Three

DRUMMONDVILLE, Que. (CP) — Investigators continued today to try to determine the cause of Wednesday's head-on collision between a CNR passenger and freight train near this Eastern Townships community 60 miles east of Montreal.

Three persons — all passengers—were detained in hospital, while about 40 others were released after treatment for minor injuries.

The crash occurred in bad visibility as Quebec's first blizzard of the winter swept over the province.

A CNR spokesman said the collision occurred at a "relatively slow speed." He could not say why one of the trains was not on another track.

The spokesman said the severe snow storm "could have had something to do with it . . . but it could have been anything . . . human error, a track default, a defective switch, anything . . . it will take a couple of days for us to find out."

There were about 130 passengers aboard the passenger train, a Rapido express bound from Quebec City for Montreal, when the collision occurred between it and a heag freight train on a single track crossing farmland five miles east of here.

Consumer Bureau Uses Art of Persuasion

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's Aug. 1, and so far has processed new consumer protection bureau is using the art of persuasion to enforce its aims and its registrar, A. R. Walker, is pleased with the results.

The bureau started operation satisfactorily about 90 per cent of the 1,500 complaints and inquiries it has received.

All of them have been settled by persuasion, accompanied perhaps, by subtle pressure, the registrar said.

But Mr. Walker said charges under the Consumer Protection Act are being considered in some cases.

"We're being tolerent in not enforcing it. We want to build up sufficient complaints in a particular area to make sure there should be prosecutions . . . But we're not going to be tolerant indefinitely."

He wants to give everybody a chance to understand how the new bureau operates and what the act is all about before he starts laying down the law.

New Federal Law Covering Juveniles To Keep Children Out of Penitentiary

OTTAWA (CP)—Records would become reports, sentences become findings and juvenile delinquents become young offenders under a proposed federal statute now being studied by the provinces.

The legislation is aimed at ending the days when a 12-year-old, so pathetic the guards chipped in to buy him a bicycle, found himself behind the bars of St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary.

It would make it impossible for anyone under 17 to be sent to a penal institution for adult offenders.

As recently as 1963 Eldon Woolliams, Conservative MP for Bow River, told the Commons of a boy in Dorchester Penitentiary so small the guards feared he would squeeze through the bars of his cell.

Federal officials said Wednesday the redrafted Juvenile Delinquents Act, renamed the Children and Young Offenders Act, would prevent such situations.

Because of lack of other facilities, juveniles were still occasionally jailed with adults in some parts of the country.

Federal officials have termed the thick revision, crammed with explanatory notes, suggestions and question marks, a "basis for discussion."

A federal-provincial conference on the subject is scheduled for early 1968 and a number of changes may be suggested there.

Copies of the report, aimed at modernizing and standardizing juvenile law procedure, have been sent to attorneys-general across the country.

Under the old 1908 act, last revised in 1925, the minimum age of criminal responsibility is seven.

This would be raised to 10 or 12, a decision left to the federal-provincial conference.

The 17th birthday would mark the maximum age, now 16 to 18 depending on the province.

Youths between 14 and 17 would be classed as young offenders, subject to a fine of up to $100 or a term up to three years in training school.

However, the emphasis would be on probation and other such methods.

Under 14s would be known as child offenders.

A comprehensive category would class minor offenders as "visitors."

A juvenile court judge could order a young offender, between 14 and 17, to an adult court for trial and sentence.

He could also order the young offender to an adult court for trial only, the youth to be remanded back to juvenile court for sentence.

Either the young offender or an attorney-general could require an adult court trial, but in either case the juvenile court would decide the "disposition" or sentence.

The draft specifies that no one under 17 may be committed to an adult institution.

However, it admits that waiver for trial and sentence in an adult court would imply that the youth was not suitable for an institution for young offenders.

This "leaves hanging" the question of where those sentenced on serious charges should be sent, the draft says.

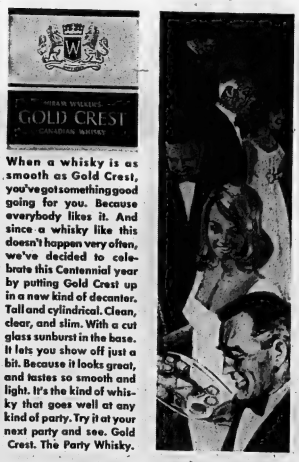
Lemay's Lawyer Charges Signals Given Witness

MONTREAL (CP) — At Wednesday's session of the Georges Lemay trial, now in its third week, defence lawyer Rene Maranda asked that Detective Sergeant Robert Leblanc be removed from the courtroom.

He alleged that the detective, who was in charge of the Lemay investigation, was making signals to a key Crown witness from his seat between the two Crown prosecutors.

Judge Jacques Trahan refused the request.



He also told Mr. Maranda several times during the cross-examination to avoid asking the witness what he called irrelevant questions.

The witness was Jacques Lajoie, 46, who pleaded guilty in 1963 to his part in a $630,605 burglary six years ago for which Lemay, 42, is on trial. He is charged with burglary and conspiracy.

Mr. Maranda submitted Lajoie to a barrage of questions Tuesday and Wednesday concerning details of the witness's own past convictions and met many times with the response "I don't remember."

SLICE SPORTS

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

The brains of the Argonauts handed Peter Liske to the Calgary Stampeders. It is claimed the Montreal Alouettes handed Terry Evanshen to the western club.

Those football "flowers" apparently "thrashed success" in the eastern gridiron gardens but they "didn't waste their sweetness in the western air" when they were transplanted in Calgary "soil."

For, as the poets might put it, "under the rugged exteriors were nuggets of purest gold."

The selectors of the Canadian Football League handed Liske the "most outstanding player in the league" award. Evenshen wears the barrel wreath of the top Canadian player in the circuit.

As is always the case, after the awards were announced, the pundits of East and West sought the record books.

Now the question arises, is the award to Liske an ill omen for the Stampeders?

Did the gods of mythical football Olympus hand Liske the top award with one hand while hauling a dagger for the Stampeders in the other?

Will the jinx that has ridden the shoulders of the team which produced the outstanding player climb into a Calgary saddle?

For the records say that no team with the most outstanding player award winner has ever won the Canadian title.

The statistic has upped the faith of the superstitious of Saskatchewan in their beloved Roughriders. The blast-cast, spoiled-salt fraternity of Calgary is scratching "pennies for the graveyard" in the hope the 1967 season will see the passing of the Jinx.

And could it be the Roughriders are carrying the "Curse of the Rising Sheep"? Take big Ed McQuarters the six-foot-two, 250-pound giant who captured the lineman-of-the-year" Schenley award.

If McQuarters' "blitz" takes off and maintains high gear, it could spell trouble for the Stampeders. Even Mr. Liske is aware of what the big boy can do to quarterbacks. He has been quoted as saying "I hope we can find some way of keeping him out of there."

One west, in Calgary in particular, football bigwigs are beginning to look askance at the "best-two-of-three" conference playoffs. Years ago the west had the same system that the east has now, two-games point-and-aggregate. Somewhere along the trail it was changed to the present system.

Calgary coach Jerry Williams feels the Stampeders could capitalize for a healthy lead in the first home game of a total-point series and then use their defence — the toughest in the league — to protect themselves.

Back here in the east, the scoring statistics favour the Rough Riders despite the fact the Tiger-Cats have beaten them twice. The figures show that Ottawa scored 337 points during these while the Cats racked up 324.

While there is no "jinx" in the lamentable efforts for the Maroons, they'll have a grudge going for them. They haven't forgotten the terrible shellacking they received at the hands and feet of the Riders in last year's eastern playoffs.

Then of course there's a guy called Jackson.

And also going for them will be a "mad." The Tiger camp simied when it was announced that the western McQuarters had topped Tiger-Cat John Barrow for the lineman-of-the-year award.

The Cats' hassles rose in anger. One official resigned his post in protest. Eastern selectors were blamed.

Barrow was very disappointed. "One year I made all-pro and played 60 minutes going both ways the whole season but I lost out to a one-way player," he said. He has been nominated five times and chosen just once.

This could resolve itself into a personal battle on the field of football honor. There are people who believe the trails shall meet in the Grey Cup classic in Ottawa.

Hull Keeps Pace

Walton's Threesome Sinks Bruins!

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

There were 16,042 fans in Maple Leaf Gardens Wednesday night all set to cheer Eddie Shack of Boston Bruins, but when they left all the talk was about Mike Walton of Toronto Maple Leafs.

The Leafs won the National Hockey League game 4-2 with Walton getting three of their goals while Shack, one of the most popular Toronto players before being traded last season, was shutout.

The other Leaf goal went to Bob Pulford while Fred Stanfield and Derek Sanderson replied for Boston as Toronto took possession of first place in the Eastern Division, two points ahead of idle Detroit Red Wings and New York Rangers.

In other games, Chicago Black Hawks dropped St. Louis Blues 4-1, Montreal Canadiens clipped Minnesota North Stars 5-1, Pittsburgh Penguins blanked Philadelphia Flyers 5-0 and Oakland Seals ended a 14-game winless streak by beating Los Angeles Kings 4-1.

Walton, a 22-year-old native of Kirkland Lake, Ont., whose four other goals this year came on power plays, was filling in Wednesday for injured Dave Keon.

He beat Gerry Cheevers with his first two goals and Ed Johnston, making his first official appearance of the season for the Bruins, with the other.

In 1965-66 he got a six-game shot with the Leafs, scoring a goal and three assists, then completed the season with Rochester and split last season between the Americans and the Leafs. In 31 NHL games last year he scored seven goals and 13 assists.

Already this season he has seven goals and four assists for 11 points.

Bobby Hull continued his goal-a-game pace for Chicago, picking up one and an assist to maintain his scoring lead with 13 goals and eight assists for 23 points.

Brother Denis added a goal in Chicago's rout with the others going to Stan Mikita and Eric Nesterenko against St. Louis goalie Glenn Hall. Ron Stewart scored the lone St. Louis goal in ruining Denis Dejordy's shutout bid with about three minutes remaining.

Goalie Hank Bassen, in his first game in 8½ weeks, turned in his first shutout of the season as Pittsburgh got goals from Billy Dea, Ab McDonald, Bob Dillabough, Keith McCreary and Art Stratton.

The loss was the first in four games for Philadelphia.

The Canadiens broke out of their lethargy with their most spirited display in some weeks with Dick Duff scoring a goal and three assists and Henri Richard scoring once and adding a pair of assists.

The only Minnesota player to beat veteran goalie Gump Worsley was Wayne Connelly, bouncing the puck in off Worsley's chest.

Terry Gray scored the only goal for Los Angeles, giving them an early 1-0 lead. But before the first period was over Larry Cahan and George Swarbrick put the Seals ahead with Charlie Burns and Aut Erickson sailing it away with second and third period goals.

Only two games are scheduled tonight with New York at Philadelphia and Detroit a Oakland.

Barons Blank Bears

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — Goalie Gerry Desjardins scored his third shutout of the season to backstop Cleveland Barons to a 2-0 American Hockey League victory over Hershey Bears Wednesday night.

Pte Martin put the Barons on top 1-0 with 47 seconds remaining in the first period. He took a pass from Doug Senior and beat goalie Andre Gill with a 20-foot angle shot.

Midway in the second period, Howie Glover came up with his ninth goal of the season, converting a rebound off Gill's pad during a scrimmage near the Bears' nets.

"Wiener" Brown Honored By BD Umpires

The Belleville and District Umpires had a highly successful season in 1967, association president Al Kelleher said yesterday.

A highlight was the game between the umpires plus Bobby, Hall and the Ellis Seniors on August 20th.

The proceeds went to the crippled and retarded children sponsored by the Shrine Club and the Knights of Columbus.

The Umpires Association raised some $400 which was divided between the two projects.

Another game between the Umpires and Belleville Aldermen raised $20.00 for charity.

At a recent social meeting of the association Wayne "Wiener" Brown was named the umpire of the year.

Brown was presented with the "Ken Colling Memorial Award" by Mr. Cleo Colling brother of the late sports editor and well - known umpire. Mrs. Brown also was the recipient of a handsome gift.

Harry (The Senator) Rollins, honorary president of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association introduced Mr. Colling and regaled the umpires with stories of former baseball and softball days.

NHL Scoring Leaders

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bobby Hull of Chicago continued to dominate National Hockey League scoring Wednesday, with a goal and assist as the Black Hawks defeated St. Louis Blues 4-1, but he had a lot of thunder stolen by a part-time forward for Toronto Maple Leafs.

Mike Walton scored three goals in leading the Leafs to a 4-2 victory over Boston Bruins and into first place in the Eastern Division standings, although his seven goals and four assists for 11 points were not enough to carry him among the league leaders.

It was the first time since joining the Leafs for six games in 1965-66 that the 22-year-old Kirkland Lake, Ont., native has scored three goals in one game.

Hull's points gave him a total of 23 on 13 goals and eight assists for a three-point edge on Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings and Yvan Cournoyer of Montreal Canadiens.

The Red Wings were idle Wednesday, but Cournoyer scored a goal as the Canadiens defeated Minnesota North Stars 5-1. He now has eight goals and 10 assists compared with Howe's 10 goals and eight assists.

Ronson, who had scored only two goals in the Gulls' first 19 games, scored late in the first period to give San Diego a 2-0 lead. His second and third goals in the final period put the gulls ahead 4-2 with less than four minutes remaining. Fred Sibbs and Dennis Hucuiak also scored for San Diego.

Oddsmakers Give Rough Riders Series Nod Over Tiger - Cats

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats first-place finish in the Eastern Football Conference should establish them favorites in the two-game, total points final with Ottawa. But the oddsmakers don't see it that way.

Although Ticats downed the Rough Riders in two of their three meetings this season, Ottawa is favored by seven points in the series opener in the capital city Sunday. Game time is 2 p.m. EST.

The Riders are also favored on the series by 8½ points with the second game back in Hamilton the following Saturday.

The winner advances to the Grey Cup game in Ottawa on Dec. 2.

Saskatchewan Roughriders and Calgary Stampeders open their best-of-three game Western Conference final Saturday in Calgary, starting at 2 p.m. CST (4 p.m. EST).

The Ottawa game will be televised nationally by the CBC with the Western game shown nationally on the CTV network.

Even at home the Ticats have had a tough time gaining favor as they continually have had to come from behind for narrow victories.

In their 16 victories the Ticats took six by less than a touchdown with one of them a one-point victory and another a two-pointer. Much of the trouble centred on their lack of a consistent ground game with Willie Bethea moving to fullback from the half line after Dick Cohee was lost for the season Sept. 17.

Since then, coach Ralph Sazio has gone through a succession of runners in his efforts to find a running mate for Bethea to balance what could be one of the best passing attacks in the conference.

But, because the running threat is missing as a big weapon in the Hamilton arsenal, opposition defenders have been able to concentrate on ends Tommy Joe Coffey and Ted Watkins and flanker Tommy Grant.

The Ticats lost the great Hal Patterson as an end early in the season when he suffered a ruptured spleen in a game against the Alouettes in Montreal. His career may be ended.

Although Coffey led the conference in scoring with 107 points, he did it with just five touchdowns on passes, the rest of his points coming on kicks.

Sazio is hoping the addition of Allen Smith, late of Buffalo Bills of the American Football League, to the backfield will take some of the pressure off Bethea and coverage of the receivers, although Sunday's game will be the first under Canadian rules for the six-foot, 205-pound rookie.

The other big problem facing Sazio and his players will be stopping the play of Ottawa quarterback Russ Jackson, who led the Riders to their 30-22 semi-final victory over third-place Toronto Argonauts last Sunday.

The Ticats have the best pass defence in the East this season, but Sunday they'll have to against the best passer in the East and in Margene Adkins and Whit Tucker, the two best receivers.

Canada Shares Second

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — The United States took the lead and Canada shared second place with Britain after the first round Wednesday of the first world seniors amateur team golf championship tournament.

The U.S. team grabbed the lead with a 10-over-par 298. Canada and Britain shared second with 304.

The top Canadian scorers, with 76s, were team captain Phil Farley, 35, Toronto, and Jack Nash, 36, London, Ont. The 76s—David Goldman of the U.S. also had one — placed them in the low 10.

Dr. George Bigelow, 57, of Victoria, B.C., fired an 83, while George C. Hevenor, 63, of Toronto, shot an 82.

Scores soared as gusty winds swept the 7,000 - yard, par-72 No. 2 championship course at the Pinehurst Country Club.

The tournament ends Saturday.

Rouse Has 'Record'

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The name of Roger Rouse is hardly a household fixture in New York, London and Los Angeles.

But it is well known in Montana where, Roger concedes with admirable frankness, it has even made a police blotter or two. By late Friday night it may be better known elsewhere.

Roger Rouse on Friday night fights Dick Tiger for Tiger's world light heavyweight championship. It'll be 15 rounds or less, nationally televised, at 7 p.m., PST (10 p.m. EST).

Rouse is the top contender in the 175-pound division. He has never fought east of the Rockies and many of his triumphs have been registered in small clubs in the sticks.

Roger, 32, is a college man and once was a member of the U.S. Olympic boxing team. He has had a frustrating career since he turned pro in 1958. He became disenchanted with his first manager and quit the ring in 1961. He came back two years later and now owns a creditable record of 30-5-3 under new management.

For The Trotters

Fashion Note; French Plastic Shoes

BATAVIA, N.Y. (CP) — Two Canadian - owned horses won at Batavia Downs Wednesday night. Michael Lyn, owned by Joseph Cirillo of Batavia and Theo Turcotte of St. Catharines, Ont., won the second race with Elden Turcotte driving.

Jack Mehlenbacher piloted Superlot Ringo to victory in the third for the Mehlenbacher Stable of Hagersville, Ont.

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Frisco Van R moved out at the three-quarter pole Wednesday night and held first through the stretch to win the featured one-mile trot at Windsor Raceway.

Driven by Clarence Lockhart, the nine-year-old gelding trotted in 2:07 4-5 and returned $8.80 to win. The victory was the third in seven starts at Windsor's fall meeting.

The daily double of Claybrook Van and Thaddeus returned $18.80 and the ninth-race exactor of Alfies Victory and Gay Robert paid $18.10.

Mutuel handle was $241,413.

CAMPBELLVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Rough Sketch, owned by Max Webster, sported the newest in French equine fashion at Mohawk Raceway Wednesday night when he streaked to a three-length victory in the sixth race.

The five-year-old pacer crossed the finish wire with plastic shoes, designed and manufactured in France. The lightweight footwear was used in the United States this season, but it was the first time a horse had used the new shoes in Ontario.

Brian Webster, 22-year-old son of Max, was up behind the painter-sired Sideswiper for his 10th victory in 23 season tries. Donnas Champ finished second to complete a $20.60 exactor.

Ron Feagan notched his 150th season's victory in the first with J. C. Day, a three-year-old pacer owned by Ed James of Reaboro. It was the eighth win for the Adios Day-sired colt.

Brent Davies won the second with Glitter Direct, a three-year-old daughter of Cole Tar, owned by the Red Brand Stable of Kenaston. Davies returned to the winners circle in the fourth race with Frank Coolin's Marabella, from Oshawa, for a double victory.

Yankees Kings Of The Road

BOSTON (AP) — New York Yankees finished ninth in the standings in 1967, but proved they still were kings as a drawing attraction on the road.

American League president Joe Cronin announced Wednesday night the Yankees were the top drawing card on the road for the 18th straight year—as long as records in the league have been available.

The Yanks attracted 1,364,783 fans away from home, helping the American League to a record attendance of 11,336,923.

Pitts Lost To Packers

NEW YORK (AP)—Elijah Pitts, Green Bay halfback, is lost for the season, having been placed on the "reserved as inured" list of the National Football League.

If the Packers should try to reactivate Pitts prior to the end of the season, including post-season play, Pitts could be claimed by any other NFL club for non-recallable waivers.

Pitts suffered a torn achilles tendon in a Nov. 5 game with Baltimore Colts. His place has been taken by Donny Anderson, the bonus sophomore from Texas Tech who scored four touchdowns last Sunday against Cleveland Browns.

Stampeders' Jerry Williams Coach Of Year; Another Ill Omen?

CALGARY (CP)—Jerry Williams of Calgary Stampeders Wednesday was named Coach of the Year in the Canadian Football League and his main goal now is to avoid the fate of last year's winner.

Frank Clair of Ottawa Rough Riders won the title in 1966 and put his club into the Grey Cup game. That's as far as it went, as Ottawa was defeated 29-14 by Saskatchewan Roughriders for the cup.

As Williams put it Monday when Peter Liske and Terry Evanshen of Calgary won 1967 top player awards: "There's only one thing I would prefer—the Grey Cup of course."

To do that, the 44-year-old coach has to outfox Eagle Keys of Saskatchewan in the Western Football Conference finals and beat Clair's club or Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the Grey Cup contest.

He's already promised to employ "the attack we have used all year," the record-breaking passing combination of Liske and Evanshen, along with throws to Herm Harrison and other receivers.

The weather office Wednesday held out hope for seasonable weather for the first game, at 8 p.m. MST Saturday. Second game will be at Regina Nov. 23 and the third, if needed, at Calgary Nov. 28.

The long range forecast indicates cooler weather than Calgary has had in the last few days of above-average temperatures. But the weather office said there is a risk of showers for Saturday.

Weather, not pessimism, was given Wednesday as the reason why Roughriders haven't yet made firm travel arrangements to go to Ottawa for the Grey Cup, while Stamps' plans are advanced.

There's just that if the weather in Ottawa is not good we'd probably like to stay at home another day," said general manager Ken Preston. "It's not that we're not optimistic."

Preston forecast a "tight" final that could go three games, trading compliments with his Calgary counterpart, Rogers Lehew, who had forecast the first game will be "wide open."

Stampeders defence this year has been the toughest in the CFL and more than one observer says the improvement started when defence-minded Williams arrived in Calgary.

After playing and coaching for 15 years in the National Football League, Williams became Calgary's defensive coach in 1961 and head coach a year later. Stampeders finished first in the WFC in 1965 and again this year.

The affable Williams insists on giving his players much more credit than he takes himself and tried to say this week that "coaching had nothing to do with" the Liske and Evanshen awards.

Evanshen, for one, flatly disagreed. He said the "main reason" for his showing was Williams's concern for the Stampeders. Other players have paid Williams similar tributes.

Williams has a 30-17-1 win-loss-tie record as head coach, almost identical to Keys' three-year mark of 29-17-2. Saskatchewan was last year won its first Grey Cup.

As Coach of the Year, Williams was awarded the Annis Stukus Trophy, donated by a group of Edmonton sportsmen in honor of the man who organized the present Edmonton and British Columbia football franchises.

Williams was chosen by his fellow head coaches in the CFL.

"We'll Need It"

Clair; "Big Lead In Opener"

FRANK CLAIR

OTTAWA (CP)—When Ottawa Rough Riders meet Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the opener of their two-game, total-point Eastern Football Conference finals Sunday, the Riders will have one main objective—to pile up a big lead.

"We want a lead for that return game," says Rider coach Frank Clair. "We'll need it. You know how tough those Hamilton teams are—on the road or at home."

Second game of the series to decide the East's representative in the Grey Cup here Dec. 2 will be played in Hamilton the following Saturday, Nov. 25.

Clair has some bitter memories of previous Hamilton-Ottawa series, particularly in 1964 when Ottawa won the opener at home 30-13 but lost 35-8 the following weekend in Hamilton, to lose the set by one point—39-38.

But he also has the happy memory of last year when Ottawa opened the series in Hamilton with a 30-1 triumph and then trampled Hamilton 42-16 the following weekend.

Clair later rated his 1965 club as the best he has ever coached.

But he feels his current team has a great potential. "On a good day we could score a lot of points."

Clair believes in work to realize that potential and had his players working out Wednesday despite a 6.8-inch snowfall over Monday night.

Snow is nothing new to the veteran coach who has spent 17 football seasons in Canada, coaching the Toronto Argonauts for five years and the Riders for the last 12.

While the Riders have a lot of bruises for their 28-22 win over Toronto Argonauts in their sudden-death semi-final here last Sunday, Clair says his team is in "good shape—for this time of year."

Who's Sorry Now?

Saskys Passed Up Harris

CALGARY (CP) — When Saskatchewan Roughriders meet Calgary Stampeders in the first game of the Western Football Conference final Saturday, they'll also meet a problem they could have avoided.

In fact, the defending Grey Cup champions could have had the problem working for them —hard-tackling Wayne Harris, superlative Calgary middle linebacker.

Ken Preston, Roughriders general manager, has been kicking himself since 1960 when Saskatchewan turned down the chance for Harris. He went instead to Calgary and became a perennial all-star.

Recalls Preston:

"The story is that at that time we were interested in a quarterback at Arkansas. I talked to a fellow down there about the quarterback but he couldn't stop talking about this Wayne Harris.

"We weren't really interested in linebackers but I asked 'Well, what size is this Harris?' He said 182 pounds and of course, that ended the conversation right there.

"You know, you couldn't see him at 182 pounds in pro football. Oh boy, now he's everything Arkansas said. He's the best linebacker that ever played in Canadian football."

Harris leads the CFL's meanest defence, which this season gave up 219 points and 4,530 yards. Roughriders defence gave up only seven yards more, but was penalized for 282 points.

Atlantic Bowl

Marauders Meet Xavier

HALIFAX (CP) — Gazing into crystal balls is not Don Losney's favorite pastime and he has a habit of carefully respecting all opponents until after his football charges at St. Francis Xavier University have met them.

True to form, the 44-year-old coach is making no predictions on the outcome of Saturday's clash with McMaster University Marauders in the Atlantic College Bowl here Saturday, and he figures the Hamilton crew will be hard to subdue.

They're as strong as any senior intercollegiate team, he said of the Marauders, who lead the Central Canadian Intercollegiate league with seven wins and no losses.

The X-men from Antigonish, N.S., however, had two down all opposition in the Maritimes' Bluenose Conference.

US Women Score Win At Royal

TORONTO (CP) — Three women led the United States equestrian team to victory in the Prix des Nations Wednesday night at the horse show of the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair.

Over two rounds the U.S. team gathered only 12 faults.

Kathy Kusner of Arlington, Va., riding Untouchable, was the individual star of the U.S. team with two clean rides.

Mary Chapot of Wallpark, N.J., on Snakeoda had one knockdown in the afternoon and one again in the evening while Crystine Jones of Bloomfield, Mich., on Trick Track was clean in the afternoon and had one knockdown in the evening.

Peter Robeson from Buckingham, Que., Montreal had two clean rounds for the British team over the 14-fence course.

Junior 'A'

Six - Player Trade!

KITCHENER (CP) — A six-player trade was completed Wednesday between Kitchener Rangers and Peterborough Petes of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

Rangers general manager Brent Madill said Kitchener gave up forwards Ralph Buchanan, Jack Rathwell, Tony Featherstone and defenceman Jimmy Jones in return for Henry Lehvonene and Ken Johnson, both defencemen.

Kitchener also received from Peterborough its first selection in next spring's priority selection of midget players.

Buchanan, Rathwell and Jones have all seen limited action with the Rangers this season. Featherstone has been with the Kitchener Greenshirts of the OHA Jr. B series.

Both Lehvonen and Johnson have been playing regularly with Peterborough and Lehvonen was one of the Pete's top choices in last season's priority selection.

Sorry, Boys — Scoresheets Were Blank

The Bellevile Minor Hockey Association appears to be away to its most disorganized start in years.

Provincial Body

Develop Amateur Sport

TORONTO (CP) — Formation of a provincial body to provide a co-operative approach to the development of amateur sport was proposed Wednesday by the Ontario department of education.

Bob E. Secord, of the department's community programs section, told 50 representatives of various sports that:

"We cannot presume to tell groups what their needs are. Yet several groups share the same kinds of problems that can mutually be solved."

He said $300,000 in grants from provincial and federal governments will be made available by next April.

The federation could increase the numbers participating in sports by providing opportunities in areas and "improve the quality of leadership through instructional clinics and courses."

Westmoreland Will Not Ask for More Troops

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. William C. Westmoreland will press for earlier deployment of troops already authorized but won't ask for a bigger U.S. troop commitment in South Vietnam, sources say.

These same sources predicted Westmoreland's request will be agreed to today when the U.S. commander in South Vietnam meets with President Johnson at the White House.

Westmoreland's talks with Johnson continue a high-level Vietnam conferences begun Wednesday when the president met with Ellsworth Bunker, U.S. ambassador to South Vietnam.

Joining the president and Bunker at luncheon were State Secretary Dean Rusk, Defence Secretary Robert McNamara, Chairman Earle G. Wheeler of the joint chiefs of staff, director Richard Helms of the Central Intelligence Agency and special presidential assistant Walt W. Rostow.

Bunker was reported to have given Johnson a cautiously optimistic report on American progress in Vietnam and Westmoreland, on his arrival by plane Wednesday from Saigon, told newspaper men?

"It is very, very encouraging. I have never been more encouraged in my four years in Vietnam."

Military progress by U.S. and South Vietnamese forces was reported behind Westmoreland's request that authorized troop levels be reached more quickly.

There now are about 470,000 American fighting men in Vietnam and Johnson earlier this year authorized boosting the total to 525,000 by next July 1.

Arabs Set Time Limit

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Security Council delegates balked against the clock today to find a Middle East peace formula following an Arab ultimatum which set a weekend deadline for them to pass an acceptable resolution.

Arab delegates were reported to have told the 15-nation council they would demand a debate in the 123-country General Assembly if no suitable solution was reached.

The Arabs were said to be confident they could gain enough votes in the wider forum to pass a resolution which met their approval.

Hopes of ending a five-week council stalemate were pinned on a compromise move by British chief delegate Lord Caradon, who persuaded the council to adjourn Wednesday until this afternoon 4 p.m. EST to gain more time for private discussion.

Dr. Gordon Murray (left) explains his latest medical breakthrough to Dr. G. D. Hart. A medical meeting in Toronto Tuesday night saw a "permanently" paralyzed man stand up and, with assistance, walk. Dr. Murray, who won world fame for his open-heart surgery and artificial kidney, has developed a new technique for rejoining severed spinal cords. (CP Photo)

Spinal Cord Regeneration

Medical Profession Eagerly Awaits Results

TORONTO (CP) — Reactions to Dr. Gordon Murray's medical breakthrough have ranged from congratulations to serious reservations.

On Tuesday, Dr. Murray said how he rejoined a shattered spinal cord "although all the books and all the experts had said this would never be done."

Dr. Murray proved that it could when Bertram Prentis, a 36-year-old truck driver from St. Jean Cheboury, Que., stood before an audience of doctors Tuesday and showed that paraplegics can stand again.

Mr. Prentis had been paralyzed for three years following an accident in which he severed his spinal cord.

Dr. Ludwig Guttman, a noted paraplegia specialist, said Wednesday the the spinal column cannot be rejoined, and added that the newspaper report describing the operation "does not sound feasible." Dr. Guttman directs the United Kingdom ministry of pensions spinal injuries centre at Aylesbury, England.

Dr. John Mullan, chief of neurosurgery at the University of Chicago, at first expressed doubt and asked whether the report could be a swindle. When he was assured of Dr. Murray's reputation, he admitted it was "a tremendous step forward."

The operation is "a major and dramatic breakthrough" he said, adding that doctors throughout the world have been stymied by the problem of trying to restore nerve function.

Dr. J. G. Love, senior neurology consultant at the Mayo Clinic in Minnesota, said he would need a lot more information on the operation before he could express an opinion.

"But if Dr. Murray has actually successfully rejoined a severed spinal cord he has done something very wonderful."

This is not the first time the 73-year-old doctor, a native of Stratford, has startled the medical world.

He was a junior demonstrator in surgery at the University of Toronto in 1928 when he successfully performed the rare grafting of an artery.

He is probably best known internationally for a "blue baby" operation, the first in Canada, 30 years ago, it gave him patients from four continents.

Dr. Murray Has History of Achievement

TORONTO (CP) — "I can't shrug off a mystery and forget it," Dr. Gordon Murray once told friends at a Toronto tennis club.

"It rankles."

When the 73-year-old master surgeon announced this week that he had achieved regeneration of the spinal cord in animals and humans, it marked another milestone in a life of medical achievements.

It also climaxed eight years of research and came 11 years after an artificial kidney he invented was used on this continent for the first time in saving the life of a woman in Toronto General Hospital.

Dr. Murray performed some of the first operations in Canada on children with congenital heart defects—"blue babies"—was the first surgeon to transplant an aortic heart valve and pioneered as an anti-coagulant the use of heparin, an agent which prevents blood clots.

A slight, poker-faced man who appears notably calm in a crisis, Dr. Murray is a non-conformist who has become accustomed to being treated with skepticism by his colleagues.

As word of his latest medical breakthrough circulated around the world, one specialist asked whether the report could be a swindle while another said it "does not sound feasible."

Few thought his artificial kidney would work when it was introduced in the Toronto hospital Dec. 6, 1946, after 18 years of speculation, study and intensive experiments.

It was being tried as a last resort to save an attractive 26-year-old woman whose kidneys stopped functioning after she had attempted an abortion.

Every method known to medicine at that time had failed to restore her health and she was dying of uremia, caused when sudden damage to the kidneys stops their function of filtering the blood and removing its waste products as urine.

After a few days the patient began making extraordinary progress towards recovery and a month later she was back to work.

Tuesday night a 24-year-old accident victim paralyzed from the shoulders down since October, 1963, was wheeled before the Toronto East Gernal and Orthopedic Hospital Research Foundation on a bed.

"He hasn't moved a joint for three years," Dr. Murray said after the 24-year-old Quebec truck driver slid his feet off the bed and stood, amazing the formally-attired audience.

Religion Divides Men

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS
Thoughts at Large

Social cliches die just as hard as verbal ones — most of us still think of Texas as an equine state, where the gallop of horses' hooves is the loudest sound to be heard; whereas, in point of fact, Texas has become a marine state, where the number of pleasure boats is now thousands more than the number of horses.

It is ironic that "brotherhood" is the goal and basis of all the great religions; and yet hardly any other aspect of civilization has been more divisive of men, more prone to separate than to unite.

"All men are created equal" and "all men are created unequal" are both true statements, though seeming to be contradictories; and unless we understand the meaning of both, and how they must be reconciled, we cannot build a just, orderly, and stable society.

Every age has its tyranny — the king, the priest, the general, the politician; and the stable tyranny of the near future seems to belong to the technical expert, whose expertise overwhelms our ignorance in decision-making.

Schools that want to ban or discipline pupils because they wear their hair too long are merely demonstrating the awkward fact that they care more about what is happening on the outside of a boy's head than what is happening on the inside.

We only protest feebly when our realities are changed; but we resist most vehemently when our pretences are attacked; this is why a company, for instance, can take a man's authority away from him more easily than it can relieve him of his title.

If we stopped calling automobile accidents "accidents," it might alert us more to the personal factor at the heart of the problem; for most are not "accidents" in the natural sense of the word, but the result of recklessness, aggression, selfishness, and calculated inconsiderateness — and there is nothing "accidental" about these traits.

The finest and fiercest rebels to psychedelic drugs was the sign I saw scribbled in the dressing room of a "hippie" men's shop: "Love is the ultimate trip." Drugs, whatever their diverse dangers, are simply a sad substitute for the ability to love fully and freely.

The chief test of civilization is the amount of difference it will tolerate and even encourage; for the one characteristic all primitive societies have in common is their horror of diversity.

Trustees Fear Larger Areas May Cut Interest in Schools

TORONTO (CP) — School trustees fear the elimination of 900 Ontario school boards announced Tuesday night by Premier Robarts may ease school administration at the expense of education.

Trustees feel that while larger units may make financing easier, they will also remove schools decisions from the people and force children to ride buses long distances to school.

Mr. oberts also said school boards will issue tax bills separately from municipal councils.

Jean Watson, executive secretary of the Ontario School Trustees and Municipal Councillors Association, said a similar move in Britain resulted in people losing interest in their schools.

Mrs. Watson said her own county of Oxford, with 17 districts, is too large to be serviced by one board. She favors amalgamation of township boards or the establishment of county board if the county is small enough.

Meanwhile, opposition leaders criticized the Way Mr. Robarts proposes to establish country-wide boards although both said they favor larger school administration units.

Liberal Leader Robert Nixon said his party will support the principle of the bill when it is introduced in the legislature, which is expected to open late in January or early in February. Mr. Robarts said the plan to replace local school boards will go into effect Jan. 1, 1969.

Mr. Nixon's main complaint was that Mr. Robarts made no promise that the provincial government would assume a larger share of education costs.

The Liberal and New Democratic parties want the government to pay 80 per cent of education costs. The government now pays as much as 90 per cent in some areas, but opposition parties say total support is less than 50 per cent.

Donald MacDonald, NDP leader, said the government's action is piecemeal "in that it deals with only one aspect of many in the complex problem of modernizing local government." The government proposed to establish new school units "without having grappled with the basic inequity and inadequacy of local taxes."

Barry Lowes, Metropolitan Toronto school board chairman, whose area will not change with the setting up of the new system, said the establishment of larger boards was inevitable.

A. E. Klein of North Bay, head of the Ontario Separate School Trustees' Association, said if school districts are to be enlarged, the government should change the three-mile limit. The law now says a supporter must live within three miles of a separate school to pay separate board taxes.

Postal Delivery Will Not Be Cut

OTTAWA (CP) — There will be no immediate reduction to a five-day week for domestic postal delivery, Postmaster-General Cote said Wednesday.

In a prepared statement, he said that although he favors the five-day week because it means an annual saving of $8,000,000 in staff costs, he will wait until such factors as public reaction, cost of mail storage space for weekend pile-ups and possible interruption of services are determined.

Some of the estimated $3,000,000 savings would be lost through the cost of providing mail storage space across the country if a five-day week were adopted said Mr. Cote.

The minister said he is concerned also with assessing costs, and the public and business community's opinion before making any decion on domestic delivery reductions.

Adaptation of Shaw's Play Lost Some of Bite and Satire

NEW YORK (AP) — Not all of George Bernard Shaw's witty characterics translate as comfortably into a musical form as do "Fair Lady"—not even when the music is written by Richard Rodgers.

NBC's adaptation of Androcles and the Lion arrived Wednesday night having lost somewhere along the way the bite and sly satire of the Irish playwright. The score, alas, was one of Rodgers' minor efforts.

What came through in the 90 minutes was the familiar tale of a small timid tailor of ancient Rome, one of the Christians, whose love of animals gave him courage to pull a thorn from the paw of a lion.

Captured by Roman soldiers, Androcles is placed in the arena with other Christians to be fed to the lions for the sport of Caesar and the populace. Of course, the lion turns out to be his old friend and his life is spared.

Norman Wisdom played Androcles in broad comedy style, even occasionally dropping into cockney baby-talk when speaking to his lion. Ed Ames had a song or two in his part of the giant who worried about his conscience. Inga Swenson appeared as a Christian girl who attracted a Roman captain—just enough for a couple of songs with him.

Noel Coward as Caesar appeared at the end of the show and had one amusing number. The Emperor's Thumb, which he delivered with considerable style.

But at no point did there seem to be a comfortable fit of story and music. Ancient Rome and the ordeals of early Christians combined with musical comedy like oil and water.

NBC will drop The Man from U.N.C.L.E., now in its fourth season, after the 30 June show. The replacement will be a variety series starring the comedy team of Rowan and Martin. The cancelled show's ratings have been low this season and its departure was expected.

NBC also confirmed officially that May will be replaced by The Saint, in early March.

Ted Hartley Starting Movie Career With Positive Thinking

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Ted Hartley is going about a film career in the same way he won a post as naval aide at the White House: with positive thinking.

"There was absolutely no logic to my being appointed aide to President Eisenhower in 1957," he recalls. "There were other navy officers with more seniority and better qualifications. But I was fascinated with the power structure of Washington and I wanted to observe it from the inside, so I put in my application. A couple of weeks later I was told to report to the White House."

Hartley was even less qualified to become an actor; his only previous experience in dramatics had been playing a female role in an Annapolis production. Yet his film career has been progressing, and he has his best role so far in the Cinerama epic, Ice Station Zebra.

At age 34, the ruggedly handsome Hartley is thinking of writing his memoirs. Born in Omaha, Neb., he has packed a lot of living into his lifetime.

Among his experiences:

Becoming the youngest U.S. pilot at 13; forming a fast friendship with Lady Astor during a crisis in England; hobnobbing with the Kennedys and other Washington society; serving messages between Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip during a White House dinner; serving as vice consul at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow; breaking his back when his Cougar jet crashed on a carrier Midway off Formosa.

"The business didn't prosper, but at least I got some free trips out of it," says Hartley. "One of them was an inaugural flight to Paris, and I stayed over for a couple of days, coming back on a later jet."

The only other passenger was a loquacious Hungarian who turned out to be Nick Salgo, an associate of Tycoon Charles Bludhorn of Gulf and Western. Salgo offered the young man a job, and Hartley sold his travel agency to become an acquisition man for Gulf and Western.

Hartley did so well that he was lured away by another acquisition-minded firm and sent Gam took me to sessions of the to its Nevada headquarters. But Actor's Studio in New York. I the business life palled on him, was offered a comedy role as a and he left the $30,000 post for minister in Peyton Place . . . I the nebulous career of a writer must have done all right, bein Hollywood. cause I stayed 314 months."

"Then the idea of acting presented itself," he says. "I first Walk, Don't Run, Murder's Row became interested when Rita and Barefoot in the Park.

NPD Rejects Allegation Germany Sole Cause of War

HANNOVER (AP) — An attractive, 36-year-old blonde stood at the rostrum and declared: "We decisively reject the allegation that Germany bears the sole blame for the World War. . . ."

A roar of approval rose from the 1,400 predominantly male delegates at the third congress of the National Democratic Party-NPD—the most formidable rightist party to emerge in West Germany since the war.

The young woman, who was reading from the newly adopted party of idealists seeking to kindly the image of the party that the NPD wished to convey to the world as it met sail for the 1969 national election: a young party of idealists seeking to hide a healthy sense of national pride.

NPD opponents were more apt to shudder at the display of emotional nationalism by a party they regard as a haven for unrepentant ex-Nazis.

The party platform, the first in the NPD's three-year history, says:

"The prerequisite for the high development of humanity is idealism."

Former chairman—and ex-Nazi—Wilhelm Gutmann said the program "should open the gate to the Bundestag," the lower house of the federal parliament which the NPD hopes to enter in 1969 with 40 to 50 of the 496 seats.

The party has won 43 seats in six of West Germany's 10 state parliaments during the last year and claims a membership of nearly 30,000 with an average age of 41.2 years. Its highest percentages of the vote was 8.8 per cent in Bremen last month.

The party's foreign policy platform contains Gaullist strains in such points as:

1. NATO is ripe to be disbanded and replaced by an "alliance of free and equal partners in a European security system."

2. All foreign troops must be withdrawn from German soil in order to allow the country to reunite.

3. The Bundeswehr should be converted into a national army with its own commander-in-chief and general staff.

4. "The soldier must again enjoy the respect due him in our society."

Although the party has been accused of anti-Semitism, the platform contains no racist pleas. Such statements could lead the federal government to ban the party as undemocratic.

Four Deaths

Violent Storm Hits Boston

BOSTON (AP)—A violent storm dumped up to 13 inches of snow on parts of New England Wednesday, a blizzard that left four deaths and a massive traffic jam in the Boston area.

Motorists were stuck in Boston traffic for hours. Many left their offices at 5 p.m.—and by midnight had progressed only a few blocks.

Thousands of cars ran out of gasoline or stalled when their batteries went dead and many motorists abandoned their cars on the street.

Robert Josen, a Massachusetts Civil Defense and Transportation Authority bus driver, said students from area colleges, including Harvard and Boston University, were pushing cars, directing traffic and bringing coffee, sandwiches and cookies to stranded motorists.

He said the students apparently "were digging into their own pockets to buy the food and coffee which they handed out."

Boston City Hospital doctors and a nurse ran through the blinding snow to deliver a baby girl in a car trapped in traffic two blocks away.

Both mother and baby later were reported in good condition.

By early evening every hotel in downtown Boston reported every available room as well as spaces which could be furnished with cots, had been sold out.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Cumsay, owned by Harry Carmichael of St. Catharines, won the $11,375 Trotting Stakes at Greenwood Wednesday.

Ridden by apprentice Robin Fitzsimmons, Cumsay paid $34.80, $9.20 and $4.80.

Super half-sister, Hinsenoa, had been favored to win, but eased up lame Wednesday morning and had to be scratched.

The victory, worth $6,375, boosted Cumsay's earnings this season to $18,175.

The daily double of Persian Port and Major returned $20.80.

The exactor of Dan McGrew and Winning Monarch in the fourth paid $27.80 and the exactor of Vintage Port and Barand paid $30.50 in the sixth.

ELECTED CHAIRMAN

MONTREAL (CP) — Earl Morse, 60, of New York Wednesday was elected chairman of the board of trustees of the United Synagogue of American Hebrew Congregations, central body of the reform branch of Judaism in the Western Hemisphere. Mr. Morse, who will serve a two-year term, is executive vice-president of DCA Food Industries Ltd. He succeeds Irvin Fane, a lawyer from Kansas City who has served as chairman since 1943.

Xavier Fullback Nominated

SACKVILLE, N.B. (CP) — St. Francis Xavier fullback Paul Brule will represent the Maritime Football Conference as the outstanding college football player in Canada during 1967.

The Hec Crighton Trophy will be awarded at the College Bowl game in Toronto Nov. 25 for the first time. Each of the four college conferences in Canada has submitted one nomination and the Canadian Intercollegiate Football will make the final choice.

A native of Ottawa, the five-foot-11 fullback smashed all records with a 25-touchdown performance in six games for a 150-point output. Twenty-one of his touchdowns came on running plays, two on pass receptions and one each on punt returns and kickoff returns.

Legion Marks Memorial Day

NAPANEE — "The courts of Canada represent the democracy for which Canadians have died in the two world wars," member of branch 137 of the Royal Canadian Legion were told at their Memorial banquet Saturday evening.

The speaker was Gordon F. Beddis, registrar of the Supreme Court of Canada. "The laws of this land are made by the government, enforced by the police, and interpreted by the courts," he pointed out. This is democracy in action.

President W. M. Almeborsh, acting as chairman, believed that, as this is Centennial year, those who have died for Canada in that 100 years should be honored.

Head table guests included Mayor Lorne A. Smart, A. Douglas Allenbrick, M.P., Ray McElwee, provincial member of cons G-I, branch padre, Canon W. L. Simmons, and Rev. Guy Coen.

The banquet was prepared and served by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the branch.

Sewer System Being Delayed

DESERONTO — Deseronto's $1,400,000 sanitary sewer system and sewage treatment plant is being delayed because the Ontario Water Resources Commission wants to make the system part of an overall plan for the Bay of Quinte.

The OWRC has been promising help for the town's sewage problems for almost seven years. In the meantime, Deseronto has been putting off projects of its own, including a school addition, while waiting word on costs involved. It is expected the major capital cost will be borne by the OWRC and the services leased back to the municipality.

The overall Bay of Quinte sewage disposal plan would include a $2,600,000 program for Belleville.

Pollution in the Bay is causing substantial health complications at Shannonville and Picton. At Napanee, pollution is caused by industries and water near Deseronto is seriously polluted, with the chemical content exceeding the safety level, OWRC tests show.

Council Votes In Favor of Retaining Board

PICTON — Picton town council voted in favor of retaining the old school district central Prince Edward planning board.

Whether or not the central Prince Edward planning area board is disbanded makes no difference to the Picton Prince Edward County planning board, it was pointed out during county council this week. Town and county council voted in favor of retaining the old board as insurance.

The department of municipal affairs asked Ministers of Bloomfield, Hallowell and Picton councils regarding the proposed dissolution. The three municipalities form the membership of the central Prince Edward planning board. Hallowell and Bloomfield favor dissolution; Picton favors retention.

To Your Good Health

No Substitute for Work

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a friend whose religious beliefs forbid taking blood in transfusions. What can be done to help her? I asked what she would have done if a transfusion had been ordered to save her life, and she replied, "they had to do something else they can give you the plasma instead."

Is this so? Is there anything which replaces blood completely? — Mrs. J. M.

What she says is true in part but there is nothing which can replace blood entirely.

Her reference evidently was to solutions containing salt, sugar (glucose) or sometimes other materials, and the so-called "plasma expanders" which are introduced into a vein to combat shock.

In cases of shock from lost blood, generally the addition of fluid by transfusion, is to increase the total volume in the circulatory system, is helpful. The use of plasma (that is, the fluid portion of blood, with most of the solid particles removed) is well known.

A glucose solution is given by intravenous injection (in the form of sugar) when a patient is unable to take nourishment by mouth.

Saline (salt) solutions, sometimes with other materials added, are often given to maintain the proper mineral balance in the body, as well as to keep adequate moisture in the system, as can be necessary if a patient is unconscious or unable to drink.

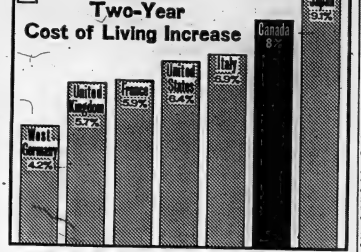
However, whole blood also contains many other components, red cells for transporting oxygen, white cells to fight infection and remove waste materials, platelets and other particles which are necessary for making the blood clot, albumin and other ingredients.

There are some purposes non-organic solutions may be used, but for other purposes there is no substitute for whole blood. This obvious, it seems a medical problem if a person's religious beliefs prohibit whole blood.

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes fat knots and what can be done about them? Is it dangerous to have them removed? — Mrs. G. K.

I presume you mean localized lumps of fat known as lipomas or fatty tumors, which are a rather common compl...

The cause is not known; the lumps, or benign tumors, are the result of fat cells accumulating in a small area, mixed with fibrous tissue. They are common at the nape of the neck and in the trunk, front and back, and can appear elsewhere.



Ordinarily nothing is done about them. Rarely they become painful or have no tendency to become cancerous. There is rarely a pressure effect as they become large enough to be uncomfortable or a nuisance, or are unsightly, it is a simple matter to remove them surgically.

The fee most part, they remain rather small, and often only the patient realizes that they exist as small lumps below the skin.

They can become quite large occasionally. I have seen one on the thigh which grew to the size of a melon. It didn't appear to bother the patient until an office layout at the tip of this large mass. Then it was removed.

Dear Dr. Molner: Do two or three digestive daily do much harm to one's health? I am a college student, very active in sports, but like to smoke. I never smoke more than three or four a day. I need some honest advice. — T. B. N.

No, if you can keep it limited to three a day. But if you can do so, you are lucky. That's the trouble with cigarettes—the subtle, gradual impulse to smoke more. For that reason you'd be smarter to quit now when it would be relatively easy.

Second Only to Japan

The United Kingdom, West Germany, the United States and France all had a lower cost of living increase over the last two years. The Dominion Bureau of Statistics lists Canada's increase at 8 per cent, beaten only by Japan which recorded a 9.1 per cent increase over that time.

Board Refuses to Make Public Figures on Successful Pupils

NAPANEE — Napanee Collegiate Institute Board has been continue to back principal C. S. Proud's policy of keeping percentage figures of successful high school students confidential.

But some people, including North Fredericksburgh businessmen, Reginald Chapman, wants to know the number of successful and unsuccessful students.

Napanee trustee Dr. A. E. Fyfe suggested Mr. Chapman be allowed the board minutes read received the figures at the Oct. 20 session.

The percentage entered the debate with his own explanation: "As I've said in the past, I don't like to see percentages because comparisons could be made on a false basis."

At the Oct. 20 board meeting Mr. Proud read a report on the examination results and said the percentage rate of successful students compares favorably with any high school in the province. Each board member was given a copy of the confidential report.

Mr. Chapman also wanted the board to print a yearly financial statement.

Council Plans Action Against Contractor

NAPANEE — Napanee council plans to start legal action against a contractor for damages caused in a block long street near the high school addition.

Napanee Collegiate Institute Board was advised by letter Tuesday night the board holds it responsible for "the unsatisfactory condition of Graham St."

The contractor, Kemp Construction Co., Hamilton, is completing a $2.3 million addition to the secondary school.

Newburgh Trustee Gerald Chapman Re-elected

Newburgh trustee Gerald Chapman and the board knocked each of the 11 municipal councils in the school area with an unfavorable.

"If anyone wants our financial statement he can go to his mayor," the board member commented.

Joining of Two Groups Ruled Out at OFU Meet

NAPANEE — As they now exist, the Ontario Farmers' Union and the Ontario Federation of Agriculture cannot unite and form one organization representative of the farmers, Mrs. Jeanne Williams of Stirling told about 30 farm union members at the annual meeting of the Lennox and Addington subdivision in Sillsville hall early this month.

Mrs. Williams is past-president of the women's section of the Union for Ontario, and chairman of the education committee. She is the first woman to be a member of the provincial executive.

Both the government and the Federation are pushing for one organization, she pointed out, saying, however, that the two organizations are so different that union would probably break down immediately. On the other, and that the union would likely be the one to disappear. The Union is a grass roots' organization, she explained, and in the Federation direction comes from the top.

Mrs. Williams urged still greater activity, congratulating the sub-district on its increased membership this year.

She was introduced by Mrs. Clarence Brown of Dempsey Local 231, and was thanked by James Dunean.

Carl Clayton, a member of the ARDA advisory committee gave a report on its activities. Joseph Murphy, elected president, reported the conference of the Ontario Milk Marketing Board which he had attended at Geneva Park recently.

Officers for the sub-division were elected. Allan Hamilton of Sillsville is the new director; Secretary of the women's section will be Mrs. Lloyd Vanwel Enterprise, and Mrs. James Ferguson of Selby is the secretary-treasurer.

Refreshments were served by the Sillsville Local.

The theme of the meeting was Remembrance Day and Mrs. Gould read "A Soldier's Prayer," said to have been written by General McCauley Cleland and Mrs. Kimmett gave a second reading.

Many items were discussed during the business period. Mrs. Gould and Mrs. Herbert Arkworth were appointed as a nominating committee.

A White Gift service was planned, with the money to be used for needy children of the town. Boxes of candy will again be sent to the aged and the ill. There will be an exchange of gifts at the December meeting.

Several of the group answered the appeal for volunteers to help with the kitchen.

Plans were completed for the tea and bazaar to be held later in November in the church school room.

The program which followed the business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Gould and "Remembrance Day" theme. Mrs. Higgins read an article on the subject and Mrs. Kimmett gave a second reading.

Anti-war Critics Annoy LBJ But Do Not Put Dent in Him

WASHINGTON (AP) — The anti-Vietnam war critics and demonstrators annoy President Johnson but they don't put a dent in him.

The hopes for peace face a bleak future at least until the 1968 elections, unless somehow the war ends before then. Nothing of the kind is in sight.

Recent and not-so-recent statements by Johnson and top men around him in fighting this war show grim determination to keep on fighting it.

For instance, Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, looking beyond Vietnam, said months ago the United States would be involved in Asia until the end of the century.

Last May in Look magazine he said the American interest "in the Far Pacific is precisely what our interest was in the late '30s and '50s in Europe."

In the same issue of the magazine State Secretary Dean Rusk predicted it will be "useful for some time to come for American power to be able to control every wave of the Pacific, if necessary."

This week Johnson showed this unbending determination to go on with the war.

The Machinist, a labor magazine, quoted him as saying: "I may wind up with a poll of one per cent before it's over with."

Recent public opinion polls showed his popularity, and public confidence in him, at a new low.

He said: "We can't end it (the war) with honor by surrender. We can't end it with honor by negotiation because the enemy will not negotiate with us."

Until there are negotiations, he said, "It is going to be tough but we are just going to have to stand up and take it."

Nor is there any softening in the administration's position about continuing the bombing of North Vietnam.

Wednesday, when he arrived here from Saigon, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. military commander in Vietnam, talked of progress in the war as "we, y encouraging . . . I have never been more encouraged in my four years in Vietnam."

He also opposed any extended bombing pause, which is in keeping with his relentless attitude toward the conflict in Vietnam.

Vietnam War as Big As Korean

SAIGON (AP)—The United States command in Vietnam announced today the number of American troops in Vietnam reached 470,000 by last Saturday, only 2,900 less than the peak U.S. strength in the Korean War in 1953. Arrivals since Saturday may have brought the total to the Korean War maximum or greater.

U.S. officials have announced that American troop strength will be increased to 525,000 by early next year. Reports from Washington indicate arrivals may be speeded up in the next few weeks.

Deal May Be in Making To Postpone Medicare

Delay Urged By Ontario

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal-provincial conference of finance ministers resumes today, apparently with general agreement on anti-inflation measures and perhaps a deal in the works on postponing national medical care insurance.

Finance Minister Sharp, chairman of the meeting, said there appears to be ready co-operation among the provinces in reducing the upward climb of government spending, and recognition that governments cannot expect to borrow as much next year as they have this year.

"I think without exception that all the provinces recognize that medicare would involve substantial expenditures and might involve additional taxes," he told reporters after the first day's sessions.

"I made it clear last week that insofar as medicare is implemented, the federal government will raise revenues rather than borrow to meet the cost."

Ontario's provincial treasurer C. S. MacNaughton, called for a further postponement of the national medical care insurance program.

He later told reporters that other delegations endorsed Ontario's view that medical care insurance is less important than other demands on government revenues.

But Mr. MacNaughton said that if Ottawa maintains the starting data and other provinces bring in their own plans, Ontario would have to consider doing so as well.

Ottawa would tax all Canadians for its 50-per-cent contribution to provincial plans and as a "matter of protection" Ontario might have to set up a plan qualifying for federal payments.

Premier Thatcher of Saskatchewan, whose province now has the only medical insurance plan that would qualify for federal subsidy under existing law, supported the conference by suggesting a way by which he could agree to postponement.

If Ottawa doesn't start next July 1 to pick up half of his province's medical care insurance tab, he would expect Ottawa to restore to the province the $18,000,000 by which escalation payments to Saskatchewan are scheduled to be cut next year.

Mr. Sharp said it was the first he had heard of the proposal, but he would consider it.

Mr. Sharp said that at Thursday's meeting he asked for provincial co-operation in general, and in some specific things, in fighting inflation by cutting expenditure plans and, if necessary, raising taxes.

Mr. Sharp said he will meet with the provincial finance ministers again in December or January to plan next year's budget-making in more detail.

Ontario's Mr. MacNaughton told the conference that immediate steps must be taken to combat inflation, but the country should be prepared to take over action within a few months if deflationary measures depress the economy too much.

Mr. MacNaughton urged more flexibility in joint programs. He put housing and education ahead of medical care in his list of priorities.

The provincial treasurer even suggested that the money Ottawa would apply to medical care payments in Ontario should go into housing or some other ranking priority. He did not explain how he proposed this should be done.

Mr. Sharp told reporters he could understand Mr. MacNaughton on this, and the provincial minister agreed with the federal minister that in today's

Mid East Formula Elusive

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Prospects of Security Council agreement on a Middle East peace formula appeared remote today as United Nations members studied three rival plans. None of them were believed acceptable to both the Arabs and the Israelis.

The 15-nation council was moving toward a showdown on the proposals, but some delegates predicted that the ballot may not come until next week. Some members were awaiting instructions from their governments.

Britain came in late Thursday with a compromise draft. Both the Israelis and the Egyptians withheld comment on the British plan until they heard from home, but there were reports that the Russians gave the formula a cool reception.

The United States and India, Mali and Nigeria had already put in rival plans neither of which was acceptable to both sides.

On the motion of Ambassador George Ignatieff of Canada, the council adjourned until 3:30 p.m. EST today.

Lord Caradon introduced the British resolution after warning the council that the alternatives to effective action on the Middle East was "too terrible to contemplate."

The British resolution calls for Israeli withdrawal "from territories occupied in the recent conflict" when Israel seized hundreds of square miles of territory from Egypt, Jordan and Syria.

London Markets Near Chaos As Word of Loan Is Awaited

LONDON (Reuters) — Near-Chaos prevailed in London financial markets today as dealers waited for some word from the government to allay uncertainty on the future of the pound.

There was still no official confirmation of a report that first appeared Wednesday night that the government is trying to negotiate a $1,000,000,000 foreign loan to shore up its currency and ward off devaluation.

Foreign exchange dealers were awaiting trial on a charge of inciting racial violence. He was sentenced Nov. 9 to one year in jail

All Tied Up for Another Year

Belleville harbor was trimmed with ice for the first time yesterday as winter moved closer to the Quinte district. A bustling summer centre for water traffic, the harbor now is a lonely spot, its pleasure boats dispersed, with only the odd skiff marking hauled above the water line to mark the end of another summer.

Dogs Available

Dog catchers have more problems than most civic officers.

Kenneth Gardiner, Belleville's acting pound officer, has one more problem than most. A lot of heart.

Each day he's out catching canines as the result of complaints from city residents.

Legally, the city may destroy any animal not reclaimed after three days.

"We could do it that soon," says a city hall official.

The dog catcher, however, hates the thought of having to dispose of any pet whatsoever.

In recent weeks there have been few reclamations.

So the number of dogs at the Fair Grounds pound has been growing bigger than a baby St. Bernard loose in a dog biscuit warehouse.

By this morning's count there were a dozen dogs of divers breeds romping around the pound — plus one black kitten.

Mr. Gardiner is persistent only in pursuit of good placement homes for the pets.

He shies away from disposing of the pets.

"It bothers me — I just don't like it," he says.

"I've been on here three weeks now and I've just destroyed one dog — and that was 14 years old and badly hurt."

"Anyway there are too many kids around that dogs. There should be homes found for them."

So, in between answering distress calls from householders about running animals, he now is sending out some distress calls himself.

The theme of his message is a humane one.

The response depends on the community.

Appeal Fund Now Stands At $83,000

Another balloon goes out this afternoon to Vagden Mills Ltd., who achieved over 90 per cent fair share participation in the United Community Fund this year.

The U.C.S. Fund has reached $83,000 which is approximately 73 per cent after six weeks of campaigning. Campaign chairman George Dalnard, has found it necessary to extend the campaign for another week.

Bob Porter, U.C.S. director, said today that judging from the in - house campaigns, the campaign committee feels that the drive will definitely go over the top. There are still about 100 in-house canvasses in various stages of completion which should be wound up during the week.

J. D. Scanlon reported that most of the canvass of the commercial area has been completed by 28 canvassers and the Canadian Forces division has all but one of its sections complete. They all expect to be finished by the end of the week.

Fire Prevention Bureau Formed

"Make sure Santa has a chimney to come down this winter," said Fire Chief Ted Poste, "by checking those seasonal lights and materials for fire-flaws."

Christmas trees are a special hazard — lights should never be left burning and since the trees are highly combustible they should be kept as fresh as possible and removed immediately after Christmas Day's.

All lights should have the approval of the Ontario Hydro or C.D.A. and should never be placed close to combustible materials.

A fire prevention bureau has now been established within the fire department with two inspectors under the direction of Chief Fire Prevention Officer R. Fair.

This new division of the fire department will be available to all citizens to assist them in preventing conditions that could result in a costly fire. Chief Poste asks all citizens to use this service as a telephone call could help locate and correct most hazardous conditions.

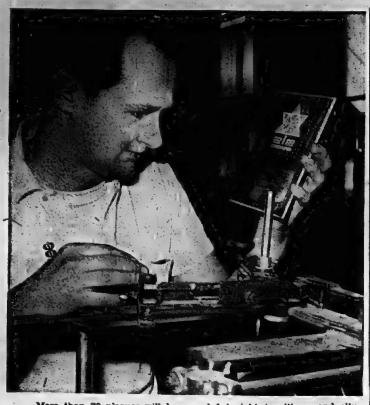
The Chief also stated today that the home service inspection program which has met with such good co-operation and success has been intensified for the year. It will begin again in the spring.

"Most of the conditions conductive to starting fires can be removed with very time" the chief continued. "Accumulation of wastes, improper wiring overloading, improper storage of matches, flammable liquids varnishes and rugs have no place in a home that wants to stay a home," finished Chief Poste.

With winter here other possible fire hazards are created and the Belleville Fire Department strongly recommends that all heating appliances be checked before they are put into use.

In company with all other fire departments the R.F.D. is trying to maintain a safety program called "Plan Your Escape." Dealing with the evacuation from a stricken area the program is in booklet form and is available by phone or through the mail.

The department also has a booklet for babysitters which is a guide ("Emergency Guide to the Baby Sitter") and is also available through the fire department. The chief feels that fire prevention cannot be emphasized enough "and by using all the information available maybe we can reduce the high loss of life and property by fire."



Fire Safety Discussion

Chief Ted Poste goes over some winter fire safety suggestions with a visitor to his office. The chief has urged citizens to take advantage of the safety programs the Belleville Fire Department makes available. He warned the public especially about the fire hazards caused during the Christmas season.

More than 70 plaques will be awarded tonight to citizens and city organizations for outstanding contributions to Belleville's Centennial celebrations. The plaques, here being engraved by Gabriel Leclerc of PM Industries, will be presented at a banquet before a Centennial ball at the city armory.

Youth, Adults Share Final Centennial Events

Belleville puts out the candles on its Centennial birthday cake tonight — and youngsters and adults are sharing equally in the big blowout.

If anything, the moppets probably have the edge when it comes to personal attention — thanks to the presence of the country's Centennial pied piper.

While the grown ups touched up last-minute details for the big Centennial ball at the city armory, the youngsters were having a swinging time with Bobby Gimby.

The Toronto musician who penned the Centennial hit theme, Canada, arrived in the city at noon and began making music with the set he has always favored most — the small fry.

Plans called for him to visit two city schools — Mackenzie Bowell and Harry J. Clarke — during the afternoon.

Later, he was to meet in the city armory with youngsters of the Kiwanis junior choral group and Christ Church Choir.

For the adults, the climax of his visit was scheduled for tonight when Gimby tops the bill at the ball.

More than 600 Bellevillians are expected at the big bash — wrapping up the city's year-long Centennial celebration.

Many of them will be in colorful Centennial costumes. However, a program organizer emphasized today, period dress is not mandatory.

Tickets for the event have been on sale in recent weeks — mainly by city firemen who have a vested interest in the festive finale to the city's Centennial fling.

Proceeds from all ticket sales and admissions will go to the firefighters' Christmas fund.

The fund — one of the oldest good - will giveaway projects still operating in the city — has provided many an underprivileged family with a cheery boost at Christmastime.

However, admission to the big ball is not restricted to ticket - holders.

Patrons can also join the fun simply by paying at the door.

The event also has its formal touch as the city pays tribute to its many community organizations and civic-minded citizens who contributed time and effort to the year-long Centennial program.

More than 70 plaques were scheduled for delivery today, and will be presented at a pre - ball dinner in the armory officers' mess.

Mayor Ellis and other civic officials will participate in the presentations.

Some 600 certificates also are in the offing for members of contributing organizations.

The plaques will be presented after a turkey-with-trimmings dinner.

After that — the ball starts to roll.

Formality on Agreement for Services Delays Ratification of Loyalist Site

A formality has delayed provincial government approval for twin - municipal project seen as a key move in locating Loyalist community colleges in the Belleville area.

The Ontario Municipal Board yesterday refused approval in principle for an agreement between the city and Sidney township to supply sewage and water services on the projected site for the campus just west of Belleville.

Both municipalities must now draw up a formal agreement, ratify the document and return it for full OMB approval, a delegation from the two councils was told.

However, Mayor Jack Ellis said, there would be no difficulty securing provincial government approval and the issue would be presented to city council next Monday.

Mayor Ellis and Sidney Reeve Ernest Kells headed the delegation that discussed the servicing agreement with OMB chairman J. A. Kennedy.

Approval in principle for the project has been requested by the Ontario Council of Regents, the governing body for all provincial community colleges.

However, said Mayor Ellis, the delegation was told by Mr. Kennedy that the OMB does not grant such ratification. Application must be made for full approval on all municipal legislation.

The site chosen for Loyalist is more than 100 acres of land between Avonlough and Wallbridge roads, north of Highway 2.

The site has been optioned for some time from various property owners by the Loyalist college board of governors.

It was sent for approval to the Council of Regents in mid-summer and then transfered for ratification by the minister of education.

However, provincial government action was stalled because of the Ontario general election, while Education Minister Davis is at present out of the country.

A deputation from the board of governors has an appointment with the minister Nov. 30.

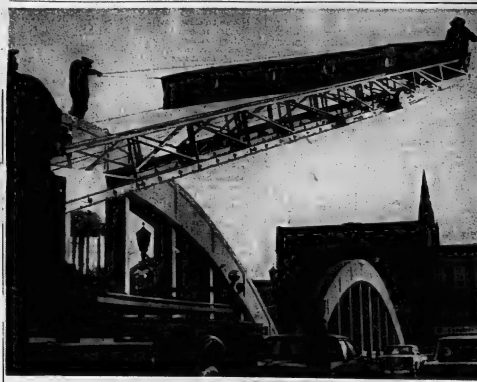
Brian Ellis Remanded

Brian Ellis, 20, of Campbellford was remanded in custody to Nov. 22 when he appeared on a shooting charge in magistrate's court at Madoc yesterday.

Ellis is charged with "shooting with intent to maim" in connection with the shooting last Saturday night of Russell Pitman, near Marmora.

Pitman is in Belleville General Hospital officials said suffering from a chest wound.

The shooting occurred at the rear door of a service station-general store operated by Pitman about two miles from Marmora.



Ellis appeared before Magistrate G. Runciman.

For the Very Last Time...

Centennial banner is flying over Belleville's Upper Bridge again. It was recently removed by firemen, who substituted a United Commity Fund streamer. Yesterday, with the appeal in its last week, it was time for firemen to go aloft and get the Centennial theme flying again. However, they'll soon be back — time is also running out on the nation's 100th birthday party.

Federal Help Approved

Federal assistance for a $3,143,250 long range watershed development program by the Moira River Conservation Authority has now been approved.

The announcement of federal approval of the long range development scheme was made yesterday by Rural Development Minister Davis.

The long range project in Hastings and Lennox and Addington counties would see the construction of 14 dams and river channel improvement for rural water supply, flood control and recreation development.

The initial projects covered by the scheme include a dam at the outlet of Deerock Lake on a tributary of the Skootamatta River, and two control dams for Stoco Lake.

Mr. Sauve said that the federal government of the province of Ontario through an ARDA agreement would bear a major share of the $1 Rial $350,000 cost.

The big item in the over-all project would be the construction of a large dain in the Big Island section of the Moira River just above Moira Lake.

Engineering studies and preparatory work for the Deerock Lake dam are now underway.

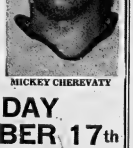
Construction of the two reason dams on the Moira River south of Stoco Lake will not go ahead until next year.

Firemen's Park Fountain Still Awaiting New Home

The city parks board is still looking for a permanent home for the old water fountain removed from Firemen's Park a year or so ago to make way for a new installation.

Parks Board chairman Alderman Donald Williams said today the old fountain — at one time situated outside the old Carnan residence on Dundas Street — was taken to the Foley Supply and Machine Company shop on Wallbridge Crescent for repairs and is at present stored on their property.

"Foley's will move the fountain to any site chosen by the parks board," said Ald. Williams.



The hope of Ald. Williams is that when the historical society decided on a suitable headquarters there will be sufficient room on the property for setting up the fountain and other articles of historical interest.

He suggested that the monument on Firemen's Park to United Empire Loyalists, could also be moved to such a site.

Christmas in Belleville

One of the most commendable evidences of community involvement is swinging into high gear these days under the auspices of the United Community Services.

It's the Christmas Exchange — a clearing house for the true Christmas spirit. Volunteer director Mrs. Selma Whitehead says "no one who is in need of an extra boost will be forgotten."

Under the plan initiated this year all organizations, groups and individuals who give assistance are asked to register with the exchange. In turn, the exchange will work with all welfare organizations to see that every family in need of a boost gets one.

Many residents of Belleville may wonder how they can help. The direct way would be a contribution to the welfare organization of their choice.

An indirect way would be attendance tonight at the Centennial Ball at the armory. Proceeds from the ball will go towards the Belleville Firemen's annual Christmas fund for needy youngsters. Aiding the firemen in their usual fashion will be members of the Belleville Musicians' Union, playing at the dance, at no charge to the dance committee.

Bright Students

Special tuition for bright students is a facet of education that is often discussed. However, it would be interesting to know just to what extent the needs of young people in this category are met — in Belleville or anywhere else.

A Sault psychologist, Andrew Hepburn, says bright children are the most neglected students in school. Stressing the need for special classes where these youngsters would be encouraged to make further progress, Mr. Hepburn told a Sault conference that intelligent students usually tend to "underachieve" in school work.

Paradoxically, retarded children "overachieve," according to Mr. Hepburn, who said he also favored classes with fewer students so the teacher could devote more time to each student.

There they are — two old problems of schooling, particularly for the younger student in his formative years. There is no doubt the bright student should be stimulated to both greater effort and achievement, and that where possible classes should be smaller.

It may be asked if some self-help would be of assistance in this respect? Why not encourage the quicker and more knowledgeable student, however young he may be, to pursue his own studies, and perhaps whet his interest even more by having him assist other students?

Toronto Perks Up

Toronto of late has tended to suffer badly in comparison with its nearest (but not "dearest") rival.

It has been the butt of numerous barbs ranging from "what has Montreal got that Toronto hasn't?" Answer:—"A Expo," to taunts over its insistence on getting back the park benches loaned to Montreal for Expo. At the same time its nickname of "Hogtown" has come painfully into prominence as a result of sparkling Montreal's ever more the past six months. To make matters worse, a scheme for a redevelopment pan in downtown Toronto came to noght.

However, the pendulum may be swinging the other way. Consider Los Angeles' problem. The second-largest U.S. metropolitan urban centre is in trouble.

As one observer has put it: "The city is becoming a victim of sprawl and blight, and civic leaders are looking to Metropolitan Toronto's system of government for guidance."

Said The Globe and Mail: "Los Angeles' planners suggest that development and economic growth could grind to a halt when traffic congestion, air pollution (neglect of which in L.A. is described as "appalling") and slum conditions reach a yet to be determined maximum level of tolerability."

While Los Angeles Mayor Samuel Yorty and his 15-member city council plan talks with other civic leaders in Southern California to consider new problems, strong interest is being expressed there in organizing a metropolitan borough system similar to Metropolitan Toronto's.

"Metropolitan Toronto," says the Globe and Mail, "is recognized by civic leaders to follow if urban land-use controls are to be applied and a balanced transportation system implemented."

Toronto, no mean city at any time, may have been out in the cold for a while, but clearly it is showing signs of revival. Los Angeles' interest in its Metro system of government may be just what is needed. Metro Chairman William Allen's recent address was in this spirited vein. Part of his speech may be found elsewhere on this page.

Recreation Lacking in Depth, Range and Participation

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

Sir: An Intelligencer editorial on Nov. 23 recognized a municipal deficiency in recreational facilities, but the questions were raised and the suggestion that lack of "personal initiative" might be a factor that deserves comment.

Recreation is one of the vital functions of living that must be available to all age groups to ensure maintenance of good health, both physical and emotional. The common belief that recreation is synonymous with "fun and games" is outdated. Active recreation is indeed essential for the preservation of the good health naturally endowed upon our young citizens. This fact should be recognized by all levels of government, be it national, provincial, municipal, or personal, by actively supporting recreational programs to slow down the all too apparent deterioration of this country's standard of health.

For Belleville this would mean increasing responsibility on the part of our Recreation Committee. In October 1965, this Committee sponsored a Community Conference at Quinte Secondary School and most of this city's recreational groups were represented. There was general agreement that increased co-ordination and rehabilitation by the Recreation Committee, were essentially and immediately needed to improve Belleville's recreational program. Such a program must embrace adults, as well as children and teenagers for it is no secret they need more relaxation and exercise as counterbalances to an overly busy and overanxious society.

"Personal initiative" was broached as a possible remedy for the lack of facilities and participation. Such facilities are generally beyond the means of individual or group enterprise in this community. There was a good example of the success of co-operative enterprise this past summer. It has been apparent in Belleville for three years that teenage interest in tennis has been declining steadily. Then, in 1967, the Recreation Committee saw fit to employ an instructor in tennis and the response was amazing. Fifty-four junior and student members enrolled for twice weekly lessons on city courts. The Quinte Tennis Club donated the offering weekly lessons on city courts. The Quinte Tennis Club donated the offering weekly instruction to an additional class of 25 members at Ewing Park in new courts. Thereby the number of people enjoying tennis was doubled in just one year. It was apparent that qualified supervision and instruction did attract those interested in such healthful pursuits. Further evidence of the results of good organization can be readily seen in the huge numbers of younger citizens involved in the Minor Sports Program in Belleville. This program, established by the city through the Recreation Committee has been so enthusiastically accepted that playing fields and rink availability has produced a municipal crisis. There can be no doubt that group participation, under Committee guidance, is the best way to attract the hesitant to the untried areas of a recreational program.

Recreation for the citizens of Belleville, young, middle-aged and elderly, is available at present, but is lacking in depth, range and participation. City council must recognize this deficiency by directing the Recreation Committee to broaden its responsibilities in all facets of recreational activity just as has been done so successfully in hockey, baseball, and now, tennis.

Sales Tax Act Applies to Telephone Service

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

An anonymous letter to the Editor appeared in Tuesday's edition of the Intelligencer. It dealt with telephone service.

Two significant questions are raised and for the benefit of others who have serious doubts regarding them, I offer some explanation.

Telephone service is not a tangible product that is, in the ordinary sense, sold. The volume of related inquiries indicates that many subscribers do not realize to the extent to which the Retail Sales Tax Act goes; it is specific:

". . . "tangible personal property" means personal property that can be seen, weighed, measured, felt or touched, or that is in any other way perceptible to the senses, and includes . . . telephone services including long distance calls . . ."

By direction of this statute, we act as agents for the Government of Ontario in the collection of these tax monies.
